Protest Taking Taxes From Municipality by Ontario Legislature

Mayor Foster Stresses Taxes on Gasoline and Soft Drinks in Address to Delegates at Municpal Convention in Toronto.

ASK PORTION OF MOTOR LICENSE FEES.

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—In welcoming delegates representing most of Ontario's cities and towns to the 27th Annual Convention of the Ontario Municipalties Association today, Mayor Thomas Foster of Toronto urged the meeting to consider protests to the Government in connection with the revenues being taken at present from municipalities.

The three cents per gallon tax on gasoline was stressed particularly by Mr. Foster, who said: "I think we should give an expression of opinion on the matter, and give the government something to think about." Mayor Foster also referred to the tax on soft drinks. The association carried a resolution, moved by Harry James, Fort William, and W. L. Wilkinson, Niagara Falls, appealing to the Ontario Legislature for legislation whereby municipalities would participate in the apportionment of motor and gasoline taxes to assist them in the maintenance of highways.

BOYS SENT HOME.

OSHAWA, Sept. 2.—Two 15-year-old boys, Harold Whaley and John Garden, of Peterboro, who applied at the local police station for lodgings, found their journey westward rudely halted when the police placed them on a train for Peterboro, after communicating with their parents, who furnished sufficient money for tickets.

ADVISES LABOR AGAINST ACTIVE PART IN POLITICS

American Leader Says That Legislation Can Be Secured Without Party.

SEEK STRONGER BEER.

Michigan Labor Will Be Content With 2.75 Beer and Will Get It.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Addressing the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress in convention this morning, James Duncan, first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, advised Canadian labor against active participation in politics.

"Don't be too damn gay trying this third party stuff," he said.

"We have tried it in the States and it isn't worth it."

American labor, he continued, had secured quantities of legislation for its advantage by remaining out of party politics.

Referring to the beer question, Mr. Duncan said he had heard that 4.4 per cent. beer was not much good, but where he came from, in Michigan, they were willing to accept 2.75 per cent. beer and were going to get it.

W. H. Bradburn Debates Issue and Loses Points

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., came within an ace of making fishing history the other day at Lake Chemong. He hooked what, according to all accounts, was a monster, which obstinately refused to be landed. The debate continued for several minutes, the M.P.'s remarks did not convince his auditor, and finally all his points, along with his hooks and the greater part of the line, disappeared under the surface when the fish abruptly adjourned the discussion.

NO HOPE FOR CHEMONG ROAD

Cannot Be Made a Provincial Highway This Year Anyhow.

SAYS W. H. BRADBURN

There is no hope of Chemong Road being made a Provincial Highway this year. So W. H. Bradburn informed The Examiner yesterday afternoon. "In the spring of this year," said Mr. Bradburn, "the Minister told the member for South Victoria and myself that his Department intended to assume no more liabilities until they had caught up with the work of their present obligations. It would be foolish for them to take over the road until they are able to do something with it. When they do take it over, they will make it a highway right to Lindsay. One part of the Provincial Highway touches Lindsay, another Peterborough and these ends will be linked together, making it possible for a traveller to come to Peterborough from, say, Whitby, and pass through to Lindsay and on to the Kingston highway, on a Provincial road the whole way."

There is no truth in the statement that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, July 15, it will rain on 40 following days.

BEGIN PAYMENT TO DEPOSITORS

Million Voted By Government is Being Paid To-day, Making In All 35 Per Cent.

MORE FROM ASSETS.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—This morning the banks began payment of $1,000,000 voted by the Dominion Government to the Home Bank depositors who have sums to their credit for $500 and under.

When this $1,000,000 is paid out, Home Bank depositors will have received $4,750,000. The previous payment was an initial dividend of 25 per cent. to all depositors. Another ten per cent. may be realized from the assets.

SKULL OF AN ANCIENT GALILEAN PROVES EUROPE CRADLE OF MAN

British Scientist Says Relics Are Evidence That Culture Came From Europe.

FOUND AT CAPERNAUM.

Implements Wtih Skull Similar to Those Found in France.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Sept. 2 Canadian Press).—The skull of an ancient Galilean, "who lived at Capernaum some 20,000 to 30,000 years before miracles began to be performed there" may be taken as evidence that Europe was the cradle land both of man of his culture, Sir Arthur Keith, famous anthropologist, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday.

The skull of which Sir Arthur Keith spoke, a model of which lay on the table beside him, is that discovered by Francis Turville-Petre, of the British School of Archaeology, a few months ago in a cave on the northern shore of the Sea of Galilee near the site of the ancient city of Capernaum, where Christ performed many of his earleir miracles.

Together with the skull were found bones and implements similar to those relics of the Mousterian age, found in France, principally in the Cave of Lemoustier, on the Veseres River, in the Department of Dordogne, from which this period of primitive culture received its name.

Ideal Harvesting Weather Quickens Work on Prairies

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press). — Ideal harvesting weather prevails through out the Prairie West, with an abundance of sunshine, clear skies and cool evenings at most points. At only one point was there rain, about one-seventh of an inch falling at Morene. The highest temperature recorded on Monday was at Regina, where the mercury rose to 92 degrees. This was not even exceeded in British Columbia, the high mark in that province being at Penticton, with 87.

A continuance of the warm wave was forecast for to-day, with a few scattered thunder showers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and cooler weather in Alberta.

ALLIES PREPARE TO WIND UP WAR

BOMBED MOOR CAMP.

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 2 (United Press).—Captain Cockwell of the American escadrille, drew blood for the French Tuesday when he bombed a Riffian concentration camp in the Ouergha Valley; Cockwell dropped 12 bombs, causing serious losses among the enemy. France and Spain are almost ready to throw 260,000 troops into the scale in an effort to wind up the war before the rains. The French plan to have 200,000 effectives ready for action when the long awaited joint offensive with Spain begins. The Spanish troops will number about 60,000.

PACKED SCHOOL IS FIRE TRAP AND PUPILS ARE HANDICAPPED DECLARES PRINCIPAL JAMIESON

"Positive Death Menace" Is Description Applied To Old South Central Building Under Present Conditions—Some Pupils Would Never Escape.

ONE ENTIRE FORM CLOSED OUT TO-DAY.

Room Supposed to Hold Forty Pupils Has Fifty-Three—Another Has Sixty-Five Applicants, and Good Work Is Impossible—Startling Indictment.

That the overcrowding in schools of the city was no myth but an actual fact was amply shown this morning when nearly three score pupils were turned away from the Commercial Department of the Collegiate Institute. One entire form and part of anodther were forced to return home from the school at Sherbrooke and Rubidge Streets because lack of space necessitated.

H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the main building in Central Park, said that no undue crowding was experienced in that school.

C. E. Jamieson, principal of the commercial departments, made the following statement:

"There are at present 187 pupils registered and past experience warrants me in saying that there will be from twenty to twenty-five more as the season advances.

The building is at best but a fire trap. Under present conditions there is a positive death menace.

If there are a number of pupils sitting on chairs in the aisles there would be a fine mix up if a fire took place. Some would never get out. And this is the only possible way in which the situation may be met. Those pupils sent home this morning will be forced to await further arrangements by the board of education. The number last year did not approximate this figure.

In one form there are 55 pupils while in another 65 seek tuition. Aside from the fact that such classes are unmanageable because of their bulk and accordingly cannot receive the attention necessary for proper advancement, the dangers resulting from such crowded conditions are manifest.

The pupils who have made application this year are representative of all stages of advancement. Some have just passed their entrance examinations while others have graduated from Normal School."

EXPRESS TRAIN COLLIDED WITH LIGHT ENGINE NEAR NORTH BAY

Trainmen Sustained Slight Injuries, But No Passengers Were Hurt.

ENGINES DERAILED.

Engine and Van Pulled Off Siding in Front of Express.

NORTH BAY, Ont., September 2. —Canadian Press. — C.P.R. Trans-Canada train from Vancouver to Montreal, collided with an engine and van at Mackay's Station, 96 miles east of North Bay at 6.30 this forning, and Engineer Thomas A. Burrell of North Bay, was scalded about the right arm and cut the forehead. Baggageman McGowan was also slightly injured. None of the passengers was hurt.

The light engine and van in charge of Engineer Burrell and Conductor Donaldson of North Bay, had pulled out of a siding to the main line, to take water, apparently forgetting about the approaching eastbound passenger train. The engineer of the passenger train saw the light engine on the main line and succeeded in reducing speed to ten miles an hour before the collision.

The passenger engine was partly derailed and the light engine was ditched. The track was cleared and the Trans-Canada proceeded eastward after five hours' delay.

PROBABILITIES.

Light to moderate winds; partly cloudy; probably a few scattered showers. Thursday—South-westerly winds; mostly fair and warm; scattered thunder showers.

WOMAN SUICIDED.

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. R. McAdam, wife of Justice of the Peace Robert McAdam, of Shackleton, committed suicide Sunday by taking paris green.

Former Hobo May Replace Red Ruth in Reichstag As German Communist Leader Under Moscow Orders

(By Fredtrick Kuh, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, September 2.—"Red Ruth" Fischer, Reichstag member, stormy leader of the German communists and bane of the Berlin police, has been dethroned by orders from Moscow, from her place of power.

Charged by Morcow with having lost her grip on the German masses, and consequently of having sacrificed 2,000,000 Communist votes, the young woman has stepped down and will probably be replaced by Ernst Thaelminn, former presidential candidate, and one time hobo in America.

Dethroned with her was her fellow leader and reputed fiance. Mastow who stands charged with using the "Red" press to further his own personal literary ambitions.

"Red Ruth" who has been behind many a stormy outburst in the Reichstag, and who is known to the police for organizing troublesome demonstrations, is accused by the Communist Internationale executive, with having preached doctrines counter to those of Lenine.

This probably is the first position of the kind ever created in a legislative assembly.

DEPRESSION OF STRIKE SPREADS

TONNAGE CLEANED UP.

PHILADELPHIA, September 2.—Canadian Press. — The Pennsylvania anthracite region to-day began to feel the aftermath of the mine suspension which for twenty four hours has padlocked its basic industry and demobilized an army of 158,000 bread winners.

The business paralysis which ten anthracite counties face indefinitely, began to creep as expected down the rails of the roads carrying the coal.

The inevitable orders for the shut-down of the shops and the lay-off of shopmen, car repairers and train crews on the mine runs, have begun to put in an appearance. More than 10,000 railway workers in different departments will be affected it is believed.

The ground being constantly frozen, it is impossible for those living in the mountainous regions of Tibet to bury their dead. In each village are men who act as human butchers. When a death occurs they are called in and cut up the bodies into small pieces, which are thrown to the birds.

Send 60 Pupils Home From City's Crowded Commercial School

At Least Two New Rooms and Equipment and Two Extra Teachers Needed to Meet Immediate Requirements —Board of Education Discusses Exigency.

COST TO CITY OF NEW SCHOOL $251,000.

Sixty pupils were turned away from the Commercial Department of the Collegiate Institute this morning because of lack of accommodation.

They had passed the necessary tests for admission. Some of them had purchased their equipment. Many of them must go to school somewhere because of the school age regulations. But all of the sixty, and many more expected to apply later, must be refused admission until the Board of Education can make arrangements for their accommodation.

The situation, which was foreseen by the Board, was discussed at last night's meeting, when it was reported that five hundred and eighty-four pupils sought admittance into the various forms in the academic and commercial departments of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute yesterday, and more are expected after Labor Day. Of this number, 187 were in the commercial department, and past experience has shown that about twenty more may be expected within the next few days. As a result, Mr. Jamieson asked permission to send some of the pupils home until two new rooms could be fitted up and supplied with teachers, as the four rooms now equipped are not sufficient.

In presenting his report, with that of Mr. Jamieson, Mr. Kenner stressed the point that not only would the department, with six teachers, still be overcrowded, but the pupils Urgent Departmental Matters Under Discussion at Cabinet Meeting.

MEET AGAIN SOON.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press).—"We are engaged with urgent Departmental matters," stated Premier W. L. MacKenzie King last evening, as he emerged from the Council Chamber after a meeting of the Cabinet covering nearly five hours.

The Prime Minister intimated that no appointments were made to the many vacancies to be filled by the Government, but stated that one or two more meetings of the Council would be held this week.

MARKET FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS VERY OVERCROWDED - 1,200 IDLE

Many Capable Scholars, Attracted to Profession, Are Filling Positions.

LOCAL CASES.

New Peterborough Normal Graduates Are Without Places This Year.

Twelve hundred is the estimate of the number of unemployed teachers in the Province made by a prominent Peterborough educationist. This position is a reversal of the conditions of several years ago when salaries were low and all the provinces reported a dearth of teachers of all standings.

The surplus is accounted for by the large numbers of capable scholars attracted to the profession by the improvements in salaries of teachers that have taken place since the war, and the profession has been overcrowded in every province in the Dominion.

Local Cases.

Several Peterborough pupils successfully passed the Normal examinations this year, only to find themselves unable to secure a post at their chosen profession. Advertisements for a public school teacher at Grafton recently at a salary of $800 per annum, brought in 253 replies, and another Board which had not advertised at all received 50 letters from applicants who had written at hazard in the hope of finding a vacancy.

As for specialists' positions, the only sportage at present experienced is in the Commercial and Technical Departments, where there are still position to be filled. In other specialist departments the supply is at present adequate, although there is no great overcrowding.

The question of restricting the number of candidate for the profession has been considered by individual educationists and by the Teachers' Federation. The latter body advocates, with a good show of reason, greater stringency in the academic examinations at the High Schools, and at the professional examinations conducted in the Normal Schools. The physical examination, it is contended, should also be on more vigorous lines, the idea being the elimination of the weaker applicants on the ground that teaching calls for the very best.

It is pointed out that all the professions are swamped by too many aspirants, and the natural law of survival of the fittest operates in most cases.

Suggestions have been made to the effect that the example of some of the States should be copied, where public school teachers have to qualify for the profession by spending two years at Normal School as opposed to the one year Normal course in Canada. The objection to this plan is that it penalises the boy or girl who is less favored financially than the more comfortably situated, but possibly less able child of wealthier parents.

SAILORS STRIKE IN GREAT BRITAIN PROVES FAILURE

MANY TAKEN ON.

Majestic Sailed on Scheduled Time With Full Crew Despite Walkout.

LONDON, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Indications are that the unofficial strike of seamen in the British Isles may not become widespread owing to the threat of ship owners to take on new crews from among the hundreds of unemployed men who have flocked to the various ports in search of jobs. Several hundred men were hired at Southampton, Cardiff, Hull and other places last night.

The strike in the port of London is declared to be a failure, it being asserted that any number of extra men can be obtained on a few hours' notice, and that there is little desire among crews here to desert their ships.

MAJESTIC SAILED.

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The White Star liner Majestic sailed for New York at 11 a.m., scheduled time, to-day, with a full crew, despite the fact that a number of new men who had signed on last night walked out this morning. The Majestic carried the largest Westbound passenger list of the year.

NICKLE CERTAIN OF APPOINTMENT TO HYDRO BOARD

Attorney General is Assured of Chairmanship, Says Toronto Report.

ACRES NAMED.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The appointment of Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General of Ontario, to the chairmanship of the Ontario Hydro Commission, is now practically assured, according to a report, which also says that it is likely that Harry Acres, member of the Commission's staff, will be appointed to the other seat on the Commission. The report says: "It is also learned that an announcement to this effect will be made by the Government within a few days."

It further states: "It is said, not for the first time, that Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, who is on holidays now, is to be the next Attorney-General, and that W. Finlayson, Simcoe East, is to be the next Provincial Treasurer."

PETERBORO BOY BARROW CHAMP

KNIGHT OF THE GRIP.

To Peterboro belongs the honor of possessing in Percy S. Dallin, the wheelbarrow champion of the Knights of the Road, who chanced to be in the Maritimes when the meet was held in New Glasgow, N.S.

Mr. Dallin, in writing to his employers, the J. J. Turner and Sons, Limited, told of his triumph, sent a picture of himself, presumably rolling along to victory, and sent also a long string of sports and descriptive matter clipped from a Maritime publication.

He says that the Commercial Travellers' field day was unique in that it was the first time such an event has been held in the eastern provinces. Hundreds of New Glasgow citizens attended and acclaimed it as the best sports day which the community had experienced in several years.

A street parade was held in the morning, followed by the sports events. In the evening a smoker entertained the gentl[illegible] of the grip, after which a dance was held in the I.O.O.L. Hall.

Mr. Dallin says that he has never yet lost any wheelbarrow contest which he has entered, so this latest win should place him near the topmost rung among the leading contenders for the wheelbarrow crown.

SEYMOUR NEEDS NO BOARD FOR ALL ITS SCHOOLS

Section Trustees Look After Their Duties So Well That No Change is Needed.

APPOINT COLLECTOR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2—The members of the Seymour Council at their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon briefly discussed the circular sent out by Premier Ferguson in his capacity of Minister of Education advising the formation of township boards for the management of rural schools. No action was taken. The councillors were of the opinion that while the proposed system would work well in some townships the schools in Seymour are so well managed that no change is required.

Tax Collector Appointed

Henry Dunham was reappointed tax collector, a position which he has held for the past five years, at the usual salary of $175.

Wants Road Drained

Dan Petherick of Stanwood complained of the lack of drainage on concession 14 and on the side road between the former highway and concession 13. Owing to this condition he has been unable to find an outlet for the surplus water on his farm and has written to the Department of Highways concerning the matter. The land in that vicinity is so level that the services of an engineer would be required in order to ascertain the proper course for the water.

Mr. Petherick was referred to Distict Representative Walter H. Smith of Brighton who, he was given to understand, would make the desired survey if requested to do so.

Heavy Auto Traffic

Road Superintendent Brunton stated that the heavy auto traffic on the road to Crowe River bridge on account of the community picnic held there last week had taken more gravel from that highway than his force would be able to replace in a month. He thought some one should be made to pay a tax for this wear and tear.

Bills amounting to $1630.70 were presented and ordered paid, the same including the amount spent on the township roads since the August meeting of the Council.

STIRLING SAVES FAVORITE ELM

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN.

STIRLING, Sept. 2.—Mr. N. A. Heath, Ridge Road, lost his barn by fire on Saturday. The cause is supposed to be from combustion. He saw the smoke from the field and hurrying to the barn, was in time to save a team of horses and some harness from the basement stable but very soon the barn and contents were a mass of flames. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

It was with difficulty the fire was kept from spreading to adjacent buildings, and also those on the adjoining farm several rods away.

Preserving Tree.

Workmen were busy yesterday putting a cement retaining wall around the old elm tree at the centre bridge. This tree is one of the things that the citizens of Stirling take pride in and visitors remark how beautiful it is. So it is worth while protecting.

The swimming pool at at the base of this tree and dressing rooms are to be built under its spreading branches.

Schools Re-open.

The High and Public Schools opened yesterday with a large attendance. After assigning lessons the pupils were dismissed for the rest of the day.

The Stirling School Board pride themselves upon having as good a staff of teachers in both schools as may be found anywhere, and the results of the recent examinations justify them in their belief. All of the students of Latin in both Middle and Upper Schools were successful. In Mathematics there was only one failure in Algebra and one in Geometry. Eighty-seven per cent. of the students in Chemisty were successful Evidently the large expenditure last year to equip the chemical laboratory was justified although it was the subject of consirerable criticism by the taxpayers.

The Public School has done equally as good service and no doubt will continue its good work under the supervision of the new principal, Mr. Jackson.

The continuing dry weather is ripening the corn and buckwheat rather hastily and also stops the farmer in his plowing operations. Their chief occupation just now is threshing.

Mr. Harold Van Allen has resumed his annual business as a poultry exhibitor of some note, he attended Napanee Fair last week and went to Belleville this morning with a big load of fowl of all classes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Eliott, who have been esteemed and valued citizens of Stirling for the past 13 years, left for Peterboro, where they will reside in future.

Mrs. Mathilda Sine visited her brother, Andrew, at Hoard's one day last week.

Rev. Mr. Hoskins, who has been

REGULAR MEETING OF ST. JOHN'S W.M.S.

Society Has Grown Too Big to Meet in Private Houses Any More.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2. — The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of St. John's United Church was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. I. Stillman, with 38 members present, 15 of these belonging to the McIntosh Auxiliary, which is composed of those who formerly belonged to St. Andrew's Church. Although the two auxiliaries hold joint meetings they are expected to carry on as separate units for nine months, from June 10th, each branch having its own officers and keeping a separate account of its funds.

It was decided to hold all future meetings in St. John's Church, instead of at the residences of the members, as few private houses are large enough to accommodate the united society.

Greetings were received from the officials of the different branches. Mrs. A. Haig read a message of encouragement from Mrs. McGillivary of the former Presbyterian branch, and Mrs. W. H. Ashton read a similar communication from Mrs. M. M. C. Lavell, president of the official board of managers of the Methodist Auxiliary.

After a reading by Mrs. Thomas Free, Mrs. Wm. Bateson read the Scripture lesson, followed by a leaflet on "The Importance of Individual Prayer," assisted by Mesdames E. I. Bonney, D. Stillman, T. H. Rowe, P. B. Nelson and E. H. Greig.

Mrs. Robert Moore gave a reading on "The Stewardship of Life," and the meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. George Oliver.

BRITISH NEWSPAPER MEN FIND MARITIME PROVINCES ENDOWED ABUNDANTLY FOR SETTLEMENT

TOURING CANADA.

Beauties of the Annapolis Made Deep Impression on Party of Ten.

MONTREAL, September 2. Canadian Press. — There is a general expression of surprise among the British newspapermen concerning the Maritime Provinces, stated H. Read, of the "South Wales Daily News," Cardiff, one of the delegation representing the British Press, who are now touring Canada.

"It was a matter of great astonishment to us that the attractions of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are not more generally known in the Old Country. We found stretches of park-like land, all admirably suited for settlement. There are numerous farms obtainable at very cheap rates, and a community composed of most friendly people, evidently very anxious to welcome and help newcomers. One of the most remarkable features was the cheapness of cleared land, obtainable on freehold possession at from 4 to 10 pounds per acre in many cases, although of course, this did not apply to the farms in the more favorable situations."

Signs of Prosperity.

They noticed the fact that both these provinces share in the depression of business due to the universal slump in trade, he said, although there were signs of prosperity and contentment. Owing to the magnificent resources we came to the conclusion that any imigrants who were determined to work and adapt themselves to local requirements, would gain, not only in livelihood but would be assured of prosperity in a substantial degree," said Mr. Read.

WHAT COMES NEXT?

Premier Ferguson has announced that in view of the fact that 4.4 beer has proven on actual trial to be "harmless" the restrictions with which its sale has been surrounded are to be removed, and it is probable that the beverage will be sold over the bar and that many more permits will be issued.

This announcement is less important in itself than in the clue that it possibly furnishes to what may come after it.

Perhaps it merely represents an attempt on the part of the Government to increase its revenue from the beverage tax, but there are not lacking those who regard the removal of the restrictions as paving the way for further concessions in line with the importunities of the Premier's advisors who are not backward in pointing out that, having lost the dry vote in the Province and failed to win wet support, the Government may as well go a bit further and allow the sale of stronger beer, or, further still, institute a system of Government control.

Hotel proprietors who tore their premises to pieces to comply with the restrictions insisted upon when the new beer went on sale are not likely to receive the announcement of the more general sale of 4.4 with anything approaching a feeling of joy.

FREIGHT RATES.

The Ontario Government is supporting the fruit growers of the Niagara district in their plea to the Dominion Railway Commission for lower freight rates, and the support would seem to be justified in view of the evidence offered by the fruit men on behalf of their claim.

Here is a concrete case.

A Niagara man sent 20 bushels of apples to a Toronto dealer, selling them for $11.50.

Out of that amount he received $1.86 for himself.

Of the rest $7.60 was the amount of the freight charges, while cartage and commission account for the rest.

No wonder the producer is calling for more equitable rates when his share of the sale of his fruit is only one-fourth of what the railway charges for carrying his products.

Overlapping in service is one explanation.

When two trains on opposition lines run between the same two points at about the same time, somebody has got to pay for the empty seats on both.

The Niagara man who had to expend $7.60 to have a few bushels of apples shipped to Toronto is paying his share of the vacant seats.

THE MUNICIPAL INCOME TAX.

Windsor delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association are fathering a resolution that will win popular approval inasmuch as it will urge the abolition of the municipal income tax.

If all obnoxious levies this tax has been perhaps the most unpopular.

There are various reasons why most people protest most heartily against having to pay an income tax to the municipality.

In the first place, it represents another slice out of an income that has already been well cut into in the same way through the Federal income tax.

It is undoubtedly the case that where one municipality collects this levy another fails to do so, and there is the same discrimination among individuals as among municipalities, some people escaping the tax altogether.

On top of these reasons is the reluctance of many citizens to revealing the details of their personal and business affairs to local officials.

The Windsor delegation intends to press for the lifting of the tax altogether, or failing that, to have the Municipal Association favour the municipalities being given the option of not collecting the levy if they so desire.

DISCUSSING TAXATION.

The Citizens' Research Institute of Canada has announced its third annual Canadian tax conference convention, to be held in London at the end of the month.

The programme is full of interesting subjects.

Taxation is, or should be, about as engrossing a topic for Canadians just now as anything that comes to mind.

There is no doubt that business and industry throughout the Dominion has found the burden of the present taxation almost intolerable, and that the resumption of old-time prosperity has been greatly retarded by this factor.

At the same time it must be conceded that Governments need revenue to meet their huge obligations.

The Institute is convinced, however, according to F. B. Hayes, its President, after carefully studying the question and from the experience of other countries, that considerable reduction in taxation can be effected without lessening the quality of governmental service or the ability of our Governments to meet their outstanding obligations.

It also believes that such reductions would result in greatly increased prosperity to the citizens of Canada.

Until there is an insistent demand for business methods in government and for reduction in taxation, action will not be obtainable, but just so soon as these points become good politics, no matter what party is in power, a reduction will be effected.

With these and other vital problems to be discussed in the open forum offered by the convention, the latter should result in a better understanding among all parties concerned.

BACK TO SCHOOL.

The long summer holidays are drawing to an end, and many minds, no doubt, are filled with disappointment and foreboding, says the Hamilton Spectator in an editorial for young people. In a day or so school will open once more, and the daily grind begin afresh. If only life could be all play and leisure, how happy would existence be! But would it? What makes holidays so nice is the fact that they come as a relief to work. Leisure can be as monotonous as labor, and much more so. There is as much fun in work—no matter whether it be work of the hands or head; whether it be work that brings wages or school work which ensures wages later on—as there is in play. The point is to look upon serious things in the same way as upon the things we do for our own pleasure or amusement.

There are certain people who can never be happy unless they are diong things for their own selfish gratification. The moment they are asked to do something which they know to be necessary and useful, but which they are not at the moment inclined to do, they become unhappy. We see it in children who pout when called upon to help their mothers in some way; we see it in the boy or girl who thinks school and lessons a bore. It is all in the point of view. The cheerful outlook could be cultivated just as easily as the complaining attitude. The proper spirit at the end of the long summer vacation is one of gratitude that it has been so pleasant and a feeling of determination to go back to school with renewed energy and ambition, refreshed by the rest and anxious to make the most of the days ahead.

You cannot put old heads on young shoulders, it is said; and no one would want to do so. But the earlier it is realized that life is made up of work and play—that one alternates with the other and that the two cannot be indulged in together—the better. Happiness consists in a succession of labor and rest. Work hard while you are at it, and you will have all the keener relish for recreation. Enter into everything wholeheartedly; take as great an interest in studies as in games. The competition in the class is like the competition in the playing field. The victory and rewards go to those who try hardest. Make the most of the school days, for they mean all the difference between success and failure in after years. Serious application at school will lead to habits of applications in business. Laxity in the one case induces laxity in the other—and no one ever got anywhere by encouraging laxity.

CANADA'S TRADE.

Canada and the United States are billion dollar neighbors. Trade figures issued from Washington this week show that in the American fiscal year ending June 30, Canada bought goods totalling $517,580,000 from the United States, and sold that country goods for a total of $429,276,000. That is more than a half-billion passing each way, and reveals the United States as by far our best merchant and our best customer. The United States furnished us in that period with 84 per cent. of our imports and took 71 per cent. of our exports.

Coal was the largest single item of our imports in the year, and the bill for it came to $58,842,000, as compared with $76,652,000 in the preceding year. That shows a big drop, but it is not nearly enough. We have plenty of coal in Canada to keep us going for years. In the Northwest there are millions upon millions of tons of anthracite waiting to be dug out of the earth. All it needs is railway and ship outlet. A very few years at $58,842,000 each would provide all the transportation facilities needed, and the rest would be sheer "velvet." Short hauls can be provided to the Pacific Coast and thence the coal can be brought by ships right to our cities in the East.

Petroleum was another big item in our imports. We paid the United States $31,851,000. Much of that could have been taken from Athabasca tar sands in Northern Alberta, and the rest could have been developed from Northern wells, if the outlet were provided. Again the money spent on imports would have done the trick.

We have still a very young and raw country, only a fraction developed, so it is natural that American manufacturers should have an advantage in their products for the present. But there is no sane reason why we should pay out millions for coal when we have abundance of it at home. Oil resources are somewhat in doubt as to extent, but even they have yet to be explored as they should be.

The year's trading with the United States saw one good feature. It was a drop of about $52,000,000 in our imports, accompanied by an increase of about $5,000,000 in our exports. That is gratifying, but not satisfying. With our wheat, which crosses the border even in face of the Fordney tariff; with our forest resources, and with our vast supplies of nickel and asbestos and coal and a dozen other sources of natural wealth, we should speedily turn our trade balance with the United States into a favorable one of several millions. Our exports should eventually, at least, double our imports, where that country is concerned. That is the logical trend, for in a naturally rich nation like this, there is no reason why we should not produce a surplus for sale of twice what we need to buy.

This is in no sense a belittlement of Canada's endeavor. We are doing well. But we can do better. When that possible betterment runs into uncounted millions of dollars, it is worth examining.

Incidentally—Canada needs a vigorous immigration policy so that she may attract the millions of new citizens necessary to do the work there is to be done in this country.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

Since there is not much demand for 4.4 beer Mr. Ferguson now proposes to let everybody sell it.

Kingston is developing a Tommy Church in the person of Mayor Angrove, who announced his candidature for a fourth term. And if he made the announcement in the same voice he uses at ball games nobody in Kingston has failed to hear it.

The public has a shrewd suspicion that once the reserve supply of fuel has been sold the coal strike will be speedily settled.

Anyway, while the warm weather continues it is difficult to get people interested in the question of next winter's fuel supply.

The Peterboro Industrial Exhibition will offer you more in every department this year than any previous local Exhibition.

TELLS ABOUT WORK LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

Speaker on Warsaw Circuit Gave Three Fine Addresses.

WARSAW, Sept. 2.—Rev. Mr. Tucker, one of the field workers of the Lord's Day Alliance, preached on Sunday morning at Carmel to a good congregation and had a good collection in aid of the work. At Zion in the afternoon the congregation was very small, and several of those who attended were Bethel people, as there was no church service at Bethel. The evening service at Warsaw was well attended. At each of these services Mr. Tucker clearly explained the aims and the needs of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Ice Cream Social.

On Thursday evening the Willing Workers of Zion gave an ice cream social. There was a full house and the proceeds were now $47. Everything was well managed. There was a good entertainment by local talent, including recitations by two quite young people, Clinton Crowe and Trevor Little, and a song by Lucile Herrington. Ice cream, sandwiches and cake were served. A number of campers attended, coming from the lake on a hay-rack.

In the Churches.

On Sunday morning Mr. John Sargent gave a talk on Temperance. He told about the manufacture of Jamaica rum.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid held its regular meeting at Mrs. McQuaig's home on Thursday. There was such a stress of work at home that few were present.

A THOUGHT.

THINGS THAT COUNT.

Not what we have, but what we use,
Not what we see, but what we choose,
These are the things that mar or bless,
The sum of human happiness.

Not what we take, but what we give,
Not as we pray, but how we live,
These are things that make for peace,
Both now and after time shall cease.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Trade at the cattle market was very slow, with few choice quality offering. The bulk of the receipts consisted of light western cattle, many of these being shipped direct to the big packing plants. A few choice finished butcher heifers sold steady from $7.25 to $7.75. There were few of this quality offering, and the balance of the butcher stuff sold easier and slow from $4.50 to $6.50.

There was practically nothing doing in export business, buyers in this section having filled their orders for this week in yesterday's market.

Calves steady around $12, tops.

Lambs firm to 75c higher at $13.50 to $13.75 tops.

Sheep—Yearlings, $8 to $9; choice, $6 to $7; medium, $5 to $6; lights, $4 to $5; culls, $2 to $3.

Calves—Choice, $11 to $12; medium, $9 to $10; lights, $7 to $8; heavy, $6 to $7; grassers, $4 to $5.

QUEBEC BUTTER SALE

MONTREAL, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—On the local curb market today there were 1,500 packages creamery butter and 2,100 bores of cheese offered and all met with a ready sale. The butter sold at 38 3-4 cents per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized creamery, at 37 3-4 cents per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized creamery, and at 36 3-4 cents per lb. for No. 2 creamery, while the cheese brought 21 1-4 cents per lb., delivered here.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The trade in cash grain on the local market showed an improvement, there being a better demand from exporters and sales of fair sized lots of Canadian Western No. 3 barley were made at 6 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, and No. 4 grade at 77 cents per bushel, c.i.f. Montreal, while a number of cars of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats sold at 50 cents, and No. 3 white at 49 cents per bushel, ex-track, and No. 1 Northern wheat was offered at 22 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg for September 15 shipment, 19 cents over for September 20, 18 cents over for September 25, and 16 1-2 cents over all September, but no sales were reported. The market for spot supplies of Canadian oats was quiet and steady.

Prices for all grades of spring wheat flour were reduced 30 cents per barrel. The winter wheat flour market was steady and the volume of business fair.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press). — Unusual activity and strength in the corn trade sprang up as the outstanding feature of the grain market today. New unofficial estimates of the 1925 yield of corn did much to nullify predictions that a bumper corn crop was to be looked for. Closing quotations on corn were firm, 7-8 to 1 5-8 cents net higher, December 83 3-8 to 83 1-2c, with wheat irregular at 3-4c decline to 1-8c gain; oats 1-4 to 1-2c up, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 27 to 30 cents.

Contrasting sharply with other grain values, the price of corn showed a decided swing upward almost constantly throughout the day.

Wheat at times responded to the influence of corn strength and to the fact that an average of private crop reports suggested a domestic spring wheat yield but little larger than the government figures of August 1, whereas a substantial gain had been expected. On the other hand, ship strike developments at Liverpool had a bearish effect here and so, too, did Winnipeg weakness and selling ascribed to a prominent Chicago operator.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—A further improvement is noted in the condition of the Canadian egg market today. Toronto reports demand improving slowly, while in Montreal the market is steady under a good healthy demand. Markets throughout the Prairies are firm, and Vancouver is steady under the recent price advance.

Country shippers are paying extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 25, and making sales extras 36, firsts 34, seconds 29 f.o.b.

Winnipeg dealers are paying country points extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 26. Poultry chicks 15 to 18, fowl 8 to 14.

THE FABLE OF THE POOR HOUSEWIFE AND THE GOOD FAIRY COCA-COLA

Once upon a time there was a Poor Housewife, who lived from week to week in dread of an Ogre called Saturday-Cleaning-In-The-Summer-Time.

Now, no matter what expedient the Poor Housewife would try, to keep cool, this terrible Ogre would in a few hours make her so hot and limp that one day she refused to do another tap.

"What!", roared Saturday-Cleaning-In-The-Summer-Time, "Not clean out your refrigerator? Not another word, or I'll summon my brother What-Will-The-Neighbours-Say."

At this terrible threat, the Poor Housewife sank on her knees, and pulled open the door. There, cool and alluring as shade to a sun parched traveller, lay a bottle!

"Why!", cried the astonished Housewife, "This is the first time that untidy Giant Bunch-Of-Fellows-In-To-Play-Poker ever left a full one!"

With great haste the Poor Housewife opened the bottle.

"I'm Fairy Coca-Cola," she sang, and her voice tinkled like ice against a glass, and her smile sparkled like snow in the sun, "Give me a permanent home in your refrigerator and I'll always keep you cool in spite of that terrible Ogre Saturday-Cleaning-In-The-Summer-Time."

"When do I enjoy Coca-Cola most? After a busy day in my garden—for then the toil of 109 years begins to tell. Genuine refreshment is provided by this drink that is well known even in this little hamlet whose inhabitants are largely my descendants and relatives.

"When one looks forward to his 110th birthday, he must be careful what he eats and drinks, and Coca-Cola refreshes the body of the old voyageur, river man and pioneer farmer. So today, at 109 years of age, is when I enjoy Coca-Cola most."

HON. T. A. CRERAR DENIES REPORT THAT HE ADVOCATED FUSION OF PROGRESSIVES WITH LIBERALS

Absolutely Untrue," He Declares—Never Suggested It Directly or Indirectly.

NEWS TO FORKE.

Purpose of Alleged Union Was to Defeat the Conservatives.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—"Nothing was ever said or suggested by me at the inter-provincial Progressive convention at Regina, for that matter, at any other time or place, making a plea for union of Liberal and Progressive forces in the West," said Hon. T. A. Crerar yesterday afternoon, when interviewed in connection with a story published here.

Knowledge of a move to form any such coalition was also denied by Robert Forke, Progressive leader, and Hon. A. B. Hudson, South Winnipeg member.

Mr. Crerar returned Tuesday after an absence of two weeks. "You may say for me," he said, "that I have never heard anything about such a move. When the report credits me with having made a speech at the Regina convention, putting forward an ardent plea for union of Progressive and Liberal forces in the West, with the object of making certain, of possible, defeat of the Conservatives, it is absolutely and positively untrue. Far from ever making such a statement, I never even suggested it directly or indirectly."

"It's a piece of news to me," said Mr. Forke, over the long distance telephone. "So far as the Progressives are concerned no such move has been made. We would have nothing to do with any such union."

Hon. Mr. Hudson said no one had even asked his opinion on such a question, and no such an idea had even been suggested to him.

THREE DROWNED IN BURNING OF EXCURSION SHIP

Twenty-eight Men and One Woman Rescued—No Passengers Aboard.

TWO BODIES FOUND.

Fire Spread So Rapidly Lifeboats Could Not Be Launched.

WESTFIELD, N. Y., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Two men were drowned and a third was reported missing and believed drowned as a result of the burning of the excursion steamer Colonia within two miles of Barcelona Harbor, near here, Tuesday morning. Coastguard rum chasers and fishermen rescued 28 men and a woman who leaped overboard and floated about in life preservers and on wreckage.

The dead were Thomas McGurn of Cleveland, second engineer, and Earl Duncan of Erie, Pa., second cook. Their bodies were recovered. Robert Brian of Cleveland, wheelsman, is believed to have perished.

The only woman aboard, Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, of Alogna, Mich., refused to jump into the lake when everyone was ordered to abandon the ship, and Captain R. E. Parsons tied her to a plank and threw her overboard. he was suffering from exhaustion and exposure when picked up.

The Colonial was carrying no passengers when the disaster occurred but was on her way from her home port, Erie, Pa., to Dunkirk, N.Y., to take an excursion party to Crystal Beach, Ontario.

The Colonial had a capacity of 1,200 passengers, and was in use as an excursion steamer taking moonlight trips.

All Dunkirk's fishing leet and the coast guard crew from that place rushed to the scene when the steamer was reported afire.

Parsons was unable to say how the fire originated, but believed it started in the paint room. The flames had gained such headway when discovered that it was impossible to launch a single one of the 15 lifeboats and rafts aboard the ship.

Everybody jumped overboard, most of them wearing life belts. They were rescued by fishing tugs from Barcelona beach, and the coastguard cutter No. 126. The United tates authorities and Coroner Osgood are holding an investigation at Brockton into the burning of the vessel.

INQUIRY DELAY CAUSES WORRY

CAN'T GET MEN.

LONDON, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—The long delay in appointing the members of the coal commission to inquire into the entire industry is beginning to cause disquietude.

The delay is due to the reluctance of prominent men to serve on the commission, owing to unfortunate experiences in former similar investigations. Already one month has been wasted without getting nearer to an inquiry. The record of unemployment shows an increase of more than 45,000 in the past week.

CABINET POST FOR GORDON?

Ottawa Rumor That Peterboro Member Will Advance With Reconstruction.

ELECTION CERTAIN.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Although any announcement regarding a Dominion general election is unexpected before the end of the week, no doubt in political circles here that the decision has been reached. As a matter of fact, it was concluded two weeks ago. The probable time when it will be announced is next Saturday, when Premier King is to speak in North York. Even then he is not expected to proclaim that parliament has been dissolved and a specific date set for the election, but at least to indicate clearly the intention of the Government to go to the electorate. The particular day and date and the other things that attend dissolution would be determined later. This has been the custom at the termination of several parliaments, and if now the election date is not given out at once, the air will be cleared by an authoritative indication of what to expect. Some day between October 20 and 30 is likely to be selected. Meanwhile, on both sides politicians are flocking to Ottawa, although naturally with their own party in office, Liberal members predominate.

Bustle at Ottawa.

There is a hustle in the Departments. For one thing all the public works and other undertakings authorized by parliament are being set going, including some that have long been delayed.

A dozen nominating conventions in different parts are on the schedule for the next week. These and other manifestations go to confirm the conclusion of impending dissolution.

In the Cabinet.

Cabinet reconstruction will take place before an election, but the extent of it is somewhat indefinite. From Ontario reports have it that James Malcolm, member for North Bruce, and George N. Gordon, Deputy Speaker, will come into the Cabinet—at the start without portfolio. It is stated that while Hon. Jacques Bureau will leave the Government, he will run again as a private member in Three Rivers. Fernand Rinfret, M.P. for St. James Division of Montreal, seems likely to be included in the Ministry. Former Premier Foster, of New Brunswick, is most commonly mentioned as successor to Hon. A. B. Copp. Obscurity surrounds the situation as regards Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan and two others in the east whose names have frequently been mentioned. Cabinet changes very likely may be left until the campaign is under way. They do not have to be made at the start. When Mr. Fielding retires, Nova Scotia will have but one Cabinet Minister. As it has only 14 members now, two Ministers would be out of proportion. Rumors are heard that Hon. E. M. Macdonald will run in Antigonish and Guysboro, instead of Pictou, C. F. McIsaac retiring. A dispute is reported there between the two ends of the merged constituency, and Mr. Macdonald would be satisfactory to both wings of the party. If he goes there, the probable Liberal candidate in Pictou would be R. H. McKay, at present a director of the Canadian National Railways.

Reaction among the miners of Nova Scotia against the wage cut settlement arranged by the new Provincial Government is likely to have a political effect in four constituencies of the province.

LABOR CONGRESS PROTESTS USE OF TROOPS IN STRIKES AND ASKS FOR 8 HOUR DAY ON PUBLIC WORK

Also Opposed to Injunctions Preventing Picketing During Industrial Disputes.

OTTAWA GUESTS.

Fraternal Greetings From United States and Great Britain.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press). — The Trades and Labor Congress Convention yesterday afternoon passed resolutions instructing its executive to press for legislation for the eight hour day on all public works, for the passing of legislation making the issuance of injunctions in connection with industrial disputes illegal, and for the prohibition of the use of troops in industrial disputes.

The resolution respecting injunctions states that the primary object in securing injunctions in industrial disputes is to "prevent the workers involved from exercising their right to picket and freely communicate information of vital importance to those workers engaged in the dispute."

In the matter of the use of troops, the resolution, passed without debate, reads: "Whereas, according to the British North America Act all property and civil rights are vested in the provincial governments, the Privy Council having declared the Lemieux Act ultra vires on this account; and whereas workers in their efforts to maintain their standards of living are compelled to suffer hunger, persecution, misrepresentation and intimidation and the rushing of troops in strike areas leaves them helpless in the face of armed forces with no redress and no court of appeal except force, thereore, be it resolved tfhat this convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada protests against the use of troops in industrial disputes and demands immediate legislation prohibiting the same."

Holiday Petition.

The rapid passage of several resolutions was interrupted by one advocating legislation compelling employers of ten or more persons to give all employees two weeks holidays each year. The committee on resolutions in presenting this to the convention recommended the non-concurrence of the Congress.

A brief defence for the passage of the resolution was made by Bert Merson of Toronto. The reasons given by the chairman of the committee for its recommendation was that it was not a question for legislation, but a matter for negotiation between employer and employee. It was agreed that the matter be referred back to the committee.

The convention adjourned to meet again at nine o'clock this morning, when greetings will be extended by the fraternal delegates from the United States and Great Britain.

Local trade unions entertained the delegates to the convention last night in Ottawa and Hull.

Support Miners.

The congress executive just prior to the close of the morning session sent a telegram of encouragment to President Lewis of the U.M.W.A., expressing the full encouragement and sympathy of Canadian organized labor for the miners in their fight with the United States hard coal operators.

"We should not forget," added Judge Taft, "that our prosperity is not wholly due to our own individual merits. We are apt to think too much of ourselves."

CHANGE MADE ON MAIL ROUTE

PAY IS LOW.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2—Wilbert Reid has carried the mail from this office on R. R. No. 3 for the past four years and his contract expires October 1st. Mr. Reid has had sufficient experience to be in a position to testify that the job is neither a sinecure or a gold mine.

The Department advertised recently for tenders for the route which is 23 1-2 miles long and can be covered in half a day if the carrier uses an auto. Fred Phillips of Campbellford put in a tender considerably lower than that submitted by Mr. Reid and was awarded the contract. He will take over the duties October 1st. The chief cause of complaint of the local carriers is the same as that heard from all sections of Canada. They are not only compelled to work for low pay but have no assurance that they will be continued in office when their contracts expire.

PULLS DOWN U. S.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.— Canada's trade with other countries continues to show a remarkable improvement, according to the detailed returns for the twelve months ended July 31 last. During that period imports amounted to $817,757,042, a decrease from the previous twelve months of $32,714,971, and exports totalled $1,093,165,663, an increase of $26,860,408, or a total improvement in the Dominion's favorable trade balance of $59,575,374.

Another feature lies in the fact that the improvement in Canada's trade balance against the United Kingdom has slackened, and, on the other hand, the Dominion is steadily pulling down the balance held by the United States against this country. The net improvement in Canada's trade position with the United Kingdom for the year ended July 31 was nearly $17,000,000, while the net reduction in the trade balance held by the United States as compared with the previous twelve month was $48,966,612.

Canada's imports from the United Kingdom again showed an increase, being $154,445,533, as compared with $150,682,439 in the previous year, while her exports to the Mother Country were $404,499,650, as compared with $383,951,524. Imports from the United State were $524,758,937, a decrease of $41,000,991 from the previous twelve months, and the exports to the United States amounted to $430,693,839, an increase of $77,875,621.

In the twelve months ended July Canadian exports to Germany were $32,438,268, an increase of $14,000,000. Canadian purchases in Germany, on the other hand, were $6,935,265, an increase of less than $1,000,000.

Wrong Label On Mercury Tablets Fatal To Woman

VANCOUVER, Sept. 2 — (Canadian Press). — Accidental placing of an aspirin label on a box containing bichloride of mercury tablets in a local drug store on August 13, brought about the death in the hospital here Tuesday of Mrs. Frederick Biggam, wife of the Provincial boiler inspector. An inquest was held to-day.

According to the statement of the druggist, James Moran, to the police, he discovered the mistake shortly after the supposed aspirin had been sent to the Biggam home, and immediately endeavored to notify the woman, only to find that she had used some of the poison.

PRINCE CROSSES ANDES SUNDAY VISITING CHILE

WARM GREETINGS.

CONCORDIA, Argentina, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Forty-six thousand cattle assembled in one place for his benefit was one of the sights seen by the Princes of Wales in his tour this week of Argentine and his visits to some of the great estancias.

Crowds greeted the Prince everywhere and at any hour of the night cheers are heard as his train passes through the small stations. Several thousand people waited until 1.45 o'clock Tuesday morning at Concordia to cheer as his train went by without stopping.

His Royal Highness has been greeted by bands of singers in their national costumes, by cowboys riding unbroken horses, and has enjoyed thoroughly the unusual experience of this trip. On the way to Mercedes he laid a wreath on a war memorial, a simple cairn of stones surmounted by a tall wooden cross.

The Prince begins his trans-continental journey to Chile Saturday noon in a luxuriously fitted special train. Seven hundred miles across the Argentine pampas will bring him to Mendosa early Sunday, and there he will change to a trans-Andean train on which he will cross the mountains, arriving at Santiago on Sunday evening for a five day visit. The party will be accompanied to the border by high officials of the Argentine Government.

FINAL PAYMENT OF WHEAT POOL

Announcement of Amount Made Saturday. For Distribution To Be

TOTAL ABOUT $1.61.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Announcement of the final wheat pool payment on the 1924 crop will be made Friday or Saturday of this week, it was learned here yesterday. The final statement has been prepared and is now in the hands of A. J. McPhail, chairman of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Ltd., who is to set the date.

Pool officials, as yet, have given no inkling of the amount to be paid, when recently published figures showing the average daily closing for the year amounted to $1.71 1-8 were alluded to, however, pool officials maintained that this was not a fair basis of calculation. The actual average taken on a bushel basis and not on a daily basis, they claimed, worked out at about $1.61.

Officials indicated that the final payment would compare favorably with the figure, although they would not make a definite statement to that effect.

Down by the bay, or the mill pond or the sandy shore of the lake, or the muggy edges of the river, you will be finding little flocks of sandpipers, now that the migrating season is well on.

It is just possible that these very birds may have already passed south, but one is almost sure of some nature treat or other, at this time of year, down by the water, for things are on the move.

This is the finest time of the year to go into the field, or the woods. Very often there is a stretch of settled weather in September, when the woods are dry and cool, no flies being there to bother the nature lover and sting one on the nose or neck, just as a restless little chickadee comes into view.

The fields are particularly attractive in September, being just full of life, on the move. September is the lazy or timid nature-lover's month, for it shows much and demands little for the showing. To those who rise and go into the fields in the early morning, before ten o'clock standard time, rubbers will be very necessary, but after that hour, on sunny days, the grass is dry.

On a sunny day in August, up in the woods, while I was writing Nature Lore and busy telling a very interesting story, Excelsior, or exgalloper or Exalapha, as his name is, after I have managed to twist it most horribly, came in a very great state of excitement, to my door. Exalafat is my guide and helper and he keeps away from my cabin when I am writing, unless something is happening, which he wants me to see. When I heard his heavy pounding feet on the forest floor, I knew there were "Doings," so I rushed out with my glasses.

Excalabar led the way along the beach, pointing out some big and some little dog tracks. "De Loup!" said Exallaga, which is to say, "Wolves." Would you believe it, a mother wolf and several half grown pups ran along that beach in the night and ate a hare for breakfast? The fur was left on a spot in the open woods, but the pups ran off with every other trace.

Exhaffala says that they will be full grown wolves and hunting by themselves in the end of September, but they keep the family together until late in the Autumn. Their tracks in the sand are enough for most folks.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

LONG LIFE IS LINKED WITH RECREATION.

Not long ago I wrote about the importance of sleep, play and a hobby as preventives of old age. I told about an interesting article I had read on this subject.

When I asked a friend of mine if she had a hobby, she considered the question for a moment and then went away to consult the dictionary. She came back laughing and said, "I'm glad I haven't a hobby!"

This is one of the definitions she found in the dictionary: "A hobby is a subject or plan upon which one is constantly setting forth; a favorite and ever recurring theme of discourse, thought or effort; that which occupies one's attention unduly, or to the weariness of others."

Of course a hobby of that sort would make one a bore, defined by the same dictionary as "a person or thing that wearies by ceaseless repetition."

The sort of thing everybody needs to guarantee health may better be described, perhaps, by the word diversion. This is the art of turning aside for any given course, occupation or object. Anything which turns the mind from care or study, provided it relaxes, amuses and entertains is the sort of diversion which will add years to life, provided it is regularly cultivated.

With the reproof of my friend fresh in mind, I shall no longer recommend a hobby, but shall refer ever to diversion as the thing necessary to change the course of the daily walk and to compose the soul. Who can doubt that the encouragement of some choice diversion will add happiness to the human heart? Who can doubt, too, that improved health is the handmaiden of happiness?

Every insane asylum contains inmates who have fixed delusions. They work the same problem over and over and over. They are constantly selling or buying. They are brooding or they are giving away millions. Whatever it is that they are crazy over they never stop doing.

Such persons lack mental freedom. They are incapable of turning away from the only things which to them seem real. We pity them.

Why, then, do we not pity ourselves if we are so devoted to work that we never cease doing it? If we never indulge in diversions, how much different are we than the poor, deluded beings who are incarcerated in institutions, deprived of physical freedom, because of their lack of mental freedom?

Good health and long life depend on rest of body and diversion of mind. You will do well to find some form of play or change of work which is play. By doing so your years will be added to and your present usefulness increased.

From School Teacher To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. After the Civil War, he began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa., and often rode horse-back thru the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognise most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y. where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold. If your druggist does not sell the "Discovery," in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to Dr. Pierce's Branch

STREET NAMES

GILCHRIST STREET.

Dr. John Gilchrist was a practising physician in Peterborough in the early days and remained here until 1847, when he removed to Port Hope.

His early years were spent at Keene, where he practised as a physician and also carried on business as a storeman and owner of a sawmill.

He was an active spirit in the William Lyon Mackenzie rebellion and was one of three men arrested and imprisoned on "suspicion of treasonable practices," and afterwards was honorably discharged. Apparently this episode in his career hindered him very little in material progress. He was first treasurer of the new Colborne district, held the office of government land agent and became a member of the Upper Canada Assembly in 1841. The date of his death has not been accurately ascertained.

THE LIMITED MAIL

Novel by William Basil Courtney

SYNOPSIS

At the foot of a railroad trestle in Granite Gorge, in the Rockies, two vagabonds are cooking their evening meal, a "hobo stew," over a rude fire. One of the men is Potts, a professor years ago but long a tramp. The other, only 25 years of age, is almost a stranger to his companion. The two hear a shrill whistle, followed by the appearance of "Spike" Nelson, a typical hobo, who boasts that he is "de toughest 'bo on two dogs." It is night and a heavy rain is falling.

"Sit down by the fire and toast yourself, Spike," invited Potts uneasily, "while my young friend and I procure three cans for the serving of our banquet."

"Ain't dis weather fierce?" complained Spike, spitting into the fire as he settled on his haunches beside it.

"Ruskin," Potts reminded him politely, tryin to belie his own bodily discomfort, "said 'there is no such thing as bad weather; only different kinds of good weather. Snow is exhilarating, rain is refreshing' ——"

"Rust Can?" interrupted Spike. "What's his mark like? Did he bum on dis route in de rain—betcha nix!" Spike, with a gurgling chuckle as he discovered the roasting potatoes, speared one from the flames with his steel hand. Without removing it from the spike, he started to gouge it—skin, ashes and all.

The faint and distant whistle of a train shivered eerily down the boisterous lanes of the storm.

"The Limited Mail's coming!" exclaimed Potts, with all the awesome respect of the free riding gentry for a railroad masterpiece. Then, wagging his head and squinting, he judged expertly, "She ought to pass here in twenty minutes. I wish I were riding her rods to Crater City tonight!"

Spike glanced sarcastically at Potts' billiken figure. "If flat belly keeps on growin' you won't be able to squeeze in on de rods much longer, Professor!"

Potts folded his hands over his paunch and sighed in a hopefully faraway manner; "When the day comes that the natural growth of my maturing figure prevents me from indulging my fondest passion in life I shall retire to a shanty beside the tracks in some Arcadian pass, where I can hear the beloved song of the rails and commune poteically with Nature!"

"Yep," answered Spike, with ulterior enthusiasm. "She's dere pride nad joy. It's de ambish of every engineer on de road to drive her. An'," he added darkly, "she'd be great pickin's in a stick-up with all dat registered mail she carries!"

The involuntary start of distaste that Bob made at this random suggestion did not escape Spike, who, regarding him with the oily steadfastness of a black spider, sneered.

"Guess you ain't been at dis game long, 'bo—an' I'm too much of a gent ter ask questions. But lemme tell you, boy, de sooner you fall in step with us wise uns the better off you'll be. An' we t'ink like dis—don't ever pass up no chances ter make a strike, 'cause what in hell's de use of—anything!"

"What's the use of—anything!" echoed Potts with an added and more meanful depth of the philosophic resignation of vagabondage that more than made up for the profanity he had omitted.

"Gather round the festive board, gentle knights—make merry at the wassail bowl!" chanted Potts, ceremoniously handing an empty salmon can to Spike.

"Gee," said Spike, trembling in his animal greed as he bent over the stew can to help himself, "I'm famished. Ain't had a bite since yesterday!"

"The same holds true of my young friend and myself," said Potts, crowding up with Spike and rolling his eyes expansively. "Come, Bob, why do you hang back?"

Their long day of fast, and the marrow-weakening chill of the night wind and the rain, made food a desperate need of these poor wayfarers. It was a most unkind Old Witch, therefore, that with seeming maliciousness waited until the very moment when they were about to begin eating to drop a fragment of rock into the center of their fire, knocking over the stew can. Unminded by the men in the eagerness of their appetites a thin flow of debris, presaging a slide, had begun—even before the tragedy of the stew can—toward the base of the trestle pier, in the bottom of the funnel like declivity far under the tracks.

A boulder shot down through the darkness—then another—and another.

With a wail of agonized disappointment Potts reached to save what might be left of the stew in the overturned can, but a bouncing stone sent can and fire careening over the cliff. The scattered embers streaked into the black abyss like a brief scurry of frightened meteorites—then darkness, thick and dangerous, closed around the imperilled hoboes.

"Climb for the tracks, but keep under the trestle!" shouted Potts, feeling his way around the concrete pier and scrambling upwards. Spike and Bob fought hastily up beside him. It was touch and go, with bone-crushing death whizzing past their heads on wings of stone. Miraculously, they were able to escape from the bottom of the funnel to the wider and comparatively safer space high up, just beneath the tracks, without being hit.

Potts' strength gave out as he neared the tracks, and he suddenly started to slide toward the grinding disaster below. Bob, barely feeling the brush of Potts' body as he coasted by, braced himself and grabbed his friend; then with difficulty dragged him to the safety of the tracks, which Spike had already gained.

Breathing hard, the three hoboes stood indecisive in the storm. Lightning gave snatches of vision and Bob, looking down, saw that the slide had stopped at last, without, seeming doing material harm to the trestle anchorage, although a mass of debris was cluttered against it, on the slopes of the funnel. The Old Witch had at last grown tired of the grotesque and restless human birds of flight who for so many seasons had nested beneath her granite pinions!

"That's twice tonight you've saved me, my—friend!" Potts gasped, with an emphasis on the last word that brought to Bob's face, though it was hidden by the darkness, the first genuine smile he had displayed since casting his lot with the fat hobo.

"Can de weeps an' let's git outen here!" warned Spike, starting away from the trestle, down the curve around the Old Witch's nose.

Thus far, the slide seemed to have been confined to the inner thigh of the Old Witch, but a sudden crash and jar behind them that shook the rails and ground and almost threw the tramps from their feet, brought them to a frightened halt. Bob started to run back to seek confirmation of his worst fears, but a flash of lightning made it unnecessary for him to proceed far, for it revealed, to the wide-eyed tramps, a large boulder squarely on the trestle tracks, directly in the path of the oncoming Limited.

WHERE WOMEN DEFEND THEIR RIGHTS LEGALLY

The women of Egypt seem most unemancipated to us in some ways. They keep their faces veiled. They still bring water from the well in jugs on their heads. They ride about in shuttered palanquins carried between two camels. They even consent to polygamy.

But they have certain rights of their own and they know how to defend them against anything that may come up. Property rights under Mohammedan rules are all to the advantage of the married women. The law decrees that a married woman may do exactly as she pleases about her assets without consulting her husband.

An Egyptian Woman Pleader.

For centuries and centuries the women of Islam have had these rights and they know how to protect them. They have become part of the Islamite woman's outlook on life. She feels this dignity as the basis of her whole life.

It is customary among us to leave any legal disputes to lawyers. We simply place the matter in the hands of our attorneys and let them fight it out as best they may. But the women of Egypt have learned to defend themselves in court, or anywhere else.

When a case is called to court in Egypt, it is no uncommon sight to see the defendants come forward themselves to present their case. Frequently a sister will be chosen to represent her brothers as well as herself in a matter involving property rights.

These women usually speak easily and fluently. They use their hands freely. They are convincing orators and know their subject thoroughly.

Thus it is that these Eastern women enjoy privileges that are denied their supposedly more emancipated Western sisters.

That is perhaps one of the most important reasons for the lack of any striking movement for women's rights—political rights—in Egypt. Women there have the most important of these rights without asking for it and they feel no need for any other. The movement is just beginning now and when the time comes we shall probably find that the Egyptian woman can fight for what she wants as her Western sisters do.

ARRANGING THE PERENNIAL BORDER

There is no method of displaying this class of flowering plants, quite equal to the mixed border. As a source of interest and color in the garden, perennials also are splendid. With a large assortment to choose from for color and season of blooming, one can have a bright display practically the season through.

Just a few words on the placing of such a feature first. The border should be kept to the sides and back of the lawn in an open sunny position. A background is preferable either of trees and shrub, a wall or fence on which climbing vines may be grown, or of taller growing perennials.

The width of the border may vary from five to eight or ten feet and extend to any size, limited only by extent of the property and the owner's ability to look after it. The front edge should preferably be irregularly curved for most situations, although in small areas such as back yards or grounds laid out rather formally, straight lines may be used. When a border is laid alongside a road it may follow the lines of the road whether straight or curved.

Arrangement—Perennials vary considerably in height but we can roughly classify them into low, medium and tall plants though all vary within this classification. Working with these, we will first consider the border with a background. Here the tallest perennials will be planted at the back, the low growing ones in front and the medium planted all through the middle ground. These medium growing plants should also be placed well towards the front and the taller ones planted well towards the back, i.e., the planting should be arranged to give variety in height and a strict avoidance of any banked effect. In the case of the border with no background, the taller perennials are placed down the centre with a varying slope to the sides. Careful consideration should be given to the fact that certain perennials die down early in the season and the arrangement should allow for these to be hidden by later varieties or annuals. Good sized clumps are usually preferable, say at least 3 ft. by 2 ft., depending upon the size of the area, though a number of scattered single specimens give variety. Distribute each variety the length of the border with the idea of having color everywhere the whole season through. Predominating colors should also be well distributed.

Many color combinations or some special color note may be indulged in and the skill of the owner exercised to the fullest extent. Ordinarily little trouble will be experienced and if the colors are found to clash the first season, they can be re-arranged another year without great difficulty.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHY MR. LOCUST WEARS BROWN AND YELLOW LEGGINGS

"Oh, Dee!" Dicky exclaimed as the greenish-gray insect settled on a bush near him. "Do come and look at this funny looking grasshopper."

"Yes, do come and look at this funny looking grasshopper," mocked the grayish-green insect. "And they call you bright," he snapped. By this time Dee reached Dicky's side and they both looked at each other and laughed.

"Why, Dicky," laughed Dee, "that isn't a grasshopper,"

"Certainly I'm not a grasshopper," snapped the grayish-green insect. "I'm Billy Locust, if you please. I just landed and have lost my friends. Have you seen them? Have you seen my wife? She stopped to lay her eggs. Oh, dear; oh, dear; I'm tired."

"Then rest right here, Billy Locust," laughed Dee. "We wouldn't disturb you for the world. I do hope your wife will come along so we can meet her. Does she carry a wee little sword for egg-laying like Mother Grasshopper does?"

"No, indeed," replied Billy Locust. "Mother Locust doesn't need a sword. She places all her eggs in long tubes down in the ground. So you thought me a grasshopper, did you, Dicky?" and Billy Locust laughed as if he thought it a good joke. "Now, if you'll take a good glance at me, you'll see my head is harder and much thicker than the head of Johnny Grasshopper. And my hind legs are much thicker and much stronger than even the strongest of the grasshopper's hind legs."

"And your legs are certainly prettier than Mr. Grasshopper's, in your yellow and brown leggings," laughed Dicky. "Tell me, Mr. Billy Locust, if I'm not too inquisitive, why do you wear such funny looking stockings? Why not wear green or bright red stockings?"

"For mighty good reasons," chirped Billy Locust. "You see, we locusts are such destructive creatures that folks don't like to see us land near their graves. Take a hungry mob of locusts and they will soon eat an orchard of fruit and leaves, so I don't blame folks one bit. But by wearing these yellow and brown leggings, our legs fit right in with the sunlight and shadows on whatever we are sitting, and folks can't see us so plainly."

"Pretty clever," laughed Dicky.

"Certainly we're clever," snapped Billy Locust. "We know folks don't like us and our mode of living, so we have to protect ourselves some way. These leggings are not so easily spotted as bright red ones would be. There's my wife, now," and he hurried off to meet his wife. Dee and Dicky watched them sail away in funny, little jerky hops and swings until they were out of sight. Then they ran on through the woods in search of new adventure.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3.

According to the sidereal activities for this day there may be discord and disagreement, with unfriendly litigation and quarrels, due to the Martian incitement to bad temper and impetuosity. The business may be best fostered by calm application and refraining from change or travel, in which case the friendly place of Jupiter, sextile with Luna, may be permitted to wield its benefic sway.

Those whose birthday it is may find a difficult year to manipulate. The most menacing conditions, however, will be incited by the tendency to quarrels and rash acts. Ill-temper and impetuosity should be curbed if the fortunate influences are to dominate. Change and travel should be postponed and close attention be given to business. A child born on this day may be inclined to be rash, impulsive and unsettled, finding it difficult to succeed in its undertakings because of this. Nevertheless it may have an eventful career.

Canada's Lengthy Depression Period Nearly Ended Says Forecast Based On Canadian Stock Market

If the action of the stock market is acceptable as a barometer—and it has been seldom known to fail—Canada is near the end of its lengthy period of depression and is heading for better business conditions. Improving railway earnings, increasing trade returns and stronger bank clearings all suggest that there has been a turn for the better and this may be expected to go on until a happier state of business prevails than has been the case for the past few years.

It is a significant fact that something like $100,000,000 has been added to the market value of a group of leading stocks in the local market this year, which is no mean record, particularly when it is taken into account that the bulk of this appreciation has taken place in the past few months, the first part of the year having been largely barren of results of that character.

A group of representative stocks, covering a diversified range of business activities, ten in number, show an appreciation of over $90,000,000, and it is safe to say that the balance of the list which has embraced a number of strong features, will make up the total of the $100,000,000.

Montreal Power Consolidated, with its outstanding gain of 60 points, stands at the head of the list with an appreciation of over $38,000,000, and Brazilian Traction, with its advance of 18 points, stands a good second with an appreciation of close to $20,000,000. Consolidated Smelters which has been a spectacular actor, outpointed the entire list in point of action, advancing 75 points, giving the shares an added value of nearly $10,000,000.

Next in point of order come Price Bros. with 36 points, and an added value of over $8,000,000; Quebec Power with 3 points and over $3,000,000; Ogilvie Milling 45 points, and over $3,000,000; Dominion Textile, 21 points, and close to $3,000,000; Winnipeg Electric, 17 points and $1,800,000; Dominion Canners, 61 and $1,700,000; Dominion Bridge, 22 points and $1,400,000; and Steel of Canada, 12 points and $1,100,000, all in round figures.

Some other issues which enjoyed notable advances are Shawinigan Power Montreal Tramways, Mackay Companies, Laurentide Power, Canada Cement and Brompton Paper with smaller gains elsewhere, leaving quite a substantial number on the list which have as yet felt little or nothing of the impluse which benefitted the leaders. It is not improbable that some of these at least will yet come into their own in due course.

Record of Great Significance.

This record is an impressive one and possesses great significance. It means that powerful financial groups foresee broad general improvement and have prepared to back up their foresight and confidence by accumulating stocks. It was felt some time ago that the remarkable exhibition of strength in the New York market, which indicated a great business boom in the United States, would ere long make its impression here. It was painfully slow in coming, but it leaves little room for doubt that a share of that great prosperity is not far off in this country.

Probably nothing contributed more strikingly to this result than the great improvement in the harvest outlook for Canada this autumn. It has been estimated by competent authorities that the crops here will embrace an increased value of some $400,000,000 over the value of the past year. Foremost in this, of course, is the great wheat crop which is expected to be garnered in the west. The importance of this to the general business of the country cannot be overlooked. It means greater business and revenue for the transportation companies which involves a very wide range of increased activities in many respects. The manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of the Dominion should benefit conspicuously so that lines of business which have not yet felt any improvement will eventually fall into line and obtain their share.

Market Inspires Courage.

Another significant factor is that the action of the stock market will have a tendency to inspire courage in all directions, more particularly among those who are shareholders of our leading corporations. Many people who have been carrying stocks through the lean period find themselves in a much more liquid position and improved values make for a much stronger situation, both actually and psychologically.

The ease of the money market, the strong condition of the investment markets and the confidence of our leading financial interests have long been leading up to these results. The growth of exports of our surplus natural products has been a strong factor in building up confidence and the rapid developments of our natural resources in mines, fisheries, forests have played an important part in bringing Canada back to a strong position in the world markets.

The market is not without its backwash [illegible] and discordant notes [illegible] are hopes that these will work out favorably. The termination of the price war in the motoring industry was a constructive step which will in due course bring the different companies concerned back to a stronger financial position.

General Tone Was Weak In Eventful Session To-day

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The first session to-day of the Toronto Stock Exchange was the most eventful of the week. The standing out from the general weak tone was the individual advance of Dominion Stores Common, which in active dealings climbed to 62, a gain of six points. Consolidated Smelters, the leading stock of the session, was run down to 117½ in dealings totalling more than thirteen hundred shares, a loss of 1½ points, and Canada Bread Common sold down 1½ at 56. Brazilian, also prominent, receded to 68¾, a loss of one and one-eighth points. Atlantic Sugar Common held firm. B. C. Fishing and Burt both eased a half point.

Corn Attracts Attention While Wheat Eases Off

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Fresh upturns in price quickly developed in the Corn Market to-day, with trading in corn more active at times than for all other grains put together. It was pointed out that in many sections the country is already feeding new corn owing to the scarcity of old supplies, and that profit in feeding hogs and cattle is the largest in recent years. With further comment that the hay crop is short and that another heat wave is in prospect, the corn market attracted special notice from the start. Corn opening prices, ¼c lower to 7-8c higher, December 82¼ to 83 3-8, were followed by decided gains all around, December touching 84 3-4.

Influenced by a set-back in Liverpool quotations, the wheat market here underwent a sag despite the strength in corn. Starting 3-8 to 1 1-8c decline, December 151 3-4 to 152 1-8, and May 156¼ to 156½, the wheat market rallied somewhat but then dropped lower than before.

Oats were steadied by corn. After opening unchanged to 1¼c off, December 41¼, oats held near to the initial limits.

Provisions rose with corn, and as the result of increased shipments of lard to forestall the new German tariff.

Quiet Morning On Mine Market With Small Losses

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was quiet this morning, with transactions totalling 95,166 shares. Argonaut, under fairly heavy sales, declined 2 points to 25. Teck Hughes and Vipond each dropped a point to 173 and 118 respectively. Castle Trethewey also declined a point, while Canadian Lorraine advanced 2 points to 59. McKinley Darragh was one point up at 23, and Mining Corporation two points lower at 265.

WHAT IS FATE OF MODERN TEXT BOOK?

90 Year Old Volume Seen is in Perfect State of Preservation.

Yesterday occasioned the purchase of hundreds of new books by the school children of Peterborough and the thought which presents itself is: 'What will be the condition of the majority of these volumes when one short term has elapsed. Immediately a vision of countless disfigured, dismembered and dog-eared texts rises up to point accusatory fingers and cry out a diatribe against the miscreants who have wreaked a mis-directed vengeance upon their hapless pages.

It is a fact that school children do appear to treat their authentic supplies of information with scant ceremony, banging them into corners when not in use, leaving them in the rain or other drastic weather despoiling agencies, marking them with strange caligraphy in pencil and ink, inscribing poetry on the fly leaves and margins, making hasty notes and casually etching monographs and other hieroglyphics on every avaliable inch. The corners of such volumes seek an escape from such maltreatment and retire coyly in dog eared ranks, shrinking from the violent hands which would totally disfigure and destroy.

Parents of the present race of school children can call to mind a day when three or four books at most formed the complement to learning and those books were cared for with such meticulous regard that doubtless to-day many could be dug out of store room or attic.

Mayor Turner has just received a volume from Ireland which was written by an army officer. It tells of his experiences in Canada and it deals with the back woods. That book was printed over 90 years ago and is still in a perfect state of preservation. The answer to this is that the book has been cared for.

No stains appear on its covers—no pages are missing—the corners are not turned and there are no markings appearing on the pages to indicate where people left off reading.

The binding for one thing is of a splendid type and is a reflection on the development of the craft to-day; but the main reason for the excellent state of preservation of the volume lies in its evidence of the loving care which book lovers have shown regarding it.

That book is valuable to-day because of its age and associations. The books published to-day will be just as valuable to later generations, but it is to be feared that, judging by the treatment which they are accorded, there will be few to hand down to the future ages.

COMMONWEALTH CAN ADMINISTER ITS LAW

Premier of New South Wales Doesn't Want to Deport People.

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—With reference to the antagonistic attitude of Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales towards the Commonwealth's new law providing for the deportation of persons not of Australian birth who foment labor troubles in Australia, Premier Lang denies that New South Wales has refused to administer any Federal or State law. He says he merely insists that the Commonwealth Government, with the abundant resources at its command, should administer its deportation act itself.

SEND 60 PUPILS

would not really be educated, as they would be cut off from the library, the literary society and all the corporate life of the school. All they could obtain, he said, would be some class-room knowledge.

The Supervision and Property Committees were given power to act.

New School.

A resolution was passed calling on the Council to provide $368,000 for the construction of an extension to the Collegiate Institute for vocational and academic purposes. Part of this cost would be met by grants from the Department, amounting to $135,000, so that the net cost to the city would be $251,000. This cost, with equipment, would amount to about .82 mills, said Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Morris reported for the Building Committee on the conference held with officials of the Department of Education. It was said by these officials that the cost of maintenance, per pupil, would be less as it had been found that technical education costs less than academic, and even the smaller cost is reduced by the fact that the Government grant is larger.

To Hold Conference.

It was decided to hold a conference with the City Council, the architects, officials of the Department of Education, Principal Kenner, Mr. Jamieson of the commercial department, and Mr. Hagerman of the technical department, to discuss the matter.

Half-Holiday For Fair.

The pupils of the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools will be granted the usual half-holiday on September 16, which is Children's Day at the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition.

James Abraham, chief supervisor of the playgrounds, sent in a detailed report of the attendance during the summer. A total average attendance of between three and four hundred children was reported for the three grounds. Trustee W. R. Turner, Jr., calculated from this that the cost per child had been between $3.00 and $4.00.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Pettit, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner was engaged to fill the position until Mr. Pettit is able to return.

SECURE ARMOURIES FOR FLOWER SHOW

Cup Presented By R. W. Cormack For Highest Amateur Average.

Definite assurance has been received to the effect that the efforts that the efforts of Lieut.-Col. W. Gordon Hall have not been in vain, and that the Flower Show authorities have contracted for the use of the armouries during September 10 and 11, the two days of the show.

Preparations are going on apace. Rupert Gliddon has proferred the services of the Peterborough Symphony Orchestra, which added to the school children's chorus, which Miss M. R. Rannie of the Normal School, has promised, should provide a high type of entertainment. Miss Rannie has written to Leon Fraser, stating that she has arranged for a chorus of 109 voices to sing during the second night of the show.

R. W. Cormack, late of the Quaker Oats, and past president of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, has donated a cup to reward the amateur exhibitor who has the greatest aggregate score. This trophy will become the property of the person who successfully competes for it three years in succession.

Mr. Cormack has always taken an active part in horticultural work and his latest donation should do much to stir up interest in this field.

The Kiwanis Club has advised the secretary that it will again sponsor the flower parade following the system adopted last year.

Any child may take part in the parade, the costume chosen is to represent some flower fruit or vegetable. Three prizes are provided by the Kiwanis Club for this event. It was explained that the most elaborate costume would not of necessity be adjudged the winner. The prize costumes would be those which most faithfully represented the object chosen.

The judge for the flower show proper will be George Baldwin of Toronto, who is actively associated with J. Lockie Wilson, superintendent of Agricultural and Horticultural Societies.

SHOP GIRLS HAVE MANY TRIALS AND CUSTOMERS THEIR WORRIES

Buyers Don't Know What They Want—Some Won't Buy.

MEN PRAISED

But Many Spend Money on Gifts and Skimp the Home.

"Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," was the title of one of the old-time melodramas in the days when "drammer was drammer" and things were moving in the theatrical line

"The Woes and Wails of the Shop Girl" might well be the title of one of the modern plays. The harassment that the average girl clerk suffers at the hands of an unfeeling public is something fierce, if the young ladies interviewed on the subject are to be taken as examples of the feminine sales force of the city.

Take a milliner, for example. Milliners are inclined to be somewhat haughty creatures, with a habit of looking bored if a customer doesn't suit their taste. But they have their trials it appears. Their daily round is checkered by ladies who have elderly ensembles and want youthful effects in their headgear, by women who hesitate for an hour over a possible purchase, by those ladies with pudgy noses who desire upturned fronts and cut off backs without heed to the general silhouette achieved thereby, by men who accompany their wives and want a hat priced at about "two dollars, because butter and eggs are not very high in price just now," by women who insist on choosing the wrong color in a bonnet and then come back in a fortnight or so with the complaint that the milliner shouldn't have let them buy such a thing anyway, by those ladies who wish a five dollar creation to be exclusive and not to be met with elsewhere, and the many others who "try to jew you down."

And As To Men Shoppers.

A girl in one of the ready-to-wear departments had a good word for the foresight and ability of some men shopping for their womenkind. "Some men can't be deceived, either in quality or style," she said. One young lady had very decided views as to men purchasers, and asserted that they would spend almost any sum on a gift, but "they want a twenty-five-cent pair of stockings for nineteen cents, if it's for someone at home." One man was delegated by his spouse to match a sample of sand-colored cloth. He took a look at it and concluded it was brown, as any man might, and went about asking the clerks for brown silk, which wasn't exactly what his wife required. Another man, on the still hunt for a baby's white wool coat, handed the entire commission, for cloth and fixings, over to a clerk, with no enquiries as to price, and paid the bill with a relieved look when he received the parcel.

Some women want the very highest priced articles. A story comes from a shop in Toronto whose stock of silk hose at the moment ran to a high price of only fifteen dollars a pair. A customer who requested gossamer silk "at twenty dollars a pair" refused to be satisfied with the lesser priced fleshings. "You don't get that sort in Peterboro," was the succinct comment of one girl clerk to whom the incident was related.

"Some people are too decided about what they want. If they would take an alternative, they wouldn't have so much trouble in shopping." Others again, it appears, don't know exactly what they want, and look at everything on the shelves before buying, if they do buy.

Army of Lookers.

There is also that large army of "lookers," or "shoppers," the indefatigable persons who have a good time making the rounds of the big stores and interrogating the clerks as to prices and qualities of goods they have no intention of purchasing. And then there are the ladies who come in to get style pointers. Just to complete the general effect of a certain type of meanness, they often bring the dressmaker along who will make their own gown later, and while the customer is being fitted with various gowns, the seamstress takes mental notes of the style and make-up. This companion, or the lady friend who sometimes accompanies the "style stealer," has a habit of making an uncomplimentary remark about the dress being tried on, so that an easy getaway may be arranged later. "You can usually spot them,' said one long tried clerk in a ready-to-wear department.

A lot of goods in these big stores are bought over the telephone, and one young lady had a good deal to say about the exasperating habit of women in ringing the store and then having to have their needs almost coaxed out of them, before the order could be procured.

The Non-Payers.

A curious sidelight on methods of procuring goods without paying for them is afforded in the glimpses of modes devised by people called "teasers," the sort with a mild kleptomaniac tendency, "who don't want you to wait on them at all," said one young lady with a wise look. "The farther you keep away from them, the better they are pleased. Some of these just pick up small articles, but others are real dishonest, and often they are the ones who don't need the things they take." One lady with a hand some fur coat and an arrogant manner, "she treats you as though you were dirt," said the clerk, got away with a large quantity of expensive lace by taking it out, having it charged to her account, and then claiming when the bill was sent that she had returned it to the store later.

Another woman whose charge account was closed up at a certain store came in and asked to have some rich silk sent up "on approval." The clerk was warned not to charge the amount and to look after the return of the silk or its payment without fail. When interrogated about it a few days later, the customer said she had cut into the goods and would keep it, to be paid for later.

Still another ingenious lady had a pair of expensive gloves charged to her account in a rush season and came back the next day to a new clerk, asking for the money. The new girl, of course, accomodated the customer. "And these are not poor people either."

"As a rule women are not snippy. If you walked up to them with a frown, they might be," said one young lady whose general appearance is particularly cheerful. Possibly the rule of the mirror, "you get back what you send," applies ent clerk who manicures her finger in life.

Some Clerks Fail.

Another viewpoint with regard to the situation is afforded by the opinions voiced by a man who employs a large staff of clerks. He asserts that the trouble in the commercial world today, that is, the world of the shops, is the attitude adopted by the clerks therein. Their modern "take it or leave it" manner, and the independence of their bearing, are regarded by him as failure sign-posts on the merchandising highway.

"They are not interested in their job. I know a woman who went into a certain store and looked at some hose on the counter. She asked the clerk politely for a different color, and was told in stern accents, "I don't think we have anything beside those." She could either "take it or leave it," so she left it and walked out.

Most people have had similar experiences, either with the indifferen tclerk who manicures her fingernails languidly and makes you feel rather guilty when you disturb her in this innocent occupation, and the too-officious clerk who insists on trying to sell you a colander when you came down town for the express purpose of buying an eggbeater.

But even at that it must be somewhat of a trial to match one's smile and manner with the varying temperaments of the many who seek their choice in the marts of commerce, and who don't know, half the time, just what they want.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

— By Annie Laurie —

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two young girls in our 'teens and while on our vacation this summer we both met a young man that we love very much. We would like to correspond with these young men but they do not know our address. Would it be all right to write first?

CHUMS.

CHUMS: I don't just see how you conclude that you "love very much" two young men whom you probably saw for a very short time, and who didn't bother getting your addresses before they parted from you. If they were nice young men, it might be all right to drop them a card apiece, but don't neglect your other boy friends in the meantime. You know, vacation loves are often apt to be nothing more than vacation flirtations. Don't bank too much on them.

NEWLY ENGAGED

By Juanita Hamel

"The most beautiful girl in the world! She's wonderful! She's perfect! Why, man, she's an angel!" Can't you hear him—the newly engaged man? You have to listen to his rhapsodies regarding the lady of his heart and while you smile to yourself, still, 'way down in your heart you envy him. Now honestly, don't you? Isn't it natural that he should feel that he has won the most beautiful, wonderful girl in all the world? Love wouldn't be love if it didn't feel like that. And the sly little minx knows it, too. A pose? Perhaps, but she knows that the harder he has to work to win her, the greater and deeper his love will be. Therefore, the pose! Therefore, the joy! Therefore, the worshipful, adoring love which is hers and hers alone—always.

WEDDING BELLS.

WARNER—HUNTER.

A very pretty house wedding took place at one o'clock to-day at 548 George Street, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R H. Hunter, when their second eldest daughter, Gladys May, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Aubrey R. Warner, son of Mrs. H. W. Warner, of Lindsay, and the late H. W. Warner. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. L. Craw, assisted by Rev. Wm. Allan of St Paul's Church.

The double drawing-rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of flowers: gladioli, zinnias, phlox, asters and button 'mums, and tall palms and ferns.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of pale pink georgette, heavily beaded, posed over a slip of pinksatin. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms, silver brocade slippers with stockings to match, and carried an arm bouquet of sweet heart and butterfly roses and lily of the valley. A rope of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, was the only ornament.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Alberta Hunter, who was attired in rosewood georgette over yellow, a French hat of black velvet trimmed with yellow roses, silver shoes and stockings, and carried a bouquet of yellow Pernet roses.

The little flower girl, Gladys Watson, a niece of the bride, wore a pretty frock of pale pink crepe de chine, with blue ribbon streamers, and carried a basket of pink roses, lily of the valley, and gypsophila.

Mr. Donald Hunter acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty buffet luncheon was served to a number of guests. The bride's table was done with an Italian cutwork cloth, a central basket of yellow 'mums, banked with pale rose tulle and smilax, and rose pink candles in silver holders. Other floral decorations of the dining-room were yellow antirrhinum and marigolds. The mother of the bride, Mrs. R. H. Hunter, wearing champagne georgette, with corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses, assisted in receiving the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner left on the afternoon C.P.R. train for a honeymoon in Toronto, Buffalo and other points in the United States. On their return, they will reside in Lindsay. The bride travelled in an ensemble costume of blonde twill, with small blonde hat of corded silk, shoes and stockings to match, and stone marten fur neckpiece.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid, pianiste and soloist was a bar pin, the little flower girl received a bracelet, and the best man a pair of cuff links.

Let's Talk It Over

A HELLO GIRL'S IDEAS ON CHILD REARING

"A telephone girl mother" gives us some sound philosophy on Child Training. Children are unconscious imitators. If little Johnnie's manners are bad, yours are probably bad also. If he interrupts and shouts to make himself heard above his elders, it is very likely because you interrupt him in the midst of a thrilling account of how he and Elmer Smith made a tunnel in Elmer's yard, to shout across the table.

Did you ever stop to think that all of Johnnie's ideas of right and wrong came to him from Your daily living?

It seems to me that many of our children are doomed to failure in life before they ever enter the conflict Simply Because Their Parents Are So Indifferent Or Set Such Bad Examples. I don't mean the jazzing, gin-drinking class of parents. I mean the "respectable" ones who boast that they "do everything" for their children. I believe that some of our very "best" homes are actual nurseries for criminals and weaklings.

Teacher whipped Johnnie for a lie at school; mother was too tired or otherwise occupied to listen, so said: "You wait until your father comes home—he'll tan you good, you lying brat!"

Johnnie is tanned and his young soul is seared with scars that may never leave. Does he quit lying? No, he simply learns to sneak. Then some day he is caught in a really serious trouble. Pitying people say: "He was always bad— like his Uncle Jack, you know! What can you expect with that in the family?"

When the school girls whispered vile things in your daughter's ear, did you tell her what she ought to know in a kind manner, or did you fly into a passion of scolding and tell her she mustn't listen to such talk, and not to play with those children again, and not to dare to let the boys get too familiar?

Probably later when she had a beau you wouldn't let him near the house. You told her she was too young to think of marriage. Some children have a habit of doing what they are forbidden to do, if not given good reason for not doing it. You can pick up a paper any day and read of the disappearance of boys and girls, murders, etc., and some can be traced to wrong influences during childhood. Children are unconscious imitators. Do you realize what an example you are setting?

A Telephone Girl Mother.

Think it over Pals. For once Central has hit the right number. You'd better listen in.

WED IN PETERBORO HALF CENTURY AGO

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nixon (Nee Florence Helm) Celebrate Anniversary.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—The oldest Free Mason in Canada—in point of service—celebrated his golden wedding anniversary yesterday. He is James B. Nixon, inspector of benevolent grants of the Ancient Order of Free and Accepted Masons.

A half century ago yesterday afternoon, Mr. Nixon claimed as his bride Miss Florence Helm, of Peterboro. The marriage ceremony was solemnized in the bride's home in Peterboro with Mr. Nixon's sister, now Mrs. M. Bull, of Winnipeg, as bridesmaid and George M. Lee, of Toronto, as best man. All four of these principals in the wedding of fifty years ago attended the golden jubilee yesterday.

At the time of his marriage Mr. Nixon was working for his father in the wholesale wool business in Toronto. Later he became organizer for the Ancient Order of United Workmen and afterwards accepted his present position in Masonry. He was initiated into the craft at 21 and elevated to the rank of ruling master at the age of 25.

Scores of Masonic honors have come to Mr. Nixon during his long connection with the craft. One of the most recent of these was at the last annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Canada in the province of Ontario, when he was presented with a medal commemorating his fiftieth year of Masonry.

Six sisters and five daughters of Mr. Nixon travelled thousands of miles to attend the jubilee celebration. The sisters are Mrs. Daniel Houlahan, of Seattle, Washington; Mrs. M. Bull, of Winnipeg; Mrs. (Dr.) William Harrison, of Keene, Ont.; Mrs. Charles Steel, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Miss Katherine Nixon, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. George M. Lee, of Toronto.

The daughters are Mrs. E. C. Ironsides, Mrs. (Dr.) L. S. Krueder and Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, of Toronto; Mrs. F R. Dee, of Holyoke, Mass., and Mrs. E. A. Apple, of Cleveland, Ohio. There are also several grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Nixon were both for many years active in the work of the Metropolitan Church, they still enjoy the best of health and look forward to celebrating their diamond jubilee ten years hence.

To mark the present anniversary they were presented with several purses of gold by friends and relatives, while baskets of flowers have turned the Lake Shore avenue home into a veritable garden.

SECRETS OF CHARM

— By Lucrezia Bori —

COLD WATER AIDS BEAUTY

Water is such an all-important consideration in its relation to beauty that it deserves particular mention wherever beauty is the topic of conversation. Of course, we could not have grass or flowers or trees—or life, for that matter—without water. It is also true that we cannot have good health unless we drink plenty of water and also use a goodly amount of it to keep our bodies clean on the outside.

Now, I want to impress on my readers who seek to be attractive that the beauty value of good cold water cannot be overestimated. Many famous beauties of the stage and screen owe the preservation of their good looks, not to complicated cold creams and formulas, but to the diligent use of good, clear cold water. Plenty of water, food and sleep will keep a person in the best of health.

If you are perfectly strong, thus enabling your skin to react properly after a cold shower, I advise you to begin the day by taking a good, brisk shower bath, using cold water. This wakes you up and makes you feel bright and active. Those who begin this practice when the weather is warm find it easy to continue it after cold weather comes. They can, however, when the weather is very cold, begin with a tepid shower and delay the cold dash of water for some time to come.

If you take a warm bath in the evenings, you should finish it with a quick cold spray. This will harden your flesh and keep it firmly moulded.

Another convenient use of the cold water spray is after giving the arms and neck a massage with the fingers. Many actresses who must look their best before the footlights are in the habit of giving themselves, or having someone else give them a good brisk massage. When this is finished, a cold water rinse for the massaged parts is an excellent thing.

Do not feel, either, that you must deprive yourself of the benefits of the shower bath just because your bath room may not happen to be fitted with a shower. There are numerous rubber tubes, with shower attachments, on the market which can be used in any bath tub and which are invaluable things to have.

Aside from their convenience for the warm or cold shower, they come in very handy when you wash your hair at home. So many women feel that they cannot shampoo their own hair, simply because they are afraid they cannot remove all the soap afterward. A shower attachment does this with the greatest effectiveness. You can hold your head over the tub and spray your hair and scalp to your heart's content, and you need not be afraid to find particles of soap clinging to your brush after you have brushed your newly shampooed hair.

INSIDE Ggolf.

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Perhaps the commonest of all sways during the golf swing is the lunge of the body forward with the forward-swinging clubhead. This is plain pressing and so many golfers fall into this habit that it becomes a confirmed fault with them. It is a hard lesson to learn, but the player should keep in mind at all times that the golf ball cannot possibly be hit with the body—it must be hit with the clubhead, and the more you throw your body in the less you use the clubhead, and the shorter the distance you take. This is one of the very obstinate facts about golf and you cannot remove the fact no matter how hard you struggle with body lunged as you swing the club forward. You might as well take it easier and just let the clubhead swing, because the club is certain to win this battle of brawn with you in the end. The forward lunge of the body causes the club head to toe in and the ball persistently is hooked. This is because as the body lunges forward, into the direction line the right arm throws out away from the body, and rolls the clubface over toward the ball.

FANS WRITING TO SLUMPING MACKS

All Philadelphia Plugging in Physchological Effort.

(From Philadelphia Ledger)

What's wrong with the A's? That question has been thrown at us by word of mouth, dirctly and over the telephone, and also by letter, until, frankly, we're sick and tired of hearing it.

It had reached the point where we were "coming back" at our inquisitors curtly and with no attempt to conceal irritation, "Don't know. Do you?" Which is no nice way to act!

But here's the funny thing about it—allt he while this r eporter knew what was wrong with the Athltics. And so did you, and you, and thousands of other yous.

One word provides the answer—SLUMP. It is positive waste of time to look for any other reasons for the disastrous tour of Mack's nine through the West.

What is a slump? That is a timely question. Briefly, a slump may be defined as a lessening of the old fighting spirit. Confidence falls way below par.

Yes, the A's are in a slump. That will be unanimously admitted. It was a former baseball star who brought us to our senses. He wrote:

"As an old ball player I am familiar with slumps and know how hard it is to get out of them. They are the result of a few losses; then the old fighting spirit sags.

"The A's have the ability to beat Washington or any other team in the American League — provided their drooping spirits can be revived.

* * *

Then the former diamond star, who declines to permit his name to be used, suggested a remedy.

Pat on the Back May Chase Hoodoo

"You know we all like a pat on the back," he continued. "Cheers encourage us. Why not start a movement of fans, thousands of them, sending letters of encouragement to the Athletics

"I don't mean soft-soap letters. I do mean letters designed to make them fight. Long letters are unnecessary.

"Just baseball parlance, such as: 'Rock 'em and sock 'em!'

"'We're with you; fight to the finish!'

"The Mack boys will fight, I am sure, if they know that we're behind them and trying to help them."

This letter resulted in the publication in yesterday's Sunday Public Ledger of an appeal to the baseball fans of Philadlphia to start a "letter shower."

It is hoped that by this time so many letters have been mailed to the Athletics in Washington that a truck will be required to cart them to their hotel headquarters.

WORLD SERIES LIKELY DATES

Open at Pittsburgh Probably on October Sixth or Seventh.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The time-honored toss for world's series dates, one of the important and much awaited preliminaries of other years, will not figure in the arrangements for the series to be played five weeks hence. It will not be necessary.

According to a ruling made during the February meetings of the major leagues the series of rotation is now in force. That means that the National League pennant winner will be at home for the first, second, sixth and seventh games, if such are necessary. The American League pennant winner will be at home for the third, fourth and fifth games.

Some time must elapse before the dates are officially confirmed by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis but it requires little guessing with certain facts known. This is the arrangement that may be classed not only probable, but next to certain:

Senators Vs. Pirates.

At Pittsburgh—Oct. 7, 8, 11, 13.
At Washington—Oct. 9, 10, 11.

Mackmen Vs. Pirates.

At Pittsburgh—Oct. 6, 7, 11, 12.
At Philadelphia—Oct. 8, 9, 10.

The above arrangement gives Washington a game on Sunday, which is not possible in a series between Mackmen and Pirates. Furthermore, it provides a Sunday for travel between visits if Philadelphia gets into the series, rather than having the Sunday as an off day while the clubs remain in one city.

The Giants are not mathematically out of the running, but the seven-game handicap, with only twenty-four more games on the McGrawmen's schedule, is enough to eliminate them from serious consideration now. If the Pirates only break even in their remaining thirty-two games they will finish with ninety-two victories against fifty-two defeats. The Giants, to offset this playing, would have to win twenty of twenty-four to finish with ninety-three victories against sixty-one defeats.

NO RELENTING BY RUTH'S BOSS

Huggins Refused Yesterday to Discuss Suspension—Leaves Him Cooling Outside.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press). — Despite his conciliatory moves and offer to apologize for his criticism of Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, Babe Ruth will not be reinstated for at least several days, if then, according to an announcement late yesterday by Huggins.

Ruth, penitent and subbdued after the stormy outburst that followed his suspension and $5,000 fine in St. Louis for "misconduct off the field," made a vain effort to conciliate Huggins after he had first made some headway in a peace offer to Colonel Jacob Ruppert, club president, who sought to bring the manager and player together.

Huggins, however, refused a conference with Ruth when they met in the club-house before Tuesday's game with the Red Sox. The manager announced he would take no action for at least two days and probably longer, insisting that Ruth must come to a full realization of his errors before seeking reinstatement.

Colonel Ruppert expressed confidence that Ruth would make his peace with Huggins but declared the matter rested entirely in the manager's hands.

Talk in baseball circles centred on the proposition of whether Ruth would be able to make his peace with Huggins. The home run hitter was quoted in St. Louis despatches of the previous day, with charging many failures of the Yankees to Huggins and in general assailing his leadership. Taking these declarations into consideration, as well as the Babe's general demeanor both before his illness this last spring and since, it was the belief among baseball men that Ruth would have to do some tall explaining before he reached a thorough understanding with Huggins.

One other trouble that seemed looming for Ruth was more or less spiked Monday by Mrs. Ruth. This concerned the statement that she contemplated a $100,000 action for separate maintenance against her famous husband, but she categorically denied that she has instituted, or was preparing to institute, any such action.

Lives Like Sultan.

It looks as though the Bambino had finally hanged himself. Among the multitude of things he has said since Huggins suspended him he has failed to include a statement of how he will make $52,000 a year or anything like it if he doesn't play ball for Miller Huggins.

Since he became the highest salaried star of the baseball brigade, Ruth has developed very expensive habits.

He has been the Sultan of Swat and he has lived like a Sultan.

In the contract which Ruth signed with the Yankee club there are clauses regarding discipline which Ruth has violated reneatedly, according to Huggins. The same contract provides that the player is subject to suspension without salary up to thirty days and a "reasonable" fine for a violation of these rules of discipline.

The fine of $5,000 which Huggins has assessed upon Ruth has drawn the fire of the home-run hitter as "unreasonable." It is undoubtedly the heaviest fine that has been thrust upon any ball player of ancient or modern times, but, as the club officials point out, Ruth has drawn the largest salary of any ball player of ancient or modern times.

A small fine would mean nothing to him. He could peel a few bills from a thick roll and go on his way rejoicing. The peeling of $5,000 from the thickest bankroll in the world would be distinctly noticeable.

It looks as though the Babe had worked himself into a position where he has to surrender or to quit. He certainly will not quit. Colonel Ruppert is prepared to hand Ruth the same terms that General Grant sent to General Lee, unconditional surrender. It seems the only way out for that brilliant but erratic star, G. H. Ruth.

His stories of women "admirers" are profuse. Possibly one of the most sensational came to light in a suit by Dolores Dixon that he was the father of her child. Later she "relented" and did not sue.

He had been seen many times with Bee Palmer, the girl who had been snatched from Chicago's "back-o'-the-yards" district to attain fame as a shimmy dancer. Beautiful, blonde and rather stauesque, Bee and the athletic Ruth made a splendid looking pair. They were seen frequently at the old Marigold Gardens in Chicago.

And the latest rumor along Broadway links Ruth with Rose Davis, assistant treasurer of the Maxine Elliott Theatre. Miss Davis denies that last season Ruth gave her an expensive mink coat. Monday she laughed:

"I work, and can afford to buy my own coats—I suppose you think the diamond ring I have in the office safe is from him, too."

"Is it an engagement ring?"

She answered by saying:

"We are only friends. I know his wife, too. Yes, I have heard that she is seeking a divorce."

Breakdown Is Recalled.

All baseball fans know of Ruth's recent sensational breakdown. He was brought here to St. Vincent's Hospital and the story went about that his illness had been caused by excessive drinking and carousing.

While at St. Petersburg, Fla., during training, he was reported to have been spending money and drinking heavily. Once his wife slapped his face when he bet $1,000 on a dog race. Another time the wife of a famous golf player slapped his face at a country club dance.

Ruth is thirty-one. He entered organized baseball in 1914.

DUCKS WARY IN OMEMEE WATERS

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN.

OMEMEE, Sept. 1.— The stillness of the early September morning was rudely shattered, as was also the slumbers of many villagers on Tuesday, when the shot guns of the sportsmen in and around Omemee were heard in their annual wild duck hunt. The results were far from satisfactory. Many gunmen returned home without having fired a shot or caught sight of a bird, while others report that a number were brought low, only to be lost in the rice beds of the Pigeon river.

School Bell Rings Again.

The old school bell, which has called many generations of reluctant students back to work after a long and joyous vacation, again sounded the call on Tuesday morning and many eager young faces responded to the call.

The excitement of three new teachers in the school caused considerable comment among the scholars, which to the average adult was decidedly amusing.

Miss G. M. Meredith, of Peterborough, who has been the assistant High school teacher for the past two years is now principal, with Miss Keough, of Vanleek Hill, as assistant. Mr. Curtis, who has been teaching at Coboconk, is engaged as principal of the Public school, while Miss Young, of Deseronto, is assistant. All teachers come highly recommended and their success will be looked forward to with interest.

STONY LAKE NEWS.

STONEY LAKE, Sept. 1.—A most enjoyable afternoon tea was held at Juniper Island Pavilion, on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 22, given by the regatta and sports committee, and attended by a large number of the cottagers from all over the lake. Tea was served from a long beautifull arranged table, decorated with vases of yellow daisies. Mrs. J. M. Gouinlock, the wife of the popular secretary-treasurer, poured tea at one end of the table, and Miss Morrow performed the same service at the other end. A bevy of pretty girls dispensed the refreshments, which were dainty and delicious, and a very happy time was spent by all. Mr. J. R. Dodsworth, the chairman of the committee, addressed the guests, and expressed the hope that a proper club might in time be formed, which would take care of all sports, etc., besides being a comfortable place, for those who do not care for dancing, to meet their friends. Mr. Dodsworth also paid a tribute to the energetic work of Mr. Gouinlock, who has not spared himself at all in working for the best results in all the Juniper Island events for 1925.

As the schools open on Monday, September 1, this week end will see a grrat many cottages closed. The young people in this vicinity have something in the way of a recreation place and camping paradise, which is second to none in Ontario.

OUIMET DEFEATED.

Two Canadians Also Out of U. S. Golf Tourney.

OAKMONT, Pa., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press). — Sixteen candidates for the national amateur golf championship were chosen yesterday on the Oakmont Country Club course, but only after seven men, tied at 158 in the qualification tests, had fought a heart-rending battle over two extra holes to determine which two would be thrown out of the competition.

Francis Ouimet, former national open and amateur champion, was the first to fall in this unparalleled event in United States golf, and then, supported by the arms of friends, he wandered along dazedly behind the gallery in the wake of the survivors, and saw H. L. Wintringer, of Steubenville, Ohio, go down to defeat. Ouimet's passing was the sensation of a day that had kept watchers on edge.

Don Carrick, of Toronto, Canadian amateur champion, with 80 yesterday and 160 for the two rounds, and Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., who turned in an 82 yesterday for 165, were outside the qualifying score.

Among those thwarted by Oakmont's sands were five amateur champions of the past—Bob Gardner, Max Marston, Davy Herron, Chick Evans and Ouimet. Without them the tournament will lack the colorful veterans and pay tribute to a half-dozen newcomers hovering about the age of twenty.

WALTER SMAILL NAMED.

Former Coach of P.A.A.A. Suggested as Head of Union.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 2.—It was learned yesterday that a quiet movement is under way for the organization of a professional hockey players' union. It is understood that the man who has started the idea and who would be first in line for the presidency of such a union should it materialize is Walter Smaill, well-known as a former hockey star and trainer who spent a lot of time on the Pacific Coast and who is now back in Montreal. Those "in the know" are reluctant to say what players have been approached and what their idea of a union is.

WAR OFFICE IS RAISING POLICE

Labor Herald Says Force is to Ensure Victory For Employers.

TO MEET STRIKE.

LONDON, September 2. — Canadian Press. — The war office is raising secretly and for undefined purposes a new police force to be controlled by the army.

The Daily Herald claims to have documentary proof of this and the Labor organ asks in large type — "Are not all these preparations being made to ensure victory for the employing classes in their forthcoming offensive against the workers' standard of living?"

Whatsoever the purpose for which the War Office is raising these volunteers, the facts given by the Herald are correct. It is probable that the new move of the government is dictated by fears of a general strike, which was postponed by the subsidy given a month ago to the coal trade, but which may come next May

PROTEST WILL BE HEARD TO-MORROW

Central Ontario League Sub-Committee is to Meet at Belleville.

Peterboro's protest, arising out of Saturday's game at Kingston, will be heard before the sub-committee of the Central Ontario League at a meeting to be held at Belleville at 1.30 to-morrow afternoon.

The Petes claim that they have a clear case inasmuch as the ground rules limited a hit into the crowd between the foul flag and the plate to two bases.

The Kingston contention that the rule applied to left field, and not to right, arises from a misunderstanding. Up to the ninth inning of Wednesday's game a player was entitled to as many bases as he could make on a ball going into the cars or crowd BEYOND the foul flag. But, By the ninth inning the crowd had encroached much furthtr in right field and there was an agreement that on a ball going into the crowd—beyond the flag—a three base hit would be allowed.

The rule on hits going into the crowd between the flag and the plate remained unchanged and was in force on Saturday.

CHANNEL THWARTS GIRL'S AMBITIONS

Gertrude Ederle's Second Attempt May Be Abandoned.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Sept. 2—The English Channel is likely to remain inviolate this year, and Miss Gertrude Ederle's second attempt will have to be postponed until 1926.

Such is the conclusion which the experts, including Burgess, Miss Ederle's trainer, reached after watching the Channel under the whip of westerly gales, perform antics on the first of September which are generally held over until the winter season is in full sway.

Burgess officially announced last evening that even should the wind abate during the night, as is customary, the sea would be running so high today as to make any channel swim out of the question.

Mountainous waves washing the foot of Gris-Nez Lighthouse and the sight of sturdy seaworthy Channel boats wallowing through heavy seas appear to make it certain that the Channel has won the 1925 innings.

CROWS INVADE WESTERN COAST

B. C. Game Board Withdrew Bounty and Black Pests Are Increasing.

DRIVE OUT GULLS

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—An invasion of crows is stirring the British Columbia game board to take vigorous action with a view to reducing their number.

Not long ago there was a bounty on crows, at first amounting to ten cents a head and later to twenty. The bounty was withdrawn and at present there is no incentive for shooters to rid the country of the black-feathered menace. Sportsmen are now urging the game board to resume payment of the bounty.

Not only are the cows proving a nuisance to farmers by pillaging crops and robbing stock of its feed, but thy are endangering the seagull populatoin of the coast as well according to the petitions of the game board. They are increasing rapidly and in some districts they have appeared in such great numbers that sea birds have been forced away from the colonies in which they once held full sway.

There was a time, according to experienced hunters, when the Indians were the worst menace to seagulls and other sea birds, for the natives used to rob their nests of eggs, which they regarded as a great delicacy. Now crows are regarded as much more serious.

ERRORS COUNTED IN SNAPPY BALL GAME

Losers Had Only Two Hits, But Almost Tied the Score on Misplays.

In a game of baseball marked by almost as many errors as hits, Drummond's station defeated Villiers last night. A big fourth inning for the Station boys put them in the lead, and from then on no runs were scored. Good pitching by Slattery, who fanned 9, helped the winners, only 5 of whom missed the third strike. The losers could collect only 2 hits.

HAMILTON FOUNDER HAD EXCITING TIME

Was Separated From His Family During American Revolution.

WATFORD, Ont., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—An interesting story is told of the first settler of Hamilton, Robert Lund, whose descendant, Mrs. Mary Jane Stapleford of this place, has just celebrated her 100th birthday. Her direct descendants number 126. Mrs. Stapleford, speaking of Robert Lund, says that he, born on the banks of the Deleware River, took sides with the British when the Revolutionary war broke out. Carrying despatches, he was severely wounded and the same night Indians burnt his cabin. His family searched in vain for him and then followed Loyalists to New Brunswick, while Lund, believing his wife and children murdered by the Indians, fled to Canada. He settled first near Niagara and then, in 1778, taking up 300 acres on the site of Hamilton. Several years later his family moved to Niagara and heard of Lund, walked to Hamilton, and found the long-lost father.

THEATRES

"CODE OF THE WEST" IS A ROARING WESTERN ROMANCE

Flapperism comes in for a sound spanking and jazz receives a knockout blow in Paramount's "Code of the West," which Lucien Hubbard adapted and Willam K. Howard produced from the Zane Grey novel of the same name.

The direct and drastic methods of the West were never better illustrated than in this absorbing photoplay in which a sturdy son of Arizona teaches a flapper daughter of New York the A-B-C of living and loving.

The young westerner, unused to the ways of the East, falls an easy victim to the charms of Georgie, who flirts outrageously with him, but laughs at him when he proposes to her. The realization that she has only been playing with him infuriates Cal and he forces her to marry him.

This is the beginning of an unusual series of events that reach a terrific climax during the height of a roaring forest fire. The manner in which Georgie and Cal escape paving the way to their ultimate reunion provides several mightly thrills, and some great dramatic moments.

Owen Moore has the strong role of the cowboy-caveman, and Constance Bennett gives a good account of herself as the flighty, flirty flapper. Others in the cast are Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle and David Butler.

"Code of the West" comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

SMALL BUT UNUSUAL CAST IN "THE UNHOLY THREE"

"The Unholy Three," an exceptional crook drama replete with heart interest, directed by Tod Browning for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and now being shown at the Capitol Theatre, has a small but unusual cast.

Mae Busch, who portrays the leading romantic role, is the featured player and opposite her appears Matt Moore, one of the most popular leading men of the screen.

The crook trio is interpreted by Lon Chaney, famous character actor and make-up artist; Victor McLagen, one of the best known leading men on the English screen, and Harry Earles, a midget who is making his first appearance on the screen. Each of the last three plays a dual role, thus giving the cast a much larger appearance.

AT THE ROYAL

RAY GRIFFITH FUNNIER THAN EVER IN 'NIGHT CLUB'

Directed by Same Man Who Made Lord Chumley and Miss Bluebeard.

He idolized one girl and then when she left him at the altar rail he swore off all women—until he met the other "most beautiful girl in the world," anyway.

That's the way we find Raymond Griffith, Paramount's high-hat comedy star in "The Night" Club, which will be the feature at the Royal Theatre on Thursday. Griffith is featured in the cast with Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda.

"The Night Club," written for the screen by Walter Woods from William de Mille's stage play, "After Five," is a story of a young idealist, who finds himself heir to a cool million, and all he has to do to collect is to marry a certain girl. But that's the catch, for Robert White (Ray Griffith) has just convinced himself that he can get along quite well without association with the charming sex, especially since he was "stood up" by the "only girl" on his wedding day.

But then, circumstances alter cases and when Bob sees the girl in question, it's a different story entirely. He makes some crack about it being an easy way to make a million by marrying the girl. Edith Henderson (Miss Reynolds) overhears him and comes to the conclusion that here is one fortune-hunter who is going to get stung.

Bob is completely taken back when he learns what Edith thinks of him and decides to show her that he don't give a whoop about the money by taking his life, in which event the million would go to the girl, according to the will.

Try as he will, every time Bob attempts to make a dramatic exit from the picture the thing turns into a farce and only tends to make him the more ridiculous in Edith's eyes. As a last resort he bargains with Diablo (Beery), a Spaniard, to kill him before witnesses. In the meantime, White patches things up with Edith and then, when he sees Diablo approaching he almost passes out completely.

You start laughing with the first reel of "The Night Club" and never let up for a single minute till the final fade-out. You haven't seen a thing in screen comedies till you've seen this one.

AT THE GRAND

THE GEORGIA MINSTRELS

A new theatrical season was ushered in at the Grand last evening with a sparkling performance by Rosco and Hockwald's Georgia Minstrels, a colored aggregation who surprised a large audience by the snap and cleverness of their production. The Georgia Minstrels proved an all star galaxy with fine soloists and effective ensemble singing, plenty of fun, an olio full of clever vaudeville features and above all the best al round exhibition of eccentric and acrobatic dancing that Grand patrons have seen in many a season. Most attractions of this kind are satisfied with a pair or two of good dancers, but last night's company seemed to be all accomplished in this department, and their clear cut work made a big hit.

The first part was notable not only for the excellence of the dancing but for some splendid vocal numbers as well. J. Nelson Anderson especially scored as a solist, while the end men were consistently funny both in their songs and in their comedy work.

The orchestra, directed by George Bryant, offered valuable assistance.

The olio offered several outstanding numbers, the eccentric dancing act of Westley and Sibley being a sensation that earned encores for both members. The Radio Four delivered some much appreciated harmany and Talking Tim Owsley was heard in an unusual monologue. Johnny Woods proved a ventriloquist of much cleverness and with up-todate-methods that put his act over most effectively.

The closing skit "A Trip to Hades," written by two members of the company, was a fitting finale to a fine minstrel performance.

SOFTBALL NOTES.

Armstrong's Garage certainly started the month off right when they put the Brinton Carpet Company away in a nine-inning game. The Armstrong crew are just beginning to come into the limelight in the softball series. Last night was an exhibit of airtight ball, both teams having few breaks. Considering that it was the second time only that the Armstrong crew had ever played together, they deserve a lot of credit for beating a well-organized softball team such as the Brinton Carpet, the score being 12-9.

MOVING VAULT NO LIGHT TASK SAY WORKMEN

Absorption By Royal Bank of Union Holdings Provides Labor.

"SAFE" BUT SLOW.

Big Bay Team Finds That 6 1-2 Tons is No Play Thing.

Among local or visiting safe crackers who might have chanced to view the ponderous vault reposing in solitude on the corner of Simcoe and George streets at noon to-day, may have been afflicted with a visitation of the itching palm and a great desire to finger the bolts and combination of that big box.

It is quite probable however that had conditions been ideal for such an attack it would have been profitless as there were no treasures reposing within its thick tempered walls.

The removal of the mammoth six and a half ton steel safe from the premises of the Union Bank, and its subsequent hike up George street to the Royal Bank on the corner of Hunter, was a part of the absorption programme under which the latter institution is assimilating the business and employees of the Union Bank.

Yesterday the official announcement of the transaction was made known. This morning the building which had housed the institution known as the Union Bank, had lost its identifying features, and the furniture was crated preparatory to sending it back to the Specialties frm which provded it. As the vault was of a large and more modern type it was decided to retain that for the Royal Bank instead of the safe which was on the premises.

The task of removing the steel case has been undertaken by the Cooney & Jopling Company, and they have found a job which taxes their ingenuity and at the same time the pulling power of their big bay team. This morning when they had the vault nearly out to Simcoe street, one of the horses pulled a shoe and the driver was forced to take them to the blacksmith for the necessary plate.

The whole morning elapsed before the weighty case reached George street. That advance was made by dint of much straining of horses, heaving by men with pinch bars and careful manipulation in order to keep the wheels upon the boards in order that the pavement might not be damaged.

CONSOLATION

Not dead—oh, no! but borne beyond the shadows
Into the full, clear light;
For ever done with mist and cloud and tempest,
Where all is calm and bright.

Not even sleeping — called to glad awakening
In Heaven's endless day;
Not still and moveless — stepped from earth's rough places
To walk the King's highway.

Not silent—just passed out of earthly hearing
To sing Heaven's sweet, new song
Not lonely—dearly loved and dearly loving
Amid the white-robed throng.

Be not forgetful—keeping fond remembrance
Of dear ones left awhile;
And looking gladly to the bright reunion
With hand clasp and with smile.

Oh, not, not dead! but past all fear of dying,
And with all suffering o'er;
Say not that I am dead when Jesus calls me
To live for evermore.

WEDDING BELLS.

A very pretty wedding took place at 4.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, September 1st, at the home of the bride, when Miss Laura E. Jentzen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jentzen, of 75 French Street, Buffalo, N.Y., was united in marriage to Mr. J. Ralph Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner, of 313 Boswell Avenue, Peterboro. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Rettig, under a canopy of pink and white. This was the general color scheme throughout the house, the floral decorations being pink gladioli and roses.

The bride wore a gown of cream silk embroidered net, trimmed with rhinestones, over pale pink pussy-willow taffeta, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and gypsophila. The bridesmaid was Miss Ida Elsaesser, wearing pink georgette, and carrying pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Cecil Fallis, formerly of Peterboro. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, covers being laid for fifty guests. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner, of Peterboro.

After an extended trip throughout western New York, Mr. and Mrs. Turner will reside in Buffalo.

Chief Thompson Testifies That Mrs. Janisse Admitted Firing Shot.

LOVED McMULLEN.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—After a short preliminary hearing to-day, Mrs. Ruth A. Janisse, 28 years old, of La Salle, was committed for trial by Magistrate W. E. Gundy for the murder of Clayton McMullin, young Windsor battery service station proprietor, on the night of August 13.

Chief Thompson further declared that Mrs. Janisse did not know then McMullin was dead. "She appeared anxious about his condition, and told me she was very much in love with him," he concluded.

TWO ACCIDENTS NEAR BURNBRAE

Cars Hit Buggies, Causing Bruises to Occupants and Damage to Vehicles.

NO ONE KILLED.

BURNBRAE, Sept. 2.—Motor accidents are a common occurrence these days and Burnbrae district is not escaping. On Friday last Arnold Fair, who is holidaying at the home of Robt. Cleugh, while driving Mr. Cleugh's car, collided with a buggy occupied by Mr. James Meiklejohn. Fortunately no serious damage was done.

A more serious accident took place on the sixth concession on Saturday evening, when Wilbert Whitton's car crashed into a horse and buggy driven by Mr. Herrington, town line, who was accompanied by his wife and small children. It seems that Whitton's view was obstructed by a cloud of dust raised by a preceding car and when he did observe the buggy there was no time to stop, with the result that the buggy was a total wreck, the harness badly broken and the front wheels of the car damaged. The occupants of the vehicle were thrown out and sustained some painful bruises, but no one was killed.

SURGEONS CAN'T HANDLE THEIR OWN SHOE LACE

George Bernard Shaw Makes Caustic Comment on British Medical Council.

A LAUGHING STOCK.

Knows Less About Science Than Miners' Federation Knows of Geology.

DUBLIN, Sept. 3 (Canadian Press).—George Bernard Shaw delivers a characteristically caustic attack upon the British General Medical Council in a letter to The Irish Times supporting the Free State Government's decision to sever the Irish medical profession from the British Council, a decision which has cause great controversy in Ireland.

Asserting that some of the surgeons registered in England "are hardly dextrous enough to manipulate their own shoe laces," he continues:

"The General Medical Council has about as much to do with science as the Miners' Federation—a much more enlightened and up-to-date body—has to do with geology and minerology. Even in the medical world, which is not the scientific world, it has no pre-eminence and in Europ. and America it is a laughing stock."

BRITISH ACCUSED OF STAGING BIG DEMONSTRATION AGAINST TURKS TO INFLUENCE DECISION ON MOSUL

Tewfik Pasha Tells League That Manoeuvres Were Meant to Exert Pressure.

DISCUSS MOSUL.

British Reply With Charge of Boundary Violations By Turkey.

GENEVA, September 3. — Canadian Press. — The Turkish attack on Great Britain, alleging that British airplanes and airships have been engaged in demonstrations against Turkish territory marked the opening of the discussion of the Mosul question to-day before the council of the League of Nations which is to decide whether Mosul shall go to Great Britain or Turkey.

The Turkish Foreign Minister, Tewfik Rushdi Pasha, charged the British with staging these demonstations as a threat and to exert pressure in connection with the settlement of the Mosul problem.

The British Colonial Secretary, Lt. Colonel L. C. Amery, denied that Great Britain was seeking to influence the council and repudiated the Turkish charges of military and naval demonstrations.

He asserted that the manoeuvres in the Mediterranean were normal peacetime practices, not directed against Turkey, and that no British airplanes had passed over the disputed district.

The Turks, however, he charged, had been violating the provisional Mosul boundary.

Col. Amery announced that Great Britain was ready to accept a 25 year mandate over Irak (Mesopotalia) including Mosul. This was the first of three recommendations returned by the League's commission of inquiry, the alternatives being to give Mosul to Turkey or to divide the area between Turkey and Irak.

The British spokesman insisted that the union of Mosul with Irak must not interfere with the present treaty between Irak and Great Britain. He read a telegram from the government of Irak expressing a desire to continue in alliance with Great Britain.

After the exchange between the Turkish and British spokesmen the council adjourned until this afternoon.

OSHAWA PARTY INSPECTS CITY

Visitors Were Impressed By Efficiency of Municipal Utilities.

TIMED FIREMEN.

A deputation from Oshawa consisting of Mayor Schell with the City Engineer and a number of Aldermen visited Peterborough yesterday and inspected the waterworks and filtration plant and were shown over the new sewage disposal plant by R. H. Parsons.

They also visited the Fire Hall and inspected the staff and equipment. Later in the day as a demonstration of the efficiency of the Fire Department, His Worship Mayor Turner sent in a fire alarm from the box at the corner of George and Smith Streets, and the entire party computed the time taken by the firemen to cover the distance. The chief arrived on the spot within 2¼ minutes, the hose following three quarters of a minute later. The call was entirely unexpected and the prompt response of the Fire Department was an eloquent testimony to the visiting party of the speedy qualities of the fire fighters.

The Oshawa men were all greatly impressed by the high standard of efficiency attained by the public utilities of this city.

MORE SEAMEN LEFT VESSELS

Further Flare-up Just When Strike Was Thought a Failure.

RELIEF MEN RUSHED.

LONDON, Sept. 3. — (Canadian Press).—Just as British ship-owners had begun to believe that the unofficial strike of seamen was disintegrating because of their ability to man the vessels on which the crews had struck with substitute forces, another flare-up took place last night, when the men on cross-Channel boats leaving Southampton went ashore.

Early this morning, several trainloads of relief seamen were being rushed to Southampton in order to keep shipping moving. Substitute crews already have been arranged for several steamers scheduled to sail to-day.

In Australia and South Africa, the men on numerous British vessels are still out.

LONDON, Sept. 3—Porridge, of the real Scotch variety, is going to be provided for members of Parliament in the wee small hours of the morning.

David Kirkwood, the vigorous Scotch member, has induced the House of Commons Kitchen Committee to provide "parritch" on the menu every night after nine o'clock. Kirkwood will supervise the making of the porridge, to see that it is done in the true Scotch fashion. The introduction of porridge will lean to economy, Kirkwood says, for after a six-penny plate of porridge no member will have an appetite left for an expensive dinner.

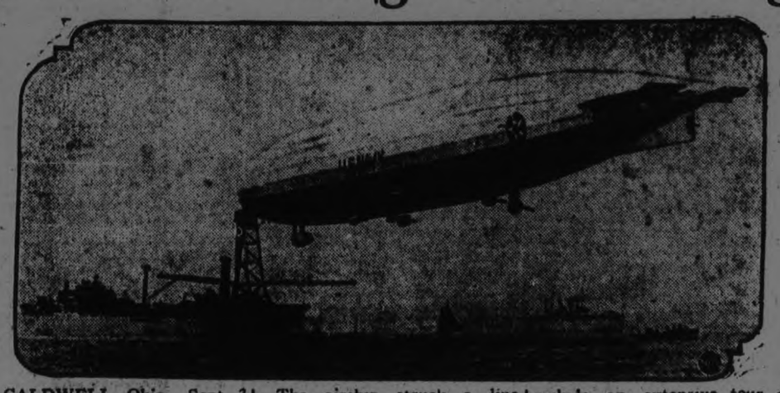
Shenandoah Breaks in Storm Over Ohio Village This Morning



CALDWELL, Ohio, Sept. 3 (Canadian Press).—The giant dirigible Shenandoah of the United States navy is no more. It went down in three pieces here early today and killed its commander Zachary Lansdowne and at least twelve of the officers and men making up her crew.

The airship struck a line squall—the variety of storm most feared by airmen—shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, near a Noble County village while travelling at an altitude of 3,000 feet en route from Lakehurst, N.J., to the West.

The Shenandoah was on a flight that had been intended to include an extensive tour of the Middle West. She left Lakehurst, N.J., yesterday afternoon.

All in Cabin Killed.

BELLE VALLEY, Ohio, Sept. 3—(Canadian Press). — Thirteen officers and enlisted men, including Commander Zachary Lansdowne and Commander Hancock, were killed in the crash of the Shenandoah early today, according to information assembled here. According to C. L. Archer, operator of a gasoline station here, who said he had visited the scene of the crash, thirteen dead were found in the controller cabin of the ship.

Archer said that the major portion of the balloon, about six hundred feet in length, had landed two miles east of Ava. The controller cabin, according to Archer, landed about half a mile east of the balloon proper and it was here that the thirteen dead were found. Every man in the cabin was killed, Archer said.

Machinists mates, O'Sullivan, Bradley, Broon, Mazzucco also were listed as dead in the compilation made here, and Lieut. Shepard and Machinists' mate Culbaun were listed as missing.

Almost an hour before the big ship was broken into two sections she had appeared over Cambridge. For approximately three quarters of an hour the big blimp was seen to circle over the city, apparently in distress. While the ship was over the city a windstorm came up, according to observers, and the craft was said to have turned over partially on her side as she drifted southward in a moderately strong blow.

Shortly after the first section came down to earth at Ava, doctors and undertakers at Cambridge, Byesville and Pleasant City were called and immediately proceeded to the scene. It was some time later when word came from Sharon that a section had descended at that point.

BRICKLAYER AT THE CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. APPLY TO I. R. JAS. FINNEY, CONTRACTOR. 2456 1913

WEATHER

After a long-continued period of dry weather, the much-desired rain came last evening and continued on into the night. It was a generous rainfall, totalling .62 of an inch, and was the only good rainfall that we have had since August 1st and 2nd. True we had a light rainfall on the 10th, and minor sprinkles several days after, but not a drop has fallen since Aug. 14th. The lack of rainfall was apparent all around in parched and browned condition of lawns, parks and pastures. Whil the city resident has his lawn sprinkler, it is a poor substitute for nature, and the water from the nozzle lacks the fertilizing ingredient (nitrogen) which is extracted from the atmosphere as the rain falls. This rain will revive the pastures, freshen the whole country side, extinguish the many forest fires, and be an all-round blessing.—W. P.

ALNWICK RATES FIXED FOR YEAR

ROSENEATH, September 3 — Alnwick township council met in the town hall, Roseneath, on Saturday, August 29th, with Reeve Mouncey in the chair and all the councillors present.

A communication was read from P. S. Ewing, Warkworth, reminding the council to collect certain telephone bills in the regular taxes. This was received and fyled.

One was also read from W. H. Smith, agricultural representative for Northumberland, asking for an increase of the grant from $15 to $25 toward the school fair. Mr. Smith said that if this was done they could increase the prize list. This school fair has been held on the agricultural grounds, Roseneath, and has been a decided success It is a great day for the children when they exhibit their fruit, cooking and many other things, and is also a great education for the coming generation

Much discussion took place in regard to Roseneath school, which has two rooms, and is by far the largest school in the district, exhibiting as one school, and on motion of Councillors Braithwaite and Parker, the clerk was instructed to write to Mr Smith in regard to this complaint

Councillors Parker and Timlin and Reeve Mouncey were in favor of granting $2000 to the school fair and as this was a majority a motion to that effect carried

Councillor Braithwaite thought that $15 was sufficient while Councillor Brown was not in favor of giving anything as he did not think the school fair did any good

Mr. James Lamey was given a grant of $150 towards repairing West's Hill Half of this will be paid by Percy Council as the road in question is on the boundary line.

The main item of the meeting was the striking of the rates to levy the taxes. The county tax is $400 in excess of last year and also more money has been spent on the roads, consequently the taxes will be considerably higher this year. The following rates were struck:

County rate	8.8 mills
Township rate	6.8 "
Gen. school rate	5.4 "
S. S. No. 1 rate	1.7 "
S. S. No. 2 rate	2.9 "
S. S. No. 3 rate	2.8 "
S. S. No. 4 rate	1.1 "

The reeve was authorised to sign orders on the treasurer for the following amounts:

George Clarke, work on road	$27.50
Roy Beebee, work on road and bridge	44.00
M. Connis, gravel	5.00
Jas Curtis, work on boundary	26.00

A. Braithwaite, cartage	4.70
Kyle Brown, shovelling gravel	2.50
E. Weir, gravel	10.00
E. Crowe, gravel	8.20
H. Comegs, gravel	4.70
B. Spiers, repairing road	4.20
A. Lean, salary as assessor	70.00

INSANE PRINCE NOW IN FRANCE

Prince Ahmed is Thought to Have Crossed on Excursion Boat.

DETECTIVES SEARCH.

LONDON, September 2. Canadian Press. — The multi-millionaire prince Ahmed Seif Ed. Din, brother-in-law of King Fuad of Egypt, who escaped from a private asylum attendant at Hastings on Sunday is now believed to have crossed to Boulogne, from that port on a one day excursion on Sunday afternoon. That is the conclusion reached here after a search by Scotland Yard detectives throughout the country.

This wealthy Oriental was kept in a private asylum in Surrey nearly 25 years—the place to which he was sent on his release from penal servitude in Egypt, to which he was sentenced for a murderous attack on King Fuad.

Burnbrae Unionist Group Also Appoints Delegate to Presbytery.

BURNBRAE, Sept. 3.—The service of the unionist group was conducted on Sunday afternoon by Rev. McIntosh of St. John's Campbelford. After the service a short meeting was held at which Mr. Wm. Rannie was appointed representative to Presbytery in Kingston on September 1.

Rev. D. A. McKenzie has been spending a few days in Hamilton and also visited the exhibition on his return journey.

School reopened for the fall term with Miss Locke in charge of Masson's school, Miss Borland at No. 11 and Mr. Earl Fairman at No. 1, Burnbrae.

DEPUTY SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS WIELDS GAVEL AT PARLIAMENTARY SITTINGS AND HAS POWER SECOND ONLY TO SPEAKER

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and G. N. Gordon Exchange Places Periodically.

SHARE SITTINGS

The Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons is elected at the beginning of each Parliament and holds the office until the dissolution.

The office was originally established in the Imperial Parliament some generations ago on account of the very long sittings which made it a physical impossibility for the Speaker to withstand the strain of sittings lasting all day and, not infrequently, well into the night.

The speakership is an office the origin of which is lost in the mists of antiquity. The first recorded holder of the office was Sir Thomas Hungerford, knight of the shire of Wilts, who was chosen to preside over the deliberations of the infant assembly some time in the thirteenth century. Placed as he was, between a monarch who was practically a despot and a Parliament chafing under unwarranted interferences, the Speaker was in no very enviable position. Outstanding instances of courage and independence of the Speaker in maintaining the rights and privileges of the Commons are to be found in the annals of the reigns of Queen Elizabeth, Charles I. and the time of the uncrowned king—Oliver Cromwell.

Following the traditions and ancient customs of the Mother of Parliaments, the House of Commons at Westminster, the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker is the only channel of communication between the House of Commons and the Upper House, which is in Canada, the Senate. If the Speaker leaves the chair and the Mace—the symbol of authority—is removed, no business can be transacted in the Commons, and sittings are suspended.

Chairman of Committees.

By statute, the Deputy Speaker has all the authority, in the absence of the Speaker, that is vested in the First Commoner. The practice is for the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and G. N. Gordon to exchange places and each occupy the Speaker's chair for about two-hour periods during the sittings. When it happens that a sitting of the House extends all day and through the night, both gentlemen remain within call to be able to share the responsibility of presiding.

By a rule of the House of Commons, the Deputy Speaker is also chairman of three committees which are the largest committees of the House, each of them being comprised of the entire assembly—235 members.

The committee of the whole House deals with every bill and every resolution precedent to a money bill. There are sixteen times in which objections may be raised to a money bill in Parliament; the reason being it is said, that when the determined people of Britain wrested their right to self-government from their kings, they insisted that there should be sufficient periods to debate the king's expenditure—a practice which exists today in the Canadian Parliament.

"Ways and Means" of raising money was in early days the origin of the Committee of Ways and Means, which is made up of all the members of the House. The members sit in this committee in the Commons' chamber and wherever these committees are functioning, Deputy Speaker Gordon may be seen sitting at the head of a very large and very wide table placed in front of the great hooded chair of the Speaker, which is a replica of the Speaker's chair in the House at Westminster and was presented to Canada by the members of the House of Commons and the House of Lords of Great Britain. All matters of taxation come before this committee and when agreed upon are taken to the House in session by the chairman.

On each side of Chairman Gordon sit the members of Parliament. He maintains order, recognizes by a nod members desirous of addressing the committee, and decides points of order raised or draws to a long-winded member's attention the fact that he is "talking beside the question," to use the official term.

Both Kin[illegible] Counsel.

Both Speaker and Deputy Speaker in the present House are lawyers and King's Counsel. In almost every Parliament both Speaker and Deputy are lawyers because all parties have felt it to be essential that presiding officers should be intimately acquainted with the manners of interpretation of statutes, rule of Parliament, and should be able generally to give ruling on matters of legal import.

Both Mr. Lemieux and Mr. Gordon wear the Kings Counsel uniform when performing their duties of office. This is also the practice at Westminster. At the back of the collar of the uniforms used by all officials who are permitted to enter while Parliament is sitting is a curious black silk rosette. This useless appendage frequently excites derisive comment and many questions are asked as to its use or purpose. It is said to have originated many hundreds of years ago in England when all court officials pinned a small pad of cotton waste on the back of their uniform collars to prevent the wax from their wigs soiling their expensive dresses. The custom of using one's rosette has prevailed throughout all Canadian Parliaments, and even now is a distinguishing mark of Parliamentary officers.

The Committee of Supply concerns itself with expenditures for building dams, payments of Post Office expenses and generally passing all amounts needed for the carrying on of the country's business.

The Deputy Speaker as Chairman of these large committees is in charge of affairs over half the time of the Parliamentary session. When he shares the presiding over the House with Mr. Speaker, the time is divided about half and half.

The hours of sitting are between three and six p.m., and from eight to anytime convenient for adjournment, usually shortly after eleven p.m., but at times this convenient period does not arrive until two or three in the morning. In addition to his other duties, the Deputy Speaker as a member of Parliament is a member of various committees which meet nearly every morning from eleven until one.

Must Be Vigorous.

Long hours and close confinement to the Chamber make very severe demands on the health of the Deputy Speaker, that Governments usually elect a strong vigorous member to the office whose powers of endurance are such that he can withstand the lengthy daily ordeal of attendance—like a sentinel on guard over the rights and privileges of the people.

The genial and the popular Deputy Speaker now in charge has listened to innumerable lengthy speeches. And judging from present appearances seems to thrive on the task. Observers from the gallery have noted that he knows every member by name and by constituency, and can readily address all of them individually.

At each side of the Deputy Speaker's table are two large heavily upholstered seats for two other Commons officials, the Clerk and the Assistant Clerk of the House, who keep each other company during the seemingly endless hours of discussion.

Frequently the Right Honorable MacKenzie King, Mr. Arthur Meighen, Sir Henry Drayton or the Honorable G. P. Graham will be seen sitting in the chairs at the desk, chatting in a friendly manner with the Deputy Speaker—who, in accordance with custom does not speak on partisan questions. Usually his speeches are limited to matters that relate to his own constituency and he votes in all matters pertaining to it.

While the Deputy Speaker's hours of toil are long and his duties arduous, the office is one that is very much envied, and it has always been considered a reward for an outstanding lawyer, who has fluency of speech and has a wide knowledge of Parliamentary procedure.

POISONING PLOT AGAINST HUSBAND

Woman Confesses Crime—Blames Boarder in Her Home

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—After a hearing which revealed one of the most sordid stories in the Luzerne County criminal history, Mrs. Emily Nevil and Walter B. Vandermark, both of Harvey's Lake, were committed without bail Tuesday, charged with the murder by poison of Joseph Nevil, the woman's husband, who died last Thursday.

Mrs. Nevil, in a confession, admitted improper relations with Vandermark, and accused him of similar friendships with two of her daughters, one 24 years old and the other 15. She admitted her infatuation for the man, and based it on the allegation that he gave her "love powders."

She stated that Vandermark urged her to get rid of her husband, and told her to buy strychnine, which she did. On last Thursday, she said, she placed the first poison in the tea bottle of her husband's luncheon pail. On the following day, she alleges, Vandermark placed bichloride of mercury tablets in tea served her husband. Vandermark, she decared, also gave her husband bichloride in tea on last Wednesday evening. Vandermark, in his confession, admitted that Nevil was poisoned, but declared it was the act of the woman against his advice.

EXPLOSION HAS NOT PUT DEWEY OUT OF BUSINESS

Owner of Thresher Which Blew Up, Has Re-assembled His Machine.

PLENTY OF WORK.

Word Received in Havelock That Eight More Pupils Have Passed Entrance.

(By a Staff Reporter).

HAVELOCK, Sept. 3. — Charles Dewey has not been put out of business by such an incident as the mysterious blowing up of his threshing machine near Cordova, as reported in The Examiner over a week ago. Mr. Dewey gathered up the scattered fragments, discarding those that were beyond repair, and putting the remainder together again, procuring new parts as required. On Wednesday afternoon he started the renovated outfit on the farm of James McCutcheon, near Belmont Lake, and the machine ran as smoothly and almost as noiselessly as a peg top. The cylinder, taken from another machine to replace the one shattered by the explosion, was taking in oat sheaves as fast as two men could throw them on the feed board, and the grain, which was an excellent sample, rolled out of the spout in such a steady stream that it was all one man could do to shovel it into sacks.

Still a Mystery.

Mr. Dewey says that he is still unable to account for the explosion. With the aid of his brother-in-law, Archie Mathison, of Havelock, who is a practical engineer, and who has been engaged by Mr. Dewey to operate the 18 horse-power engine which drives his machine, he made all the necessary repairs without calling in an outside mechanic. Besides, the damage done to the machine by the explosion Mr. Dewey estimates that he has lost at least $300 through being compelled to remain idle for nearly two weeks. There is, however, a large crop to thresh in the neighborhood in which he started yesterday, and he practically has the field to himself.

Threshermen in Belmont Township charge $2.50 an hour, or $25 for a 10-hour day. This flat rate is less than the pay of threshers who charge by the bushel, and is regarded as low when the time lost in moving heavy outfits from place to place is taken into consideration

Some Explanations.

There are people in Havelock who offer explanations of the accident that befell Mr. Dewey's machine. Some scoff at the idea of dynamite, and declare that an examination of the fragments showed traces of old breaks in the bands intended to strengthen the cylinder. When the latter was sneeded up it flew to pieces, and the effect was similar to that of a dynamite explosion.

The farm on which Mr. Dewey started up operations yesterday is some distance from the one where the accident occurred.

More Pupils Passed.

The entrance examination board for Peterboro County, of which Inspector R. Lees of Peterboro is secretary, met in that city Monday to review the results of the recent entrance examination in Havelock. The result was that eight more pupils were recommended for admission to the Continuation School. Of these, it is expected three will attend High School in other places.

This means that 17 altogether from the public school here have been promoted to take up High School work. Two or three boys, 16 years old or over, who failed at the examination, will likely drop out of school so that the congestion in Principal Yuill's room has been considerably relieved. The schools have re-opened with a large attendance, and with every member of last year's staff re-engaged, and with the different departments of the public school reorganized, there is every prospect of a successful year in both schools.

Rain is Needed.

With the exception of an occasional excessively wet spell during haying and harvesting, conditions for the farmer this season have been ideal up to a few weeks ago, when the dry weather set in. In the early part of August, pasture fields were as green as they usually are in May. Now they have been burned brown by the sun, wells are running dry, and corn intended for the silo has not only been prematurely ripened by the excessive heat, but has been nipped by the frosts. Farmers are now cutting their corn which, if the weather had remained normal, would have grown for some time yet.

Buckwheat, too, the only grain crop left in the fields, has been injured by frost, and under the blazing sun, has ripened too quickly. Some of it is being cut, but the yield will be light.

WOOL INDUSTRY LOST MILLIONS

ANNUAL MEETING

TORONTO, Sept. 3. — For the third consecutive year Canadian Woollens, Ltd., has been unable to present a favorable financial report, though the figures for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1925, show some slight improvement over those for the previous year. Some of the outstanding items follow:

Assets.	1925.	1924.
Cash in bank	$ 13,383	$ 3,426
Bills and accts. rec.	302,110	325,726
Inventories	663,550	712,772
Property, plant and equipment	2,153,715	2,129,867
Processes, trade marks & goodwill	1,440,997	1,440,998
Liabilities.
Borrowed from bank	230,000	.....
Accts. pay.	144,811	302,330
Oper. profits	77,127	134,308
Res. for dep.	708,174	633,317

The stocks of finished goods were reduced to a minimum and now stand at $94,418, as against $164,018 a year ago.

Mr. A. O. Dawson, the president of the company, speaks rather discouragingly of the existing conditions in the woollen trade in Canada.

"For the period intervening since your last annual report," he says, "several additional woollen mills have been compelled to close their doors, after making a brave fight to continue their existence. Some of these mills have been in operation for many years, and their failure has brought series loss and much privation, not only to the stockholders and employees, but also the local centres where these mills are located.

"If the losses made in the last five years by holders of stocks and shares in the woollen mills of Canada could be tabulated, the sum would undoubtedly run into millions of dollars, and unfortunately the immediate outlook gives little promise of improvement. At the present time much machinery stands idle, and those operatives who will remain in the country have to be satisfied with curtailed hours of labor.

"Apparently the change from success to failure is due to the increase in the British preference, and to the ability of countries like France, Belgium and Czecho-Slovakia to dump goods into this country because of their low paid labor, and their greatly depreciated currency.

"The directors express the hope that remedial legislation may be enacted before this industry, which ought to be one of the most prosperous in the country, shall entirely disappear."

THE PARKING NUISANCE.

Complaints of merchants at inconvenience caused to themselves and their customers because of the parking nuisance are apparently all too well founded.

A glance around the business section shows cars parked everywhere, and it is apparent that the problem will have to receive more attention than it has hitherto been given.

The trouble is that too many people are taking advantage of the situation, and some of them are leaving their cars for hours at a stretch at ponits where their presence is a nuisance to business men.

Insistence upon a parking limit in the city's business section and the summonsing of offenders who persistently violate that limit might do much to abate the evil, which is naturally becoming worse as the number of cars in commission increases.

The Council has dealt with this matter at several meetings, but the situation is far from being relieved, and it will be necessary to take further action before an improvement can be looked for.

MUST MAKE A FIGHT.

There is no new principle involved in the resolution passed at the convention of the Ontario Municipal Association yesterday calling upon the Ontario Legislature enabling municipalities to participate in the appointment of motor and gasoline taxes to assist them in the maintenance of highways.

It is merely another step in the fight that has been made by the municipalities against the encroachment of the Province upon municipal rights, an encroachment that grew steadily greater during the Drury regime, and shows no signs of receding under the present Government.

There are many sound reasons why the municipalities should have a share of some of these Provincial levies, particularly those touched upon in the resolution.

The Municipal Association will do well to press those reasons strongly—in the words of Mayor Thomas Foster of Toronto, "give the Government something to think about."

The Province has been successful in its poaching, largely because municipal rulers have failed to make their protests convincing.

They should go into this fight for a share of the gas tax confident in the justice of their case and determined to get what they are going after.

THE SCHOOL SITUATION.

No more striking proof of the fact that more Collegiate Institute accommodation is required could be adduced than the fact that so many pupils have applied for admission into the commercial department of the Institute that sixty pupils will have to be turned away until two more rooms can be provided and two new teachers secured.

The commercial classes are housed in the old South Central School building, given up by the Board of Education as useless for Public School purposes, but pressed back into service again because of lack of room in the Collegiate Institute.

Even with the fitting out of two more rooms the building in which the commercial classes are located is unsuitable for the purpose, and furthermore, the pupils are cut off from the corporate life of the Institute proper and do not begin to get the benefit from their education that they are entitled to as citizens of Peterboro.

Altogether the situation is serious.

The 187 pupils who have already applied to enter the commercial classes will be augmented by a score or more in the next week, and the total registration in academic and commercial classes will pass the 600 mark.

One-third of these are cut off from the main school, receiving their education in a building described by its Principal as "at best a fire-trap."

For those who have had to be sent home temporary accommodation will, of course, have to be provided, but it is obvious that the educational requirements of Peterboro cannot be met with the present plant.

Crowded class-rooms in a school that had outgrown its usefulness for Public School purposes is not the kind of accommodation that Peterboro should have to offer.

THE PREMIER'S GREAT WORRY.

Apparently there have been sessions at Queen's Park in Toronto to see what's gone wrong with the 4.4 business, says the London Advertiser. The Premier fears that there are not enough people gathering around and gurgling down Ferguson's Financial Failure.

It's a puzzle to know whether that brew was brought forth to raise joy or revenue. Some time ago it was reckoned that between the tax on gas and that on beer there would be a buoyant revenue for the Province. The gas section of the plan has functioned, but the beer end has not.

That's why there is activity at Toronto. Premier Ferguson is stumped. When he says that all that's needed is more places to sell it someone rises to say he's all wrong, and that the real need is some one to buy it.

The beer never did have enough spine to carry all the taxes they tied to it. It was tagged like a prize-winning ram at a fall fair. The Ontario Government put on a tax tag of ten cents a gallon; the Ottawa authorities joined and stuck on another ticket marked 12 1-2 excise tax; around its neck was strung still another bearing the inscription sales tax, and on the ear was the last-called two cents per pound on malt. The thing was weighted down like a home-made kite with a sunflower for a tail and a clothesline for string. It would require a hurricane of thirst to lift it up into the branches of the revenue trees. It stuck on the telegraph wire and Premier Ferguson doesn't know whether to get it down or leave it alone.

He does seem convinced that the trouble with the beer as a source of revenue is that not enough people are drinking it. He is hoping for the day when it will be possible to use a tin dipper and scoop it out of a patent pail. Being Premier of Ontario is a job for a great statesman.

BUILT ON SOUND FOUNDATION.

The Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, which is to be held the week after next and continues this year for five days, has made steady and substantial progress, thanks to the vision and enterprise and courage of those who have been associated with its management, and to the fact that the confidence of the people of the whole district has been gained.

The Exhibition has lived up to its promises and met its obligations, and thus its growth has been built upon a firm foundation.

The exhibitor knows that he will receive justice; the grandstand patron knows that he'll get the value of his money.

It is no wonder then that the Directors are confidently looking forward to new records being set up this year both in exhibits and in attendance.

In this latter department the people of Peterboro and the district are on trial; it is their Fair, and whether it marches on to greater things or not depends to a large extent upon the figures recorded at the entrance gates during the five days of the Fair.

The 30,000 mark aimed at for 1925 should be surpassed; the excellence of the Exhibition merits a huge attendance from all over Eastern Ontario.

CUT THEM DOWN.

"The people of the Maritimes are realising, as the rest of Canada must, that the spending of money does not constitute a political policy, and that the weight of taxation has become an intolerable burden."

These are the words of Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Premier-elect of New Brunswick, during the course of an interview in Montreal. Mr. Baxter adds that the Opposition in New Brunswick (led by himself) received the voting support of thousands of Liberals who were dissatisfied with conditions, and that similar dissatisfaction obtains in the Federal field.

As a good Conservative, Mr. Baxter hopes, of ecurse, that there will be sufficient feeling along the lines he mentions to return Mr. Meighen a large showing of members from the Maritime Provinces during the next general election. Quite naturally he does not dwell on the point that, so far as economical trends are concerned, there is not much for the people to choose. When one party is in opposition it preaches economy with the utmost vigor and keeps up a running fire of criticism over the extravagances of the Government of the day. When the Government is turned out, its supporters then begin a similar campaign on the new office-holders. And so it goes on, year after year. Opposition, in other words, always stands for economy, while Government is supposed to mean extravagance.

Many of the charges hurled from opposition benches are, of course, merely eyewash. They are built on nothing in particular and they mean even less. It is very easy to take long columns of figures which total large sums and make blanket charges of extravagance. Few discerning persons are likely to be deceived in this way, however. No matter how great the disposition to economy, everyone appreciates the fact that vast sums of money are required to carry on the necessary routine expenses of government. There are fixed charges of a thousand varieties from which no administration can get away. The war debt, ordinary routine expenditure for administrative purposes, and—in Canada—the annual railway bill are among them.

It must be kept in mind, however, that Governments, generally, lay out far too much money on routine. Expenditures up to a certain point are inevitable. When they go beyond that point they fall into the category of extravagance. Canada, for instance, spends far too much money on its civil service. The service is frightfully overmanned, and the result makes for both extravagance and inefficiency. Obviously, if six men are doing the work that two or three could easily do, the task is not as well done as if the two or three were doing it. And, of course, the cost is twice as much from a salary standpoint.

Canada has, too, an annual railway expenditure that is nothing short of appalling. When it is remembered that the total amount collected through income tax, and millions more, are spent in meeting the expense sheet of the Canadian National, some idea of how serious this situation really is may be secured. That is why business men are urging the Government to take some steps for easing the railway burden that now rests upon the shoulders of the people.

The Dominion spends huge sums unnecessarily every year for the very doubtful privilege of being overgoverned. Our public bodies are too large, too cumbersome, too expensive. We have twice too many members in the House of Commons, twice too large a membership in the Provincial Legislatures, twice too many men in most of our municipal bodies. Yet no one in authority, apparently, has sufficient courage to boldly attack the existing evil and move toward its remedying.

Across the line, President Coolidge has accomplished really wonderful work in reducing expenses and cutting taxes. His efforts have been opposed in influential quarters, but he has allowed nothing to deter him from the definite objective established at the outset of his term. Is it unreasonable, then, for Canadians to ask that some similar move be made in this country?

Canada's governmental expenditures are too high. Canada's taxes are too high. There is a wonderful opportunity here for a Canadian Coolidge.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

Trying to see all the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition in one visit is more difficult than swimming the English Channel.

It is not the Globe's attitude in regard to a general election, but rather the question of when that election is coming that is worrying most people.

Selling 4.4 beer over the bar is surely not expected to increase the amount of "kick" per glass.

The 21st Battalion reunion this month gives Peterboro a chance to honour the record of one of Canada's finest overseas battalions.

Toronto Exhibition is daily breaking its attendance records. Apparently the times cannot be so bad after all.

COURT PROCESS PRODUCES CRIME

The system of criminal procedure in United States' courts to-day is so protective of criminals that it is a major factor in crime production, Chancellor H. S. Hadley, of Washington University, told its criminal laws sections.

The apprehension of criminals and the infliction of adequate punishment are as much as 90 per cent. inefficient, Mr. Hadley said.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 3. — (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices came tumbling down yesterday, whereas corn scored a fresh advance. The Chicago wheat market was said to be relatively the highest wheat market in the world and therefore a target for selling associated with the movement of the new spring crop, Canadian wheat in particular. Corn values were affected by hot, dry weather, and increasing reports of crop damage. Wheat closed heavy, 1 3-8 to 2 3-8 cents lower, December $1.51 to $1.51 1-8, and May $1.55 1-8 to $1.55¼, with corn at 3-4 to 2 1-8 cts. gain, oats ¼ cent up, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

Wheat went downgrade from the outset. Selling ascribed to the North-West told plainly enough regarding increased marketing of spring wheat. Canadian harvest operations were reported to be in full swing under excellent weather conditions, and there was evidence that many farmers in the North-Western States as well as in Canada, were more disposed to let go of holdings. Such selling on the part of the domestic growers was about offset by reports of liberal purchasing on the part of mills and by indications of a good flour business at Minneapolis.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3. — (Canadian Press).—A stronger tone continues on the Canadian egg market with a half-cent price advance reported from Montreal. Although Toronto jobbing prices show no advance, there is a stronger undertone on the market. A car of fresh extras was inspected and is now rolling to Montreal for export to Great Britain.

Toronto steady and unchanged. Jobbing specials 42, extras 39, firsts 36, seconds 33. Country shippers are paying, extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 25. Reports are to the effect that dealers will commence using storage stocks next week.

Montreal: The tone on the egg market is improving, with prices showing a half-cent advance. Sales of extras were made at 41, firsts 38, seconds 34.

Winnipeg dealers paying country points, extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 28.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Sept. 3—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.84 3-4.
Sterling cables, $4.85¼.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3—(Canadian Press).—The trade in cash grain on the Montreal market yesterday was quieter owing to the falling off in the demand from exporters and only sales of odd loads of oats and barley were made at c.i.f. prices Montreal. The car lot movement for domestic account was small, but the tone of the market for oats was steady.

Owing to the continued small offerings for new crop winter wheat, flour from Ontario millers and the light stocks on spot a very firm feeling prevailed in the market, and prices were fully maintained.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—The market continues very slow for the poorer quality unfinished Ontario fed cattle, in competition with large supplies of western light and rough steers. Choice handyweight butcher stuff is wanted, and is comparatively scarce. Choice baby beeves are selling well from $8 to $11, and choice butcher steers and heifers sell readily at from $6.50 to $7.50.

There is a good enquiry for choice quality stockers, around $7 to $7.50 lbs. selling from $4.50 to $5.

Choice feeders, 800 to 900 lbs., up to $6 and $6.50.

There is an oversupply of rough common cattle in the market which are hard to place, but gradually clearing out to the packers at lower prices.

There is an active demand for the small meats, and a moderate supply of choice quality lambs sold strong up to $14.

Calves strong from $11 to $12.

There will be no market on Monday next, Labor Day holiday.

FIND OIL WHERE SUB LAST SEEN

ROME, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The discovery by aviators of a large patch of oil and naphtha on the water between Syracuse and Cape Passero, Sicily, near which the submarine Sebastino Veniero was last seen, has caused virtual abandonment of hope for the recovery alive of her crew of fifty officers and men. The submarine disappeared during the naval manoeuvres off the Sicilian coast last week. The water where the oil patch was discovered is nearly 4,000 feet deep.

OPEN LETTER NO. 3

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

What in the final analysis is the greatest of Canada's assets? What is the one resource without which all her other resources would be worth no more than they were the day Columbus discovered America? Her people, is it not? And particularly young Canadians, who still have their careers before them!

When a young Canadian shows exceptional ability as a scientist, or as a writer, or as an artist, or as a musician, where, unfortunately for Canada, does he all too frequently drift to? Is it not to the United States, where a career of wider scope attracts him and where in consequence more money is to be made from the exercise of his talents?

Or if he shows exceptional ability in any executive capacity, how long is it, after his capabilities have begun to attract notice, before he receives a tempting offer to enter the employ of some United States concern? Is it not true that we have lost literally thousands of our brainiest young men in just that way?

Canada educates these young men at the public expense—brings along a new lot of them every year—for what? For Uncle Sam to take his pick! And the irony of it is that when Uncle Sam gets them he frequently requires them to employ their talents and their energies at tasks that result in injury to some Canadian enterprise!

What is Canada going to do about it? Are we so helpless that we can do nothing? Must we be content to sit by, and let things drift from bad to worse?

Of course, a situation of that kind cannot be changed in a day, nor in a year. But it can be considerably checked in a year! To accomplish that much, all we have to do is to adopt a policy that will narrow the gap between the opportunities—number and size—available to our young men here and the opportunities available to them in the United States.

By going further, by eliminating the gap entirely, we can put a complete stop to the present annual leakage in the greatest of our assets! And once we have done that, we will really have turned the tide the other way, for with the advantage of still being a pioneer country, Canada will herself attract able and enterprising young men from the United States!

You know what that policy is. It's protection for Canadian labour and Canadian industries! For Canada's sake, for the Empire's sake, won't you adopt it?

Yours respectfully,

J. J. GIBBONS,
President.

TRANSCONTINENTAL MOTOR BOAT PARTY FROM CALIFORNIA NOW DESCENDING THE TRENT CANAL

Visited Fenelon Falls Last Evening and Were Invited to Lindsay.

ARE COMING HERE

5,000-Mile Water Journey Will End at New York.

LINDSAY, Sept. 3 (Special to The Examiner).—Fenelon Falls was visited last night by three residents of Los Angeles, California, in the persons of Messrs. Edwin Hoag, F. S. Wilton and Val. Woodbury, who are undertaking the first transcontinental motor boat trip ever attempted. The party was met by His Worship Mayor Graham and other civic representatives, who extended them an invitation to visit Lindsay.

The party left Astoria, Oregon, in May, and planned to reach New York City in ninety days. A special motor boat was built to meet the peculiar requirements of the trip, and the voyageurs set out on the Columbia River on the first 480-mile lap of the 5,000-mile water journey.

From Astoria to St. Louis, Missouri, the boat was taken over the identical route that was travelled by the Lewis and Clark expedition 120 years ago, and by the earliest explorers who penetrated across the continent by way of the St. Lawrence River, the Great Lakes, the Illinois, Mississippi, Missouri, the Snake and Columbia Rivers.

Boat Portaged.

They ascended the Columbia to the mouth of Snake River, and then up the stream to Lewiston, Idaho—the farthest point eastward possible of attainment in the navigable waters of the Pacific watershed. At this point the boat was pulled out of the river and transported across the continental divide to the headwaters of the Yellowstone River at Livingstone, Montana. A fast and furious dash of 600 miles through turbulent waters brought th motor boat tourists into the Missouri River, near Williston, North Dakota. The Missouri was navigated downstream into the Mississippi River into St. Louis.

Entered Great Lakes.

The Mississippi and Illinois Rivers, and the Illinois and Michigan Canal provided access to the Great Lakes, entering Lake Michigan at Chicago. The party then sailed through Lake Michigan, Straits of Mackinac into Lake Huron and Georgian Bay and then into the Trent Canal. After the trip through the canal, they will enter the St. Lawrence and continue the trip to New York.

They have a newspaper representative as well as photographer on board.

The party is expected to spend a short time at Sturgeon Point and will visit Bobcaygeon today. It is understood that they will spend a little time at Peterboro.

A Sturdy Craft.

The craft is 18 feet in length, 5-feet beam, and very deep from keel to gunwales. Its lines are very similar to those of lifeboats commonly carried by the ocean-going steamships. It is built of spruce, over a staunch oak frame, all efforts having been concentrated to produce a vessel having the greatest possible strength and seaworthiness together with shallow draft and light weight. The power plant consists of two two-cylinder Evinrude motors of 4 horse-power each, and driving twin screws. These motors (which are of the outboard type) were chosen because of the ease with which they may be removed from the boat for portaging or for manoeuvring around obstructions to navigation. This type of motor has also the advantage of leaving the entire hull area free for cargo and passengers.

The motors give the craft a speed of about 15 miles per hour in still water, with a cruising radius of approximately 350 miles without refuelling. In addition to the motors, the boat is fitted with an 18-foot mast carrying 250 square feet of sail. The sailing rig is being used only for taking advantage of favorable winds or or propulsion in the event of motor failures.

HOUSEBOAT RETURNED

Seized Last June by O.T.A. Officers at Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press.)— A double-decked houseboat which was was seized near Rockport on June 15 last by prohibition enforcement officers when it was found to contain liquor and which has since been berthed in the local harbor, has been returned by the customs authorities to its owner, Mrs. John O'Brien, of Alexandria Bay, N.Y. Charles O'Brien, of the same place, who claimed ownership of the liquor, is now serving a term in the Ontario reformatory.

It was claimed by the O. T. A. enforcement officers that the houseboat, of United States' registry, was being used as a floating bar-room in Canadian waters. Patronage being derived from sight seeing parties of tourists setting out from Alexandria Bay.

HAVELOCK MAN SEVERELY HURT

ARM MUTILATED.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 3.—Mr. T. P. Lancaster, editor of the Havelock Standard, met with a very serious motor accident while spending his vacation in Pennsylvania, which will confine him to the hospital in Blossburg, Pa., for several weeks. His left arm is broken in two places, one a compound fracture, and the flesh is torn off the back of his hand to the fingernails. The accident occurred when he applied the brakes to his car coming down a very dangerous hill, and it skidded toward a fifty-foot embankment with a river at the bottom. In order to keep from going over the embankment he swung the car quickly to the opposite bank, causing it to overturn.

Mr. E. E. Lancaster, of the Comber Herald, Comber, Ont., is in charge of the Standard Office until his brother is able to assume his duties.

THIRD SHORTAGE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Nearly $5,000 Missing in Accounts of Clerk to Provincial Secretary.

THIRD IN WEEK

HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. 3—Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Premier of Nova Scotia, announced tonight that a shortage amounting to between $4,000 and $5,000 had been discovered in the accounts of a clerk in the Department of the Provincial Secretary of which the premier himself is head. The shortage was discovered by the Montreal firm of auditors now making an independent examination of the public accounts of Nova Scotia, Premier Rhodes said, but the exact amount would not be known for several days.

It was stated by the Premier last night that the matter had been placed in the hands of the Attorney-General. This makes the third shortage announced by the government within a week, resulting from the independent audit of the public accounts, the others being in the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, Kentville, and the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro, of $3,000 each. Only one arrest had been made last night, that of C. R. B. Bryan, accountant of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

Mme. de Brown de Tiege, who has been elected Burgomaster of the village of Wallier, near Dinant, is the first woman in Belgium to hold such a position.

LONDON, September 2. (United Press.) — England is "astonished," to put it mildly, at some of America's huge income tax returns.

Although the Britisher—even the ordinary salaried man—is accustomed to taxes of 25 to 33 1-3 per cent., he is not acquainted with long lists of persons who pay thousands, and even millions of dollars in taxes.

Hence when the returns began pouring into the newspaper offices yesterday thert was a question among some editors as to whether the New York correspondents were sending stories on ("American incomes" or "income taxes."

They thought from the dizzy figures that actual incomes rather than the taxes must be meant, and were surprised to get replies that the statistics only covertd the United States government's share of the gigantic earnings in America.

Europe is more than ever convinced that Americans are "made of moeny."

NO PRIVACY FOR HALIBUT FAMILY

Government Will Pry Into Habits of This Important Fish.

TAGGING SPECIMENS

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Science is endeavoring to find out the secrets of the halibut family.

For years the habits of this important commercial fish have been a matter of considerable mystery, and the government decided that such a great deal depended on a thorough knowledge of the halibut's origin, wanderings and customs that it would be worth while to make an investigation.

The Canadian halibut vessel Sea Maid is now cruising on the halibut grounds off the coast of Northern British Columbia and to those not familiar with the purpose in view its operations are peculiar, for after the fish are caught they are thrown back alive into the water.

When the fish are hauled on board, however, landing nets are used so that the hooks will not mutilate and cripple them. Numbered metal tags are then fastened in the cheek of the halibut or in the flesh close to the base of the tail, The fish are weighed and returned to the sea.

A reward of a dollar a fish is paid by the government for the return of all tagged fish, the object of the tagging being to ascertain the rapidity of the halibut's growth, the course of its wandering, and so on, much in the same way as the mystery of the sockeye salmon was investigated some years ago.

FISHERMEN MISSING

Motor Boats Scour Georgian Bay for Two Men.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press.) — Motor and speed boats scoured Georgian Bay at the head of Owen Sound all Tuesday night and all day Wednesday trying to find Stanley Boyd and Charlie Port, two fishermen from Oxenden. The men left to visit their pond nets near Griffithe and Hay Island on Monday morning and have not yet returned. The water has been calm. It is believed that Boyd's motor boat engine failed and that the two are drifting helplessly on the bay.

HOLIDAY MOOD AMONG MINERS

Some Planning Trips to Europe During the Strike Vacation.

SWARM THEATRES

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—The anthracite area has taken on the appearance of an immense vacation resort. Miners who only a few hours ago labored throughout the long day and night shifts in the hazardous holes in the earth, now are parading the streets, displaying new collegiate-cut clothes and discussing what they shall do with their time. All was quiet and orderly in the strike zone, where 150,000 men went out Tuesday.

Balloon trousers flapped about many strikers' legs as they swarmed to the theatres opening their seasons with last night's performances. Reports from local steamship brokers show that hundreds of workmen from this region, believing that the strike will run eight or ten weeks, have planned visits to the Old Country.

Nationalization.

Operators continued their survey of stocks on hand. While figures will not be available for some time, it was said that since April 1 about 30,000,000 tons of anthracite have been mined and that nearly all of this tonnage is in storage yards, bins of wholesalers and retailers and cellars of consumers.

Meanwhile in Philadelphia and other cities where mine leaders have gathered, the long-discussed plan of nationalization of the mines has appeared for consideration. In 1919, and later in 1922, nationalization received active support from the United Mine Workers.

The plan calls for the purchase of the nation's entire wealth of coal for $4,500,000,000, and the administration of these holdings through a federal committee of mines having a cabinet portfolio at its head.

It is believed John L. Lewis, the miners' leader, will confer with various groups during the next few days to consider more fully this plan.

Revive Commission.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3 (Canadian Press).—John L. Lewis, miners' international president, last night declared that John Hays Hammond, in "haunting the lawns of White Court pestering the president to breathe life into the recommendations of Hammond's defunct coal commission," has "mixed 'the devil's stew' for the forthcoming Congress to sup."

Mr. Lewis charged that Mr. Hammond was urging the Republican party to depart from its traditional policy and establish "a semi-regulation of the anthracite industry."

ALLEGE CHURCH VOTE NOT LEGAL

Dispute Over Union Near Kingston to be Heard at Assizes.

VOTE RESCINDED

KINGSTON, Ont., September 3.—Canadian Press. — The plaintiffs' claim in connection with application for an injunction restraining the continuing Presbyterians from holding or interfering with services in St. John's Church, Pittsburg, Ont., was filed yesterday. In brief it is as follows:

"The vote in February last not to enter the United Church was illegal and irregular in that persons voted who were not in full membership on July 19, 1924, and who neither by the constitution nor the practice of the church would have been entitled to vote at a meeting of the congregation on matter affecting the disposal of property on the above date, July 19, 1924. Furthermore the clerk of session did not report the vote to the clerk of Presbytery as required.

"In March the congregation voted to remain independent during 1925, and the majority of those entitled to vote are still opposed to entering any church formed or to be formed by non-concurrents.

"The appointment of Rev. W. M. Fee as moderator of St. John's was opposed by the plaintiffs, who maintained their right to independence.

"Owing to the action and attitude of the above Presbytery St. John's congregation rescinded the March vote and voted in August last to enter the United Church."

The case will be heard at the assizes here which start September 15.

King Alfonso Kisses Bride At Wedding Fete In Country

MADRID, Spt. 3—Memories of Haroun el Raschid were evoked in the Spanish countryside on Saturday when King Alfonso, accompanied by an aide de camp, was motoring through the forest of Fuente de la Teja, where the King intended visit the new waterworks to supply Madrid.

Hearing rustic arias coming from a hand-organ in a tiny hamlet, the King asked the carefree peasants basking in the midday sun what caused the merriment. Learning it was a wedding luncheon in a near-by tavern, the King decided to visit it and readily accepted a seat at the festive board.

The bridegroom, an honest bricklayer, concealing, as in the story books, "a generous heart under a rough exterior," wished to offer champagne to his sovereign, but the monarch would not hear of this, asking for a glass of the cheap white wine the other guests were drinking and accepting a cheap cigar. He remained chatting for twenty minutes and left reluctantly after kissing the bride and wishing the couple a long and prosperous life.

VESSELS SWEEP PACIFIC OCEAN IN VAIN SEARCH

No Trace Up To Wednesday Evening of Missing U. S. Seaplane.

WEATHER HELPFUL

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3—(Canadian Press).—The wall of silence around the missing navy seaplane PN-9 No. 2 late yesterday had endured unbroken for 24 hours.

Navy craft of all types—flying, floating, submersible—had been organized to weave across the hundred square mile stretch of ocean where Commander John Rodgers and his four companions are believed hidden. But reports from ships and airplanes only told of empty observations of an apparently deserted ocean.

Improvement of the weather yesterday in the rescue area east of the island of Maui encouraged the searchers to their greatest efforts.

Arrangements for participation of privat craft in the search also were made by naval officials. Rumors that the plane had been sighted brought denial from naval headquarters with a further announcement that the air office in Honolulu was in constant direct radio touch with rescue ships and planes.

FLIGHT POSTPONED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3—(Canadian Press).—Captain Stanford E. Moses, commander in charge of the Hawaiian flight, announced yesterday that because of weather conditions the projected flight of the PB-1 plane, which was to have taken off at 2 o'clock today for Honolulu, has been postponed.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid" indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no penetrating effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, prevent the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sour egg or gulp. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

White Star Liner Majestic Manned With Many Substitutes for Voyage.

OTHER SAILINGS

Tie-Up Continues in Australian and South African Ports.

LONDON, Sept. 3.— (Canadian Press.) —The seamen's strike at English ports appeared last night on the verge of collapse, in the opinion of overseas shipping officials, but it continued to be serious in Australia, New Zealand and Africa.

The White Star liner Majestic, carrying nearly two thousand passengers, sailed from Southampton, having taken on a large number of substitutes for those of her crew that turned in their articles Tuesday. Three steamers at Hull also signed on new crews and expected to sail on time.

An element in favor of the ship owners is the fact that so many unemployed men are willing to take the place of the strikers, whether they are regular seamen or not.

Offer Declined.

Nine overseas steamers are held up in New Zealand, while at a mass meeting at Sydney, Australia, the owners' offer of a settlement was declined. The owners had proposed that if the men returned to their ships by Saturday they would waive legal rights against the strikers and agree that no punishment should be enforced.

At the mass meeting the speakers denounced the offer as an insult, and declared that the men had no intention of giving in. The efforts of moderate labor leaders to reach a settlement at Australian ports have proved unsuccessful, the men giving no intimation of heeding their leaders' advice.

Lascars Employed.

While the South African ship owners' and strikers' representatives are preparing to hold a conference to settle their differences, Cape Town, Durban and other ports have been stirred by rumors that Lascar crews were to be brought in to replace the men who walked out. The press generally, irrespective of political complexion, avers that this move would be an error and would alienate the sympathy of both the government and the public.

Local labor leaders are appealing to the strikers to return to work, contending that the fruit business is in danger of great loss.

The strike in Great Britain has spread to the cross-channel service; several sailing have been cancelled, but all overseas ships got away yesterday according to schedule.

Protest Lascar Crews.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 3.—(Canadain Press Cable Via Reuter's.)—The Hertzog Government has received numerous telegrams from all parts of the country protesting strongly against the employment of Lascars as strike-breakers. Prime Minister Hertzog has issued a statement in reply intimating that the government will not allow such a step and pointing out that the Lascars are prohibited immigrants and will not be allowed to land at South African ports even for the purpose of trans-shipping to other ports.

During the progress of the British seamen's strike, Lascars were employed on some of the ships lying in South African ports. They are natives of East India and Malay and largely man the vessels engaged in the East India trade.

GEOLOGIST DIES IN EAST AFRICA MALARIA VICTIM

W. E. Cutler, Prof. of Manitoba University, Headed British Museum's Explorers.

FOUND SPECIMENS

LONDON, September 3. — Canadian Press Cable. — W. E. Cutler, leader of the British museum expedition in East Africa, died from malaria, according to reports just received here.

The Cutler party, since May, 1924, has been excavating on an extensive scale dinosaurian remains at Tendaguru, about 40 miles from Lindi, in the district of Tanganyika.

The British museum in the last few months has received a large quantity of specimens from Mr. Cutler, whose last letter announced that possibly he would be sending 25 cases in addition to what he had already sent. The letter stated that besides the expected 25 cases the Cutler expedition had unearthed enough specimens of dinosaurian remains to fill another 70 or 80 boxes.

MANITOBA PROFESSOR.

WINNIPEG, Man., September 3. —Canadian Press. — Professor Cutler, assistant in the Department of Geology of the University of Manitoba, left Winnipeg Jan. 30, 1924, to head the British Museum's party of explorers to Africa.

The primary object of the project was to obtain the bones of a dinosaurian reptile of stupendous size which was discovered by German scientists a few years before the war.

When Professor Cutler arrived in Tangalvina, he found the skeleton to be of colossal dimensions, the largest ever discovered in the history of modern science.

In a report which he sent to the museum authorities he estimated it would be twice the length of the "diploducus," now in the reptile room of the historic British institution.

Prof. Cutler was considered one of the best authorities on western Canadian geological history. Under the auspices of the University of Manitoba he has made extensive surveys of the formation of solid rock in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

He had discovered many relics of the day before the first white man set foot on the prairie country and it has been his intentions to complete a history of the natural formations of the country.

Professor Cutler was born in London, England, 42 years ago.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

POISON IVY CAUSES ERUPTIONS HUNDREDS TAINTED EACH YEAR WORST VEGETABLE SKIN VIRUS

People Often Infected Without Coming in Contact With the Plant.

SIMPLE REMEDIES.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Many inquiries come to this Department regarding the identification of Poison Ivy, and the treatment of injury from the plant. The following is selected from "The Principal Poisonous Plants of Canada," by Faith Fyles, M.A., published by the Department of Agriculture, and from other sources:

Common Names.

Poison Ivy is also recognized under the names poison-oak, poison-vine and three leaved ivy.

Description.

Poison Ivy is a low shrub which is propagated by underground branches as well as seeds. It scrambles over stumps of trees or, as in the case of the variety radicans, it climbs by means of aerial rootlets to some height up fence posts and trunks of trees. The long stalked leaves are divided into three distinct leaflets which are mostly ovate, pointed, entire or with a few irregular coarse teeth, bright green above, paler and slightly hairy beneath, changing to rich autumnal colors.

The flowers are small, inconspicuous, greenish or whitish, loosely clustered in the axils of the leaves. As the flower cluster is surpassed by the long-stalked leaves it is seldom seen unless the foliage is moved aside. The berries are greenish white or cream colored, slightly shining, round, smooth, with longitudinal ridges at intervals. The flowers are in bloom from April to [illegible]

[illegible] It is a native of Canada and is commonly found in hedgerows, thickets and dry woods from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, where it passes into a thicker-leaved and smoother form (R. Rydbergii Small).

Poisonous Properties.

Poison Ivy is the worst vegetable skin poison in America, hundreds of people being poisoned each year. The poisonous constituents have not yet been satisfactorily determined. Cases of poisoning are often reported where the individual has passed the plant without coming in contact with it. This has been explained by the fact that pollen grains, minute hairs and even exhalations from the plant are sufficient to cause eruptions on the skin of susceptible persons. The poison may even be carried on the clothing or tools of someone who has been in contact with it, or it may be that, as the effect of the poison does not appear for some time, the occasion of coming in contact with it may have been quite forgotten. On the other hand, many people handle it frequently with no ill effect.

Inflammation of the skin begins to appear from eighteen hours to several days after contamination, and is characterized by intense irritation and burning, swelling and redness, followed by blisters and pain. Symptoms of internal poisoning are burning thirst, nausea, faintness, delirium and convulsions.

Remedy and Means of Control.

Many remedies have been suggested to allay this burning and irritation one of the simplest being the immediate washing of the parts affected with good strong yellow laundry soap. On return from a day's outing where was danger of meeting with poison ivy, the liberal use of such a soap might prevent much suffering, a piece might even be carried in the pocket.

An application of absorbent cotton saturated with a solution of common baking soda is simple and efficacious. In the case of severe poisoning the aid of a physician should be obtained.

Eradicating the Pest.

To properly eradicate this pest, the underground root stalks must be destroyed as well as the flowering tops. Grubbing out and burning it by someone who is immune to the poison is the surest means. Spraying with hot brine, or caustic soda will kill it. One pound of caustic soda to two gallons of water has been found most effective.

Poison Ivy and other poisonous plants named, common in America, owe their toxic powers to an odorless transparent oil that is found on the leaves, twigs and bark and is insoluble in water. It is classed among the irritant poisons. The person who comes in contact with the growth, suffers from cutaneous itching, swelling and vesicular eruption. In extreme cases there may be vomiting, colicky pains fever and delirium. A portion or the whole body may be effected by the eruption.

Treatment.

A solution of acetate of lead applied to the itching skin, neutralizing the poison is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The patient should fast while the attack lasts. The free use of the enema, the drinking of large quantities of water, and wet pack sheets, are of value. Very high authorities also vouch for the claim that the irritating oil of poison ivy may be removed in five minutes through scrubbing with hot water and soap.

TRENT RIVER NOTES.

TRENT RIVER, 3 Sept.—Messrs. Rawson and Tyler, of 14th Concession, had the threshers Tuesday, the result of which was 1,000 bushels of oats from about 25 acres.

Mr. Wesley Rodden, of the same concession, has also finished [illegible]

O.A.C. No 104 Winter Wheat Commendable Qualities

The O. A. C. No. 104 variety of winter wheat originated at the Agricultural College by crossing the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Bulgarian varieties, and has made the highest record of five leading varieties tested on one hundred and twenty-eight farms throughout Ontario. Not only is it a high yielder, but from equal quantities of flour it has produced more bread than the Dawson's Golden Chaff. It is interesting to know also that it has been more hardy even than the Dawson's Golden Chaff, and almost as stiff in the straw, and seems to be less susceptible to smut.

MAKING BUTTER READY FOR FAIR

Points to be Remembered By Those Who Would Win.

NEAT PACKAGES.

What about the butter exhibition at the Peterborough Exhibition? Did you win or lose the last time when competing with the people of your own township? To win as a buttermaker you must produce and exhibit a quality of butter that will measure up to the following score:

Flavor	45
Texture	15
Incorporation of moisture	10
Color	10
Salt	10
	100

A lot of the butter exhibited at the rural fairs is made from cream insufficiently cooled and churned at too high a temperature. This practice gives a weak-bodied, pale butter that may also be streaky. If the weather is warm, get some ice and cool the cream, also the wash water. Butter made from well-cooled cream and washed with ice-water will be firm enough to stand sufficient working to give an even distribution of salt, a good color and firm texture. If color is needed, be careful not to add a drop too much. Churn the "exhibit" two or three days before the fair. This will give time to set and blending of flavor and salt.

The packages should be as neat as possible. Always wrap prints in a clear, good quality, butter wrapper. See that the prints are well made, clean-cut and firm. Most judges want a butter churned from a cream that is sweet or of low acidity. Good flavor in butter comes from cream obtained from cows that are kept in clean stables, fed on clean feeds and attended by clean people.

SUPERPHOSPHATES GIVE BEST RESULTS

Is Finding of Department of Chemistry at O.A.C. After Experiments Cost Repaid.

The department of chemistry, Ontario Agricultural College, during the past year carried on experiments in eight counties to show the effect of lime and phosphates on fall wheat seeded with clover.

Phosphates Essential for Fall Wheat.

(1) Phosphates gave an increased yield in every case, averaging fifty per cent.

(2) The catch of clover was wonderfully improved by the phosphates.

(3) Size and quality of grain was increased, as well as yield, by phosphates.

(4) The cost of 100 pounds of acid phosphate per acre was more than covered, leaving a substantial profit in every case.

(5) It is estimated that approximately half of the phosphate remains in the soil for succeeding crops.

(6) Liming makes little difference to the growth and yield of fall wheat. Its effect will undoubtedly be seen on the stand of clover the following year.

Farmers are well advised to apply cold phosphate (superphosphate) to their fall wheat at from two hundred to four hundred pounds per acre.

CORN BELOW AVERAGE.

In Bonar Law But Andrew Thompson Has Field of Big Growth.

BONAR LAW, Sept. 3.—Mr. Andrew Thompson, of the 11th Concession of Raydon, has a large field of corn that will average eight feet in height and at the present time no tassels have appeared. Those who have seen it say it is a very remarkable growth as corn in this district is a little below the average this year.

Harvesting is in full swing and many have already finished. Owing to the excessive heat, the grain is going into the barns in good shape.

The potato crop is fine but the tops are all nearly dead and some are feeling a blight. So far no rot has been heard of.

The tomatoes are ripening very fast and promise a good crop. The acreage

MILLBROOK MAN WON FIRST PRIZE WITH OATS CROP

Averages Between Fifty and Sixty Bushels to the Acre.

LICE SPOILS PEAS.

Durham Agricultural Representative Emphasizes the Advantages of Growing Alfalfa.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 3.—The harvest is well advanced in this section, practically no fields remaining to be cut, though in a number the grain is still to be drawn in. This week will probably see the fields all cleaned up.

Several farmers are waiting their turn with the threshing outfit. L. S. Morton is on the Fallis Line this week and will finish with a number of those requiring his services before moving his outfit to another section.

W. Belch, 5th Line, Cavan, has all his grain threshed except oats. Wheat yielded 33 bushels to the acre, barley 25, and peas 22 bushels. Owning his own threshing outfit, Mr. Belch has the advantage of threshing each crop in rotation as it is brought into the barn.

Corn is not a particularly satisfactory crop this season, but Mr. Belch grows sweet clover extensively and uses this for silage. He has thirty-one acres in alfalfa, and has proved by actual experiment that the Ontario Variegated, and Grimm varieties are the most satisfactory, the southern strains being winter killed.

The agricultural representative for Durham has been urging the growing of alfalfa, emphasizing its many advantages, by circular letter, personal influence, and public addresses, as opportunity occurred. Mr. Paterson reports about 4,000 acres of this grain in Durham county, but "but it should be 30,000."

Generally speaking, peas are a disappointment this year, pea lice having infected fields. Wes. Brown, Zion, expects a return of little more than his seed owing to this pest.

Mr. Brown received word from J. Lockie Wilson last Friday that he has won first place with his oats in the Field Crop Competition. His yield will average between fifty and sixty bushels to the acre.

J. Whittington, South Monaghan, has threshed Kent peas, and realized between 30 and 35 bushels to the acre, and Mr. McGill, also of South Monaghan, has about the same yield.

H. Tate, 4th Line, Cavan, completed harvesting last week. His wheat has yielded between forty and forty-five bushels, alsike, which had to be turned often owing to wet weather, gave seven bushels, and peas 18 to 20 bushels to the acre.

W. W. Brown, and G. Bonar, of the 4th Line, have about the same return for wheat and peas as Mr. Tate.

A. Fallis, Fallis Line, threshed peas and oats last week, the yield being 20 and 25 bushels, respectively.

M. Ball, Fallis Line, had from 12 to 15 bushels to the acre from his rye.

Quite a number of fields still have the oats in stook. In spite of the fact that late frosts did some damage to this grain in its earlier stage of growth, the yield promises to be a heavy one. Very few have threshed any oats as yet.

HARVEST NEARING END.

Sound of Threshing Whistle Heard All Over East Emily.

EAST EMILY, Sept. 3.—The grain in this district is nearly all cut and stooked, and the greater part of it has been drawn in.

Mr. Wilbert Fee threshed his peas in the field last week. He had 25 acres and the yield was 30 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Pat. McCaskill, threshed some clover and in four hours threshed 36 and 39 bushels of Joss and ready for sale.

The farmers who intend sowing any fall wheat are now getting the ground ready at every possible opportunity. If the very dry weather lasts much longer the land cannot be got ready. It is now almost impossible to plough at all.

The pastures also need rain very

AUGUST MILK TESTS GIVE HIGH STANDING

Rain Urgently Needed To Keep Pastures in Good Shape.

BURNBRAE, Sept. 3.—Mr. John Murray, dairy instructor has begun testing August samples at the cheese factories. In most cases, tests are higher than for July. At Lowe factory only one sample tested below three per cent. This is considered good as the milk flow was at its best in August, due to abundant rainfall and good pasture. With the hot dry weather of the last half of the month however, pastures is urgently needed for this reason and to permit plowing for wheat, although some farmers having a lot of grain in stook are hoping for more fair weather.

Cheese prices are holding firm with sales in Montreal on Monday, Aug. 24, at 21-3-16c per lb. Whey cream prices are advancing slightly, a pound of butter-fat now being worth 34c with prospects of another advance in the near future.

NORWOOD WANTS RAIN.

NORWOOD, Sept. 3.—The district around Norwood is very much in need of rain. Pasture lands are drying up and the lawns of the village are showing the effects of the hot dry weather.

FARMERS MAY STOP GROWING MARQUIS WHEAT

Appearance of Rust on Crop Tempts Western Agriculturists to Change.

VARIED REPORTS.

Threshing Became General Last Week— Little Insect Damage Reported.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—Varied crop conditions are shown in the weekly crop report issued by the Canadian National Railways covering points on their lines in Western Canada. Manitoba points in a number of cases, report yield and grades reduced to some extent by red rust, but the average crop will be on good quality and fair to good yield. Frost on the night of August 19 caused slight damage in some parts of Saskatchewan and the appearance of rust in Marquis wheat at some points had made farmers consider giving up the growing of this strain. Cutting is fairly general except where delayed by heavy rains of past week. Very little sawfly or other insect damage is reported.

Through Northern Saskatchewan wet weather has held up harvesting but is improving the condition of late crops. Alberta reports cutting under way again. Toward end of week, after previous heavy rains which have amisted later crops, considerable crops are reported generally looking well in C.N.R. territory and yield will be better than average.

Manitoba reports some damage last week east of Winnipeg. Threshing has started at many points and while srust and hail have taken toll of the crop at some points, the average crop will be of good quality and fair yield. With good weather, threshing became general at the end of last week.

Saskatchewan main line points report crop better than average with slight rust damage in some spots. Estimates run 25 to 35 bushels per acre at many points. Wheat cutting is well under way and threshing started. The northern part of province has had unfavorable weather for harvesting but cutting should be general by this date. Oat crops will be light everywhere.

Alberta expects heavy rains of last week to benefit late crops. Cutting is under way again and crops do not appear to have suffered. The yield will be about the average or slightly better. Some districts will start threshing this week. No frost is reported to date.

DUNSFORD THRESHING.

DUNSFORD, Sept. 3.—Threshing is the order of the day in this vicinity with four threshing outfits in operation, all within a few miles, namely, Mr. Wm. Myers, Mr. Harry Sherrif, Mrs. Larry Steele and Mr. Wm. Bell. Crops are all turning out a very good yield, especially the wheat.

Mr. Geo. Burgess estimates a yield of 250 bushels wheat off eight acres.

We have had no rain for a couple of weeks now. It surely is great for the harvesters and several farmers have threshed out in the field, which would be impossible if the season had chanced to be a wet one.

Gardens are beginning to look very dry. Some of the cucumber and other vines are turning yellow with the extreme heat. Tomatoes are good, with lots of green ones but not many ripe yet.

WESTWOOD PERSONALS.

WESTWOOD, Sept. 3.—Mr. Gordon Werner threshed a part of his wheat on Monday, the yield estimated at being about forty-five bushels to the acre.

Mr. Elmo Kidd 's wheat crop yielded between forty and forty-five bushels to the acre.

Mr. James Sargent has a splendid field of corn. Recent measurements showed one stalk to be fourteen feet in length.

Gardens are beginning to suffer severely for want of rain, especially the tomato and cucumber crops, the prospects of which were splendid a few weeks ago.

MORE APPLES SHOULD BE GROWN FOR HOME AND FOREIGN TRADE 'EAT FRUIT AND KEEP SKIN CLEAR'

Furnishes Salts and Acids and Has Important Nutritive Value.

THE BRITISH MARKET.

Favorite Varieties and the Months in Which They Should Be Used.

Eat more fruit and keep your skin clear would perhaps be an apt slogan for Canadian fruit growers to adopt. In this connection possibly no fruit would better fill the bill than apples, of which a bulletin issued by the Fruit Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, entitled "Canadian Grown Apples" says, "From a dietetic standpoint the most important function of the apple is that of furnishing mineral salts and organic acids; but it has an important nutritive value as well, furnished by the carbohydrates present. As the fruit ripens starch changes to sugar. The apple has a medicinal value also, especially if eaten at the beginning of a meal or between meals."

"Pray remember to make me as happy as you can, by sending some pippins for myself and friends, some of your small hams, and some cranberries."

Thus Benjamin Franklin wrote his wife from London in 1758. The pippins requested were Green Newtown, known under a dozen or more names—Albemarle Pippin, Newtown Pippin, etc.

Any one who has tasted a first-class Newtown will not wonder that Franklin, away from home, asked for some of the apples by the first boat. After the receipt of these first specimens (some of which Franklin distributed to his friends), and the subsequent sending of grafts by Franklin's good friend John Bartram, the English folks tried to grow his apple in England, but with slight success.

The appetites of subjects of King George, not satisfied with a taste of the "pippins," demanded more, and there grew up an export trade. The large apple exports of 1773 included considerable quantities of the Newtown variety.

In 1637 Andrew Stevenson, minister to the Court of St. James, and whose home was in that part of Virginia so favorable to this variety, presented Queen Victoria with some of the Newtowns. So delighted was she with the flavor of the apples that she removed the import tax from this variety.

Hence, the export trade in apples really began with the Newtown variety, and the United Kingdom has continued to this day to be the biggest buyer of apples from Canada and United States.

The apples that have been sent abroad have not always been of the best quality, and to say. The foreign market has sometimes been made a dumping ground for poor fruit, and this, of course has hurt the trade. North American apples in most foreign countries are a luxury, and only good fruit is wanted. If these foreign customers are treated right, they may become a mighty big market for our surplus.

No housewife, either here or in Europe, should be without a box or barrel of Canadian grown apples. The varieties that should be used at different times are as follows:

September. — Duchess, Alexander, Malden's Blush, St. Lawrence, and similar varieties.

January, February.—Baldwin, King, Wagener, Greening, Seek, Pewaukee, Ontario, Jonathan, Yellow Newtown, and similar varieties.

NEVER HANDLED FINER OAT CROP

POULTRY THEFTS.

WARSAW, Sept. 3.—The last week has been splendid harvest weather. The majority of farmers are through, or almost through, cutting, and many expect to finish drawing in this week; most of them say they never handled better oats.

Mr. Rufus Payne cut a seven-acre field of oats on which he used 28 pounds of twine. The grain was five or five and one-half feet high with very heavy heads. He could not cut the full width of his binder, nor could he use the sheaf carrier. The sheafs seemed to almost cover the ground. He expects a very heavy yield of grain when he comes to thresh it. He got the seed from Mr. Fred Girven. This field had a lot of sow thistle, but last year he put in roots and corn, and kept it well cultivated. To get rid of weeds he scuffled the corn regularly until two weeks before cutting, and now it is clean. Mr. Payne is very proud of his field.

Roots are a splendid crop in North Dummer, as well as other parts, but rain would be welcomed for them and for garden stuff all around.

Buckwheat is burning with the hot, dry weather.

Chicken thieves have begun their work. Mrs. E. R. Hamblin lost 11 chickens and six hens, which she had shut up and fattened, just ready for sale. They were stolen, and the unfortunate thing was that the family heard the dogs and did not think of anything serious. Cephas Payne also lost six hens. Some other places were visited.

On Tuesday all the teams available are to work on the McCracken hill near Bethel.

Mr. Sargent has just a few pounds of binder twine left. There has been a great demand for extra twine.

EXTERMINATING CABBAGE WORMS

Department of Horticulture Made Experiments in Artificial Control.

DUSTS ARE BEST.

Control experiments, involving the treatment in three series of 3,000 early and late cabbages, with Pyrothrum powder and lead and calcium arsenate dusts and sprays, lead to the conviction that under local conditions dusting with lead arsenate and hydrated or air-slaked lime in the proportion of one part to fifteen parts is the most satisfactory form of treatment. The dusts were found more satisfactory than the sprays in that they can be mixed and applied with the aid of ordinary hand dusters, in one-fourth the time occupied in spraying. They spread and adhere well if applied when the leaves are wet with dew, whereas sprays to which soap has been added as a sticker have a low surface tension and much of the liquid is lost in the soil, says the Department of Horticulture O. A. College.

In these experiments calcium arsenate dusts gave less satisfactory results than the arsenate of lead dust, the latter giving perfect control. Calcium arsenate applied in the liquid form gave extremely poor results as well as causing some burning to the foliage. Pyrothrum powder used with four times its weight of hydrated lime proved satisfactory, but can hardly be used on a commercial scale as it costs ten times as much as the arsenate of lead dust.

Judging by this season's observations early market cabbages escape serious injury and whether treatment is ordinarily necessary or not must be left to the grower's discretion. For late cabbages and cauliflowers two applications should be sufficient in a normal season, the first about the middle of July and the second four or five weeks later. When the butterflies are very abundant a third application may be necessary early in September.

The hot school lunch has come to stay; it lets the stomach help the head.

CROPS TURN OUT WELL.

South Monaghan Harvest Will Soon Be All Gathered In.

BAILIBORO, Sept. 3—The crop throughout S. Monaghan is mostly harvested now. Some of the farmers who have had to wait to get their grain threshed so that they could obtain barn room have not as yet succeeded in finishing up.

The harvest generally is going to be off in good time this season, and the farmers are going to have a good opportunity to prepare their land for wheat.

Threshing is at present the chief occupation with the farmers. Nearly everyone is or has been threshing a portion of their crop, principally to make room in their barns to get the remainder of their crop under cover. The travelling mills which are numerous in this township are having a busy time trying to meet all of their engagements.

The crops continue to turn out exceedingly well. Last week Thos. Tanner threshed ten acres of fall wheat which yielded about five hundred bushels. Edmund Dodgson threshed six acres of Potter peas which yielded a little over thirty bushels per acre. Both of these crops turned out well but they are only two of the many exceptionally good crops as yet threshed in Monaghan.

WARKWORTH ALSIKE.

WARKWORTH, Sept. 3.—Mr. Thos. Quinlivan has recently threshed alsike which yielded 71 bushels from 11 acres, and Mr. Boucher McDonald had 37 bushels and five pounds from twelve acres.

READ THE WANT ADS.

This morning, as I sat down to write, with the sun shining, in at the door, and the clock showing it to be only seven, the whirr of wings attracted my attention.

That tells the secret of their hatred of the crow and their annoyance at my presence. They are going to have a nest in a tree nearby. It is late for them to be nesting up at this altitude (1300 feet), and north, but very likely they have delayed the nesting, due to the fact that the blueberries are just coming into ripeness and will be at their full fruiting in another three weeks, just in time for feeding the young ones.

We have all been wondering whether they selected this place for a nest long ago, as they may belong to the same family that nests here near the camp every year, and then, when we came with that black crow Mickey, they were alarmed for a while, not knowing the exact amount of harm we might both do them.

They seem to have settled the matter. I noticed one of them, probably the male, remained close to Mickey every hour of the day, seeming to study him, for he would go as close as possible, not farther than three feet, and seem to be examining the crow with great care. Anyway, the pair of them seem to have decided that we are in one case harmless and in the other case very friendly, and their nest is started.

When they came into the cabin for some scraps of twine from a bunch of bird pictures I mailed off yesterday, I took the hint and grabbed up all the twine about the place, cut it into four and five inch lengths and set it on a rock, then got my camera and took some snaps of them as they gathered it, without fear. In fact one sat on the rock and watched me out the string up, then flew at my feet and picked up a piece I had dropped, before I had a chance to place it on the rock.

The mountain ash, so heavily loaded with bright red berries in September and all winter, will not only charm this bird, but may bring his cousin, the Bohemian Waxwing to your door this winter. If you scatter seeds of the red-berried elder this month early and protect the plants this winter, you will have another bird bait in a year or so, and finally, when you notice how be-draggled some birds look, don't forge that they are changing to their wint clothes.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THE WAY FOR A BABY TO GET EXERCISE

We are all the time talking about the importance of exercise for adults, and particularly for persons who are inclined to be overweight. Did it ever occur to you that babies need exercise and should be encouraged to take it? This is especially the case if the baby is inclined to get fat.

The surest test of the welfare of the infant is the increase in weight. But you don't want it fat merely. You want the baby to be strong and muscular.

A new baby moves very little, but in a few weeks it kicks and punches its arms about. If its clothing and coverings permit, it indulges in the freest muscular movements.

The young parents must bear in mind that a little baby is a pretty delicate morsel of humanity. Its back must be supported until the muscles develop. It is not well to lift it by grasping the chest under the arms. The best way is to lift the lower part of the body by the clothing and then slip the flat hands under the back. This permits full support of the back and head and guards against accidents.

The dress of the baby should be so simple as to permit the freest possible movements of the limbs. It will be better still to let the undressed infant play on a blanket. This is equal to gymnasium training.

Spread out a blanket on the grass or on the floor in the sunshine, if it is not too bright, and let him roll and kick and sprawl and crawl. This gives free action for every muscle and you may be sure the baby will make use of all the muscles if he is given the chance.

When the child is taken out in the baby carriage thought must be given to its posture. When the youngster is several months old he won't be satisfied to lie flat on his back. He will be happier if he is propped up on extra pillows, supporting his sides, as well as the back.

Don't treat your infant as if he were a wax lily. Bear in mind all the time that he is a young animal, entitled to all the privileges and freedom of the natural life.

Study the young chickens, kittens, foxes, birds—all the lower forms of life give freedom to the little ones and, indeed, the birds encourage it to the extent of pushing the young out of the nest. The baby will grow and wax strong if he has half a chance. Don't hamper him by pinning him down too closely.

Let the muscles perform and thereby you give the baby a good temper. He glories in liberty. He will gurgle and coo with delight.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

By Temple Manning

THE FIRST STEAMER ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

Remember when you used to sing the Mississippi songs? These ditties describing the joys of sailing the Mississippi in a steamboat were popular several years after the excitement caused by the first Mississippi steamboat had died down.

This was the New Orleans, launched in 1811 by Nicholas Roosevelt, grand-uncle of President Theodore Roosevelt. In that year he arrived in Pittsburgh for the purpose of introducing steam navigation on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. In Pittsburgh he built the steamboat New Orleans, which was modeled after the historic Clermont, which Fulton had launched in 1808 upon the Hudson. Roosevelt himself piloted the boat on her maiden trip to New Orleans. She started from Pittsburgh on October 30, 1811.

The Pittsburgh Steamed Upst

Possibly no queerer looking craft, except perhaps a Chinese junk, ever carried passengers or freight. The New Orleans was 115 feet long, with a 20 foot beam and a cylinder 34 inches in diameter. She carried two masts and a long bowsprit. Her hull was painted a vivid sky-blue and her square-built portholes were battened with milk-white doors The passenger cabins were small and comfortless.

When the time for sailing came, Roosevelt found that all Pittsburgh had turned out to see this strange craft begin her voyage. The people lined the bank, cheering and yelling although few of them really believed that she would ever reach her destination.

Two days later the boat reached Cincinnati and there received a rousing welcome. But when it reached Louisville, Ky., on November 3, the good people there were entirely unprepared. They were thrown into a panic by the churning of the paddle-wheel, the glare of the engine fires, and the roar and hiss of escaping steam. Many of the superstitious folk believed that a comet had fallen from heaven into the Ohio River and thus caused the confusion.

During the dinner a discussion arose as to whether the boat could move upstream unaided While this heated debate was being carried on, Roosevelt slipped quietly away. A few minutes later his guests heard a low rumbling sound which was accompanied by motion of the boat.

Fearful lest their lives were endangered, the entire company rushed on deck expecting to see the boat broken away from her moorings. But what they actually found was that the boat, instead of being at the mercy of the stream, was making her way against the swift current—steadily upward. With shouts of joy they returned to the dining cabin and there toasted Mr. Roosevelt's health in his own best Madeira.

These scene of panic and rejoicing were repeated all along the line utnil the New Orleans reached its geographical namesake on December 24, 1811, when Roosevelt was given a tremendous ovation by the citizens of that town.

For seven years afterward the boat plied her trade between Natchez and Nw Orleans. She made this trip about once every three weeks and carried merchandise and passengers at great profit.

On July 13, 1814, this pioneer steamboat died a sad death. The New Orleans landed on a snag two miles below Baton Rouge, where she had been tied to the bank overnight. The next morning they tried to warp her ashore, but nothing could be done, and a few moments after her crew had climed ashore she "sank to the bottom of the sea."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS MEETS A CHEERY LITTLE NEIGHBOR.

When Doris spied the little shiney brown creature creeping out from between the stones in the fence, she laughed and ran up to greet her.

"Good morning Mrs. Cricket," she said very softly. "What are you doing in that hole?"

"Oh, good morning, Doris," chirped Mrs. Brown Cricket, bowing very politely to Doris. "I was just on my way to the garden when something cast a shadow over me and I ran in behind the stones to hide. I guess it was your shadow, wasn't it?"

"I guess it was, for I have been following you for some time," laughed Doris. "I was wondering where you were going and how your family is getting along."

"Finely," laughed Mrs. Brown Cricket. "I left them at home this time. I wonder if you will share your jelly and bread with them?"

"Certainly, I will," answered Doris—and she held out her slice of bread and jelly to Mrs. Brown Cricket.

"Better still," Mrs. Brown Cricket chirped, "you come home with me, and give it to them yourself," and she touched Doris with the long feelers that grew on her head and quick as a wink Doris stood beside Mrs. Cricket no taller than the brown cricket herself.

Away they ran down the path to the field. Here at the entrance of her little home she stopped and called to her children They all came tumbling out into the grasses and lost no time in devouring Doris' bread and jelly.

"You know, Mrs. Cricket," mused Doris, "I should think you'd be afraid someone would slip up behind you and catch you. You have two long feelers on your head and two on the tip end of your body. Do they help you at all?"

"Indeed, that's what they are for," chirped Mrs. Brown Cricket. "They warn me of any danger approaching from behind. Those on the front of my head keep me guarded from the front. How is my cousin getting along? They tell me she moved into your home late last fall."

"Oh, she is the dearest thing," said Doris. "And we sure do love to hear her singing. You know, Grandma, Brown says it's good luck to have a cricket singing in your kitchen. Your cousin never sings in the daytime though like you meadow crickets do. She waits until all is quiet at night; then she sings such a merry little tune it makes us all feel cheery."

"I've been thinking, maybe if there is room," mused Mrs. Cricket, "I'll move in this Fall."

"Oh, I wish you would," cried Doris. "You can have our house in the chink of the fireplace, where it will be nice and warm."

"You see, we field crickets simply bury ourselves in the Winter time, and if it doesn't grow too cold we awaken in the Spring. Otherwise we never awaken," and Mrs. Cricket called her children and asked them if they would like to move into the big farmhouse. They all agreed that they would and all ran home with Doris. She had just lifted them to the mantlepiece when Mrs. Cricket began to sing and when Doris' Grandma came to call her for supper she found her curled up asleep in the big arm chair before the fireplace. Mrs. Brown Cricket had sung her to sleep.

THE LIMITED MAIL

SYNOPSIS

A mysterious young tramp and Potts, an experienced vagabond, are at the foot of a railroad trestle in Granite Gorge, in the Rockies, where they have just been joined by "Spike" Nelson, a hardened hobo. It is night and a chill wind is falling heavily. A fragment of rock overturns the can in which they have been preparing their evening Then comes a rush of boulders, and the three "knights of the road," now imperilled, scramble up the frame work of the trestle to the tracks above.

Strangely enough, at just this moment the whistle of the flyer, as it sped toward the whistle of the flyer, as it sped Granite Gorge, sounded plaintively above the storm. The tramps stood rooted to the tracks, staring into one another's drawn faces during the brief periods of illumination provided by the lightning, which was growing more frequent.

Again—much nearer—the Limited's whistle.

"My God, we'll have to stop her, somehow," cried Bob at last, "If she hits that boulder no power on earth can save her from jumping the tracks and plunging into the rapids!"

Spike gripped Bob's arm and halted him as the young man turned to race down the tracks in the direction of the oncoming express. Lightning showed Bob that the common fright had faded from Spike's hard face, and its place there had come a bright gleam of appreciation for the opportunity at hand.

Bob gasped at the cold cruelty of Spike's idea, when he understood it. But then—a surge of bitter indifference came over him, and he relaxed.

"Dat's the ticket, kid! You're wise, eh? De Limited's stuffed to de roof wit' registered mail, an' after she bumps off dere won't be no one left to tell us to keep our fingers outen de wreck!"

Again—the plaintive, wailing whistle above the tempest; very near, now. Already the long finger of the flyer's searchlight made, on the blackness of the storm, a faintly luminous patch against which the Old Witch's Mask was etched in misty silhouette—as the train raced toward the curve where, for twenty years, it had passed in safety, but where now a certain doom awaited it.

CHAPTER II.

In those dozen mad seconds during which he stood manlessly irresolute and indifferent on the tracks, and listened to the curdling crescendo of the Limited's breakneck race toward the boulder and destruction, omewhere in a far corner of Bob's mind a door seemed to slam gustily. Its echoes through the dead corridors of his soul coldly reminded him of the immediate truth—that his books and his doors were closed to society now and—for aught he cared—forever.

The sharp tip of Nelson's steel hand pecked at his elbow. "Git offen the track, 'bo, or yuh'll git smeared. Let's shinny up dis ledge here, outen de way, until she—bumps off!"

Bob was dimly conscious that Potts was whimpering there beside the tracks in the darkness, and that Spike in his greedy excitement was chattering incessant curses. Bob saw them against a granite canvas by the momentary art of a stroke of lightning, in smokey halftones, as Rembrandt might have painted them in enduring art—the blowzy and weak-faced Potts mewling in horrified anticipation; the rat-nosed Spike with his metal claw defensively thrown before his face as if to ward off any punishing sideswipe of the coming wreck.

With legs at once light as breath and heavy as lead in the confused drama on the rockbound stage where he had been unwittingly thrust, Bob lurched from the tracks and joined his pals in a cowardly scramble away from the prophetic rails that were already singing a litany of death to the pounding vibrations of the oncoming flyer.

As he fled Bob stumbled and fell, striking his face against the rocky slope. Thereupon a vision of disaster flared in his head and vividly revealed in an unbroken series of lightning flashes the Limited tripping and buckling over the boulder, then somersaulting from the trestle into the thrashing abyss like a string of incandescent sausages slipping by night from the bloody counter of a Hadian butcher into the maw of a meat grinder. Shrieks, a long concerted shriek—imprecatious—grinding noises—men, women—babies—human flesh and blood and bones—a longer shriek—

It was the whistle of the Limited sundering the tissue of his dream. Bob, dully jumping up, with a stinging pain in his face from the blow that had knocked him out, quaked as he realized that the hideous climax was—not yet.

The Limited had begun its rushing sweep around the curve of the Old Witch's Mask now, and Bob, from where he balanced himself on the precarious slope above the tracks, could see the nebulae of the headlight's gestative lambency suddenly, like a cosmic miracle or phenomenon, resolve into a fast swelling sun of brilliant intensity. Under its searching light his soul felt bared—discovered in shame. Then the door that had closed in his mind flew open again, letting a cool draft of returning sanity blow over his fevered mind. Great God, he was not so far out upon the lonely fringes that he could be a murderer!

But precious time had been lost and it seemed too late to remedy his monstrous dilatoriness now. With a cry of sharp command to his hobo comrades already some distance above him, Bob whirled and slid down to the trackside Spike pitched himself after Bob, cursing malevolently, determined to abort Bob's reformation; spitting and snarling like a tomcat thwarted of a salmon can. Potts tobaggoned comfortably after them on his wide and well-filled pants.

"Help, for God's sake, fellows!" cried Bob, desperately pushing the boulder in an effort to topple it off the tracks into the Gorge; while the argot and instincts of football hours not far behind disciplined his tongue and mind in this crowded moment.

Spike's answer was a vicious blow of his steel hand against Bob's temple. "Come away from here, yuh crazy loon!" he yelled, tugging at Bob's coat with his one good hand, and stabbing him with the spike.

Bob kicked him off rudely, then rethrew the whole strength of his big young body against the boulder, meanwhile calling encouragement in the manner of his linesman days to Potts, who gingerly essayed to help. But Potts' efforts amounted to little more than laying his fat weigth on the boulder rather than against it. Bob realized that it was useless to try to move the boulder, and that ten seconds more had sloughed off into futility with the Limited many score yards nearer to its doom.

It seemed too late to take even the one remaining chance, but rake it Bob's suddenly awakened fighting brain automatically decided to do. He made a leaping start for a sprint up the tracks toward the oncoming express; but in that same instant Spike also jumped—toward Bob.

"Spoil me game, eh? You——" cursed Spike, swinging his steel arm like a clubbing rod full and viciously at Bob's head.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 4.

A rather unimportant day is forecast on the judgment of the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. Business as well as all other interests are likely to proceed after routine methods. It might be well to be on guard against treachery, fraud or some sort of subtle undoing, since Neptune is the ruler of the day in evil angle toward the moon. The same aspect may be responsible for some singular or eccentric experience.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a rather routine year, with little of an exciting nature. However, they should be on guard against subtle forces or irregular experiences. A child born on this day may have some peculiar faculties or endowments and may be subject to peculier experiences in life. Its life may be given over to the mystical or the occult, or it may have subtle forces to contend with in everyday affairs.

A friend that you buy will be bought from you.

CROP DAMAGE NOT SERIOUS IN DISTRICT

Every Year Sees Its Own Particular Trouble For Farmer.

PLUMS ARE CHEAP.

Housewives Fail to Buy Canning Goods When They Are Plentiful.

The blight is on the potatoes, and the "thrip" is on the onions, and the smut ball is having a good time with the wheat crop. It all really isn't as bad as it sounds, because every year sees its own particular form of pest, and these things aren't doing irremediable damage.

Dry weather and the blight together are making for a poor crop of potatoes this year, it is said. It's the sort of fungus blight that "makes the potato wither up like a tea leaf in your hand,' as Walter Oke briefly expresses it. The mysterious "thrip," whatever that may be, has damaged the onion output to the extent of about one-third of the usual crop, and the "smut ball," an innocent looking small yellow-covered ball that, when crushed in the hand, emits a fine powder resembling soot, with a particularly appalling odor, is helping to destroy the marketing qualities of the wheat, which is termed "tagged" in grain circles, when marked by this black powder with its disagreeable smell.

With the exception of this pest, everything else in the grain crop line is described as being very good. Very little grain has been marketed as yet, with the exception of the alsike, about half of which is already in the dealers' hands.

Plums Are Cheap.

In the wholesale fruit line, green and yellow plums are considered cheap this year, with higher prices on the other lines, with higher prices wholesale fruit man is voiced with regard to the slackness of housewives in neglecting to buy canning and preserving fruits and vegetables when they are plentiful. "They wait until things are almost off the market before they start buying them."

Oranges are high in price just now, with no relief in sight until the winter navels come on the market. Last January's frost in California is blamed for the killing of the young fruit in blossom and present high prices.

Indications in the peach line indicate a crop of the Yellow St. John, the Crawford and the Elberta as almost double that of last year, with a great deal of small-sized fruit. Bartlett and Kieffer pears are only about a 40 per cent. crop, with consequent higher prices in canning pears anticipated, and plums are only about 50 per cent of last year's crop. Greengages in the stores sell from 80 to 90 cents for the 11-qt. basket, with Reine Claudes at 70 cents. Fancy blues are priced at 70 to 85 cents, egg plums at 65 cents a basket, and red Lombards at 60 to 80 cents. Bartlett pears are tagged from 75 cents to $1.25 a basket. Grapes are not expected in, in any quantity, until next week. Small-sized blue fruit in some of the stores is selling at 50 to 60 cents a basket.

Mr. J. E. Adams, wholesale grocer, regards general conditions as being on the up grade, with volume of business very good and collections better than they have been for some time past.

Sugar, in the wholesale market, is described as "strong." An advance has been anticipated, but has not yet arrived.

Canned goods are easily off a little in their demand. The new pack of tomatoes will be a fortnight later than last year, owing to unfavorable weather conditions in the spring of the year, and corn is considered to be in a "serious condition," because of the damage done by the corn borer in the entire corn belt of Southern Ontario.

Flour is in a firm and steady market, with a couple of advances during the past six weeks, and no downward trend noticeable in present quotations. The wheat market continues in an unsettled condition, and future flour prices are uncertain, in consequence.

EASY TO GAIN WEIGHT WITH YEAST AND IRON

Thin, run-down and under-weight men, women and children can improve their health, increase their energy and put on from five to twenty pounds of good solid flesh in three weeks.

A new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when iron-ized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects.

It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight—or how much under-weight you are, "ironized yeast" tablets when taken according to simple directions that accompany each package, are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks time. If they fail get your money back.

Sold by all local druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package, or will be sent direct on receipt of price. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Toronto, Canada.—Adv.

Active Buying of Corn Helped Raise Wheat Price

CHICAGO, September 3. — Canadian Press. — The active buying of corn resulted in much higher prices for that grain to-day and helped to lift wheat as well. Hot, dry weather threatening further damage to the corn crop was an incentive for purchasing of corn. Official reports from northwest Iowa said that the corn crop was now past help from rain. Corn prices 3-8c to 2½c higher; December 84 7-8 to 85c, were followed by additional upturns with Sept. at 97½c, ordinary reaching distance of $1 a bushel.

In wheat there was aggressive buying on the part of a noted speculator. Starting at ½c decline to 5-8c advance, December 151 to 151 3-4, and May 154 7-8 to 155 3-8c, the market scored material gains all around.

Oats were a little firmer, sympathizing with corn and wreat. After opening unchanged to ¾c higher, December 41 5-8c, oats made a slight general advance.

Influenced by hog values provision market was easy.

Mixed Trend Of Prices Seen on Toronto Market

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—The trend was mixed on the Toronto stock exchange this morning with declines prominent. Trading continued on a heavy scale, with Smelters dominant and Canadian Canners and Brazilian also leaders. Smelters sold down another point at 116 and Canadian Canners common receded 1 1-4 at 12 1-2. City Dairy eased down 3-4 at 89, and Winnipeg 5-8 at 49 7-8. Dominion Stores suddenly reacted to 60, down 2 1-2 points.

Brazilian and Atlantic Sugar each strengthened a quarter point. Bank were unusually active and Commerce was marked up one point at 209 1-2 and Nova Scotia a point and a half at 279. Dominion eased one at 205.

Trading in Mines Quiet With Lower Prices General

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press.)— Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was very quiet this morning with transactions totalling 70,285 shares. Argonaut under heavy sales declined a half to 25. Dome Mines also declined ten cents to 15.05 and McIntyre was five cents lower at 1905. Preston sold fractionally higher at 8 and TeckHughes one point lower at 173.

Canada Lorrainne was also one point lower at 59. Mining Corporation was fifteen points higher at 28.

Sharp Rally at New York After Bear Attack Failed

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Stock prices rallied sharply to-day after bear traders had failed in another attempt to unsettle the general list. Strong buying support was in evidence at the outset, being attracted by the raising of the 'Frisco Common dividend, lower call money rates and favorable trade news. Oils apparently disregarded another cut in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Largest recoveries were made by the high-priced specialties that had been hit hardest in the recent decline, extreme gains ranging from 3 to 13 points. Motor, public utility, bituminous coal company and merchandising gave demonstrations of group strength. Terminal Coal soared nearly ten points, and Nash Motors, Mack Trucks and American Can. rose five or more points above yesterday's closing quotations. Brown Shoe and White Rock were weak spots.

SIMILAR NAMES CAUSE CONFUSION

Bayreuth, in Germany, and Beirut, Asia Minor, Get Mixed.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 3.—(Associated Press.)— Confusion of the town names, Bayreuth, in Germany, with Beirut in Asia Minor, which led recently to erroneous reports that the Dutch government had decided to establish a consulate in Bayreuth instead of Beirut, recalled to the Allgemeene Handelsblad that the two names had been confused once before in 1876.

On the latter occasion, the Oriental city was somewhat surprised to receive at the time a specially constructed machine which had been intended to animate a dragon in the Siegfried performance of "The Ring," in the first Wagner festival at Bayreuth. The machine had been made by an English firm and as Bayreuth was a small and little-known town a shipping clerk thought an error had been made in the spelling and that such a complicated bit of machinery could only be intended for Beirut.

Ancient Book Recalls Early Horse Show Days

Appropos of the splendid Hose Show which is the annual institutioi peculiar to Cobourg, it is interesting to read an except from an old book in the possession of His Worship ayor Turner. This book was published in 1836 under the title "Backwoods of Canada." It was written by an emigrant officer, who relates that at one time twenty-five horses were taken on the conveyance plying between Prescott and Cobourg in the year 1833.

These animals were to be exhibited and sold if possible at the Cobourg Horse Show. Thus it may be seen that the Cobourg Horse Show is no infant, but a lusty growth of some 92 years.

Yearly it attracts hundreds of horsemen from Centraf Ontario and the portion of the States to the immediate south and adjacent to the border.

In addition to this note are many references to the country surrounding Peterborough. The road to the rice fields is alluded to as well as many other highways of that date. The book is not dealt with in a historic manner, but is more of a personal memoir type.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

FEW NET CHANGES IN FEDERAL HOUSE THROUGH BYE-ELECTIONS

Liberal Party Has Same Number of Seats as at First Session.

FOUR VACANCIES

Conservatives Short One Member and Progressives Lack Three.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Since the last Dominion general elections on December 6, 1921, there has been remarkably little change in party standings in the House of Commons. When the ballots were counted nearly four years ago, Liberals returned numbered 117; Conservatives, 50; Progressives, 64; Labor and Independents, 4. Should the Government decide to test the issue again this fall, as seems likely, it would go with exactly the same number of members as were returned in 1921; Conservatives would have one less, and Progressives three less. In the latter numbers, however, no allowance is made for existing vacancies. These are four in number. Two, one in New Brunswick and the other in Ontario, are seats last represented by Conservatives; one, in Quebec, is Liberal, and the fourth, in Ontario, is Progressive.

Forty-one by-elections have been held since the general elections of 1921, and in only three has there been a reversal of party fortunes. In two of these, one in New Brunswick and one in Nova Scotia, Conservatives won from Liberals. In one by-election, that of West Hastings, Ontario, Liberals won from Conservatives, leaving a net Conservative gain of one seat. Progressives have had only one seat at stake, that of Moose Jaw, and a Progressive was again returned. Two Progressives, Messrs. Hammel of Muskoka and Bissette of Prescott, have, however, crossed the floor and joined the Liberals.

In the 41 by-elections there have been 24 Liberal acclamations (including those of Ministers re-elected on assuming office), and 17 contested elections. Liberals won 11 of the contested elections, Conservatives five and Progressives one.

Variations in party fortunes may be summed up as follows:

Liberals:
Elected, 1921	117
By-election changes:
Net loss of 1	116
Two Progressives added	118
Less one vacancy,
Present standing	117
Conservatives:
Elected, 1921	50
By-election changes:
Net gain of one	51
Less two vacancies,
Present standing	49
Progressives:
Elected, 1921	64
Less two Progressives joined Liberals	62
Less one vacancy,
Present standing	61

By provinces the parties now stand:

	Lib.	Con.	Prog.	Lab.	Ind.	Vac.	Total
Nova Scotia	16	1	..	..	..	..	16
New Brunskick	4	5	1	..	..	1	11
P. E. I.	4	..	..	..	..	..	4
Quebec	64	..	..	..	..	1	65
Ontario	24	35	21	..	..	2	82
Manitoba	2	..	12	1	..	..	15
Saskatchewan	1	..	15	..	..	..	16
Alberta	..	..	10	1	1	..	12
British Columbia	3	7	2	..	1	..	13
Yukon Territory	..	..	1	..	..	..	1
Totals	117	49	61	2	2	4	235

The present House of Commons consists of 235 members, but in the next the representation will be increased by 10. Nova Scotia will have two members less; the Prairie Provinces will have 11 more; British Columbia will have one more. In the other provinces as well as in the Yukon, the representation is unchanged in number.

COULDN'T HEAR SELF TELEPHONE NO GOOD

Eskimo Didn't Believe Explorer When Experiment Didn't Work.

Donald MacMillan, the explorer, tells how, when one one of his Arctic expeditions, he found some wire and an old telephone mouthpiece that had lain hidden for some time under the arctic snows, and explained to his Eskimo companion how the telephone worked. The native showed intense interest in the explanation, and when the explorer turned in for a few hours' sleep he tried his hand at telephone construction.

Along the bleak arctic coast near the camping ground at which they were stopping ran a straggling row of split board about five feet high, and when MacMillan got up he found this fence festooned with a couple of hundred yards of wire. The single telephone mouthpiece was dangling from one end of the line and the Eskimo was standing in front of it. After shouting a few words of his native language into the telephone, the Eskimo ran madly along the line, clapped the far end of the wire to his ear, and listened for his own message!

No sound reached him but the whistling of the wind over the ice-bound waters along the coast, but though disappointed he was still hopeful. Evidently thinking that he had not sprinted quite fast enough the first time, he repeated the process with an extra burst of speed. Again he was disappointed, but just then caught sight of MacMillan peering around the corner of the hut. He told the explorer that he knew he was lying when he told him about the telephone, for nobody could talk through a wire that had no hole in it!

SHENANDOAH BREAKS IN STORM TO-DAY

downe of the navy dirigible Shenandoah was killed when the ship crashed today, Mrs. Betsy Ross Lansdowne was prostrated at her home here. Mrs. Lansdowne had anticipated seeing her son to-day for the first time in several months.

"Zachary was making his last overland trip," she told the United Press. "He was scheduled to return to sea duty September 15. I pray to God he has not been killed or injured."

And then word came that he had lost his life.

Most of the dead were found in the tangled wreckage of the control cabin, where the full crew was on duty. Ambulances and other conveyances transported the dead and injured to nearby towns. The dead were taken to Belle Valley, while the injured were scattered in various hospitals of the community.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The cruiser Shenandoah's senior surviving officer reported to the navy department today that thirteen were killed, two injured and one remained unaccounted for in the wreck.

Official reports listed thirteen of the dirigible crew as known dead, while 27 had reported themselves safe. This leaves six still unaccounted for, provided all of the forty-two as listed by the navy as with the ship actually started on the trip.

Military Dirigible.

The Shenandoah was the only strictly military dirigible in the United States. The property of the navy, it was equipped with machine guns. Its sister ship, the Los Angeles, was constructed in Germany and flown to the United States under an arrangement of the Versailles Treaty providing that it should be used only for non-military purposes.

The Shenandoah was designed on the basis of the German Zeppelin, L-49, which fell in the Vosges during the war, but all available aircraft information was utilized by the special committee of engineers and experts appointed by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics in drawing the plans so that it represented a modification of the Zeppelin design with many American ideas utilized.

Formerly ZR-1.

Built at Lakehurst, N.J., from parts made at the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia, the huge craft was placed in service in September 1923, as the ZR-1, its construction having required two years. Subsequently, on Navy Day, October 27, 1923, it was christened Shenandoah, an Indian name meaning "Daughter of Stars."

The following were its dimensions: Length, 681 feet. Diameter, 78 feet. Height, 96 feet. Gas capacity 2,115,000 cubic feet. Total lift about 130,000 pounds. Dead weight about 75,000 pounds. Speed full, 60 miles an hour. Power plants, five 6-cylinder 300 horse power engines. Cruising radius without stopping, 4,000 miles.

SEEKING CHANGES ON LAKEFIELD LINE

G. N. Gordon Discussed More Convenient Time-Table With Thornton.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., returned from Ottawa yesterday, and said that he had seen Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Gordon stated he was trying to get a change of schedule on the Lakefield line, to be more convenient for the Lakefield people, as there was considerable complaint about it. The Federal member stated he was urging very strongly the adoption of the new gasoline electric car, and hoped that one would be put on the Lakefield line. The reason that this kind of car had not been usd was, that there was considerable freight brought in and out of Lakefield, and that required steam power, while the passenger service had been cut down very much by automobile traffic, which was reducing the revenue from that source.

CONSOLATION

Not dead—oh, no! but borne beyond the shadows
Into the full, clear light;
For ever done with mist and cloud and tempest,
Where all is calm and bright.

Not even sleeping — called to glad awakening
In Heaven's endless day;
Not still and moveless stepped from earth's rough places
To walk the King's highway.

Not silent—just passed out of earthly hearing
To sing Heaven's sweet, new song.
Not lonely—dearly loved and dearly loving
Amid the white-robed throng.

Be not forgetful—keeping fond remembrance
Of dear ones left awhile;
And looking gladly to the bright reunion
With hand clasp and with smile.

Oh, not, not dead! but past all fear of dying,
And with all suffering o'er;
Say not that I am dead when Jesus calls me,
To live for evermore.

Velvet

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(United Press).—In planning the evening gown for Fall, why not try velvet? Aren't you just a trifle "fed up" on chiffons and beaded sheafs? Every one who is young enough to wear bobbed hair wears chiffons and that's saying something in these days of sixty-year-old flappers. Beaded sheaths have simply been worn ragged for the past eight years and there is nothing new about them.

Velvet, though not a new material, is far from being common. This season the velvets shown in the shops seem to be softer and lovelier than ever before. There are pastel shades which we have never seen before in velvet material. Also velvets which fade from one shade into a deeper shade of the same color as well as batik effects and prints.

Skirts will be full at the hem during the coming season. No material lends itself better to the full hemline than does a soft chiffon velvet Bodices are long, necklines V-shaped or rounding and skirts flaring at the rear and sides or all around. A velvet gown made on such lines will have more distinction than fluffy chiffons or ornate beaded models. No material cuts so well in the circular hem effect as velvet. No trimming other than a floral spray at the shoulder, a rhinestone ornament or narrow rhinestone belt should be used on velvet since the material itself is so lovely that it is best when unadorned.

Shades that are loveliest for evening this season are amber, coral, violet, fushia, scarlet, pink, greenish yellow or citron and grayish blue. The velvet gowns shown in the shops at present, though simple as to line, are quite costly. Owing to their simplicity the home seamstress can copy these models successfully anod though the making is not done by an expert, the material falls in flattering folds and $20 worth of material turns out a $100 gown.

SOME EXCELLENT SEPTEMBBR MENUS

Menu.
Lettuce Soup. Croutons.
Roast Chicken. Sweet Potatoes.
Fried Tomatoes.
Pineapple and Onion Salad.
Brown Betty Pudding. Coffee.

In making the lettuce soup, wash thoroughly and chip coarsely, four heads of the dark green lettuce. Place the lettuce in the saucepan with a finely minced onion, a half cupful of finely minced celery leaves, two green mint leaves and a half minced red pepper. Cover with a quart of water and cook gently for a half hour. Add salt, pepper, a tablespoonful of sugar, a pint of hot milk and thicken with a little white roux, the consistency of cold honey.

Make a good savory dressing for the chicken and cook the sweet potatoes Maryland style. For the pineapple salad, dice the meat of a fresh pineapple and slice a small Spanish onion very thin. Line the salad bowl with lettuce leaves, dust a little powdered sugar over the onion, mix it with the pineapple, add heavy French dressing enough to moisten. Garnish with stuffed olives.

Menu.
Cream of Flounder Soup.
Broiled Fish.
Creamed Potatoes. Stewed Tomatoes.
Combination Lettuce Salad.
Apple Cobbler. Coffee.

Have a medium-sized fresh flounder filleted. Place the fillets in a saucepan with a minced onion, a tablespoonful of minced celery leaves, salt and pepper. Cover with a quart of clear water and let boil until the fish begins to flake apart; then lift it with a skimmer. Add a pint of boiling hot milk to the soup, add a teaspoonful of sugar, thicken with white roux, strain, then add the flaked fish and serve. Broil daintily any good fish in season, and when done dust it with pepper and salt and dot with butter. Garnish with lemon quarters and parsley. For the salad, select as many different kinds of lettuce as the market afford, a little of each. Wash the lettuce, shred coarsely, add a strip of minced pepper and a minced onion to the heavy French dressing and garnish with radish roses.

For the cobbler, line a shallow square pan with good short-crust. Pare, core and cut good apples into segments like orange quarters. Fit them on edge into the crust, dust thickly with sugar, add a little cinnamon and a little nutmeg, dot with butter, and turn in the juice of a lemon in a half glass of water. Bake and serve with good pudding sauce.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

There is a young man in my town whom I once loved very much, until one evening at a friend's party he ignored me completely. Soon after this he came to my home and made an apology to me. Now he is trying to win my love again.

What would you advise me to do?

SMILES.

SMILES: If you feel that this young man is worthy of your friendship and your affection, accept his apology, my dear. After all, his inattention one evening was not a very serious demeanor and you should be broadminded enough to overlook it.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl eighteen years old and have been going with Jack a year. We were engaged, and one day he broke a "date" with me which he could have kept. I fussed and said lots of things that hurt his feelings, and now he doesn't ask me for "dates" and barely speaks when he passes.

I still love him. Will you please advise me what to do?

TROUBLED BLONDIE.

TROUBLED BLONDIE: Since you are engaged to Jack, it is your privilege to telephone him and ask him to come and talk things over. Explain that you did not mean to be so cross with him and give him a chance to apologize for his conduct. If your love is really sincere it will overrule all obstacles.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

While visiting in a nearby town I met a young man of about my own age, whom I had known from childhood. When I left he asked permission to correspond with me, which I refused, thinking my parents would object.

But now I don't think they would care, and as I would like to correspond with him, what would you advise me to do?

FORGET-ME-NOT.

FORGET-ME-NOT: Although ordinarily it is the place of the young man to write first, I think you would be justified in beginning the correspondence. You might write him a short note, telling him that you refused him the privilege of writing because you feared your parents would object. He will understand, of course, that since they do not now approve he is free to write you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

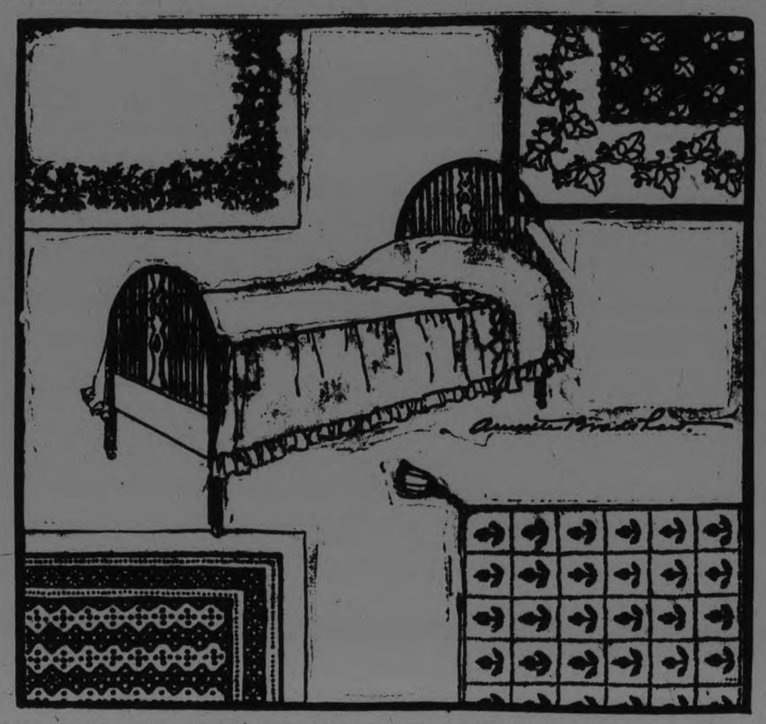
DAINTY BEDSPREADS

By Annette Bradshaw



Gone are the days when one did not consider a bedroom well-dressed unless the bedspread was spotless white. Whether one's taste ran to a marseilles spread or a crocheted cover or a dimiity or swiss cover, white it had to be before it was considered "just right." But like everything else, "those days are gone forever."

Now one seeks beauty and a bit of color. Perhaps one's room is hung with taffeta in a blue or rose or gold. What is daintier and more effective than to fashiona a bedspread of the same material with a tiny ruffle all around the edge and piped with a contrasting color, as shown on the bed in the center of the illustration above.

In the upper left is a spread of unbleached muslin on which has been stnciled a border in colors thatharmonize with the furnishings of the room. In the upper right is a cretonne spread the center of which is of cretonne to match the hangings and the border of unbleached muslin has been appliqued with a design cut from the cretonne.

In the lower left-hand corner is a spread which is charming for any of the masculine members of the family. It is one of those gaily colored Chinese spreads—which also make wonderful hangings—in a conventional pattern. Most of the shops are showing these in their Oriental department at comparatively little cost. They launder well and are the sort of thing that keeps a man's room from looking too feminine.

In the lower right is an old-fashioned spread of crochet squares. This, however, is not white. The background is of a grayish tint and the flowers can be of any desired color. This can also be made of the coarse grayish material so much in vogue, almost like burlap only finer and softer. with the flowers darned in gay wool. This, too, makes an attractive cover for the masculine bedroom.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A VERY SIMPLE SPORTS COSTUME

The manikins at Madame's have spent much time lately discussing new Fall trends.

Gaby came in today with a radiant look on her face and a package under her arm.

"They say it is very inelegant to carry bundles on the street," she remarked. "But I had to bring this bargain home with me."

"Why did you have to?" I asked.

"Because I bought it at a remnant sale, and I'm just crazy to cut it out tonight," answered the truthful Gaby.

"Well, of course, anyone who finds a bargain must bring it home immediately," I assured her. "Let's have a look."

Gaby obediently untied the bundle, and I saw that it contained some very good-looking jersey cloth in a delightful shade of tan.

"Stunning material," I remarked. "What are you going to make?"

"A very simple outfit for the street," Gaby informed me. "I brought it along so you could see it and help me to evolve an idea."

"I'd be delighted," I said. "But I bet you already have some grand idea in mind that you'd like to carry out."

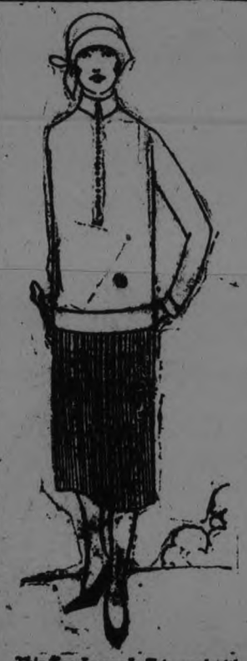
"Well, I have at that," Gaby admitted.

I was forced to laugh, because all the manikins know how they want their own clothes made, and it does seem foolish of them to ask other people's opinions.

"Well, you see, two-piece things are so ultra smart, that I feel forced to have a two-piece costume," Gaby said. "Now I want something practical for walking, and I think nothing is nicer looking than a pleated skirt."

"Capital idea!" I said approvingly.

"Then I saw an adorable little straight overblouse, made with a high turned-back collar and with tiny buttons at the front," Gaby continued.



This Tan Jersey Is Trimmed with Small Russet Buttons.

"Very tailored?" I asked.

"Quite," Gaby responded.

Then she picked up a pencil and made a lovely sketch of a costume with a finely pleated skirt, and a straight overblouse as she had described it.

"The buttons will be very tiny bone affairs," she informed me. "I think I shall get russet colored ones."

"I've always loved the combination of tan and russet," I assured her.

"And my russet grosgrain that will go with them admirably," she added.

Gray —and ageing!

"HOME and the fireside and knitting for my men" you say to yourself regretfully—as you gaze at your rapidly graying hair. But you're wrong. Tintex, remember, the vegetable preparation so harmless as water to hair and scalp that will quickly tint grey, faded or bleached hair any shade. It's so easy to use that you can apply it yourself, at home. The color is lasting and will not rub off or wash out. Home-Making Helps

By Wanda Barton

HINTS FOR THE WEEK-END HOSTESS.

There are many problems that confront the week-end hostess. She must decide just how much shall be spent on entertaining, how many she may accomodate at one time, and just how much available help she can depend upon, so that there may be extra time to enjoy her guests instead of working for them every minute.

The first thing the hostess should think out carefully is the subject of meals. They should be simple, be planned ahead, and be as informal as is possible to make them. If the meals can be served on the porch, so much the better: It is novel for city dwellers ,and the very informality makes even a simple meal a veritable feast. Use the simplest china, peasant ware if possible, that is colorful and attractive; no linens that must be worried about, but the straw or oilcloth mat sets; plated ware instead of silver. And for luncheon, the paper napkins of large size and other paper things to save labor, can be used. Even the pretty paper plates with the fancy colored borders may be used to save labor. Regular hours for meals are helpful for both hostess and guest.

The wise hostess puts away her best spreads and bed fixing during the summer unless she has plenty of help to care for them. Instead, she uses on the beds the little dimity spreads that are easy to wash and that look dainty and pretty when fresh and clean. This leaves the guest free to use the bed for a nap in the afternoon without worrying over taking the spread off and so on. It is also a good idea to fold a pair of summer blankets over a rod fastened to the closet door for extra use if needed. An extra pillow is often appreciated. If a request comes, then it may be cased and added to the bed for that paticular guest. A red electric bulb on the fixture in the hall nearest the bath room is a good idea and saves many minutes hunting some one up to point the way. In helping people to help themselves the hostess really saves herself labor, time and energy, and also leaves the guests with homey and comfortable feelings.

Let's Talk It Over

Extending the Hands to a Stranger

Amost the first thing I remember is the scent of roses in Summer—a shabby little country church and a very sleepy little girl with dangling legs in a big pew. I've long ago forgotten the sermons I used to hear in that church. But the scent of the country roses outside the window and the kindliness of the people who sat in the worn, wooden pews linger. When I read a letter like the following I wonder if the church is losing its hold on the people. I wonder if, in becoming a great institution, it is losing its close contact—if the lovely buildings we point to with pride are empty of love and charity.

I shall not attempt to answer this letter. I leave it to each church to answer. DO YOU WELCOME STRANGERS — OR DO YOU WRITE YOUR WELCOME IN DEAD INK—and let it go at that?

There is a great need for friendliness in every big city. People write to me every day—scores of them—and ask me where they can find companionship and a word of welcome. I have echoed the printed welcomes issued by our churches. I have told these lonely ones that they will find a welcome there. I have sent them, believing that they would be welcomed and they write and tell me they found no friendliness, no human kindness. Surely this is the church's opportunity — surely you DO welcome newcomers. THEN SAY SO. Take them by the hand, ask their names, invite them to visit you, call on them at their hotels or in their homes. PROVE TO THEM THAT YOU WANT TO WELCOME THEM — THAT YOU WANT TO BE THEIR FRIENDS Yes, I belong to a church. I am not going to answer for that church. Let each man and minister answer for himself.

COULD THIS MAN'S EXPERIENCE HAVE HAPPENED IN YOUR CHURCH?

Does your city really welcome the stranger within her gates?

I'll say you do not. We all judge many persons and things by past experience, by comparisons, by the amount of pleasure we receive from them: To be perfectly frank, will say that I am a man past middle age. I came to your city some months ago. Not one person in this city outside of my family do I know. I have attended church twice on Sunday and each evening during the past weeks for special services. This church is probably an average of the city. In the pews are cards saying:

"THIS IS THE HOME OF THE STRANGER. YOU ARE WELCOME. WE INVITE YOU TO WORSHIP WITH US. FILL THESE CARDS OUT, GIVING NAMES AND ADDRESSES, PLACE THEM IN THE COLLECTION BOX THAT THE PASTOR MAY MEET YOU."

Up to this date no one has introduced himself, asked my name or has recognized me as being a stranger.

A few weeks ago I made an attempt to get into a Sabbath school. At the head of the stairs I saw a lady attending to what I will call an information bureau. I introduced myself and stated my errand. She took me to the door of the assembly room. I seated myself, and when they returned to their respective rooms I had no invitation to join any group, and instead of following any of them went down on the streets.

Two blocks away there was a band of the Salvation Army. That was interesting, too.

At the proper time we went to the church for the preaching service. Now, after two months, I am still recognized as a stranger. Am I too sensitive or too timid? Should I elbow myself into the crowd and demand recognition? Are you hospitable or aren't you?

It reminds me of the old - time country joke of the jake who took his best girl to the circus. As usual, the first thing to attract his attention was an ice cream stand. He leaves the girl standing, buys a dish, eats and goes back to the girl, wiping his mouth on his shirt sleeve and saying, "It's good, Sal. Better buy yourself some."

PICNIC AT COBOURG WAS LARGE AFFAIR

About 3,300 C.P.R. Employees Came on Four Special Trains.

COBOURG, Sept. 3.—It is estimated there were fully thirty-three hundred people in town on Saturday. They came here on the four special trains that conveyed the C.P.R. employees from Toronto and Smith Falls to Cobourg for their annual outing. They were met at the Cobourg depot by Cobourg Kilties Band, who played as the trains arrived and unloaded their passengers, and by Mayor McArthur and members of the Town Council. When the last train had come in a procession was formed and headed by the Band proceeded to Victoria Park. There a big programme of sports was run off. It included besides races and games of different kinds, a ball game between Smith Falls and Toronto, in which the former won. Soft ball games between two Toronto ladies' teams and a bowling tourney. For the latter a beautiful trophy was offered in competition by the C.P.R. Recreation Club to be competed for by four rinks of bowlers and one lady rink from Toronto, and the rink from Cobourg. The Toronto bowlers won the trophy.

The Speeches.

Mayor F. J. McArthur officially welcomed the delegates in a brief address, given at Victoria Park Pavilion in the afternoon.

This was responded to by Mr. Chas. Hill, president of the C.P.R. Recreation Club and by the Secretary.

Kiddies Had Good Time.

The kiddies had a good time at the C.P.R. picnic. The Company distributed among them 2,500 ice cream cones and about fifty gallons of milk.

The afternoon slipped by all too fast and at six o'clock some of the visitors began to leave for the depot. The Coboug Kilties Band accompanied them and played at the station from 6 p.m. to 7.30 p.m. when the last train pulled out to the tune of Auld Lang Syne.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Now and then—not often—we see the golfer who falls back from the ball as the clubhead goes through. Not backward from the ball, but backward behind it. If he hits the ball with anything like solidity with this swing he sends it away up in the air. This type of player finishes the swing with his weight almost wholly on his right foot, which is wrong. The weight should pass through the hips and be entirely on the left foot at the finish. The weight goes through with the clubhead, neither ahead of nor behind it. Failing to get the weight through can result from applying force to the club too soon in the down swing. If you exert due pressure from the take-off of the hitting swing all the speed will have been taken out of the club before it reaches the ball, so that the player usually will fall back just as he hits. Such a swing is upside down. Start the club down easily, then let it accelerate itself. Don't force it much —it will naturally gain speed by itself.

'RED' M'KELVEY IN HEROIC ROLE

Queen's Rugby Star Helps Iron Out Domestic Trouble Near Havelock.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 3—John "Red" McKelvey, crack middle wing of Queen's champions arrived back in the city yesterday morning from Havelock, where he has been spending the summer, and is already starting to get into shape for the coming rugby season. .

"Red" carried in his bag a real honest-to-goodness will, all signed, but not sealed or delivered.

It appears that some miles from Havelock a husband and his wife were having some domestic trouble, and the wife went out one afternoon and did not return at night. The husband, thinking that she was deserting him, secured a bottle of whiskey, and commenced to drink it. He then sent word to the wife's mother to send his wife back, and loaded his revolver and waited her return. In the meantime he also wrote out his will intending to shoot his wife, and then kill himself. The news got to "Red" who was assisting Dr. Holdcroft, and they managed to enter the house and administer to the husband a little soothing syrup which put him to sleep for several hours. The will found itself into "Red's" bag and the revolver was taken care of. Later, it is understood, the domestic difficulties were ironed out.

MOONEY GIBSON CUBS MANAGER?

Chicago Rumors Maranville to be Deposed—Meets President Today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press). — Reports were current in baseball circles last night that "Rabbit" Maranville may be deposed as manager of the Chicago Nationals and supplanted by George Gibson, present coach of the club and former manager of the Pirates.

Maranville arrived here yesterday too late for a conference with William Veeck, president of the Cubs. President Veeck said there was no significance attached to Maranville's return and that the Rabbit had not been officially summoned.

President Veeck would not admit that a change in the management was contemplated, or that Gibson was under consideration as Maranville's successor.

"It would not be wise for me to jeopardize Maranville's position with the Cubs," Mr. Veeck said. "I shall have a talk with Maranville Thursday, but I have nothing to give out in advance of that meeting."

Reports from Boston, where the Cubs finished a series Tuesday, were to the effect that Maranville had failed to enforce discipline on himself that he exacted from the players under him, and that he had been ordered home by President Veeck.

There had been rumors, says the Herald and Examiner, that during Maranville's convalescence from an ankle injury he sustained during spring training, he did not always act as one in his condition should. Then there was the affair with a taxicab driver in New York, where the manager and several players became involved in a fistic argument with the driver.

Maranville then was reported to have been in the right.

But stories of a conflict with a house detective in Boston in the early hours of Monday and his ejection from the bench and out of the park Tuesday, throw other lights on the situation, says the newspaper. All this appears due for an airing at the conference with President Veeck.

SMELTERS WIN AT BELLEVILLE

Deloro Eliminate Cobourg and Meet Raybestos in Next Round.

ADA'S VICTORY

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 3—(Special to The Examiner).—Deloro won handsomely at Belleville on Wednesday against Cobourg by the score of 9-3. The game was keenly fought out from start to finish. Deloro went in first to bat against the pitching of "Punch" Derry. One run was registered in the innings. Ada opened the pitching for the Smelters. Cobourg evened the score in their half. The second innings proved once more Deloro's lucky venture and by hard hitting they added three runs. Cobourg responded with a lone tally. The next two innings both sides failed to score. Deloro piled on another two runs in the fifth by smart play. After this it seemed evident that Cobourg was a beaten team, Deloro scoring thrice while Cobourg could only gather one. Derry for Cobourg was not in usual good form, whereas Ada was in merry mood for Deloro.

Umpires were Gerow and Nurse of Belleville.

BOBBY JONES IN GOLF WINNERS

WEDNESDAY'S PLAY

OAKMONT, Pa., Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Favorites of the galleries, including the present champion and two former title-holders, won their way through the match play in the national amateur golf championship yesterday—yet there was disappointment in the failure of Roland Mackenzie, 19-year-old Washington schoolboy, who led the field of 134 in the qualifying rounds, to overcome Dick Jones, of White Plains, N.Y., a rugged youth who has seen many tournaments.

Bobby Jones, victor at Merion a year ago, had no trouble in disposing of the former metropolitan champion, Bill Reekie, of Montclair, N.J., 12 and 10. It was little more than a workout for Jones.

In the same bracket with Jones, George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, advanced and will encounter Jesse P. Guilford, of Boston, in the round before the semi-finals to-day. Von Elm defeated little Jimmy Manion, of St. Louis, at the 16th green in the afternroon, 3 and 2, while Guilford eliminated Eddie Held, of St. Louis, former public links and trans-Mississippi champion, 7 and 5.

Jones' opponent to-day will be the present trans-Mississippi champion, Clarence Wolff, of Sappington, Mo., who thrilled a small gallery by overcoming a lead of five holes held by Fred Knight, of Philadelphia, in the morning to win by 2 and 1 in one of the day's desperate struggles.

In the upper half, Jess Sweetser, former champion, eliminated another former champion and the oldest man in the torunament, William C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, 5 and 3. Sweetser's opponent to-day is Watts Gunn, of Atlanta, another youthful figure, and the youngster, from his showing yesterday in conquering Vincent Bradford, of Patterson Heights, Pa., by 11 and 10, may be expected to give his much higher-rated opponent a sturdy test.

For fifteen straight holes Gunn was three under par, and he won every one of them.

The other match to-day will find Lauren Upson, of the University of California, engaging Richard A. Jones as the result of his victory by 4 and 3 over the New York State amateur champion, Jack Mackie, Jr., of Inwood.

OLD COUNTRY CRICKET

LONDON, Sept. 2.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Following hard on the heels of their ten to nothing victory over Burnley on Saturday, Aston Villa served up another surprise for their supporters this afternoon, when in a hard fought game at Manchester they were defeated by the United by three goals to nothing. The United's victory was all the more creditable coming as it did after their initial defeat at the hands of West Ham.

Sunderland made it two wins in a row by taking Blackburn Rovers into camp by six-two, while West Bromwich rang up their second drawn game of the year against Everton.

Results of the games to-day were as follows:

Liverpool 2, Notts County 0.
Manchester United 3, Aston Villa 0.
Sunderland 6, Blackburn Rovers 2.
West Bromwich Albion 1, Everton 1.

HUGGINS MEETS RUTH ON FRIDAY

$5,000 FINE STANDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth will likely be reinstated to the good graces of baseball on Saturday, but the $5,000 fine stands. Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, who last Saturday indefinitely suspended the slugger and taxed him $5,000 for alleged misconduct, notified Ruth yesterday that he would confer with him Friday, and at that time notify him when his suspension will be lifted.

Those close to the situation interpret this to mean that Huggins will settle his differences with Ruth at that conference and reinstate him in time for Saturday's game.

Ruth appeared at the Yankee club-house yesterday and pleaded with Huggins to allow him to don a uniform and practice with the team before the game, but Huggins refused to listen and told him to go home and think things over and come back Friday.

3,000 Await Arrival.

Babe's entrance back into the city had its dramatic side. The crowd of 3,000 stood watching for Babe, finally saw him come lumbering up the incline lugging his famous black enamelled grip, watched him dart quickly to the taxicab exit and disappear. But when Babe alighted from his taxi at the Concourse Plaza where he lives, there was another crowd that cheered and peered at him and to which he had to give recognition. Then he bounded into the hotel and up to his apartment.

There he held court. He saw the men of the press who had followed him in a fleet af taxi cabs. Babe didn't want to say much. He admitted he was sorry for the whole thing, and that he had had to make this sort of entrance back into the land of his admirers.

"I am an old ball player myself," said Huggins. "I am the last person to make things hard for a player. But in this case I acted after mature deliberation and I have received the complete backing of Colonel Ruppert, owner of the club. Ruth will have to realize that the club is bigger than he is and that he must satisfy Colonel Ruppert and myself, manager of the club, that he is willing to do as any other player is expected to do."

"Ruth is mighty sorry," said Colonel Ruppert, entering into the conversation with Huggins and the newspaper men. "He wants to apologize, and I'm sure he will."

"Will you accept his apology?" Huggins was asked.

"Of course I will," said Huggins. "I know what a baseball player thinks. The things he said about me, the personal things, don't matter at all. It is the things he did that count."

When Babe was asked what he had done on the Western trip to merit so drastic a thing as a $5,000 fine and a suspension, he seemed at a loss to explain.

"I don't know what I did. I only stayed out late on two occasions and I wasn't drinking. It was a great surprise to me, I was as sore as a bull when Huggins told me, and that statement I made in St. Louis is the kind of a thing a fellow would say when he is sore. I am sorry, and I want to make peace," concluded Babe.

"What about the $5,000 fine; do you ever hope to get that back?" Babe was asked.

"Gee, yes, I sure hope so," replied Babe in a fervent tone.

AUSTRALIA HAS ABUNDANT LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS

Sir Hugh Demison Disputes Statement of Sydney's Lord Mayor.

ADDRESSED PRESS

Grattan O'Leary Declares Canada Not Lukewarm to British Connection.

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 3 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters). —Strong exception to the remarks of Lord Mayor Stokes in welcoming the Empire Press Union delegates yesterday, in which he stated that New South Wales did not want any immigrants at present, was taken by Sir Hugh Denison, chairman and managing director of the Sun Newspapers, Limited, Sydney and Melbourne, when he addressed the members of the overseas delegation at a banquet tendered them by the Sydney members of the Union last night. After speaking words of greeting to the visitors, Sir Hugh referred to the civic reception and the Lord Mayor's statement on immigration, and said:

"There are great stretches of unoccupied territory in Australia, and for anyone to tell you that until the land is cut up there is no room for immigrants is a farce. Don't be misled by what was purely a class and biased assertion."

Replying to the toast of "Our Guests," Major Hon. I. J. Astor, M.P., chairman of The Times, London, said he believed that much good would accrue from the press conference at Melbourne. They had no use for anything which impeded the exchange of news and views within the Empire, and in this connection, he stated, the delegates had designs on the postal and cable rates and would discuss such things as wireless and airships.

Grattan O'Leary of Ottawa replied for the Canadian delegates, and said that what impressed the visitors most so far was the evidence everywhere in New Zealand and Australia of efforts being made to improve the lot of the common people. He declared that there was not a vestige of truth in the suggestion that Canada was only lukewarm in her attitude towards the British connection; but, he added, he would be lacking in frankness if he did not say there was a growing tendency in Canada to examine the terms and conditions upon which that connection was based.

SEEKS LADIES WHO SAW CAR STRIKE HIM

John Elliott Was Knocked Off Wheel By Motorist.

COBOURG I.O.O.F. DECORATION DAY

Beautiful Service Was Followed by Placing of Flowers on Graves.

MANY PRESENT

COBOURG, Sept. 3. — Sunday was the annual Decoration Day of Cobourg Lodge No. 136, I.O.O.F, when they paraded from their lodge room to St. Peter's cemetery and Cobourg Union cemetery to decorate the graves of their brethren who rest from their labors in those beautiful God's Acres. Cobourg Kilties Band headed the procession, and the members of the I.O.O.F. had with them also visiting brethren from Port Hope, Bowmanville and Peterborough, and a few from other places. Each wore a rosebud as a buttonaire, a gift from ex-Mayor Don Denton. This year the Cobourg Lodge had iron markers with the links attached, made at the foundry here. There had been previously placed on the graves. Each member of the Order carried a bouquet of flowers and when that order of the service was reached they quickly separated and performed the beautiful ceremony of placing flowers on the graves. The graves of the following were decorated. Samuel Jakes, Wm. Russell, Thos. Wark J. J. Jeffrey, W. B. Thomas, Dr. H. A. Craig, Wm. Weston, Arthur Milne, S. E. Rorabeck, Thos. Mitchell, J. G. Isaac, John Henderson, Walter Ross, James Forbes, Isaac Wilson, Cecil Pratt and H C. Webb were decorated. The grave of C. H. Egan in Baltimore Methodist cemetery was also visited.

The Service.

The service was beautiful and very appropriate to the occasion.

It was conducted by Rev. Temple Stannage Boyle, D.D., rector of St. Peter's church, and Rev. Adam Hamilton, M.A., pastor of the United Church, King street, gave the address. The band led the service of praise and the hymns sung were "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide With Me."

THOUGHTLESS MAN TOOK PET TURTLE

NEW YORK, Septembre 3. Canadian Press. — Cedric, the pet turtle of Mrs. Edward Raynor of Brookhaven, L.I., who came to her door summer and spring for four years to eat pancakes made from a family recipe 200 years old, has been kidnapped. Mrs. Raynor advertised her loss as follows:

"LOST—If this notice comes to the man who took the turtle, will he please return him to Mrs. Edward Raynor, who fears that he will miss his pancakes and also will never be able to find his way back to his winter location."

"I want only to know that the turtle is well off," Mrs. Raynor said. "If the man does not want to return him I will be glad to send him a recipe for the pancakes. I'm afraid the turtle will miss them and be unhappy."

Like Mrs. Raynor, many others in Brookhaven have made pets of turtles especially those with the initals of their ancestors carved on their shells. When Cedric came to her house with the initial "B" on his back Mrs. Raynor spotted him immediately as the pet of the Bartow family, her ancestors, who settled in Brookhaven, two centuries ago.

Every morning except during strawberry time and in winter when he hiberated, Cedric would waddle up to the porch for breakfast of ancestral pancakes.

A few days ago Mrs. Raynor said, a man picked up the turtle after breakafst and drove off with him in an automobile.

VISITORS FROM OLD LAND HAVE BEEN IMPRESSED

Prospects of Development in Maritimes Aroused Enthusiasm.

LEAVE FOR WEST

British Newspapermen Are in Toronto Now to See C. N. E.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 3 (Special to The Examiner)—Having visited many of the agricultural and industrial centres of the Maritime Provinces and thoroughly surveyed that part of Canada, the party of British journalists touring the country as the guests of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to Montreal at noon Tuesday and left again for the West. Members of the party were deeply impressed by the hospitality they received on all sides and express enthusiastic views on possibilities for development in the fishing, fruit growing and other industries peculiar to the coastal provinces. A part of the trip which was especially enjoyed was a motor ride through the apple orchards, the Annapolis valley, the land of Evangeline and the valley of the Saint John River. Proceeding west from Montreal the party will be in Toron on Thursday, and the day will be spent at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Niagara Falls, Hamilton and other points in Central Ontario will then be visited after which the party will journey north and spend two days resting at French River bungalow camp, then on to the nickel and copper mining district around Sudbury taking in the main points of interest in Northern Ontario before commencing the tour of Western Canada, the prairie provinces and the Pacific coast.

F. G. R. Peterson, London Times; C. J. Jory, London Daily Telegraph; Capt. A. Altham, Morning Post, London; Hugh S. Nartin, London Daily News; J. F. Chapter, Westminster Gazette, London; W. A. Renton, London Daily Chronicle; J. A. Buisst, Glasgow Herald; H. A. Colwill, Western Morning News, Plymouth; H. W. Read, South Wales Daily News; J. Sayers, Belfast Telegraph.

The party is being conducted by J. Harry Smith, Canadian Pacific Press representative.

The vacancy on the Appeal Court was caused by the retirement of Mr. Justice J. J. MacLaren.

QUEEN BEGAN DUTIES OF MOTHER AS BABE

Queen Helena Mothered Her Little Brother While Young Girl.

ROME, Sept. 3. — (Associated Press.)—Discussing the duties of a mother with a visitor recently, Queen Helena told her guest that she had always been a mother. "When I was a baby," said the queen, "I mothered my dolls, loving them as though they were living creatures. As a young girl, I was a mother to my youngest brother. When he was born my mother was seriously ill, and the infant was turned over to me. I did more for him than I did for my own children, because for them I had the aid of nurses."

Queen Helena recalled a story of the crown prince when a toddling tot. The youngest had been crying and quickly dried his tears when his mother invited him to aid her in a minor domestic task.

"Now you are a fine little man," said the queen to her now smiling son. "And to think just a little while ago you were crying like a naughty child."

"Oh, mother," replied little Humbolt, "that was not I crying, it was another little boy."

COMMENCING HER COLLECTION.

Sir John Lavery, the distinguished portrait painter, was engaged in painting the portrait of a beautiful but very shy little girl, when he chanced to find a three penny bit in his color box.

"Do you collect three-penny bits" he inquired of the child, showing her the coin.

"Here's one for your collection, then. Now how many have you?"

"One," replied the little sister.

I.O.F. CONCERT DREW LARGE ATTENDANCE

Local and Visiting Talent Provided Long and Varied Programme.

Under the auspices of the Peterboro Court of the Independent Order of Foresters, a very successful concert was held last night in the Great War Veterans' Association Hall. His Worship Mayor Turner, who presided, made a brief happy speech, in which he eulogized the fraternal spirit exhibited by the Foresters and kindred organizations, and dwelt upon the benefits to be enjoyed by those attaching themselves to the Order.

A good-sized audience enjoyed a splendid programme, furnished by Ernest Segouin, Miss Mabel Cottrelle and Miss Annie Logan, dancers; Mrs. Dwyer, contralto; Bert Lloyd and Sam Harris, comedians, and Miss Mamie Mason, pianist.

Mr. Lloyd, Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, addressed the gathering and explained the ideals and methods of the organization. The object of the Foresters, he said, was to furnish protection at cost. It was not a profit-making company and no dividends were declared. During its 50 years of existence, the Order had distributed $84,000,000, not in the homes of the wealthy, but in the humble cottages where the breadwinner had been laid aside by illness or removed by death. Every working day saw $11,000 pass out of the funds of the Order, to be distributed among the members who were in need of succour. The Order maintained a home where 932 orphan children were fed, clothed, housed and educated, without any stigma or institutional rules or regulations. Mayor Foster, a few days ago, paid a compliment to the Order while addressing a gathering of delegates. Of the many who had applied for relief from the Charity Board of Toronto City, not one had been a member of the I.O.F. By joining the Foresters, a young man or woman would be adding to the promise of future years as well as helping on a great fraternal work. He concluded by urging his hearers to get in touch with the local representative, Mr. Brown, at the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Brown, in charge of the local court of the I.O.F., also briefly addressed the assembly.

Proceedings were closed by votes of thanks to all concerned, and by the singing of the National Anthem.

CARS DAMAGED NEAR WELCOME

Cars Collided With Considerable Damage, But Occupants Escaped.

CAR OVER CULVERT.

WELCOME, September 3. — A collision of two cars took place on Sunday evening about 10.30 at the Welcome corner.

A Peterboro car, homeward bound, containing four adults and two children, was standing in front of the garage, getting supplies, when a Brantford car travelling from the east, ran into it. Fortunately all escaped with some slight scratches, although both of the cars were badly damaged.

The people bound for Brantford took the midnight train home, while those bound for Peterboro secured a car and proceeded on their way.

Over Culvert.

Another car accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon when a Ford coupe containing three men went over the culvert at the foot of the hill west of Welcome.

The men escaped with a bad shaking up and the car had a bent axle and broken wind shield.

PUBLICATION OF TAXES ATTACKED

Reflects on Integrity of Honest Citizens in U.S.A.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—The effect of the publication of income tax payments was being generally discussed yesterday as millions read in the newspapers the taxes on President Coolidge, industrial magnates, movie stars, baseball players, neighbors and so on.

As a result of a questionaire submitted to sixty collectors of internal revenue in the principal centers of the country, the New York Times concludes that it is their general opinion that publication of payments has had no beneficial effect.

One collector wires that publications causes erroneous opinions to be formed reflecting on the integrity of honest citizens.

One of the principal reasons for lack of accurate information is the fact that while the total gross income is recorded in each return only the actual tax paid is made public.

Charlie Chaplin, who paid only $345, is cited as a case in point. The tax would indicate an income of about $10,000 a year, when he earns more than that.

TORE UP TRACKS

Berwyn Citizens Tired of Street Car Accidents.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 3.—Angered by the second street car wreck in three days, a crowd of nearly 1,000 citizens of Berwyn, a suburban town, early yesterday tore up several sections of the trolley track.

Armed with axes, crow bars and shovels, the vigilantes gathered along the right-of-way shortly after midnight and hacked away the rails. They insisted the wrecks had been caused by defective rails which the company refused to repair. Fifteen passengers were injured in the first accident, but the car that leaped the track Tuesday night carried no passengers.

The crowd went about its work orderly and broke up when the work was done.

AT THE ROYAL.

"GET-TOGETHER-NITE" TO-NIGHT.

Community singing, no elties and amateurs will be added to-night to the programme at the Royal.

Special slides have been prepared of the old favorite songs, "On the Banks of the Wabash," "School Days," "Silver Threads," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Let the Rest of the World Go By," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's all here," etc.

Mr. Harris will introduce one of Raymond Hitchcock's talking song hits, "The Lobster is the Wise Guy after All." Local amateurs and Raymond Griffith in "The Night Club," a screaming comedy feature, should turn patrons away again to-night.

"THE NIGHT CLUB."

A Screaming Comedy with Raymond GRIFFITH.

The screen's high hat scream is back in Peterboro.

Raymond Griffith comes to the Royal Theatre to-day the Paramount picture, "The Night Club," based on "After Five," a stage play by William de Mille. Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda, ae featured with Griffith in the cast.

"Funnier than Changing Husbands and Lord Chumley rolled into one" is the way Paramount described the picture and that is just the way we found it.

Griffith has the role of a rich young idealist who denounces all women after he has been left at the altar, and then in Spain meets "the most beautiful girl in the world," and experiences a kaleidoscopic succession of thrilling and altogether laughable adventures.

It so develops that Robert White (Griffith) is to marry Edith Henderson, played by Miss Reynolds, if he wants to collect a million dollars left him by his uncle. The girl overhears him pass a remark to the effect that marrying her would be an easy way to make a million, and she denounces him as a fortune-hunter.

From that time on Ray tried every method of taking his life so that according to the will the money would go automatically to the girl. Everything he turns his hand to goes wrong and every attempt at suicide proves a farce.

Then he strikes on the bright idea of making love to the Spanish girl, Carmen, the part played by Louise Fazenda, and have Diablo (Beery) her jealous sweetheart, run a knife through him. Even this scheme goes against him, when the Spaniard thanks him for taking the senorita off his hands.

One wouldn't go a bit wrong to say that "The Night Club" is the finest "class-comedy" the screen has ever seen.

AT THE REGENT

YAKIMA CANUTT IN "THE HUMAN TORNADO"

There is a thundering, swift-moving, rumbling, rip-snorting sort of a picture down at the Regent Theatre which opened to-day when "The Human Tornado," starring Yakima Canutt, had its first showing.

It is only natural that the man who is billed as the "World's Champion Cowboy" (and he is all of that, having twice won the title in competition at Cheyenne, Wyo., and Pendleton, Ore.) should be seen in action where speed, magnificent riding and thrills play a predominant part. In addition "The Human Tornado" happens to be an outstanding melodrama, with a logical plot and plenty of good situations.

The plot revolves around the treachery of Chet Marlow, who has amassed a large fortune in the East and who thinks little of his brother, Jim, for sticking out in the West. Chet cheats a pitiful old prospector out of his claim by the simple expedient of getting him to sign a "phoney" deed which afterwards turns out to be a deed of sale. But Jim, who is in love with the old man's daughter, steps in and eventually brings justice to the old man, although at one time he is opposed by his sneaking brother, the sheriff, and a band of crooks who are determined to lay hands on Chet's mining funds.

That is a very bald summary of the plot, and does not do justice to the power and cohesive quality of the dramatic situations which abound. Two rides down seemingly impossible cliffs, swimming a river, trick riding and gorgeously smooth "relays" which stamp Canutt as the horseman he is to provide some of the thrills.

AT THE CAPITOL

PARAMOUNT'S "CODE OF THE WEST" SOMETHING NEW IN WESTERN FILMS

Picture Based on Famous Zane Grey Story Chock-full of Action and Thrills Yet Lacks Two-Gun Villain

Readers of Zane Grey novels and film fans who have enjoyed the screen adaptations of his red-blooded stories are certain to be considerably surprised and not a little startled when they see the picture version of his latest book, "Code of the West." It opens at the Capitol today for a three days' run.

The striking thing about this new photoplay is that although it was written by Mr. Grey in his characteristic vivid and colorful style, with a rugged western setting, there isnt' a single pistol shot fired in the entire production and only on two occasions are guns displayed. This phenomenon is explained by the fact that the conventional, double-eyed, two-gun villain, heretofore considered an essential character in every Zane Grey story, is conspicuously missing from "Code of the West." Furthermore, the story deals with the West of today. For Zane Grey these are radical departures.

The plot primarily concerns itself with the romance of a cowboy and a flapper. The girl, who goes out West for her health, typifies the jazz life of the east. She deliberately plans to attract the sturdy young westerner, but laughingly turns him down when he proposes. But in the west such conduct is not easily condoned as she learns to her dismay. The cowboy forces her to marry him and then—but what happens after that you will have to find out for yourselves from the picture.

Owen Moore, popular film player, has the leading male role. Constance Bennett, because of her acting ability, youth and screen charm, was selected to play the part of the flapper. Others in the cast who are featured include Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle and David Butler.

William K. Howard, who produced the picture, has done a workmanlike job. He deserves an especial pat on the back for his effective handling of the big scenes in the production — notably, an exciting automobile-horse race and a tremendous forest fire.

DOG OWNERS

Read This Letter—See Special Prizes in Denne's Window

Dear Sir or Madam:

No doubt you are aware of the fact that last year the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition added to their many attractions a long demanded Dog Show. Although a first attempt, last year's Show was such a remarkable success that it reached the status of a two-point show with an entry of 250 highly bred canines.

This year the Dog Committee have set themselves the task of making the event a three-point show with an entry of 350 or more dogs.

They cannot do this without the hearty co-operation of every local dog owner, but with the co-operation there are still greater possibilities within our reach.

We want dog owners to realize that their dogs need not be registered or "pedigreed" to be eligible to compete. Entry fee for unregistered dogs is $1.25 and for registered animals $1.00, the extra 25c going to the Canadian Kennel Club.

Exhibitors receive a pass to the Exhibition and to the Dog Show as well on the two days, Friday and Saturday, on which it is held.

Get our splendid Prize List and Entry Form from the undersigned, or from W. S. Merrell of Merrell & Meredith, or H. S. Routley care of C. B. Routley's store.

Entries close September 10th, and please remember WE WANT YOURS BY THAT TIME, and are confidently counting on your support to that extent.

All dogs are fed, watered and cared for, also shown in the judging ring, if desired, FREE OF CHARGE.

SHOW YOUR INTEREST BY PHONING FOR PRIZE LIST RIGHT AWAY, THUS HELPING TO KEEP PETERBORO ON THE DOG SHOW MAP.

Yours for a big Show,

Secretary.

PRISONER MADE ESCAPE THROUGH HOLE IN WALL

Two Prisoners of Carleton Jail Have Not Yet Been Caught.

MEANT FOR OTHERS.

Governor Believes Wrong Men Used Hole Cut By Experts Outside.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3. — (Canadian Press). — Assisted by friends from outside, who cut a hole in the two-foot wall of the Carlton County Jail yard, two prisoners, Fred. Zavelitch, aged 17, of Eastview, Ont., and Ernest Dupuis, aged 32, of Hull, Que., made a successful get-away from the jail yesterday afternoon. No trace of them had been found. Jail Governor A. Dawson, in a statement last night, intimates that in his opinion the men who made their escape were not the men for whom the elaborate preparations had been made. Zavelitch and Dupuis were serving only short sentences for minor crimes, while a number of prisoners, some of international repute, are awaiting trial of more serious charges.

The hole cut through the wall was partly concealed by a stone pile, and has apparently been made by some one experienced in masonary.

FACTS ABOUT OPTOMETRY

The Prevalence Of Far-Sight

It is the opinion of Optometrists that this error of vision is more often met with than any other. And in addition to being so prevalent, it is very detrimental. It is present in all ages, the majority of children being to some extent far-sighted. There is but one way to correct far-sight—placing glasses before the eyes that remove the error. We have success in such cases.

SURVIVORS OF SHENANDOAH TELL THRILLING TALES OF EXPERIENCES WHEN DOOMED SHIP WAS BROKEN AND HURLED THEM GROUNDWARD THROUGH STORM

Sudden Wrench Given Ship By Opposing Blasts Cause of Disaster.

RUNNING WITH STORM.

Ship Seemed to Collapse All at Once When 3,000 Feet in Air.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., September 4. — Canadian Press. — Thrilling details of the tragedy of the Shenandoah were recounted by 18 of the crew of the wrecked dirigible, who arrived here this morning en route back to the base at Lakehurst.

The men were stiff and sore from the leaps they had made from the airship as it neared the ground. They were grimy nad very tired.

Fred J .Tobin, aviation pilot, Arlington, Mass., said:

"I had just gone down to relieve Everett Allan, one of the dead. He was running the elevators. I started to walk toward my station when a rip of wind struck us on one side and then on the other side. The ship was forced downward and then upward. Then there was a ripping, hissing sound and the big ship broke in two.

"You might realize how fast we came down. Part of the rigging and wires caught me around the waist and arms and I was dargged about 1000 feet by the free end of the ship along the roads and hills.

"I finally managed to free myself and fell about 60 feet. For several minutes I could not move. I felt as if nearly every bone in my body was broken, and I sur ly was tickled to death when I got up and found I could walk around."

Spottiswood H. Halliburton, of Macon, Georgia, an assistant engineer and officer said:

"Every man on the ship had orders to stand by. The orders were given about four or five minutes before the crash. We had been fighting through the storm for hours and struck into the very centre of it at that point. The men were still at their engines as the broken after part of the dirigible came close to the ground touching the tops of the trees and listing badly towards the port side.

"As she bounced down toward the ground some of the men were virtually thrown off while others closely watched their chance and leaped. It was half dark at the time."

Ralph Jones, Los Angeles, aviation machinist, said:

"I was in car No. 3. It was about 3.47 eastern standard time when I received signals for full speed. I

Government Will Abandon Lighter-Than-Air Activities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. — (United Press).—The Shanandoah disaster will probably result in the temporary, if not the complete, abandonment by the Government of its lighter-than-air activities.

The Los Angeles may be sold for what it will bring, the Lakehurst Air Station probably be closed, helium extraction be curtailed, and from now on appropriations and energies be concentrated on air planes.

This programme had virtually been decided on for reasons of economy before the loss of the Shenandoah, and with this new proof of the vulnerability of dirigibles, seems more certain than ever to be adopted.

DISMISS CHARGE OF SELLING WINE

Doctors Certified That It Was So Medicated as to be Useless as Beverage.

NOBODY MADE DRUNK.

The case against a local merchant who was charged two weeks ago with having for sale wine with a greater alcoholic content than 4.4 by volume allowed by the O.T. A. amendment, was dismissed with costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley in the police court this morning. His Worship said the evidence adduced by the prosecution had consisted of the defendant's admission of having the wine exposed for sale on his premises, and the Government analyst's certificate of the percentage of alcohol being in excess. On the other hand two local physicians (Dr. Young and McPherson) had sworn that the wine was sufficiently medicated to prevent it being used as a beverage. Further, no evidence had been offered that anyone had became intoxicated by the use of the wine. His Worship felt he had no alternative than to dismiss the charge.

Happiness is something that we had yesterday and hope to regain tomorrow, but which always eludes us to-day.

Pitiable Scenes at Airport When Survivors Return Home To-day.

COLONY OF MOURNING.

Present Grim Spectacle, All Scarred and Bruised, With Torn Clothing.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 4. — (United Press).—Eighteen survivors of the crew of the Shenandoah who set out only the day before yesterday from here to conquer the winds of the West, came home to-day to find a colony of mourning.

Scarred and bruised, still in their dungarees, some without hats, as they stepped off here at 9.55 a.m., to be greeted by a crowd of more than 1,000 relatives and friends.

It was a tearful greeting. Women and children, many of them having lost their husband and father in the disaster, cried hysterically as the survivors came from their coach.

The men attempted to smile but could not. They presented a grim spectacle as in their torn clothing, they clasped the hands of friends or folded members of their families into their arms.

Automobiles were driven up alongside the Lakehurst water tank, and the men gingerly climbed into them for the mile trip to the naval station. There they were to report to Commander Kleit.

More Variety For Prisoners Porridge Instead Of Gruel

TORONTO, September 4. — Canadian Press. — More tasty fare for the inmates of Ontario Jails is to come as the result of a report upon the present diet which has been made to Hon. Lincoln Goldie, the Provincial Secretary. The probe was instituted by the government into the jail fare when Charles Matthews, Jr., Peter Smith and Andrew Pepall, were successively found to have suffered under it. The result of this investigation has induced Hon. Mr. Goldie to announce certain modifications.

Instead of gruel and syrup, the prisoners will now be given porridge made from rolled oats, cornmeal or oatmeal, served with milk. Dinner which now consists of meat and potatoes in the form of stew, will be changed to meat and potatoes varied in form from time to time. Variety will also be lent to the supper menus.

BRITISH BOARD TO PROBE COAL INDUSTRY NAMED

Govt. Implements Promise Made When Subsidy Averted Miners' Strike.

INDEPENDENT BODY

In First Month Subsidy Amounted to About £860,000.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).—The Government has at last announced the appointment of the royal commission of inquiry, which will investigate the coal situation. The commission consists of Sir Herbert Louis Samuel, former Home Secretary, as chairman; Sir William Henry Beveridge, an authority on economics and employment; General Sir Herbert Alexander Lawrence, and Kenneth Lee, who has held many important posts having to do with trade and commerce. They will be assisted by several expert assessors, including William Brace, chief Labor advisor to the Mines Department; while the secretary of the commission will be C. S. Hurst, assistant under-secretary of the Mines Department.

As announced, the task of the commission is to "enquire into and report upon the economic position of the coal industry and conditions affecting it, and to make any recommendations for the improvement thereof."

The appointment of the royal commission is in line with the promise of the Government when it granted a subsidy in order that the mines might continue paying current wages without a decrease, which action prevented a general strike of miners a month ago. In the first month the cost of the subsidy was about £860,000, although coal production was something less than normal.

The subsidy will be in effect until next spring, by which time it is expected the commission will be ready to make its report.

The names the Government has selected for the commission betray the difficulty experienced in inducing the most prominent men to serve. At the same time, it is evident that the Government has adhered to its determination to make the body completely independent of and wholly unconnected with the coal industry.

Another innovation is that the Government did not seek a member of the judicial bench for this commission, as in former similar bodies.

REPORTS ON RIFFIAN WARFARE CONVEY CONFLICTING OPINIONS

French Source Indicates That Hostilities Will Soon Be At Hand.

AUTHORITY DIFFERS.

Says Riffs Will Maintain Position Against France and Spain.

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—While warships are shelling Abd-El-Krim's headquarters, the battlefront is humming with activity all along the line for the coming offensive. Reinforcements are being rapidly slipped into the places assigned to them in a plan of action formulated by Marshal Petain and General Naulin.

The air service is doing most of the fighting at present. It has redoubled its energy and is making repeated bombing flights.

LONDON, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Riffian tribesmen in Morocco will be able to maintain their independence against French and Spaniards for some time in the opinion of Sir Charles Hobhouse, former British army officer and ex Postmaster - General, who has just returned from inspecting the condition of Riffian refrugees at Tangier on behalf of the League of Nations.

"Despite grandiose stories, the Riffs are holding their own against France and Spain," he told newspaper men. "It will undoubtedly be a case of Europe against Africa if war is carried on, and it looks as if Africa will hold her own and a little more.

"The Riffs are great fighters They have up-to-date equipment, and their leader (Abd-El-Krim) is a man of remarkable military capacity.

Owner Took Chairs In Use To Shield Girls Undressing

BURNHAM-ON-SEA, Eng., Sept. 4.—(United Press).—The latest of the nude bathing comedies was enacted here by four young women who undressed behind a barricade of steamer chairs.

The attendant in charge of collecting rent for the use of the chairs came and demanded payment.

"We aren't using the chairs to sit in—and we're not going to pay," quoted the girls in chorus.

"All right, don't, then," returned the attendant as he gathered up the chairs, leaving the girls to their embarrassment and their nudity.

267 DELEGATES REGISTERED AT LABOR MEETING

Eleven Trades Councils Represented and 127 Local Labor Unions.

ELECTIONS TODAY

Resumption of Trade Relations With Russia Advocated by Resolution.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).—"The resumption and improvement of trade relations with Russia" was advocated in a resolution passed by the Trades and Labor Congress Thursday after a brief debate. The second clause in the resolution committed the executive of the Congress to exert all efforts to secure whatever orders came from Russia to Canada for industries employing Union Labor.

The only dissenting opinion in the convention was that of T. Vick of Toronto, who was strongly in favor of direct assistance to Russia. Canadian Labor should adopt the same attitude in this matter as had been taken by the British Labor Party, he said.

The Congress Convention continues today, when the election of officers and executive will take place. It is not expected that there will be any radical changes in the leadership of the Congress. The Communist representation is not as large this year as it was at the convention in London, Ontario, last year, when it was unable to secure the control of the executive offices.

The official records of the convention made public yesterday reveal 267 delegates have been seated. There are present at the convention three fraternal delegates, 43 international representatives, 11 trades and labor councils represented by 31 delegates, and 127 local trade unions represented by 190 representatives.

Plea for Barbers.

Union barbers should be given the work of bobbing and trimming the hair of the wives, daughters and sisters of all loyal trade unionists, Mary McNab of the Women Garment Workers, told the Congress yesterday afternoon, in the course of an address advocating the purchase of only Union made products.

Miss McNab recounted conditions discovered in Toronto sweat shops where non-union labor was employed Garments were produced in "dirty, filthy cellars." It was the duty of trade unionists to see that the women of their families wore garments made under the best conditions. There were in Toronto, beautiful workshops, but such shops could not be maintained unless their products, bearing the union label, were purchased.

The afternoon session was mostly taken up with general discussion, mainly centering about the promotion of union labels and products bearing the union stamp, particularly the "Prosanis" label on garments to prove their production under conditions approved by the joint board of sanitary control.

Re-elected to Labor Presidency By Large Majority Over Draper.

FOR EIGHTH TERM.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Tom Moore of Ottawa was this morning re-elected president of the Trades and Labor Congress for the eighth successive year by a majority of 140 votes over Tim Buck, of Toronto, the only other nominee. P. M. Draper was re-elected secretary.

The three vice-presidents elected at last year's congress were elected for 1925, as follows: James Simpson, Toronto; Bert Merzon, Toronto, and J. T. Foster, Montreal.

FASCIST LEADER STILL VIGOROUS

Declares That His Successor Is Not Born Yet in Attesting Strength.

ROME, Sept. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Mussolini is so confident of his physical condition that he recently remarked he "could guarantee that his successor was yet to be born," Robert Farinacci, secretary of the Fascist party, told a meeting of Fascist senators and deputies yesterday. Signor Farinacci related the incident, he said, to illustrate the obvious fact that Fascisti are here to stay a long time.

REPAIR LIGHTS ON ASHBURNHAM BRIDGE PILLARS

Discussion Concerning Fire Chief's Attendance at International Convention.

REFER TO COUNCIL.

Communication Received Advocating More Fire Hydrants in Certain Areas.

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, held in the committee room of the City Buildings, it was decided that a committee, including the Fire Chief, make a survey of the city with a view to augmenting the number of hydrants in certain areas.

Letters referring to watchmen's clocks and the report of the Fire Underwriters' Association were ordered received.

A report from Chief Gimblett, detailing expenditures and losses by fire was read and received. Estimated fire loss was $2,000.

Re the lighting on the Ashburnham Bridge, Mayor Turner suggested that the committee be authorized to attend to the permanent repair of the lighting system with the co-operation of the Board of Works. The estimate provided by the City Engineer called for $100.00, which he believed would cover the expense.

A lengthy discussion was held as to the advisability of having the Chief attend the International Fire Chiefs' Convention at Louisville Ky. The motion was objected to by Aldermen Crowe and Greene, and as a consequence the matter will be submitted to the Council at their next meeting.

Moved by Alderman Crowe, seconded by Alderman Greene, that the meeting adjourn.

Present: Mayor Turner and Aldermen Jones (chairman), Crowe, Phelan, Hancock and Greene.

REMOVAL OF SAFETY VALVES CAUSED WRECK OF DIRIGIBLE

German Engineer Who Supervised Construction of Shenandoah, Gives Reason.

"WAS FOOLISHNESS."

Craft Rose Too Fast For Remaining Valves to Relieve Pressure of Gas.

TOMS RIVER, N.J., Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Captain Anton Heinen, former German dirigible pilot and construction advisor in the building of the Shenandoah, said today that the removal of eight of the 18 safety valves on the dirigible's gas bags was the cause of yesterday's disaster, and that the victims of the crash "gave their lives to save this precious helium."

In the storm the craft rose too fast for the remaining valves to let off sufficient gas, he said, the upward movement of the ship causing a rapid expansion of the gas bags which broke the shell of the ship in the middle.

"I cannot put it too strongly," said Capt. Heinen, "that if it had not been for foolishness in cutting down the number of safety valves, the crash would not have occurred."

Aircraft Will Never Replace Navy, Says Admiral

TORONTO. Sept. 4. — Canadian Press. — Vice Admiral Sir James A. Ferguson, commander of the North Atlantic Squadron of the Royal Navy, is the guest and speaker at the Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon to-day.

Sir James, when interviewed, expressed the opinion that the aeroplane would never replace the navy. He spoke of the difficulties of operating aerial craft in bad weather and of the effective resistance a battleship could make.

TAXES LOWERED IN HUNGARY.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—As a result of the favorable state of the country's finances ,the tax on commercial sales in Hungary has been rduced from three percent to two percent. The income tax, which is also to be materially reduced, has been completely abolished for newspapers. The Industrie and Handelszeitung reports from Budapest that this year's Hungarian budget shows a surplus of 27,000,000 gold crowns.

STERLING DECLINES ANOTHER ¼ CENT

Soon Be Profitable to Ship Gold From London to New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Another quarter of a cent decline in sterling brought the pound yesterday just that much nearer $4.84 3-4, at which point bankers predict it will be profitable to ship gold from London to New York to maintain the exchange rates. A downward movement of sterling has been brought about by the rapid withdrawal of $250,000,000 of United States balances in London and the occasional appearance of large sterling cotton and grain bills.

Bankers say Great Britain has not made any use of the $300,000,000 credits established here last April to maintain the parity of the pound.

PORCUPINE MISTAKEN FOR BEAR MISUNDERSTANDING WAS FATAL

Harmless Forest Denizen Was Shot By North End Resident.

FOUND IN TREE.

Collie Pursued "Porky," Which Was Large Female Weighing 24 Pounds.

A large porcupine which attained to the dignity of being mistaken for a black bear cub, was shot this morning in a field opposite the house of Herbert Hamblin, Dixon Lane. Early this morning, when Mr. Hamblin was milking a cow, his attention was attracted by the sight of his dog, a large collie, in full pursuit of an animal which sought refuge in a large maple tree growing alongside the road. Mr. Hamblin concluded the animal was a bear cub and he brought out his gun but failed to hit the mark. Meanwhile the police had been informed, and two constables were despatched to the scene, with instructions to arrest, if possible, the youthful denizen of the wilds. Before their arrival, one of the Hamblin boys had shot and secured the animal.

The porcupine is a female, and measures 24 inches. It can readily be understood that a porcupine of this size might easily be mistaken for a bear cub, when seen half-hidden among the foliage of a tree.

It is said that the Emperor Nero spent the equivalent in modern currency of over $150,000 in providing roses to shower on his guests and to cover the couches and floors at a single banquet.

There are a number of young men there who are intensely interested in aviation and wish to learn about the technical and scientific side of flying, he said, and there is no reason why a succesful scheme should not be estabished and even extended to other universities.

TAXI DRIVER DROWNED.

Body of Missing Montreal Man Is Identified.

MONTREAL, Sept. 4.— (Canadian Press.)— The body of Omer Barrette, taxi driver, whose empty cab on the water front last Sunday night gave rise to fears that he had met with foul play, was found on Thursday afternoon floating in the St. Lawrence river a few miles below the city. Positive identification was possible through his license and picture, found in a case in one of his pockets. There was no indication that he had met with violence and the presence of a gold watch upon the body belied the theory that he had been robbed. It is presumed he fell into the river.

BEGGAR REFUSED TO TAKE PENNIES

Real Man Wouldn't Offer Less Than Schilling He Told Patron.

VIENNA, Sept. 4—(United Press) —One Austrian Schilling (approximately fifteen cents American money) is the minimum donation which any self-respecting beggar can accept according to Hermann Wonderhaid, "'Don Juan of Vienna Beggardom." Also, one schilling is the smallest sum which any real man can with decency give to a hard working beggar he irrately told a patron who recently offered him a penny.

As a result of this boisterous exposition of his social theories "Don Juan" is now being entertained for the fifty-first time by the warden of the local jail. In the meantime the harem of beauties on whom he had been wont to squander his income are sitting before empty wine glasses in his favorite "huerige" drinking place.

Whatever other faults he may have had, Hermann certainly was no piker. According to the statements of his neighbors he used to take a taxi each morning and evening to and from his "work." He would accept no donation of less than one schilling except under very extraordinary circumstances.

His evening he spent drinking "heurige" or new wine with never less than three beautiful girls—at which time he appeared, of course, not in beggars' garb but clean-shaven and dressed in the latest fashion.

"Don Juan" and his social theories are no new thing to the Vienna police. The complaint lodged by his "tightwad" patron resulted in his seventieth appearance before the magistrate.

got the engine running at 1400 revolutions per minute.

"We were then in the tail of the storm, and I realized the commander had decided to wait the storm.

"Then it made a terrific and sudden descent, swinging around four or five times. I again got signals for full speed ahead. The ship suddenly lurched upward. We arose to about 3000 feet, when the Shenandoah after being tossed around and around, seemed to collapse all at once.

"The last thing I knew the car I was in caught in the top of some of the trees. I slid off and dropped about 35 feet. We had to run for our lives because the portion of the bag in which we were, the upper portion, was reeling, sagging and twisting from side to side."

WIDOWED TWICE BY AIRSHIPS

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Joy Bright Hancock has twice been made a widow by airship disasters. Her first husband was killed when the ZR-2 was destroyed. She had only recently married Lieut.-Commander E. Louis Hancock, Jr., who was killed when the Shenandoah fell.

Mrs. Lansdowne, wife of the dead commander, to-day said her husband had a premonition that ill fate would overtake the Shenandoah's trip West. He had told her before starting that he did not think they would get through.

SURVIVORS GO EAST.

Two injured members of the crew are in Marietta Hospital, while several officers who escaped death in the disaster are still in Caldwell. The wind is rapidly breaking up the remains of the dirigible.

THORNE TELLS OF MEETING THE KING

Found George V. Quite Different From What He Expected.

LONDON, Sept .3.—Will Thorne, Labor leader and Member of Parliament, joined the ranks of biographers when his book, "My Life's Battles," appeared.

It recounts among other things how Mr. Thorne met King George. When he was a London Alderman, says Thorne, he had once been invited to meet the King, but he deemed it incompatible with his extreme Socialism, so he declined. When, however, he returned from Russia and the opportunity again arose he decided to go through with it.

Wearing an ordinary sack suit he hailed a taxi. "Buckingham Palace," he said, to the amazement of the chauffeur. At the Palace Thorne was met by Lord Stamfordham, the King's secretary, to whom he said:

"I have been led to understand one has to do a lot of bowng and scraping."

Lord Stamfordham smilingly assured him that this was not so. Then Thorne was led into King George's presence. The two talked for half an hour. Thorne thus describes his experience:

"I had expected to meet a haughty standoffish man with a highly polished university twang. I found him very different."

LINDSAY KIWANIS ENTERTAINED CALIFORNIA CRUISING PARTY

Trent Valley Canal's Scenery Appealed to Transcontinental Voyageurs.

PROMINENT WRITER.

LINDSAY, Sept. 4.—(Special).—Messrs. John Edward Hoag, Frank J. Wilson and Mr. Val Woodbury, of Los Angeles, who are making the transcontinental tour in a motor boat, arrived at Sturgeon Point on Wednesday night, where they were the guests of Mr. J. W. Shelley. Mr. Woodbury has been called to Boston on important business, and the other two members of the party will complete the trip.

Thursday morning Messrs. Hoag and Wilton came to Lindsay, where they were the guests of the Mayor. They were given a motor ride round the town, and at noon were banquetted by the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Hoag, who conceived and developed the tri-continental motor boat cruise, is an experienced young man in travelling. He recently completed a trip to Alaska, and next summer contemplates a motor boat cruise (transcontinental) through Europe, from London, England, to Constantinople. Mr. Hoag is a literary man, a writer, whose work is known to various national magazine readers and to metropolitan daily newspapers. He is making the trip, primarily for the sake of experience and to secure background for further literary efforts.

Mr. Wilton is a motion picture camera operator, and "shot" such pictures as "Big Game in Africa," which was recently shown at the Academy Theatre, Lindsay. He also filmed the Canadian winter scenes at the ice palace in Quebec. His work has attracted far greater fame than the man himself. He is also a born humorist, and yesterday morning entertained the deputation of citizens who were introduced to him, relating funny incidents of the trip. He recently returned to Los Angeles from a trip around the world undertaken in the promotion of educational travelogue. A motion picture camera and a battery of still cameras have been under his supervision for the taking of permanent records of this the first transcontinental motor voyage. This will include motion pictures of the Trent Valley Canal.

Some 4,500 miles was covered to reach Sturgeon Point, from Astoria, Ore., and in that time some 1,200 gallons of gasoline were consumed. The boat is but 18 feet long, but a sturdy little vessel, built specially for the cruise. It has covered the entire trip to date, with the exception of a 200-mile portage across the mountains and a short portage on marine railways on the Severn River, entering the Trent Valley Canal system. The entire trip will take some 5,100 miles, the destination being New York city. There it is expected that the yacht will be sold, and Messrs. Hoag and Wilton will return by rail to their homes in Los Angeles.

Mr. Hoag was two years contemplating the route, but has had no difficulty whatever in making the journey. They have encountered all kinds of weather, good and bad, and have travelled on some very rough waters. The craft travelled some 3,000 or more miles before it was pulled out of the water and carefully inspected. Then all it required was a coat of paint. Only three times were the tourists actually in danger, once being in the Illinois River when the engines caught fire from some cause unknown, and another time in the Columbia River, when the yacht struck a sunken log.

The travellers report that the people along the route have been very kind, especially in Ontario. Numerous stops have been made along the route, and the hospitality of the people has been greatly appreciated.

Mr. Hoag reports that the Trent Valley Canal is one of the prettiest stretches of water he has yet travelled in. "It is picturesque, really beautiful scenery. The Canal is easy to navigate, and the people are most courteous. We expect to have a delightful cruise through the Stoney Lake waters, and are looking forward to our stay at Peterboro with interest.

Mr. Val Woodbury, who left the party at Port McNicoll for Boston, is a former naval officer and commander of merchant ships over the seven seas.

ATTENDING MEN HURT IN SMASH CAUSE OF DEATH

Benjamin Lowrey, 65, Died Soon After Helping Right Car and Tend Injured.

TWO MEN HURT.

Car Went Into Ditch on the Kingston Highway Near Trenton and Rolled Over.

TRENTON, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press). — Seeing an accident and helping tend to the injured men, was apparently the cause of the death yesterday of Benjamin Lowrey. Lowrey, aged 65, was riding in a motor truck on the Kingston Road from Trenton to Belleville, accompanying the driver, John Stacey of Trenton. A motor car, driven and owned by Robert Reed of Wooler and carrying also two Trenton men, Charles Ellis and John Lewis, tried to get ahead of the truck.

The motor car took to the ditch, turning two somersaults. Reed and Ellis were hurt slightly, the third man escaping injury.

Lowrey and Stacey helped to right the car and to free the men who were pinned underneath. Then Lowrey was taken suddenly ill and was rushed to his home. He died in a few minutes.

FEW ATTENDED CLUB MEETING

Informal Discussion By Outing Club of Recent Successful Picnic.

AN ANNUAL EVENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 4. — A number of business men, members of the recently organized Outing Club, met last night in the store of A. G. Watson and Company to hear reports of the committees that managed the community picnic held at Crowe River Bridge last week and to transact other business. As the attendance was small, the meeting not having been properly advertised, it was decided to adjourn until next Wednesday night, at 9.30 o'clock, the hour at which the stores are closed on that evening.

Those in attendance last night were J. Nelson Stone, president; Frank Menzies, secretary; S. J. Maguire, C. W. Palliser, W. J. Dagleish, J. I. Adams and F. W. Wood.

There was an informal discussion, the unanimous opinion of those present being that the club should be continued as an organization, and that a community picnic should be made an annual event. It was suggested that a call be sent out for volunteers to meet at Crowe River Bridge some Friday afernoon for the purpose of levelling the baseball diamond and making other improvements in the grounds with the consent of the owners. Further announcement as to the date for this gathering will be made.

A full attendance of all members, especially of those on the various committees, is requested for next Wednesday evening.

THE "STOP" STREET PLAN.

In spite of opposition from some motorists, the "stop" street plan, advocated by Ald. Crowe here, continues to grow in favor, and has been put in force by a number of Western Ontario municipalities recently.

The latest advocate of this method of checking traffic accidents is Chief of Police Owen D. Friend of Oshawa, who would have the Provincial Government enact a statute to compel all drivers to come to a full stop before entering a main or through street from any side street.

At present such a plan has the approval of the Highways Department, and municipalities have the power to pass legislation putting it into effect, but the Oshawa Police Chief would go further and have the Government itself pass such a law governing all municipalities.

Motorists there are who claim that legislation of this kind is unnecessary except in the larger centres, and that it would be a source of inconvenience to drivers generally.

Yet it is undoubtedly the case that the majority of accidents take place at street intersections, and that a measure compelling all motorists entering busy streets from side streets to come to a full stop would very materially reduce the risk of collisions.

This has been the experience in municipalities where the plan has been in force, and even motorists who were at first opposed to the legislation have been converted in its favour after watching the system worked out in actual practice.

MR. GORDON FOR THE CABINET.

Ottawa despatches, which mentioned the name of Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., as likely to be added to the Federal Cabinet as Minister without Portfolio, have been read with a great deal of interest by the people of this city and district, and regardless of their political affiliations, the majority of citizens are hoping that the reports will be substantiated by the official announcement of Mr. Gordon's appointment.

The elevation of the member for West Peterboro into the Cabinet would be regarded not only as a great personal tribute to Mr. Gordon but as an honour to his home city which has never been the residence of a Federal Minister.

His fellow-citizens, not only those who see eye to eye with him in political matters but the others who hold different views, would be delighted to hear that the Federal member for the riding had been singled out by the Prime Minister as deserving of promotion.

Mr. Gordon has done a most excellent public service as Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, a position of much responsibility, which he has filled with a fairness and tact that have won the admiration and respect of all parties in the House, and he has given evidence of qualities fitting him for ministerial rank that have evidently not gone unnoticed by his leader.

His elevation to the Cabinet would be most gladly received in Peterboro where there would undoubtedly be much satisfaction at the honour paid to the riding's representative in the House of Commons, and gratification over the fact that a Peterboro citizen had been considered worthy to be called into the deliberations of the Dominion Cabinet.

135,000 MURDERERS AT LARGE.

Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh of Chicago, in an address to the St. Louis Bar Association, adopted an unusual way of trying to make his audience realize the enormity of unpunished crime in their own country. His first statement was this:

"There are 135,000 persons in United States who are guilty of murder."

That is, there have been 135,000 murders committed, following which there has been no punishment. It puts the thing in a naked, unlovely way. One hundred and thirty-five thousand murderers at large, going their way, knowing they are guilty of the blackest crime on the calendar, and also nursing the idea that it is not a very dangerous matter to kill a man in United States.

Following the lead of many eminent U. S. jurists Judge Kavanagh seeks the reason and in doing so turns as others have done to the British system, contrasting it with that of United States. Here is his method of comparison:

"There is no mystery as to why we have so much crime in this country. Evil-minded men in the United States have no respect for the law, because their experience has shown that they need have little fear of its penalties. The reason why there are so few premeditated murders in England lies in the fact that when in that country a man deliberates whether he shall kill another, he knows while he is deliberating that if he does so, within six weeks or two months thereafter he also will die for the crime. Therefore, he lets his enemy live.

"In the United States, if a man deliberates whether he shall kill another, he knows while he deliberates that if he shall kill, the chances are three to one he never will be arrested, twelve to one he never will be convicted, and more than 100 to 1 that he will not die for the crime. Therefore, only 100 Englishmen die in a year by the hands of assassins and 10,000 persons perish every year in the United States."

That is the reason why Canada should reject any and all moves that may be made to introduce American ideas of courts or the management of police departments. There have been attempts made here to glorify the insanity plea, but fortunately our presiding judges have been firm on that point. There have been other attempts to Americanize our police commissions, but the common sense of the people has turned that back. We cannot afford to let down any of the barriers of the British system. It is not a matter of national prejudice, but simply because the British system is so far superior to that of United States that there can be no valid reason for departing from it.—London Advertiser.

THE DOG SHOW.

Peterboro's dog owners have a chance to very materially assist a department of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition that was most successfully inaugurated last year—that is the Peterboro Dog Show, which in its first show scored a triumph.

Two hundred and fifty dogs, coming from all parts of Ontario, were on exhibition last year, and it is hoped that this year's show will have at least 350 canines, if local owners will do their part in entering their pets.

The Secretary in an appeal to the public has emphasized the fact that it is not necessary that dogs shall be registered or "pedigreed" to be eligible to compete.

Unregistered dogs will be welcomed, and their presence will do much to add to the success of the event.

There are many fine dogs in Peterboro, and their owners should show their interest in the Exhibition by entering their animals in the Show.

Incidentally, the public generally would be well advised to see the Dog Show this year.

It was one of the most interesting departments at last year's Exhibition, yet the majority of visitors missed it altogether.

They should not fail to see this year's Show during the last two days of the Exhibition.

PUBLIC HEALTH WORK.

The statement made by Dr. Hastings, Toronto's Medical Officer of Health, to the Ontario Municipal Association yesterday that all monies spent on public health work should be regarded as an investment and not as ordinary expenditures, it is hoped made an impression upon the delegates present.

Although it is true, as Dr. Hastings put it, that it is impossible to put a dollars and cents value on health work and the lowering of the mortality rate, yet it is undoubtedly the case that the majority of Ontario municipalities approach the matter from the angle of the expense involved.

No municipal department as a rule is closer to starvation than the health department, whereas it, above all other civic activities, should be given the most ready support.

Expenditures bearing no particular relation to the life of the citizen go through without difficulty, while other expenditures designed to better general health conditions and bring about a lessened mortality rate are held up or rejected.

Instead of a full-time health department, the majority of municipalities are satisfied to drift along under an arrangement that no matter how conscientious health officials may be has not a fair chance to succeed.

Health appropriations are made not on the basis of what is necessary to get results but rather of the least that can be voted to make some sort of a gesture of protecting the public.

Toronto spends close to a million dollars in public health work, and gets real value for every cent of it, as the records show.

THE CURSE OF HIGH TAXES.

Nations and communities are gravely and constructively seeking to solve the tax problem. They have made the discovery, after a long orgy of imprudence, that there is a limit beyond which high taxation defeats itself. That is to say, at a certain point the rate produces less revenue; and the reason is clear. Taxes are paid out of savings, and savings are produced by the free exchange of labor for wages or their equivalent. As savings are drawn upon to an unreasonable degree, enterprise is checked and the demand for labor of all classes shrinks. In other words, wages turned into savings constitute available capital, and capital is what makes the wheels go round. Consequently, less capital fewer wheels revolving.

Western municipalities have been the first to reach a sober view of this matter. That was but natural, seeing they had reached the greatest heights in the matter of taxation and had most acutely felt the pinch of consequences. In a chastened spirit, they have given effect to definite plans for the reduction of both taxation and capital liability. The results have been as satisfactory as they have been stimulating. There is not a city west of the Ontario boundary which has not made substantial cuts in assessment, the tax rate, and debenture indebtedness. Winnipeg and Edmonton are conspicuous examples. Vancouver and Victoria are not far behind.

Communities are not different from individuals. When a man has become a spendthrift, he shrinks from economy. He likes the joy of satisfying his wants. When, however, he has heeded the call of prudence, and sets in motion a rational plan of retrenchment, a new sense of satisfaction comes to him as he sees his savings grow. Municipalities are similarly influenced. Once they have begun to economise, it becomes almost a passion with them. They are, in fact, tionably a point at which it is as foolish to save as it is to be extravagant. Parsimony never pays.

Some of our Ontario cities have been going at a reckless pace. As an example, not long ago the Financial Controller of Toronto told the City Council quite bluntly that it would have to shorten sail or land on the rocks. Of course, city councils are not wholly to blame. If we are to arrest the advance in municipal taxation the people must cease to press for increased services. They must learn that economy can never be brought about while they are insisting on having things which are unavoidably translated into taxes.

The situation today is that western cities are cutting down their taxes and their debts, while most of the Ontario cities are doing quite the opposite. Without indulging in strong terms, it might be said that practically the whole world is seeking a new outlook in this matter of taxation. Every sane man knows that taxes are both hurtful and beneficient, and that great care must be exercised in keeping within the limit of safety. Nobody knows precisely where that limit begins or ends. The factors which come into the reckoning are numerous, and some of them can scarcely be appraised; but, speaking broadly, it is a sure sign that the boundary of prudence has been passed when higher rates fail to bring in larger revenue.—Ottawa Journal.

A THOUGHT.

WHO PAYS?

A little towheaded sad-eyed child aimlessly wandering alone in the shadow of a patch of woods.

In a sun-warmed pasture down the road a group of laughing children romping with a faithful dog—happy children born in wedlock.

We talk of the loneliness of a great city, but what of the ostracism suffered in a friendly village?

What about a little child, guiltless, though nameless?

Who pays, and pays the most?

These questions come to my pen when I recall these two scenes enacted before my eyes on a recent vacation.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, September 3. — As there will be no market on Monday, (Labor Day), sellers made a special effort to clean up for the holiday. There were only 71 fresh cattle in the market and everything of fair decent quality was easily disposed of at steady prices. Nothing of special quality offering, outside of two or three baby beeves, which sold firm at from $9.50 to $10.50. Finished butcher steers and heifers, Ontario, from $6.50 to $7. Extra choice $7.50

There was nothing of consequence among the week's left overs. Western rough light stockers and killers were practically all cleared off at buyers prices anywhere from $3.50 to $5. A few good feeders, fair quality, $5.50 to $6.

The only material change in price was in the small meats section when lambs took a drop of about a dollar from the early morning prices down to $13, tops. A shipment of ten cars of western lambs, arriving late yesterday and going direct to the Harris abattoirs, stumped the market.

Hogs steady at $13 f.o.b.

Cows steady from $4 to $5.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, September 3.—Canadian Press. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.84½.

Sterling cables, $4.85.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 3. — Canadian Press. — Torrid weather that stretched from the Rockies to Alleghenies sent grain prices soaring to-day, the corn market in particular. Extensive damage to the corn crop was reported as being done both by drought and excessive heat. Corn and wheat closed strong at about the day's top level, corn 2 5-8 to 6 3-8c net higher; September 99 3-4c and December 87½ to 87 3-4c, with wheat 2 7-8 to 3 1-4c up; December $1.54 to $1.54 1-4 and May $1.58 to $1.58 1-8. Oats gained 1 1-4 to 1 5-8c. In provisions there was 10 to 55c decline.

Special attention was given to the official crop reports from Iowa, usually the banner state for corn. These reports said that throughout the state it was evident many cars were poorly filled and that in northwest Iowa the corn crop was now past help from rain. Other advices of crop deterioration came from hardly less important territory.

Wheat owed its strength largely to the action of corn and to aggressive buying on the part of a Chicago leading speculator. Millers also were reported as active in purchasing wheat.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, September 3. — Canadian Press. — The firmer tendency which developed on the Canadian egg market the beginning of this week still continues to hold although there has been so appreciable price advance in the east.

Toronto unchanged. Jobbing specials 42; extras 39, firsts 36; seconds 33; country shippers are paying extras 35, firsts 32; seconds 25.

Winnipeg unchanged. Dealers paying country points extras 32; firsts 30; seconds 26.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, September 3.—Canadian Press. — The enquiry from foreign buyers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market to-day was fairly good, but owing to the renewed strength is the Winnipeg market for all lines and the advance in prices the volume of business was checked to some extent. There were same bids in the market from Liverpool for No. 1 Northern wheat of 54s 3d per quarter for September shipment, while sales of quite a few loads of oats and barley were made to other ports for September and October loading.

A moderate amount of business was done in cash grain in the domestic market, there being an improved demand for oats and sales of No. 3 Canadian western were made at 9c per bushel over the Winnipeg October option c.i.f. Montreal, while quite a few loads of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats changed hands at 50c per bushel, and No. 3 white at 48 to 49c per bushel ex-track. The trade in Ontario malting barley was quiet with No. 3 grade offering at 83c per bushel, ex-track. The market for spot supplies of Canadian western oats was stronger at an advance of one cent per bushel.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

If the lady who wrote me is serious I shall be glad to have the information she offers. She can make herself known to me without fear.

OFFICER.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

The lawlessness and crime of America and Ontario are the chief topics of our newspapers. I think the press is mistaken. If it is not a crime for prohibitionists to take away the private rights and property of other people it is not a crime for anybody else to do it. That is what is at the bottom of this new civil war in America. So-called criminals consider that they have just as much right to help themselves to what they need as the other riff-raff of the nation. The paid uplifter who invented force as a remedy for our ills put the key of the situation in the hands of the lawless. Bluff is a good dog but Hold-Up is a better. The state of America and Ontario is worse than it ever was even when there were public troughs for bums to lean up against. The country is fairly rotten with half-drunk young people. Ask people in the country about drink since everybody learned to make it. It is speading like smoke coming up from the fires of hell.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

It is a good plan to let everyone air his views. But for some views airing is not enough; fumigation would be better.

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS MAY BE SUED FOR HALF MILLION BY WIFE OF HIS ONLY SON

Writer of a Score of Popular Novels Finds Himself in as Dramatic a Situation As He Ever Penned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Robert W. Chambers, famous novelist, will be sued for alienation of affections, according to reports current Wednesday.

The suit, which reveals a romance and dramatic situation, as intense as any ever penned by the famous author, will be brought by the young English beauty, Cara Goodenough-Gain, who married the novelist's only son in London in July, 1924.

A half-million dollars damages are now reported to be demanded by the English beauty to soothe the "mental torture" which she suffered during her visit to her parents-in-law at the beautiful Chambers estate just a year ago.

"Mr. Chambers and his wife stole my husband's love from me," the young bride declared after she reached her native England.

The young Mrs. Chambers had returned alone to her native country. She sailed on the Orbita, making a swift and secret departure—a sailing, she insisted, in which she was speeded by the efforts of egal retainers of the Chambers family.

Cut Off His Income.

The novelist's son, Robert Hunted Chambers, remained in this country. According to his bride the family, after inviting the newly married couple to this country, took an intense dislike to her, shut off her husband from funds and then hurried her out of the country.

"I intend to remain in England broke rather than stay in New York and be wealthy," she declared.

"My husband loved me. During those ten days in the Catskill estate of his parents at Broadalbion we had dramatic scenes from morning to night.

Had to Surrender.

"I was isolated. My young husband's spirit finally broke. He agreed to his parents' demand that I return to England—the Chambers were insistent that their son marry a wealthy society girl in New York after divorcing me.

"There was nothing for me to do. Alone in a strange country, penniless, my husband beaten down by his parents, I had to surrender.

"They put me on the train—alone with a maid—and sent me down from the mountains to New York. As I kissed my husband good-bye he slipped fifteen dollars in my hand. It was all he could get hold of, and he managed to get that by selling one of his shotguns to a servant at the Chambers's estate."

The story of the romance of young Chambers and the beautiful Cara Goodenough-Gain was familiar to many Americans—particularly the young crowd in Oxford.

The situation of Cara when she met the son of the famous novelist, her reputation in the Savoy, the Grafton Galleries, Rector's, all the smart night-clubs, conjured a situation more intense than Chambers has put on paper and which will remain secret until the evidence of the trial is produced.

"My husband knew all there was to know about me when I married him," declared the fleeing bride to friends on the Orbita. "He knew everything, because there are some things which I preferred to face openly rather than to start in a married life under deceit."

NAMED AS CABINET POSSIBILITIES

WRENCHED BY STORM INTO THREE PARTS U. S. NAVY DIRIGIBLE 'SHENANDOAH' DROPPED 14 OF HER CREW TO INSTANT DEATH, INJURING 2 OTHERS, OVER OHIO

Control Cabin Fell 2,000 Feet With Lieut.-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, Her Captain, And Most of the Victims.

REMNANTS OF GREAT AIR CRUISER SCATTERED OVER THE COUNTRYSIDE

Fore-Section, With Seven Survivors, Landed 12 Miles Away—Main Section Carrying 26 Survivors Landed With Crash.

CALDWELL, Ohio, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).—Fourteen of the crew of the Senandoah, giant dirigible, are dead and two others were seriously inurjed early Thursday when the pride of the United States navy cracked during a severe storm on its western cruise from its Lakehurst, N.J., airport.

Among the dead is Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, captain of the ship.

After battling the elements for several hours, the huge aircraft suddenly shot upward to an altitude of approximately 7,500 feet from a 3,000-foot level, where the dirigible buckled amidship. The pressure and twisting was so great that it broke the ship in three sections.

The control cabin, swung beneath the fore-section of the ship proper, broke away and crashed to the ground while at an altitude of several thousand feet. It carried most of the crew who were killed.

Ballooned 12 Miles.

Released of the control cabin, the fore-section, measuring about 150 feet and bearing seven survivors, free-ballooned for more than an hour and finally was landed near Sharon, twelve miles from where the control cabin crashed, near Ava.

The main section, carrying 26 survivors, landed with a crash which sent several of the crew diving through the outer covering to the ground. A middle section of some 15 or 20 feet settled down in pieces over the country side.

Those aboard the nose section had a wild and thrilling ride and landed twelve miles from the place where the cabin compartment crashed. Several of the officers had just left the control cabin and were climbing up the ladder into the cat-walk of the ship proper when the cabin broke loose.

Suspended in mid-air, and hanging to a girder, they crawled or were pulled to places of comparative safety.

One, not so fortunate, F. J. McCarthy, chief rigger, was swept from his perilous perch in the forward end of the nose to the ground when the motorless craft struck a tree. He is in a Marietta Hospital in a serious condition.

Landed Segment.

With three men forward and three aft in the nose of the craft it was manoeuvred to a safe altitude after brushing trees and at least on farmhouse. Lieutenant-Commander C. E. Rosendahl and Lieutenant J. B. Anderson directed the release of the helium gas and gasoline in such a way that the nose landed without severely injuring any aboard.

The dead were taken to Belle Valley, a nearby village, where they were placed in an improvised morgue. An American Legion guard of honor was on watch there last night.

The men, it appeared, were instantly killed. At least one man was torn in two. Others had broken bones and skulls and were otherwise badly mutilated. The bodies are being kept at Belle Valley until this afternoon, when a board of inquiry will officially establish the cause of death.

Two Investigations.

This board will be headed by Commander J. H. Kline, executive officer of the Lakehurst Station. Another board is expected to investigate the cause of the accident and to determine what disposition, if any, will be made of the wrecked airship.

The Shenandoah started from Lakehurst, N.J., last Wednesday afternoon, and had an uneventful trip until it crossed the Ohio River into Ohio.

Loses Second Husband.

WILDWOOD, N.J., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Lewis Hancock, Jr., whose husband was killed in Shenandoah disaster Thursday, lost her first husband in a similar accident.

Mrs. Hancock was the widow of Lieut.-Commander Charles C. L. Littel, who perished when the British dirigible, ZR-2 was destroyed by fire near Hull, England, in 1921.

Commander Speaks.

AVA, Ohio, Sept. 4.—Lieut.-Commander C. E. Rosendale, ranking officer surviving of the Shenandoah, told the United Press his story of the airship's destruction.

As the ranking officer, he had taken charge of the wreckage and of the work of caring for the dead and injured.

"I had just gone on watch," he said. "There was a heavy electrical storm in progress. We must have been between Byersville and Pleasant City at the time.

"The ship was making no headway. She had been blown about 90 miles out of her course. We were headed due north when the twister hit us. We were flying at an altitude of about 2,500 feet. The twister shot us up about 7,000 feet, I should say. The ship made two violent plunges and broke near the middle. The forward end shot up into the air like an airplane soaring from the ground.

"The control car in which all passengers and officers were was on this forward end. The struts supporting the cabin snapped. The cabin dropped to the ground like a hunk of lead.

"You know now, the result of that sickening drop."

Hurled to Winds.

"Men were thrown from the drifting Shenandoah like shot from a gun when the big bag commenced spinning from the storm. The control car was the first to break loose. This left the ship without a pilot and at the mercy of the wind. Out of control, the bag drifted eight miles before bursting.

"The wind spun the craft like a top, and the men in all parts of the ship were hurled from the cabins."

Commander Lansdowne was in the cabin. The aft-section, containing two cabins, flopped around brushing trees and finally crashing at Sharon, Ohio, 12 miles distant. There were four men in the cooks' cabin and 12 in the engineers' cabin.

The latter jumped near the top of a small hill and none was injured. The cooks' cabin, in the meantime, had dropped and no one was hurt.

Ropes Lowered.

At this point the crew apparently was trying to make the Shenandoah a free balloon. The engines were shut off. Then a freakish upgust struck the forward section. From this point confusion reigned, although the men stuck to their posts until it was seen there was no hope.

Ropes were lowered in vain effort to anchor, one member of the crew said, and some men tried to slide down them to safety.

One man jumped from a forward section cabin as the half bag floated southeast and landed in a tree. He was seriously injured. Seven others stayed in the compartment and of those, only one was injured. They finally landed at Sharon.

FLIGHT ABANDONED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The proposed flight of the naval plane PB-1 from San Francisco to Hawaii will be called off entirely, Secretary Wilbur announced late yesterday, unless some very definite reasons in the future show that it is desirable.

In Argentina locusts, or grasshoppers, are so persistent a pest that the Government includes a special department, the Agricultural Protective Department, for coping with their migrations.

FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY VILLAGE

Blaze in Blacksmith Shop Was Extinguished By Chemical Engine.

DOURO, Sept. 4.—There was quite a bit of excitement one day last week when fire broke out in Mr. A. Whibbs' blacksmith shop at Indian River. Fortunately the chemical apparatus from the C.P.R. station was sufficient to extinguish the blaze, which started from a spark falling on the roof. A very large crowd of men gathered in an incredibly short time, but their help was not needed. If the shop had been burned it would have been impossible to save most of the buildings in the village.

RAILWAYS MAY APPEAL ACTION OF COMMISSION

"Endless Litigation" Predicted in Regard to Reduction of Vancouver Rates.

DIVERT TRADE

Majority of Board Adopt Resolution Dissenting From Judgment.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press). — "Endless litigation" is likely to result from the action of the Railway Commission lowering West-bound grain rates to the level fixed by the Crow's Nest agreement, H. J. Symington, K.C., freight rates counsel for the Prairie Provinces, stated Thursday. The unprecedented action of the Commission in declaring valid a decision against a majority of its own members will in all likelihood be taken by the railways as a ground for appeal, in Mr. Symington's opinion.

Hon. R. W. Craig, Attorney-General for Manitoba, stated that so far as Manitoba is concerned, the Province is not affected except in so far as the volume of grain passing eastward is diverted through Western channels. Continuing, he says:

"The hearing of the case was in Vancouver, and British Columbia and Alberta are most vitally interested. I am not clear on the effect of an order given by two members of the Board in face of dissenting opinion of three others. In view of this dissenting opinion it would appear likely that the order might be appealed by the railway companies."

Unprecedented Situation.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—The situation that has arisen over the railway commission's judgment in the Vancouver grain rates case is unparalleled in the history of that tribune. The chief commissioner and Commissioner Oliver direct that grain exported by the Pacific route shall be carried at the same proportionate rate as that which is carried eastward.

The other three commissioners — McLean, Boyce and Lawrence — adopt a 'resolution' dissenting from the judgment. On one side are the two members of the board who constituted the trial court in the case and whose decision "goes."

On the other is a majority of the tribunal, but made up of commissioners who did not sit in the case. The latter raise no question affecting the merits, but base their "resolution" on the fact that as a general equalization of rates is impending, it is unwise to deal at this stage specifically with the Pacific export rate from this view. The chief commissioner dissents.

Only a Protest.

The matter is discussed considerably to-day, but there appears no doubt that the order directing the filing of the lower tariffs by the railways prevails and that the rates will be effective on the 15th. The other side is not a dissenting judgment, but a sort of dignified protest from commissioners who were not in the case. The act permits of two members constituting a quorum in any application. The outcome is a win for the B. C. Government and one that is certain to develop the movement of grain through Pacific channels. Some time ago it was intimated that no judgment would be given in view of the impending inquiry into the whole rate structure, but this information came from the side that opposes the present procedure.

There is no suggestion of politics entering into the decision, but it relates nevertheless to a question which for some years has been a live political issue in British Columbia. At the last session, when the Crow's Nest rates were abolished, the eastbound rate on grain was made statutory. This, however, did not preclude the railway commission from making a similar concession on exports by way of the Pacific and by such is the effect of the judgment just delivered.

It does not prevent, however, examination in the fuller inquiry into the effect upon railway revenues or such adjustments as may be disclosed to be necessary. This point is made clear in the judgment.

DOLES REFUSED IN SHIP STRIKE

No Serious Delays in British Ports—Leaders in Australian Court.

MAY BE DEPORTED

LONDON, Sept. 4 — So far as British ports are concerned, the unofficial seamen's strike is petering out owing to the ease with which men are found to replace the strikers.

At Hull not a single ship is detained. At Bristol and Avonmouth the strike appears to be collapsing. In fact, very few ships of any size are detained anywhere, and, although cross-Channel passengers are slightly incommoded by a tieup of some of the Channel steamers, there are no serious delays.

At Liverpool the situation is rather more difficult; several vessels have been delayed but the position of the stikers has not been helped by the refusal of the authorities to pay unemployment doles to them.

In Australia and South Africa there is little change. Big fruit cargoes are held up at Cape Town at the risk of spoiling. The crews of the Goathland with a big cargo of maize at Cape Town and the Bendigo at Durban have gone on strike.

Tom Walsh and Johannsen, the strike leaders, appeared yesterday before the deportation board at Sydney, Australia, but the hearing of the case was adjourned until Tuesday, next. The question of the legality of the deportation act has provoked high feeling and excited meetings have been held at both Sydney and Melbourne.

May Ruin Producers

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press) — There was no change in the seamen's strike situation in South Africa Thursday. The crews of twelve steamers now in port, totalling about 2,300 men, are now definitely on strike and a number of other ships are being held up. The fruit interests yesterday afternoon emphasized the fact that for a matter of £70 in wages on the steamer Roman Star more than £250,000 worth of fruit was being jeopardized which, if lost, will mean ruin for many small producers. The maize outlook is regarded as even more serious although up till today no crew of a maize ship had actually struck.

He is in the general hospital here. George Thompson, the driver, and another man escaped injury, while the truck was badly damaged.

LUXURIANT LOCKS EXCITE COMMENT

Townsfolk Agog Over Reincarnation of Past Feminine Glories.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 4.—It is not so long ago that a grown-up girl, with bobbed locks, walking down the street or sitting in church or some other public place, was the cynosure of all masculine and feminine eyes. Now she attracts no more attention than a moon-struck pair at a garden party or camp meeting. Girls and women of mature years have become imbued with what has become a world-wide craze. Cynical man who scoffs at all feminine fads and fashions may sneer, funny paragraphers in the newspapers may hurl their javelins of sarcasm and wit at the bobbed head, but like the modern revolution in the attire of woman the shorn locks, like the possession of the franchise, mark another step in her emancipation from the ravages of the dark ages.

Bobbed heads and short skirts may no longer attract more than a passing glance, but here in Campbellford the people have been provided with another novelty at which to stare, another spectacle on which to make comment. Two sisters who have recently come here from a neighboring village to take responsible positions, have withstood the latest feminine vogue and wear festoons of carefully arranged natural hair. It is like a chapter taken from the records of the past, a replica of one of the fashion plates of a past page. If there were seven sisters of them instead of two a picture of the group would look like a copy of the illustration formerly used of the girls who used a once celebrated preparation designed to promote the growth of hair on the feminine head.

The two young sisters, fresh from the placid environments of a quiet country village, may be conspicuous on account of ignoring prevailing fashions in hirsute adornment, but to attract attention is not their aim. They believe that a woman's hair is still her crowning glory and may yet win desciples in their faith. Their wealth of locks has not been acquired in a hair dresser's shop. When their tresses are let down they are wonderfully long and luxuriant.

STREET NAMES

BOLIVAR STREET.

Simon Bolivar, the liberator of Spanish South America was born at Caracas, Venzuela on July 24, 1783. A European education inspired him with the idea of freeing his native land from the yoke of Spain, and he joined the patriotic party of his countrymen taking part in their first unsuccessful efforts to throw off the blighting influence of the degenerating descendants of the conquistadors.

Unsuccessful at home, his restless opposition to the dominant Spaniards led him to help the revolutionary party of the neighboring state of New Granada and he was given command of the rebel forces. By a series of victories over the Royalist forces he administered a crushing blow to the prestige of Spain. These successes, he followed up by entering his own country, Venezuela, and he marched into its capital as victor and liberator on August 4, 1813. Although the Spanish troops regained possession of the territory, the fate of Spain as a South American power was sealed from the hour of Bolivar's first success; for the desire for independence permeated all the colonies.

The Spanish suzeranity was every where challenged. Bolivar effected a junction of the forces of New Granada and Venezuela, and both states were freed and untied under the name of Colombia and Bolivar was elected as the first president of the new republic.

The task of consolidating the infant state was one that might well have occupied all his energies, but nothing less than the complete extirpation of the Spanish domination all over the continent would content him and he carried on a war against the rule of that country in Upper Peru which was freed and assumed the name of Bolivia in honor of the champion of liberty.

Equally indomitable in civil war Bolivar effectualy suppressed a revolt which broke out against his authority in Colombia, and he was confirmed in the presidency in 1826 and again in 1828, holding the reins of government until 1830 when he resigned.. He died at Cartagena in December of the same year.

Although Colombia and Venezuela dissolved their union in later days, and although the recent history of the South American Republics has been far from inspiring, Bolivar built his work on an enduring foundation and will go down to posterity as one of the great figures of history.

Against his great services to the cause of freedom there are to be set grave moral lapses that have dimmed the lustre of his name, and afforded openings to those desirous to belittling his achievements. But his memory will always be cherished among the peoples whom he delivered from the toils of the oppressor and among those who love the records of great deeds and valiant endeavor in the cause of progress.

"Did you hear about Don Bonter's accident, Jimmy?" asked Ned Lewis, of Jimmy Britton, as they met down at the dam for the last swim of the season.

"No! What was it!" asked Jimmy, knocking the water out of his left ear, with a kick of his right leg, so he would not miss any of it.

"Why," continued Ned, "That young chance taker went and got all mixed up with a Hoot-owl, and now you ought to see him; he was in school to-day with bandages enough on him to start a young hospital. Didn't you hear about it though? No? Well, just listen then.

You know Flossy Thompson? Well, she was up in the county of Frontenac, staying at a farm for a holiday, and just before school opened, the young lad at the farm liked her so well that he made her a present of a Barred Owl. It was tame as anything up at the farm but it got awfully angry at being given away like a box of candies or some other love-sick present, especially as it had never been confined to anything but the barn. I can tell you it showed, fight when Flossy let it out in the garage and tried to be friends with it as the farmer lad had been, but she had no mice to feed it and gasoline smells in exchange for farm mice is a bad change. It was something terrible, so she gave it to Don Bonter and he had it in their old barn, upstairs in the loft.

Now, remember when that nature teacher told all the classes about the migrating birds, and which ones to watch for? Well, Don held up his hand and offered to bring his owl to show to the school.

He never brought the owl! There was so much excitement, that half the school went up to his place to see it. He had tried to get it into the box and it wouldn't go, so he thought if he put a cap over its head, he could take it like a chicken. That was his mistake. It hit him in the face with its wings and bit his finger and tore his hand open and made holes in his arm with its feet and Mr. Bonter let it go, because he said it was a good and useful bird, helping mankind against his enemies, the mice and insects."

"Poor Don," mused Jimmy with a grin, "and it this warm weather keeps up, look at all the swimming he will miss."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ABUSE OF THE BODY SHOWN BY PAIN

Isn't it disagreeable to wake up in the morning with a headache? Perhaps you have planned a day of hard work. You find yourself incapable of taking to the task the energy and enthusiasm necessary to do it well.

Why should you have a headache? What is the cause?

It is not often we sit down long enough to analyze life. We rush along, helter-skelter, disregarding the value of hygiene. Then when an uncomfortable symptom presents, we wonder what caused it.

If you treated your horse the way you do your body you would be taken to court by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The S. P. C. A. would surely get you at least once a week.

Every few days you read about the arrest of some wicked owner of a beast permitted to stand in the sun without adequate food and water. The culprit is fined twenty dollars for cruelty.

The same owner, lord and master of his own body, works all day in the sun, gulps down quarts of ice water, eats unsuitable food and lands in the hospital. There he is given tender care at public expense and nursed back to health.

You would laugh at the idea of arresting the man for abusing his body. If he actually deliberately attempted to commit suicide, he could be arrested and, as a matter of form, probably would be. But for the millions of cruelties, self-inflicted, men are never called to account.

Somehow, we do not classify the abuse of a poor, helpless body with the abuse of a poor, helpless horse. But why shouldn't we?

You say there is a great difference between the ignorant mistreatment of the body under the stress of necessity, and the mistreatment of a dumb beast. I wonder if there is such a difference. Ignorance and necessity are usually involved in the abuse of animals, just as they are in the abuse of the body.

Don't misunderstand me—I utterly despise a man who would maltreat a helpless animal. I believe he should be severely punished. But I sometimes think the man who neglects and damages his body should be punished, too. Of course, he is made ill by his selfishness, but, too often, the punishment isn't plain enough and direct enough to serve as a warning against repetition.

If you habitually and frequently neglect the needs of your body, you may be confident that Nature is taking note of the fact in every instance. When you have a headache in the morning, think over what you did the night or day before. What was it you did that is wrong?

Next time you are sick, think over what I have said to you today.

SYNOPSIS

Young Bob Wilson and his two tramp companions climb up the framework of the trestle of Granite Gorge to escape a landslide. Almost immediately they are startled to hear the whistle of the approaching Limited. To prevent disaster, Bob struggles desperately to push a boulder from the track. Nelson, one one of his companions, wants to let the train be wrecked—and rob it. With his steel spike he deals Bob a vicious blow and the latter falls to his knees, dazed.

Memories of gridiron battles, when the greater the knocks and the odds the fiercer and hotter ran his blood, flashed now into Bob's mind and goaded him to his feet. To his dizzy brain the track ties magically became ten yard marks, the granite sides of the railroad cut through the Gorge became a college stadium, and the wind became the roaring of forty thousand game-mad fans in mighty unison, "Hold 'em Princeton!"

Running low and calling numbers to himself as he ran Bob plunged recklessly toward the headlight which bore down upon him out of the night like a grotesque and flaming football. He fought madly to peel off the clinging folds of his wet coat, while the wind howled at him an uncanny confusion of pleas: "Block that kick!—Stop that train!—Block ticthat kick!—Stop that train!—"

His head cleared as he ran, so that presently he knew enough to come to a pause and stand, drawn to his full height there on the gridiron of wooden ties and steel rails, waving his coat with wide sweeps defiantly up into the burning eye of the Cyclopean locomotive. The glaring light blinded him so that his whole visual world was a waste of whitehot embers. It was as though he had opened the door of Hell and looked in. His ears, made the keener by their greater responsibility, brought to him above the storm a sound of screeching brakes that was at once a relief and a warning—he jumped, and a blistering cylinder head grazed hiy as the train brushed by like a hot broom.

In his next conscious moment Bob discovered that he was lying on his back by the stony trackside, his head pillowed on the ample hand of a trainman, while the rain—which had been chilling—now tapped a refreshing staccato on his face. The great sleek length of the greyhound Limited was at a standstill. Pale light filtering down from Pullman windows revealed the question in Bob's eyes.

"O.K. 'bo, but no more'n a foot to spare," said the trainman gratefully; then, with concern, "but say, you, 'bo—are you—"

Bob anticipated the question by getting quickly to his feet, aided by the strong arms of the trainman, and saying shakily,

"Oh, I'm all right. Just a little winded, and a mite bruised perhaps."

A bit steadily Bobwalked with the engineer toward the excited group of trainmen, mail clerks and passengers who were milling warily around the boulder on the gusty, slippery trestle as they peered into the shrieking blackness of the Gorge and speculated upon the horribleness of the fate they had been saved.

The powerful headlight of the engine reached across the whole length of the trestle, which glistened in the rain-diffused glare like a foiled snake. The light, draining down through the interstices of the trestle, touched with a distant and guarded radiance the soapsudy rapids swirling through the Gorge, and gave the awed spectaotrs on the high tracks a Dantean glimpse into an Inferno.

Bob, coming diffidently no nearer than the fringe of the crowd, saw with amused tolerance that Potts was sharing the limelight with the boulder. Leaning importantly against the big stone, Potts was sweeping his brimless slouch hat up and down and around and about in grandiloquent gestures as he dramatically explained to the admiring rescuees how he had flagged the train. But Bob's amusement gave way to resentment as he saw Spike walk boldly into the spotlight from nowhere and divide attention with Potts, to the latters' disappointment.

Bob throbbed with indignation against this sinister bum, who could now, without compunction, brazenly bid for the gratitude of people whom he had planned to rob—and murder. That was it—nothing short of murder! Involuntarily, Bob took a step forward, and a hot accusation rose to his lips. An appreciation of futility checked his steps and his cry. After all, what did it matter? To implicate Spike would be an involved and complicated matter, requiring the expenditure of many words. How could he prove anything against Spike? One bum's word would be as good as another's! And, dulled by a backrush of all his indifference, he asked himself "What's the use?"

He shrank even farther back into the shadows now, wishing that the train would proceed and leave him alone with his hobo pals—wishing, even, that Potts and Spike would ride away on the Limited and leave him entirely alone. His head ached from his falls. He was worn out and cold. He wanted now only to seek out a sheltered hole in the lee of some big rolk and huddle and, burrow down, like a homeless dog for a sheep. He turned, and started to shamble away, forlorn and friendless, into the darkness.

To the center of the crowd around Potts and Spike the stalwart engineer of the Limited had pushed meanwhile. He listened for a moment to their claims, while anger and disgust overspread his greasy face. Then he interrupted scorchingly.

"Say, where the hell do you two guys get this stuff? I saw who saved us. It was the young bum!"

Potts coughed and slunk back a little while the engineer elaborated to the white faces epicircling him:

"For me it was like having a front seat at the movies. The Old Girl's eye lit up the whole thing like a show. Just as I came around the curve I seen the young bum running toward us like a madman, waving his coat. If he hadn't come as far as he did nothing could have saved us from going over. He stood there in the middle of the tracks as confident as a traffic cop. You know, a driver's instinct gets used to seeing everything at once. Away back of him I spotted the boulder on the trestle and knew why the young fellow was flagging me. I set the brakes and closed my eyes 'cause I didn't want to see him chewed down, for he made no move to get out of the way, but just stood there hunched over a little like I seen kids from State College gettin' ready to tackle the guy with the ball. For a minute I got a wild notion he was goin' to try and tackle the Limited. Funny how many queer notions can steam through your head when your brain is runnin' off the track!"

"My young collesgues performed a heroic service," interrupted Potts, "but I—I, sir, endeavored with might and main to dislodge this great stone while Bob ran to flag you. Recollect, sir, was I not within your mental picture of the climactic moment of this perilous event?"

The engineer appraised Potts good-naturedly, then admitted "Yes, Fatty, I remember that I couldn't decide which would be the most dangerous to hit—the boulder or you!"

The engineer's glance fell sternly on Spike. "But this bum was nowhere in sight!"

Spike returned the engineer's look, eye for eye, unabashed and insolent. However, an interruption came when a tall, slim young mail clerk who, dishevelled and breathless, had elbowed his way into the forefront of the dripping crowd in time to hear the engineer's description of the flagging, asked.

WHERE THE "BATTLE OF FLOWERS" ORIGINATED

About the middle of February, while the Carnival at Nice is in full swing, "The Battle of Flowers" takes place.

Although many other communities in Europe and America now celebrate this occasion, the "Battle of Flowers" really originated in the city of Nice, down in southern France on the Mediterranean Sea.

This annual "Battle of Flowers" is a long-anticipated event, when inhabitants and visitors alike forget their troubles and play like children for several hours of the gala day. Vehicles of every kind are decorated with masses of gorgeous blossoms. If perchance a family is too poor to secure flowers, they often cover their wagon with white calico and then sew strips of gaily colored material over it, and before the day is over they usually have a few flowers or green boughs added to their improvised adornments.

From the villas that snuggle in the foothills of the Alps behind the city come hundreds of peddlers bringing baskets of nosegays which they sell to the passersby. The people walk or drive up and down the Promenade des Anglais, greeting their friends by dashing a bouquet in their faces. The courtesy is naturally returned. And in the excitement of the moment the bouquets generaly miss aim and fall into the hands of boys who make a business of catching them. These thrifty fellows dash in and out among the carriages and catch the flowers as they fall. A few minutes later the blooms are resold and the price goes into the deep pockets of the French peasant lads.

While the gayety holds complete sway, horsemen in picturesque costumes wind their way in and out the long procession, and masqueraders mingle with the throngs on the sidewalk.

There are always many Americans who participate in the festivities; for Nice is not only a famous winter health resort, but it is a "life-saving station for socially bored Americans." On any day and particularly during the carnival season hordes of rich Americans may be found somewhere along the way on the Promenade des Anglais.

This promenade is bordered with palms growing along the edges, and across the wide driving-boulevard, running parallel, is a line of fashionable hotels. The sun shines with exceeding brightness up on this particular spot on the Riviera, and the fashionables who come there to display their grandeur and charm have the full co-operation of Nature. Everybody is cheerful. Even the gamblers and the invalids who infest the place are imbued with joyfulness.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL PLAN APPROVED

Baldwin Gave in to Demands of "Big Navyites" to Save Face of Cabinet.

LONDON, Sept. 4—Great Britain's naval construction program is announced and its publication has caused consternation among those who hold moderate views on what should be the nation's financial commitments on armaments during the present unprecedented period of trade depression.

When Stanley Baldwin capitulated to the demands of the big navyites in order to save the face of his cabinet, the public little dreamed that their interests were pledged to the extent of $390,000,000, yet that is what the issue levels itself down to. Between now and 1930—five years hence—no less than 82 vessels of various types are to be laid down at the instigation of the Admiralty.

When Ramsay MacDonald relinquished office the naval construction program was five cruisers. This was speedily enlarged when the present government was returned and, according to a White Paper which was issued a few days ago, the existing program of construction provides for progress on two batteships (the "Nelson" and the "Rodney," five cruisers of the Kent class, three cruisers to be completed (the "Effingham," "Emerald," and "Enterprise,") one minelayer, two destroyers and three submarines.

Old Program

The total provison in navy estimates for this program amounts to $33,542,835, but, declares the first Lord of the Admiralty, if construction proceeds uninterruptedly and accounts can be liquidated punctually the total expenditure may prove to be about $38,245,000, or about $4,695,000 more, and the amount remaining to be met in sesequent years in $50,790,000, or $46,095,000 if the $4,695,000 is paid during the present financial year.

So much for the old program. The new program of construction which the government has taken a token vote on and carried through the House provides for 16 cruisers, one aircraft carrier, 27 destroyers, 23 'O' type submarines, one fleet type submarine, five gunboats, four motor launches, two submarine depot ships, one net layer, one repair ship and one floating dock.

The cost of this revised program is estimated at $290,000,000, and the amount which it is expected will fall on the Navy votes for the next five years in respect of this program is $188,350,000. No Britisher ever yet knew an estimated figure, particularly where the estimates of the British Admiralty were concerned, to approximate actual demands, so they pay little attention to this hypothetical conclusion of the First Lord. They know they are going to be soaked for something considerably in excess of any figure he may state.

Flayed by MacDonald

The entire program Ramsay MacDonald tabs as a war development proposal. He repudiates entirely the argument that it is primarily one of replacement. What, he asks, will be the influence of this program upon a disarmament conference Last year's program for which he was responsible was not aggressive, and was never intended to be.

"There is no guarantee," he asserts, "that such is the case with regard to this program in which the Admiralty has forced the hands of a reluctant government."

Even Mr. Loyd George has been roused to vigor. He has scathingly denounced the way in which the government's proposals have been put forward —, not a word of explanation advanced or reasons given for the new expenditure. "It is an insult to the House of Commons and would have been impossible under any other admnistration," he says.

The executive committee of the League of Nations Union is urging the government to take the initiative in convening a conference of all naval powers before embarking on its declared scheme in order to consider the limitation of cruisers strengths. The view held by this body is "that the adoption of the 10,000-ton type of cruiser must inevitably result in a new and costly competition in armaments against the naval powers which, unless checked, will be a menace to peace."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHY WILLY ANT ALWAYS KEEPS BUSY

Willy Ant lived with his mama and brothers and sisters in a lovely big ant hill at the edge of the garden. He should have been a happy little ant, but, sad to say, Willy Ant was anything but happy. He was restless and cross from morning until night. He never liked to go out and help hunt food. He would cry if his mama asked him to tend the cows, and yet he was always hungry and wanted his brothers and sisters to share with him what they had found during the day. In fact, Willy Ant was a very naughty little ant, until one day—but, there, I'm going ahead of my story.

One day Willy Ant's mother sent him out with the ant cows, and, as usual, Willy Ant fussed and fretted and didn't want to go, but his mother set her little ant feet down and Willy Ant drove the cows to a broad leaf and parked them.

"No need of me sitting here like a dummy," he mused. "I'll just go and see what that is shining over yonder," and Willy Ant ran down the stem of the plant on which he had parked the cows and over to the plant he had seen shining in the sunlight. "Wonder what that is on those reddish leaves," he mused aloud. "Smells good. I believe I'll steal a sip and try it."

"Better go back and watch your cows," called Johnny Grasshopper. "That honey isn't for you."

"If it's for anyone, why not me?"

"Better Go Back."

snapped cross Willy Ant, and straightway he crawled upon the leaf covered with red hairs and began sucking on one of the juicy drops. "Why, I'm glad I came. Why, this——" Something moved, and Willy Ant saw the leaf on which he was standing begin to move and bend over him. "Why, how funny. Let me have just one more sip and I'll go," he laughed. But his smiles turned to tears when Willy Ant tried to lift up his feet. All six of them were stuck fast and the leaf was slowly bending over him.

That would have been the end of Willy Ant if Johnny Grasshopper and his friends hadn't seen his plight, and, jumping down, between them tore the leaf to pieces and freed Willy Ant.

"I told you you'd better be careful," said Johnny Grasshopper. "That's the wicked Sun-dew Inn, and once you get in there and one of those leaves curl over you it would soon melt your body get in there and one of those leaves curl up in its juices. Better go back and find something to do so you won't have time to stumble into trouble," and Johnny Grasshopper and his friends flew away.

"Busy folks never get into trouble," mused Willy Ant. "Mother has always told me that. She is right, and if I can get this sticky stuff off my feet I'll never idle another minute again in all my life."

He stepped into a tiny puddle and soon soaked the sticky juice from his six little feet, and then he ran back to his cows. And from that day until this Willy Ant is the greatest worker Mother Ant has in her family. He works so much he never has time to get into trouble.

Discarded Chewing Gum Bane Of Theatre Owners

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 4, (United Press).—Second hand blobs of chewing gum are so many gobs of woe to John Royal, manager of the B. F. Keith's Palace Theatre here.

Royal classified them among such calamities as mothers-in-law, appendices, flat tires and old safety razor blades.

Annually, according to Keith reports, thousands of dollars ooze out of the Keith treasuries because of the custom of gum chewers to bestow their cuds on the theatre seats or on the floor. Damaged suits, cleaning bills, bad tempers, and dissatisfaction of customers are some of the tributes exacted, Royal said,

CANADA SHOULD BREED ARTISTS

Her Great Variety of Grand Scenery Provides Inspiration.

ARTIST ENTRANCED

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).— Canada with its great variety of grandeur of scenery should breed a nation of artists and many of them should display the spark of true genius, in the opinion of John Bull, famous painter of Canadian scenery, who was a recent visitor here.

"Canada provides inspiration for an artist," he said. "I know of no country with such a wealth of scenery. It is spectacular, picturesque and magnificent."

Mr. Bull has won considerable distinction during recent years for his paintings in connection with Canadian exhibits at the British Empire Exhibition, Wembley, at Shepherd's Bush and numerous continental show places.

"Canada's waterways and magnificent harbors, her great waving expanse of wheat fields, the mountains and the industrial scenes offer such a score for scenery painting that it is a delight to work on a Canadian exhibit," he said. "There is keen rivalry between all the Dominions at Wembley, but Canada takes second place to none in the artistic merit of her exhibits."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5.

An interesting day is forecast from the prevailing transits as well as mutual aspects. While there are powerful forces at work for benefic change and advancement, with new opportunities of importance, yet the dispositiou toward extravagance or careless expenditure of money should be held in control. Speculation and the lending of money are not encouraged by the lunar position. Personal extravagance and spending money lavishly in the pursuit of pleasure may provoke domestic annoyance.

Those whose birthday it is are under a rule of extravagance and prodigality, which may result in business disaster or domestic annoyance. Shun speculation and reckless pursuit of pleasure and do not lend money. Many good friends may contribute to the year's good fortune. A child born on this day should be ambition and may rise in life and have many powerful friends. But it may lose through speculation or going security, and may be inclined to be reckless in the pursuit of pleasure.

GLACIER LEAVES NEW PORT OPEN

MAY BE ACCESSIBLE

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).— British Columbia now has a new port at the northwestern tip of the province open for twelve months in the year through the recession of the Grand Pacific Glacier, according to J. P. Forde, district enginer of the Federal Department of Public Works.

The port is at the head of Tarr Inlet, one mile beyond the international boundary line dividing Alaska and British Columbia and on Canadian territotry. While the water is open the year around the country back of it is ice-covered and furthr investigation will be necessary to determine if a road can be built to make use of the new discovery.

Mr. Forde is now preparing his report for the authorities at Ottawa on his investigations and consequently could not disclose at this stage the full significance of his find.

The Grand Pacific Glacier has receded a total of sixty-five miles in 130 years, the date of the last survey of that region. Moving back at the rate of half a mile a year the ice field has laid open a strip of navigable water which does not freeze over. It is now possible for vessels to sail into a Canadian port at the tip of British Columbia and if the hinterland proves accessible the discovery may be the means of opening up the northland, which heretofore, has been impossible.

The importance of the discovery lies chiefly in the possibility or otherwise of connecting the port with the Yukon by rail, thus obviating the necessity of depending on the port of Skagway, Alaska, as the port of entry for all shipments to the Yukon.

CORNS TENDERNESS SWELLING GET RID OF ACHING CALLOUSES BURNING ALL YOUR FOOT TROUBLES

"You will never see them again after using Reudel Bath Saltrates. No excuse now for suffering from corny, calloused, tired, tender, aching feet."

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotion, plasters, etc., doesn't do any good. The root just sprouts right up again, and soon your corn has a brand new top on it, bigger than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. The business end of a corn is the little pointed part, or core, that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out.

Cutting the top off an aching tooth wouldn't stop the ache. Same way with a corn. Don't worry about the top. Get the root out permanently by using a good big handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates (you can get a half-pound at slight cost from any druggist) dissolved in about a gallon of hot water. Just soak your feet in this for fifteen or twenty minutes, then take hold of the corn with your fingers, and out she'll come root and all, like a hull comes out of a strawberry. Only a little hole or depression is left in the toe, and that soon closes, so there is nothing left in there to sprout a new corn again. It doesn't affect the surrounding flesh at all, but soon softens the whole of the corn. No burning or soreness, no pain, no danger, no trouble, and no days of waiting to see whether that old corn is going to leave for good or come back to stay with you a while longer. Softens callouses the same way, then scrape off, and I don't dare tell you how quick this medicated water, made with Reudel Bath Saltrates, will always drive aches, chafes, blisters, etc., away, and even cure rheumatic or gouty pains. It would sound too good to be true, but thousands can tell what wonderful stuff "Saltrates" water is.

Obtainable at most drug stores for 50c. or direct from the distributors Macnamara Limited, New Birks Building, Montreal

Telling Touches on Autumn Hats

Fashion may be a whimsical creature, but she is very decided about certain things, especially Hats. This fall she gives free reign to small velours and felts; lets their brims be turned up, turned down, slashed, rolled and sometimes lets them almost disappear.

Crowns though, except for a few which go to slightly exaggerated heights, are small, snug, creased if one wishes, and by all means graceful. Of appliqued motifs and brilliant bugs, Fashion approves.

ON SATURDAY you must look around you just as soon as you enter the Cressman doors. Beckoning and alluring, you will discover that Fall in her riotous color is almost here, portrayed in many forms of milady's smart apparel and accessories, not to mention home needs so important just now. And then, again, you will see many lines of the present season clearing at prices you at first will not credit. Saturday is indeed to be a gala day at the Cressman Stores.

PLANS PLANT TO UTILIZE TIDES AS POWER SOURCE

SCHEME FEASIBLE

Engineers Convinced That Plan Can be Carried Through to Success.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(By Candian Press).—Hydraulic engineers of New York are quoted by the Herald-Tribune as saying that the project of Dexter P. Cooper to generate 500,000 to 700,000 horespower by harnessing the tides in two inlets of the Bay of Fund near Eastport, Me., is not only feasible from an engineering point of view, but is "the most promising development in the electrical world in a decade."

The paper points out, however, that Canada will likely have something to say regarding the project, saying the sanction of the Canadian and U.S. governments will have to be secured.

According to the Herald Tribune, Frederick Darlington, engineering expert for the Westinghouse Electric Company, who recently inspected the Passamaquoddy and Cobscook bays, in the Bay of Fundy, wher for four years Mr. Cooper has been making preliminary surveys for his project, said he was convinced the plan will be carried through.

Coope hopes by damming Fassamaquoddy and Cobscock bays to create two sepaarte pools and generate the power by a constant rush of water from the upper pool, filled with hightide water, into the lower pool, drained by low tide. The regulating of the high water in the upper pool and the low water in the lower pool is to be done by a system of gates.

"Mr. Cooper has found a solution for every problem connected with his scheme," said Mr. Darlington. "At his invitation I visited Eastport and made a careful inspection of the tides and the engineering possibility of generating power by them. I am convinced that his scheme is thoroughly feasible.

"The question has been raised whether he could generate power by a fall of water only sixteen feet, which will be his maximum headway, athough the tides rise as high as twenty-seven feet. The answer to that question is that a sixteen-foot drop is ample. He will have an enormous volume of water pouring over the wall separating the two pools and the volume of water is what will create the power with the kind of turbine engines he will use."

Mr. Cooper's project is to be the subject of a state-wide referendum in Maine September 14. The voters are to decide whether tidal power in the Bay of Fundy, if developed, may be sold outside the state. At present power raised from fresh water sources must be used within the state. If the voters grant the privilege of selling the power outside the state the United States and the Canadian governments, between whose territories the Bay of Fundy lies will be asked to sanction the proposal. It is Coopers opinion that no official obstacles will be placed in the way of the project.

RAPID INCREASE IN HERRING INDUSTRY

Development of Business in British Columbia Reads Like Romance.

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The development of the herring industry in British Columbia reads like a romance. The silver schools have found a place in the sun. Not long since this little fish was considered of small importance; now the demand for the cured product comes from all parts of the world.

It was less than fifteen years ago that a few Japanese began in a small way to catch herring on the Pacific Coast and salt them for export to the Orient. The work was skillfully developed by them until it has become a huge industry. Now there are seven salteries on the east coast of Vancouver Island and nine on the west coast. About 40,000 tons are dry-salted in an average year and shipped to the Orient, China and Japan being the largest consumers, while a trade is developing with the United States and Russia. In addition to the dry salt herring there is also packed in Scotch style many hundreds of barrels and small packages of this fish.

The fishing season lasts from the beginning of October until March and is a long and hard period for the workers. When the run is good, almost constant toil is demanded. The salteries are built on piles over the water and one of the interesting scenes on the Pacific Coast is to see the little brown Japanese in their seine boats, handling the 200-fathom nets. The herring is also used for halibut bait.

A new element in the work will be the Hebrideans, expert fishermn, who will settle on Vancouver Island during the year. They will play a large part in the continued development of the herring industry with its unlimited possibilities.

Women have larger feet and hands, on the average, than they had five years ago. The difference is believed to be due to the increase in sport.

ISLAND GROWS FINE GLADIOLI

Vancouver Island Will Some Day Surpass Holland for Bulbs.

MANY VARIETIES

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The fame of southern Vancouver Island as a bulb growing region will some day surpass that of Holland, in the opinion of those who have established themselves in the new industry and are making a success of it.

Among their number is R. M. Palmer, former deputy minister of agriculture for British Columbia, who has the largest bulb farm in Western Canada and hopes eventually to have the largest on the entire Pacific Coast. Already there are 150 varieties of gladioli on his farm and he is continually adding to the stock through importations from foreign countries.

Gladioli are Mr. Palmer's specialty and he is finding them a lucrative product, with orders coming in from points as far distant as China. Some of the rare bulbs growing on the Palmer farm at Cowichan Bay were brought all the way from the Zambesi river in Africa.

At various other points on Vancouver Island the production of numerous other varieties of bulbs is developing rapidly and during the past few years the home market has been supplied in ever-increasing volume.

Harvesting in this vicinity is almost a thing of the past for this year. The hot, dry weather is having a bad effect on the clover which is not filling as well as it would have had there been more rain.

The ground is too dry to plough, for wheat, so threshing will soon be the order of the day. No threshing has been done around here as yet, but the barns are all filled to overflowing.

A number from her attended the sale of the late Dr. Harrison's property in Keene on Thursday.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

HOW CHILDREN FARED IN HOME WRECKING

Well, the man has divorced his wife.

She and her three boys have gone back home to the little village where she was born and raised—and the man has gone to his club to live.

His wife is getting a divorce from him, too. But does he intend to marry the first woman?

Not he. He says he never did really care for her anyhow.

And the strangest thing about it is the man is a preacher and a very popular and well-loved preacher at that.

And the congregation is standing by him.

It's a strange story from the very beginninng.

The other man's wife had an affair with the preacher and she was sorry and ashamed and told her husband all about him, and she confessed in church and told the congregation and the minister denied it.

But now, after it's all over, here are the two divorces just the same, and three little boys are left fatherless and two little girls are left without a father, too—I hope the grown-up people who are having such a good time indulging their emotions like the idea of what is happening to those children.

Now about the woman who confessed what do you think about her anyhow? Did she do right to bring all that disgrace on her children and on her husband and on her father and mother and home? No, I don't mean that she did right to fall in love with another woman's husband—I mean did she do right to "confess."

After she had done so bitterly wrong in the first place, why bring trouble to all those who loved her just to indulge her emotions in a fit of repentance.

Why couldn't she behave herself in the first place, and when she didn't behave herself, then why didn't she behave herself afterward, and let other people's lives alone?

Deceitful? Well, yes; but she had already been that. Why drag her children down into the mire with her?

I think she was wrong—wrong from beginning to end—wrong when she deceived her husband and wrong when she told him the disgraceful truth.

A fine life she has laid out for those children of hers. High respect and gratitude they will have for her.

"I, me, my conscience, my soul, my heart, my suffering, my remorse!" What do all these things matter compared to the comfort and peace of mind of those helpless children?

No, I'm afraid I care less for the lady, now that she has confessed than I would have cared before, even if I had known all about the other man. What do you think about it?

Velvet

By HEDDA HOYT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(United Press).—"Girls are rolling their stockings below their knees while garterless boys let their socks drag over their shoe-tops," laments a college professor. College and high school boys have forsaken the garter almost entirely. They let their socks fall where they may.

We agree with the college professor that men should wear garters. There is nothing so slovenly as a sock that falls like an accordion about the ankle. Also we agree that women who roll their own should be careful in the rolling. If they must wear 'em below the knee let them wear garters which do not stop the circulation and cause broken blood vessels.

To hold the stocking tightly below the knee one must wear a very tight round garter. Girls are now wearing two pairs. One is rolled with the stocking and the other acts as an adornment on top of the roll or just beneath it.

Since skirts are as short as they are the stocking which comes above the knee is far nicer than the rolled one. There is nothing pretty about a bare knee unless one has a very beautiful knee. High heels throw the kneecap forward and women who have worn high heels for years are sure to have protruding kneecaps. But most girls think it is cute to show their knees.

Here is a simple exercise which will reduce the size of the knee: Stand erect, holding a wand or yardstick between the hands at a level with the waistline. First draw the right knee abruptly upwards, touching the wand, then the left knee. This exercise practiced five minutes each morning will reduce the unnecessary flesh about the knee.

OSTRICH AND PARTRIDGE FEATHERS TRIM EVENING WRAPS

These Evening Wraps Contrast in Silhouette, But Match in Trimming.

ANNETTE BRADSHAW

Last season the newest thing in evening wraps was the madel cut exactly like a tailored coat, but made of such gorgeous material that one could never confuse it with the coat for day wear.

This season favor is divided between the tailored evening coat and the wrap which flares out becomingly as it nears the ankles. The modish trimming for either is ostrich, and the effectiveness of this medium can be seen in the two accompanying sketches.

The cape was worn recently by a young movie actress. It is made of bright green velvet, as soft as the finest satin. The model is shaped so that it follows closely the lines of the shoulders and then flares decidedly in the lower portion. Matching green ostrich with long fronds makes the collar.

The coat is made of tissue cloth in gun metal tint and is modeled on strictly tailored lines. The collar and sleeves are untrimmed and deep band of ostrich which trims the lower part of the coat is black. This particular model is lined with coral velvet.

Royal blue velvet is much in the mode for the new Fall season. A stunning tailored evening coat of this material is trimmed with a deep hem band of ostrich in a brilliant green shade, of just the color value to contrast effectively with blue of the velvet.

Partridge feathers also make a smart trimming for the tailored day coat. These contrast effectively with the tints used in tweed and all woolen cloth for the day time ensemble.

Let's Talk It Over

DOES A MAN'S RESPECT FOR GIRLS CHANGE?

"When a man forms an opinion about a girl does he ever change it?" asks Worried. "Does he always hold a mistake against her?"

"You have been so kind in helping others, perhaps you can advise me. The trouble is, I have made a man lose his respect for me and I want to win it back.

I met a young man whom I liked very much. We were the best of friends until we were both invited to a party. The crowd was a little lively and, I am ashamed to say, we said things that were off color and told stories that shouldn't be repeated to our mothers. This chap was thoroughly disgusted. But what hurts me is that he thought I was different and he found out that I was just as bad as the others.

I am sick over the whole affair, because, I know that I love him. We see each other often—but he is indifferent though still very nice to me. I know he doesn't care for me now. Had I acted differently I think he would have, because he used to be so sweet to me. I have said things that have disgusted him, and now I am sorry again. I want him to like me and I think I am nice. I know I am to blame. It is my own fault that he has lost his respect for me.

Please tell me what to do. How shall I act when I see him? When a man forms an opinion about a girl does he ever change it? Or does he always hold a mistake against her? How can I make him love me? This has certainly been a lesson to me. I realize now that a lady must be a lady all the time and never say anything to a man that isn't right.

WORRIED.

Perhaps the man is worthy of your anxiety, Pal, and perhaps he isn't. But the fact remains that YOU are worthy of your finest effort. So this is what you should do, regardless of his reaction. You should sit down and write him just such a letter as you have written to me, saying how you really loathe the cheapness of the off-color stories and how much you dislike yourself for having indulged in them.

Tell him that you value his opinion, but whether he likes you or not you want him to know that in your heart you hate such stuff and you're through with it. If he's a gentleman and a sport he'll appreciate your spirit and admire your courage. If he isn't, you'll have done the gallant thing, anyway.

And now, here's a word to that young man and all the other young men who may be tempted to despise that girl. The telling of off-color stories need not condemn a girl more than it does a boy. We all have a streak of coarseness in us; it may be part of our heritage from old Mother Nature. Sometimes it crops up and surprises and disgusts us as much as it does the other fellow.

Vile jokes are my pet abomination. If they are your's too, and you are inclined to turn away in disgust from the man or woman who tells them, remember that you may also offend the other fellow. Take stock of yourself; perhaps you have a few failings of your own.

Lots of folks who scorn this girl and have nothing to do with the off-color story, will sit two hours through chiffon-covered filth on the silver screen or bury their noses for the best part of a day in a "classic" that would walk off like old cheese, if it weren't kept under lock and key.

ATTRACTIVE HAIR DRESSING

By Lucrezia Bori

Dear me, there are so many women who would be far, far more attractive if they had any conception of the proper way to treat their hair so as to enhance their natural beauty.

Here and there, all about me, I see profiles that could appear to a hundred per cent better advantage if the hair were dressed to bring out their best curves and angles.

Now you can do this for yourself if you are willing to give time and constructive thought to the problem.

This refers as much to the bobbed coiffure as to the more lengthy one. Bobs can vary as much as other methods of wearing the hair, and we all know that there are both becoming bobs and unbecoming ones. It's all in the way your hair is cut, and whether the person who cut it knew how to make it conform to the needs of your profile.

I have spoken before of the mode for the sculptured head. You must keep this in mind if you wish for the best results. Your hair may be cut either to lie flat to your head or it may be brushed to give this sculptured appearance.

If you have long hair, the first very necessary step is to have it cut to the length shown in the accompanying sketch, that is, to an inch or so below the shoulder line.

Now, there are two very becoming coiffures to be achieved easily which will help you toward the sculptured outline. One is to roll your hair close along the back of your head, starting just behind the ears and distributing the hair around so that it makes a fairly flat roll. The other is a trifle more difficult to arrange, but it makes an excellent coiffure. Some women who cannot confine short straggling hairs by the coiffure I have just described, find the following one more becoming:

You begin by taking the hair at one side of your head, drawing it back so that it falls becomingly over your ear, either part way or all the way, and pinning it there. You usually have to make a side part, to divide the hair off. Now, you take all the rest of your hair, brush it becomingly about the other ear and carry it across the back of your head. Take it well around, to just behind the opposite ear, and roll it under. Distribute it in a flat, even roll, several inches in length, as shown in the drawing. You will be surprised to find what a good clear line results. The longer hair which has been brought across can be used to swing across the short straggling hairs at the nape of the neck.

Cultivate these lines of youth and you will find yourself to be distinctly in the mode.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I is a young gentleman of 23. I is come in to town for the day. I is in love with a farmer's daghter. Her is goin with a feller whom her likes vury mush. I is joulus and I is wondering if yer culd tell me what to do to make he like me.

IKEY SMITH.

IKEY SMITH: If the young lady likes the young man very much, perhaps you had better step out of the picture, altogether, Ikey. Three usually makes a crowd.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl of 23. I am going with a young man whom I like very much and knowing that he doesn't care for me as much as he should, what can I do to win his friendship?

SUSIE.

SUSIE: Why not study the young man, Susie, and find out just what qualities he admires most in a lady. If he appears to like a good dresser, then your cue would be to look just as stylish as possible at all times. This can be done even on a limited income. Find out in indirect ways how he likes you to fix your hair, and if he prefers a horse and buggy to an auto ride, never insist on a Sunday motor jaunt. If you find the pursuit of such knowledge fatiguing, you can remember that, once safely landed, yo can begin to train him in your ways for a change.

Downward Trend In Light Session Of Mine Market

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).—The trend of the market was mostly downward on Standard Mining Exchange this morning with trading very light. Columbus Kirkland and Keora shared the leadership, the former advancing a point at 4 1-2, while Keora dropped 1 3-4 at 13. Premier advanced 3 at 230. Keeley suffered a drope of 7 points at 154, touching 151 during the session, and Canadian Lorraine receded 2 at 56.

Corn Passed Dollar Mark While Wheat Had Setback

CHICAGO, Sept. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Corn jumped over the dollar mark to-day for ordinary contract deliveries made any time this month. Some of the earliest trades showed September at nearly 2 cents a bushel gain, as compared with yesterday's final, 99¾ close. New crop deliveries also scored a material fresh advance. Continued drought and heat kept the market tending higher; initial quotations a quarter to one cent up; September 100¼ to 100¾, and December 88 to 88⅛, were followed by something of a reaction, but then by a rise that lifted September to 101½ and December to 88¾ cents.

Wheat was easier, influenced by the relative weakness of prices at Liverpool. Opening at a half off to three-eights up, December 154 to 154¼ and May 158¾ to 158⅜, the market here underwent a moderate general set-back and recovered some what.

Oats sympathized with corn. Starting unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, December 43 to 43⅛, the oats market held near to the initial figures.

Trading Quiet in New York With Group Stocks Gaining

NEW YORK, September 4 Canadian Press. — Stock prices made a further recovery in to-day's market, but trading was of a quiet pre-holiday character. Group movements were again prominent with substantial gains and some new highs being recorded by moderate priced motors, equipments, tractions, leathers and foods. Buying of rails was stimulated by the excellent group showing made by Class one carriers in July with best gains, being recorded by Southe Western and Bituminous coal carriers.

Quotations supplied by A. C. Hawley.

DEPUTATION TO BOARD OF WORKS FROM OTONABEE

Seek Assistance From City Regarding Road Near Canal.

TO BE INSPECTED.

Several Improvements to Be Made "If Funds Are Available."

Following the Fire, Water and Light Committee meeting, the Board of Works convened.

A complaint from 513 Albert Street was received stating that water one foot in depth was lying in front of the property. This matter was referred to the City Engineer.

It was moved that a sewage line from Queen Street to the reserved section entailing the portion passing the Peterborough Cereal be advertised.

The Mayor moved that the drain at the corner of Armour Road and Woodbine Avenue be filled in and equipped with the proper drains.

It was decided that an approach be made from the Ashburnham Bridge to the Hydro property, with the assistance of the Hydro Commission.

A deputation headed by Mr. Smith waited upon the committee. He presented the fact that considerable inconvenience was caused by drainage conditions on a short road leading from the canal and meeting the township road. The road in question was in the opinion of Engineer Parsons approximately 2,000 feet in length.

Mr. Devlin, another member of the depuation, was of the opinion that a ditch to the depth of two feet might relieve the situation.

The city, according to Secretary Armstrong, had never assumed any responsibility or done any work on the road. All were of one accord in denouncing the road as being in poor condition, as the main components in its construction were clay and corduroy.

The matter was left to the deputation and Engineer Parsons and arrangements were completed for an inspection to be held at 2 p.m. today.

Aldermen Fife and McIntyre were given power to act regarding the roof on a city stable, which Harry Evans reported to be in a serious state of neglect.

MILK PRODUCTS MANAGER TELLS OF BIG SUBJECT

Milk Forms Basis of Rotarian Gillespie's Discourse to Kiwanis.

BUTTERMILK, TOO.

Great Advance Effected in Late Years Because of Standardization.

Dairy products absorbed the attention of Kiwanians to-day, and what with copious draughts of buttermilk administered to the inner man and an interesting discourse on milk products in general, Kiwanians should feel that the subject has been extensively covered.

Rotarian Gillespie was the speaker of the day. He began his address, following a verbal war waged between himself and Chairman Kiwanian Cook. The matter of introduction formed the crux of contention, but matters were amicably adjusted eventually to the satisfaction of the debaters.

Milk, Mr. Gillespie announced, was a big subject. So far as records are obtainable, the cheese-making industry in Canada started about 48 years ago.

At that time was formed the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association; a part of the Ontario Dairymen's Association was broken up into two distinct bodies.

From the earliest data the problems of the milk industry have been the same, namely, cleanliness and cooling methods. When extracted from its bovine source, the milk is at a temperature of 98 degrees, a temperature which, if maintained, will promote rapid bacterial growth. Cooling destroys this bacteria and is the great agency in keeping the milk fresh and sweet. Milk should be cooled immediately after extraction, for the growth of bacteria goes on with extreme rapidity, which, if not quickly checked, will spoil the milk.

Cheesemaking in Canada is a comparatively recent development. It has expanded rapidly in late years, when its value as a national industry was foreseen. This year 150 millions of pounds of cheese were made, 112 millions of which was exported. Conditions in factories have improved materially, so that each year a higher grading is achieved.

At the present time there is a chief instructor, who has under him a number of assistants, whose business it is to aid in raising the standard of Canadian cheese. Their efforts have met with no limited success, as Canada is steadily forging ahead, and finds no difficulty in locating a market for all produce in this line.

A sanitary inspector employed by the Government is all powerful, being vested in authority by which he can, if necessary, close up an unsanitary factory.

Previous to the war, Canada supplied Great Britain with 75 per cent of her supply of cheese but now because of increased competition from New Zealand that figure has dropped to 50 per cent.

The cheese is graded in three classes and boxes are stamped with the proper marks by government officials. Cheesemakers must make good cheese or their factories will lose the custom of their patrons. This year should result in 95 per cent of number 1 grade.

In New England all milk is pasteurized before being used in the manufacture of cheese but because of better pasture conditions in Canada that precaultion is unnecessary here.

Canada's record in the butter industry is not as good. 183 million pounds were made last year but only 15 millions exported. This is accounted for by the fact that the major portion is used for home consumption.

The total value of milk products to the Dominion is 100 millions of dollars so that that industry can be regarded as one of the premier profit producing actiivties.

New Zealand, Denmark and Australia are the leading competitors and the western provinces are leading Canada in standardizing butter quality because a system of grading the cream has been adopted.

Ice cream is a young but sturdy infant. It is now standardized as the government demands 10 per cent of butter fat in its components. The usual formula adopted is 4 gallons of cream to one gallon of condensed milk or milk powder as a stabilizer. Condensed milk manufacture has increased during and since the war.

Famous English Firm Goes Out Of Business

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(United Press).—The firm of Day and Martin, Ltd., with whose blacking Sam Weller polished the immortal boots of Mr. Pickwick, is to close, according to the Daily Express.

Beneath this bare announcement lies a romantic history of trade, for the firm of Day and Martin is known throughout the English-speaking world. It is mentioned by Charles Dickens and Tom Hood, by George Eliot and Carlyle.

The firm was founded in 1770, more or less by accident. Mr. Martin, of Doncaster, who was a hairdresser and a surgeon-barber, befriended a weary soldier who had outstayed his leave.

In order to show his gratitude, the soldier gave him a secret recipe for blacking, which he had constantly used on officers' boots. "Make blacking like that,' he remarked, "and you will make a fortune." Martin, with his cousin, Mr. Day, decided to try the recipe. They did so, and so began the famous firm.

Up to 1894, the firm prospered greatly. It then fell on evil days, through the unwillingness of the directors to advertise.

It is expected the new park will be ready for the spring opening.

2 ESCAPE FROM U. S. STRONG BOX

USE BITS OF ROPE.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).—Two convicts, one serving a life sentence for murder, made a sensational escape early yesterday morning from the state prison at Wethersfield in which Gerald Chapman, mail truck robber, is awaiting the execution of the death sentence.

These escapes are the first to be made since 1919 from that prison, regarded as one of the strongest and most thoroughly guarded in the country.

The 3-16 inch steel ceiling of each cell disclosed jagged triangular holes through which they had drawn themselves up to a place above the cell block. From there to the roof they wriggled through the ventilator.

Stepping cautiously in their stocking feet they made their way to the roof of the women's prison and dropped 20 feet to the laundry roof, using an improvised rope ladder of bits of rope that had been concealed in their cells. From the laundry to the ground, 25 feet, was easy work with the rope which was left dangling.

STRIKERS SHOT AT BY OFFICIAL

Secretary of Branch of Seamen's Union Accused of Attempted Murder.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press)—George Reed, secretary of a branch of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union at Stepney, appeared in the Thames Police Court yesterday on remand on a charge of attempting to murder David Johnson and Richard Cocklin, seamen, by shooting at them with a revolver and also with having in his possession an automatic revolver without holding a fiearms certificate. The case arose out of the strike of British seamen and the taking of evidence will be coninued today, the defendant being released on bail.

Prosecuting counsel stated that on August 26 Reed sent out several delegates to collect certain subscriptions to the union, but when they reached Tower Bridge they were met by some strikers who used threats aaginst them and as a result they returned to the branch office where they reported the matter to the accused who was very much annoyed. Subsequently the strikers met near the branch office and Reed fird several shots from a window. Nobody was hurt, however, and when asked by the police Reed came out of the office and surrendered. Handing over his revolver he asked: "What would you do if you had Russian Jews coming over here and smashing up our homes?"

Johnson described himself as a seaman and a British subject. He said that he was addressing a meeting when the shooting occurred. Cross-examined, he said he was born of British parents in Rumania and excitedly protested against what he claimed was an attempt to blacken his character. When asked if he had another name he admitted convictions for larceny but said he was only once convicted of insulting behaviour in the street.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS CAUSED BY SLEEP

Overtired Drivers Are Lulled to Sleep by Engine Rhythm.

LONDON, Sept. 4.— (United Press.)—"Asleep at the wheel" is the cause ascribed to many motor accidents by a writer in the "British Medical Journal."

"An over-tired driver is easily soothed to greater somnolence by the rythm of the engine" continues the article. "Medical men who drive their cars must be more liable than most people to the risk of falling asleep since they often have many long days of tiring work.

"Motorists who are very tired should refrain from driving on monotonous country roads."

NOTED BEAUTIES SHUN BOBBED HAIR

Majority of Those Competing for "Miss America" Title Have Long Tresses.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 4.—(United Press).—Bobbed hair may still be popular among the majority of the young women of America but it is scarce among her noted beauties.

Of the one hundred feminine competitors for the title of Miss America who are gathered here for the annual beauty contest only three have bobebd hair. The other ninety-seven, picked as the most beautiful in cities all over the country, have long hair.

Village Threatened By Farm House Destruction

LINDSAY, Sept. 4—(Special)—A serious fire, which at one time threatened the destruction of the village of Manchester occurred on Wednesday on the property of Wright Crosier, when his house and barn were destroyed, together with his crop and a large quantity of wood. There was a partial insurance. It is thought the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion.

A call was sent into Port Perry for help and the brigade responded with hand pump and hose. At one time it looked as if the town hall, church and a number of residences would go, but the fire-fighters confined the flames to Mr. Crosier's property.

MOTOR BOAT PARTY VISITS PETERBORO

John Edwin Hoag Is En Route To New York From Astoria.

Mail is accumulating at the Chamber of Commerce, with which is affiliated "The Trent Waterway Development Association," for John E. Hoag, intrepid adventurer and explorer who, with Frank S. Wilton, motion picture camera operator of world fame, and Val Woodbury, ex-naval officer and commander of merchant ships over the seven seas, also business executive and yachtsman, is attempting a five thousand (5,000) mile water cruise, from Astoria, Oregon to New York City.

A letter from Mr. Hoag to the Trent Waterway Development Association, Peterborough, dated Nov. 14th, 1924, says in part: "In the June issue of Motor Boating (N. Y.) I read an article of the Trent Waterway between Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario. Some idea of the value of this publicity to your section of the country may be gained when I tell you that prior to reading the article I did not know that such a waterway existed. Moreover, I am now looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to a trip through this waterway next June."

Mr. Hoag is a journalist and photographer of considerable note. He plans to publish the story of his trip in several leading national magazines and the final literary effort will be in the form of a book extensively illustrated from photographs taken along the routes. Peterborough has its place in his itinerary and publications and the Chamber of Commerce is at present arranging for a picture to be taken of a group of local boats, with which Mr. Hoag plans to place his craft. Every attention will be given the party along their route and plans are under way to escort this distinguished party around the city and through Peterborough waters.

Shrine Effects Cure That Defied Physicians

PRINCE ALBERT, Sept. 4.—A statement by the physician attending the family of Colin LePage, of Proudhomme, Sask., received here certified the cure of a daughter of LePage, aged three yars. The child had been taken to a shrine at Wakaw, 50 miles south of here, to St. Theresa of Lisleux, France, established after the saint was canonized last May.

An operation last year failed to cure a serious affection of an ear of the child. At the shrine the LePage family prayed nine days. On the ninth day the cure appeared.

The physician's statement did not refer to the trip to the shrine. On a return visit at the shrine the family rendered thanks to St. Theresa.

Traffic Dangers Cause Fewer Baby Carriages

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 4—(United Press).—Despite the fact that babies are being born in the United States at a rate of one every thirty seconds the use of baby carriages is falling off.

This bit of sociological phenomena was divulged by J. Weir Coover, secretary of the Gendron Wheel company, one of the oldest carriage concerns in the country.

Coover attributed the decreased demand to the automobile, to the danger of crossing the streets and to increasing apartment houses existence.

YOUTH HUMBLES JESS SWEETSER

Watts Gunn, 19, Played Brilliant Golf in Amateur Title Tourney.

NEARING FINAL

OAKMONT, Pa., September 4. — Canadian Press. — The blood of two great soldiers of the links was spilled yesterday on the greens of Oakmont on the Allegheny and from the battle theer arose a new enemy determined to bring about a new era in the realm of United States amateur golf.

Robert T. Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, is king, but he is beset on all sides and his greatest fear is that his bosom friend, a fellow townsman, will be the one to dethrone him if he is to be carried down. For Watts Gunn, a lad of 19, has proved the sensation with an under-par consistency that has seldom if ever, been equalled on the links of this continent.

George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, yesterday conquered Boston's giant veteran, Jesse Guilford, after a keen struggle, 2 and 1; and Bobby Jones, and Von Elm, the finalists of last year at Merion, will clash again today.

Jess Sweetser, the former Yale star, also went down yesterday before the severest onslaught he has ever been called upon to withstand. He was the victim of young Gunn, who drove under par for 27 holes and ended the fray at the 27th with a 10 hole advantage, after Jeff, all confidence gone, had missed a putt of a mere three feet.

The Joneses, Bobby and Dick, carried on in no uncertain manner, the champion despite the best efforts of Clarence Wolff of Sappington, Mo., by six and five, and the latter through good but somewhat erratic golf on the part of Lauren Upson of Sacramento, 2 and and 1.

While Bobby Jones is playing Von Elm in the lower bracket to-day Dick Jones is facing Gunn, and his playing will have to be even better than it has been in this tournament if little Watts continues his sparkling Against Sweetser yesterday Gunn never was headed after the 5th hole. Only four times in 42 holes has he been over par and two of these misplays came in the first nine.

QUEEN'S SQUAD TO PRACTICE SEPT. 14

Hannon and Burley Absentees From the 1925 Team.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).Queen's Seniors will be minus two stars they counted on when they take the field this fall, both Hannon and Burley being absentees.

Hannon, Hamilton, who has been sub snapback for the past couple of years, will not be able to enter the University until after Christmas and thus will be missed by the senior team.

Norman Burley, husky flying wing, and ex-R. M. cadet, has decided to remain at his home in Vancouver for a year. Burley did excellent work for the Senior champions last year. His absence means that "Pres" McLeod will likely shoulder the brunt of the work at flying wing this fall.

"Snag" Skelton, star outside wing of Queen's Seniors last year, arrived in the city yesterday, and looks bigger than ever. Skelton kept in great shape during the summer and is ready to start training any time.

Replies to the letters sent out by Coach Hughes have been received from several of the players, and already definite assurance has been received that the following players will be here for the first practice on September 14: Batstone, "Red" McKelvey, "Gib" McKelvey, Skelton, "Bud" Thomas, Baldwin, Howard, Wright, Chantler, Voss, Mainguey.

Baird of the Intermediate team, who is a candidate for a position on the Senior team, will be here on September 21, while "Pres" McLeod, Norrie and McCrimmon will likely be in about the same time.

OTTAWA RUGBY IS OFF TILL TUESDAY

Baseball Still Gets First Call at Lansdowne Park.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press).—Training activities in the camp of the Ottawa Rugby Football Team have been suspended until Tuesday of next week. This announcement was made yesterday following last night's workout at which eighteen candidates reported. The Rideaus and St. Anthony's, Senior and Intermediate Baseball League champions respectively, are staging a play-off series for the city championship this week-end, and it is possible that the deciding game will not take place until Monday evening, as a result the football authorities have stepped down to give the ball tossers the use of Lansdowne Park.

While there will be no regular practices, it is likely that most of the candidates will perform light training duties. Joe Turman and Charlie Connel are finishinng a lacrosse season with the Shamrock team of the City League, while Joe Miller and Don. Young are members of the Rideau baseball team, and Harold Starr plays for St. Anthony's. These men are all in great shape and are ready to start right in with the others when the training grind is resumed.

Cobourg Bowlers Ahead.

COBOURG, Sept. 4.—Last Monday night four rinks of Cobourg bowlers went to Port Hope to play in the Hopper-Rosevear trophy series and were 22 down in the evening's play. Cobourg Bowling Club is, however, in the lead in the season's games so far.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Falling away from the ball—backward from it—also results from pressing. I cite these things in terms of results of pressing rather than by merely telling the golfer not to press. All golfers have been told that, but the trouble is few of them know just when they are pressing. The undue exertion applied to the shaft in the forward swing becomes so great when the natural acceleration of the club is added that the player simply cannot keep up with it, so he "breaks" and falls backward away from the ball. This is an instinctive effort to maintain balance. The club would probably twist him right off his feet otherwise. With the backward sway he catches the ball merely with the toe of the club and of course a slice results. The first essential is to "stand up to the ball throughout the swing." The next is, let the club take its natural, rythmic swing. The goller's job is to swing the club. This differs from the common conception of the task, by which the average golfer thinks he is to hit the ball. Swing the club, and it will do the rest.

RUTH PLACED IN WIFE'S CUSTODY

Slugger Insists He's Back on the Straight and Narrow.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Babe Ruth has put his future in his wife's hands.

Proudly bowing to the dictatorship which she will wield over him under the terms of Manager Huggins, the Bambino said:

"The straight road for me. My wife's the only gal. I have learned something during this affair. I never knew she was so sensitive before when other women were mentioned."

Then he confided:

"Any more talk of other women and there's going to be trouble. The first woman whose name is linked with mine is going to be knocked for a home run!"

Babe All Excited.

Ruth, who was all excitement over the request from Huggins that he "call him up Friday night and probably learn something to his advantage," said that his wife would regulate his diet, guard his every move and "soon make a good boy of him." He added:

"I can't afford to be bad. The whole world's watching me now. I'm going to keep good hours, get plenty of sleep, and my wife's going to be with me all the time."

Mrs. Ruth is improving. Dr. Edward King, of St. Vincent's Hospital, said that she was out of danger from the illness brought on by her infected finger and worry.

Olive Branch Offered.

The statement of Huggins that if Ruth would call him he would learn something to his advantage, was taken as a diplomatic way of saying that on Saturday the Bambino would jump into uniform in the line-up against the Athletics.

The question of the $5,000 fine, which was imposed when Huggins suspended Ruth, was still a mystery. Both Huggins and Col. Jacob Ruppert agreed that "Babe" should pay a penalty for his folly, but if the prodigal is on his good behavior during the remainder of the season there may be a reduction from the staggering sum. However, it is generally understood among ball players that if they pay a fine they later find a cheque for the same amount in their pay envelope.

Ruth Chases Huggins.

Ruth, a pathetic figure, spent most of Wednesday around the Stadium trying to buttonhole Huggins. He finally got him and asked if he couldn't get back into harness right then and there.

But Huggins said:

"No, you can't put on a uniform. Just behave yourself for a few days and call me up when I told you to. I will probably have something to say then."

So there was nothing for Babe to do but go beneath the stands to the food establishment. He ordered a plate of beans and during that time, waving a handful of bread as he spoke, he expostulated at great length on the advantages of the straight and narrow path and forswearance of dalliance. He wound up:

"Friday night I'll be right on the telephone with both ears. I hope he gives me the shock of my life—that I am due back the next day."

Anyway, the Yankee "family" are planning a "welcome home" for Ruth, and fans gargling their throats for the great event.

LOCAL HORSE WON.

Stan Blewett's "Silk Line" First at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 4. — There were five entries in the 2.14 event at the Fair Tuesday, and when Starter Geo. O. Tice called for the horses at the judges' stand the following responded: Silk Line, Roy Mack, Polly Stout, Volo Belle and Star Brook. It proved to be an easy win for Silk Line, owned by Mr. S. Blewett, of Peterboro, who took three heats without any trouble. The best time made was in the second heat which was 2.14¼ and it could have been lowered had Silk Line been pressed. The spectators were evidently much pleased with the race. At the conclusion of the first heat Star Brook, owned by C. Fife, of Indian River, fell, overturning the bike he was attached to. Neither the driver nor animal were hurt. The summary of this event is as follows:

Silk Line, S. Blewett, Peterboro—1 1 1.
Polly Stout, D. Elmhurst, Keene—4 2 2.
Roy Mack, S. Watson, Cobourg—2 3 3.
Volo Belle, R. Turley, Frankford—3 4 4.
Star Brook, Chas. Fife, Indian River—5 4 5.

Time—2.16¼, 2.14¼, 2.14¼.

The officials were as follows:
Starter—George O. Tice.
Judges—J. Lafferty and H. E. Fairfield.

WARSAW, Sept. 4 — Norwood girls visited the local ladies' softball team and were forced to return home bearing the smaller portion of a 24-7 score.

Umpires Currie and Norval handled the legislative end of the game.

The home team served refreshments to the vanquished immediately after the contest.

LONDON SOCCER TEAMS INSPIRE HOPES OF FANS

West Ham and Spurs Have Won First Two Games.

TEST ON SATURDAY

Hammers Go To Liverpool —League and Cup Winners Clash.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (Canadian Press Cable). — The initial success that has attended the efforts of the metropolitan teams in the First Division of the English Soccer League has encouraged Londoners to hope that this season may see their clubs standing well up in the final count. Both West Ham and Tottenham Hotspurs have won the two games scheduled for them up to the present. In case of the former, these encounters have been staged on their own ground, but the case of the 'Spurs is one that entitles them to more credit, for both contests have been won away from home. The Hammers' test will come on Saturday when they play their first match outside of Upton Park, facing Liverpool on the Mersey-side. Liverpool seemed to strike their stride on Wednesday, when in their second game they defeated Notts County, after having succumbed to Leicester City in the opener a week ago. The 'Spurs are at home to Manchester City, a club that won over Cardiff last Saturday and dropped a game to Birmingham on Monday.

Cup-Winners Play.

A regular Yorkshireman's feast is slated for Bramhall Lane, where the cup winners, Sheffield United, entertain Huddersfield Town, the league title holders. Sheffield's appearances have so far been rewarded by the gathering of one meagre point only, when they drew with Everton in the curtain raiser, while last Monday they were beaten by Tottenham in a 3 to 2 game. The Town have had only one appearance up to the present, and they were called upon to face stiff opposition in the form of West Bromwick Albion. The tilt resulted in a draw. From this it is deduced that at the moment there is not a great deal between the teams and that if anything the United are in a more fortunate position by having the advantage of locale.

West Bromwich are called on for a severe test when they act as hosts to Sunderland. The Durham County club have burst into the season with a tremendous flourish, crushing Blackburn Rovers on Wednesday by no less than 6 goals to 2, and overwhelming Birmingham in the opening tilt by exactly half the foregoing count. Sunderland's chances are being strongly boosted by the North of England fans, and they are favored to come out on the long end of their tourney with the Albion. The latter have had to be content with two indecisive contests, the first against Huddersfield and the second against Everton. The latter game was played on the Albion's ground.

Leicester City Strong.

Whether Burnley will allow Leicester City, the winners of last year's Second Division title, to blanket them by 10 goals to 0, as was done by Aston Villa a week ago remains to be seen. The collapse of Burnley was attributed in a great measure to lack of condition and also to the fact that they had to play the entire second half without Hill. It is assumed that they have spruced up since them. At the same time, Leicester City are a strong combination and their first two games have shown them to be as aggressive in the first division as they were in the second. They have already tucked the scaps of Liverpool at their belt, and travelling to Highbury on Monday, they played Arsenal to a drawn game. This is an index of the pep wherewith Leicester is going after senior honors this year.

HONEYMOON TRIP SHOOTING BIG GAME

Scientist Now in British Columbia Takes Wife Everywhere.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—"My wife can do everything that I can," said James L. Clark, assistant director of the American Museum of Natural History. He has twice been to East Africa and he has covered many parts of North America, but this is the first time he has visited British Columbia, where he is to collect specimens of the Osborn cariboo. Mrs. Clark has been his companion on all these trips. One does the shooting while the other takes motion pictures. They are going to Wrangell and from there to Telegraph Creek, head of navigation on the Stikine River, where they will outfit for two months in the Cassiar. They will be nearly 40 days on horseback.

Mrs. Clark was one of the first women to go on a hunting trip in interior East Africa, her husband taking her there on a honeymoon in 1906. In 1921 they returned, alone except for native guides, after big game, and spent two years in East Africa.

RAYBESTOS MEETS DELORO TOMORROW

Raybestos ball heavers will take on the Deloro Smelters tomorrow, when those teams will engage in a dynamic struggle beginning at 3.15.

Deloro is fresh from red hot victory over the Cobourghers and will be a peppy aggregation, while Raybestos turned the tide against the Lindsay Greybirds in no uncertain fashion.

The team behind Oulette was beaten in two consecutive games, both wins coming in the latter end of the sessions. It took three contests to pick a winner from the Deloro-Cobourg conventions. "Punch" Derry performing the hat trick in one of them, serving up his offerings in such a mysterious fashion that runs failed to materialize.

Deloro has three strong pitchers in Ada, Seal and Shea and any one of them is capable of doling them out fast and frequently. Either Moore or Shaughnessy will be allotted the hurling role for the seance, as as both have had a chance to whip their salary hooks into shape they will both be anxious to get at 'em.

Raybestos has played exhibition games with the Smelters from time to time and on each occasion a close battle ensued. Tomorrow's promises to be no exception.

According to the size of the gates at games played on Exhibition Grounds this summer, a few directions might not come amiss. F' instance—"You know where George Street is? Well the Exhibition Grounds lie in a due southerly direction." The ball game of the year will be there tomorrow.

The captain of the Pennant and his wife were drowned.

CRIMINALS FIND CANADIAN LAW HARD TO DODGE

More Convictions Were Registered During Past Year.

AQUITTALS LESS

Speed and Sureness of Punishment Serve as Great Deterrent.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Canadian courts are drawing the net more closely round the criminal. That is one conclusion to be drawn from criminal statistics of the Canadian Government.

The statistics cover the year ended Sept. 30, 1924, and are a compilation of convictions and acquittals in the various provinces. They do not deal with the unsolved mysteries of crime, but with cases actually in court. They show that in the 12 months ended last September convictions for indictable offences as against the previous 12 months corresponding, increased from 15,188 to 16,258 while at the same time acquittals decreased from 4,551 to 4,409.

Expressed in percentages, convictions in indictable offences increased by seven per cent while acquittals decreased by six per cent.

Of the major crimes, there were 22 convictions for murder in the year ended September, 1924, as against 15 in the previous year; 1,558 convictions for burglary, house, warehouse and shop breaking as against 1,175; 146 convictions for robbery and demanding with menace as against 132 and 14 convictions for highway robbery, exactly the same number as a year previous.

The tendency of Canadian courts to impose swift punishment—in this following the lead of the British courts—is often cited as one explanation of the remarkable difference between the toll of crime in Canada and that in certain American cities. And in major offenses especially has the tendency been noticeable. The Montreal bandits and their fate on the scaffold; the execution of the so-called "king of the bootleggers" in the Crow's Nest Pass case of the Rockies and a woman accomplice were cases in point.

In both these cases the death sentence was imposed not only on the one who actually fired the fatal shot but also on the accomplice, for Canadian law regards the accomplice to a murder as being just as guilty as the murderer. The Code, too, provides only one penalty for murder, no matter in what part of Canada the crime may be committed, and that is the capital sentence. The sentence may be commuted by the Governor-General acting on the advice of the Cabinet, but commutation is only granted in exceptional cases.

In Parliament, session after session, there are pleas for abolition of the death sentence. But while abolition has found much support, the argument for the death sentence has always been that it is a deterrent to crime. On the last occasion that capital punishment came before the House of Commons, a motion favoring abolition was defeated by 92 to 29.

PROPOSALS FOR LACROSSE BODY

Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association Meeting in Winnipeg Today.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4. — Everything is in readiness for the annual meeting here to-day of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association. Delegates will be present from all the provinces and it is expected that the meeting will do much to put lacrosse back on a sound basis. It is understood that the formation of a Dominion championship lacrosse series will be decided upon. The popular favor in this respect seems to be a series similar to that conducted each year for the Connaught football trophy.

The local lacrosse association will put before the meeting the following recommendations:

1—That the place of finals in the Dominion championship rotate each year.

2—That ten men with four substitutes be used in the elimination and final games.

3—That the enclosed field be accepted as regulation or at least a backstop be used at both ends at least twenty feet behind the goal.

4—That the size of the goal be 4 ft. 6 in. wide by 6 ft. high.

5—That the C.A.L.A. take charge of all elimination and final games, and that the money derived from such games be applied to the expenses of travelling teams excepting ground rent.

6—That the Dominion championship be decided as soon after Aug. 15 as possible.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Peterboro's protest was heard by the sub-committee of the Central Ontario League at Belleville yesterday and was eventually dismissed. The committee had no other alternative in view of the evidence of Umpires Colling and Sullivan; the former of whom declared that no ground rule had been made covering a ball hit into the crowd in right field, and the latter stating that he could not remember a rule for right field. Umpire Alex. Kay and Manager Johnston emphatically maintained that a ground rule of two bases had been agreed upon, covering both fields, but the committee had no choice than to accept the version of the majority of the umpires.

The mix-up was just one of the many breaks the Ponies got throughout the series. When three umpires and two managers spend ten minutes in arranging ground rules only to have a play come up upon which the ball game depends and find the umpires unable to agree upon the rule, it must certainly be regarded as a break for the benefit of the dispute. If the Colling-Sullivan version is correct, then the umpires were guilty of neglect of their duties in not protecting themselves a play of this kind. To those who know the conditions on the Kingston Grounds it is nonsensical to think that a ground rule should be put into effect covering left field, while right field, where there is always much more congestion of spectators was left uncovered.

The Petes feel that they were amply justified in bringing their case before the sub-committee, but they have no ill feeling toward the Ponies, and will pull for them to go on and bring the Ontario honors East. They wish the Kingston crew the best of luck in their series with the T.A.B.A. winners.

Although they were nosed out after the most closely contested play-off series in the history of the Central Ontario League and have reason to feel that they were out-lucked in that series, the Petes have had a very successful season, providing the home fans with plenty of interesting baseball, and developing some splendid young material. Frank Whitehouse and Jeff Hardill proved themselves well worthy of Senior company, and Fred Ash was the outfield discovery of the year, his hitting being a feature. During the season Jimmy Hall, living up to the promise of his first year in Senior company, developed into the most sensational outfielder in the league.—F.D.C.

GUELPH WANTS TO BE IN FINALS

Midgets Object to Playing Toronto Team in Semi-Finals.

MAY WITHDRAW.

GUELPH, Sept. 4—President Joseph Hewitt and officials of the Guelph Midget Baseball Club object to a decision arrived at by the O.B.A.A., which resulted in the local midget club receiving orders to play Toronto Elizabeths before meeting Peterboro in the Ontario finals. The local midget aggregation have already met Brantford and Meritton in semi-final games, and eliminated them from the race, and Mr. Hewitt is of the opinion that they have earned their way into the finals, having been given to understand beforehand that they would have reached the final lap after eliminating Merritton.

He has taken a firm stand, and says that he is in the mood to with draw the team from the championship play-offs. Strong representations have been made to President "Billy" Snyder of Hamilton, by long distance telephone today, and the protest, it is hoped, will bring results as the Toronto team, states Mr. Hewitt, has no as yet played outside of Toronto.

ATHLETES HAVE BIG DAY AT FAIR

City Championships and School Competitions on Sept. 16.

TUG OF WAR, TOO.

A new departure in the Exhibition programme will take place this year, in that the City Championship will be held in connection with the school's athletic events on the fair grounds on Wednesday, September 16th. The prizes are four trophies, which were donated in 1911 by four prominent citizens of Peterborough: E. A. Peck, Judge Huycke, V. Eastwood and J. J. Howden.

The presentation of these trophies has helped considerably in promoting the athletic activities of the rising generation in the city. Some fine athletes were developed during the annual contests. In this connection may be mentioned the names of Harold Hill, who won the Howden trophy in 1913, by covering the hundred yards in 10 4-5 seconds and Wilfred Stratton, who won the Eastwood trophy in the same year.

The winners in the athletic contests are decided on a points score basis regardless of places in single heats or events.

On Wednesday, September 16 the tug of war for the Masonic Shield, presented by the City Lodges, will be held. September 16 ought to be a big day in the sporting annals of the city.

Early next week entry forms for all school contests will be given out to scholars from the public and separate schools of the district. All entries must be handed in at the Y.M.C.A. on or before Monday, Sept 14.

EXPECT PREMIER WILL ASK TO-DAY FOR DISSOLUTION

Is Lunching With Governor-General After Cabinet Meeting.

LONG SESSION.

Announcement Likely to be Made To-morrow to His Constituents.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4. — (Canadian Press).—To-day, according to general expectation, Premier Mackenzie King will make his request for a dissolution of Parliament to the Governor-General. His Excellency arrived in the Capital at eleven o'clock this morning, and it was arranged that the Prime Minister would lunch with him.

The Cabinet sat this morning. It will probably continue to sit for the greater part of the day, while it is understood that preparations for the coming political battle are being made. The sittings are productive of but little in the nature of a public announcement. The Prime Minister, it is understood, is reserving that for the important speech which he will deliver to-morrow in his own constituency.

To-morrow's speech will be the first of a number to be delivered at points in Ontario. At the end of next week, Mr. King will return to Ottawa, when, it is understood, further Cabinet meetings will be held. A number of important matters remain to be disposed of, including a great sheaf of appointments which will be made before the election. Cabinet reorganization will, of course, take place.

You can always tell what a woman thinks of her husband by the way she laughs at his jokes.

CANADIAN BEER HAS LOST CHARM

U. S. Tourists Have Found 4.4 to be "Tasty But Weak."

RUSH HAS CEASED

DETROIT, September 4. — Associated Press. — The tourist season is under full steam now and the ferries and bridges are crowed with Ontario-bound Americans, but the situation in the Promised Land for the thirsty is peculiarly drab for those who expected to get a quench out of the widely heralded "4.4 beer."

What has become of the emigrating thousands whose feet tramped hurriedly across the gang planks of Detroit-Windsor ferries and rushed the International bridge at Niagara in that grand but short lived offensive extending along a great front from Port Huron and points north to the Georgian Bay region to Buffalo, and along the St Lawrence River?

It is a question that frequently confounds the callous border city citizen when the visitor whispers the inquiry. The answer, which is indirect but pertinent to the question, usualy comes readily and with a tinge of scorn, though polite: "Oh, it's on tap over there," indicating a hotel or inn. "We don't drink it, you know."

The beer is availablei n most inns, hotels and restaurants throughout the province. Diligent search in some instances will disclose cases of a beverage resembling in color and hardly exceeding in alcoholic content the near-beer concoction so freely sold in this country. The connoisseur, if there be such in the field of beerology, has proclaimed it weak, tasty, but weak.

In the meantime the province has gone placidly on its way, maintaining to the ordinary observer the same aspect it bore before the amended temperance act went into effect.

SUBMARINE LOST.

Italians Abandon Hope For U-Boat.

ROME, September 4. — Canadian press. — The submarine Sebastiano Veniero, missing since the recent manoeuvres of the Italian navy off Sicily, has been officially declared to be lost.

Premier Mussolini yesterday addresed a messsage to the personnel of the submarine service expressing the profound grief of the nation, and calling upon the men attached to the submarine service to continue to fulfill their mission with stout hearts.

Discovery by aviators of a large patch of oil and naptha on the water between Syracuse and Cape Passero, Sicily, near which the submarine Sebastiano Veniero was last seen, has caused virtual abandonment of hope for the recovery alive of her crew of 50 officers and men. The search nevertheless is being continued.

The submarine disappeared during the naval manoeuvres off the Sicilian coast last week. The water where the oil patch was discovered is nearly 4,000 feet deep, making dragging operations out of the question.

Rudyard Kiping has resigned his trusteeship.

LAST ARTICLES OF JOURNALIST STIR COMMENT

Earl of Birkenhead Forced to Give Up Writing For Profit.

COMPLETES CONTRACT

Article on Condensers Arouses Hostile Criticism of Press.

LONDON, Sept. 4. — (Special by United Press).—The Earl of Birkenhead, whose career as a journalist formally was concluded by an order of Premier Baldwin, is still busy filling contracts which he signed before it was decreed that Cabinet Ministers should not do outside writing for profit. His swansong is a series of biographies of contemporary industrial leaders, one of which has stirred up hostile comment in the Conservative press. It was a eulogy of a manufacturer of wireless condensors and was marked by such slipshod writing as a reference to wireless telegraphy dependance on air along with aviation.

Probably assuming that Lord Birkenhead knows that wireless functions, not through air but through ether, the Morning Post questions whether he really wrote the articles.

"Let us suppose," it suggests, "that this manufacturer were to go to the India Office for the purpose of demonstrating that use of his condenser and with this publication in his hand.

"Would it not place the officials of that Department in a somewhat delicate position?"

The series is appearing in May Fair cartoons, nominally selling for sixty cents, but being received in some cases free through the mails.

The series has a year to run, and Lord Birkenhead is reputed to be getting $25.00 an article.

He has accepted the authorship of the articles publicly, and said the contract was signed before he assumed office.

BOOST STREET CARS.

Manufacturer Co-operates With Industry By Extensive Advertising.

An excellent example of co-operation of a manufacturer with the electric railway industry is contained in the March 1 issue of the Saturday Evening Post. The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company has a full page, two-color advertisement which carries to the more than two million readers of the Saturday Evening Post the message that "You need street cars." The copy under this caption follows:

"How do you suppose the great bulk of the people in your town get about on their errands of business and pleasure? You may go in your automobile—but most people ride in street cars! Street cars are the links in the endless chain of transportation that bind your community together for business, social and industrial growth.

"Given a square deal, which is all it asks, your electric street railway company will be a tremendous factor in the growth, progress and prosperity of your community, whether it is large or small. You and all other citizens will act in your own interests if you make sure that your street railway company always has a fair chance to provide the kind of service your community needs."

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

COMING—GUY BROTHERS MINSTRELS.

The spectacle of a big minstrel show will be the next attraction at Peterboro Grand Opera House, Monday evening, Sept. 7. The organization has been known as the Famous Guy Brothers Minstrels for the past fifty-one years.

They have enjoyed exceptional popularity and are one of the outstanding money-making troupes on the road. The management have surrounded themselves with a company of gifted geniuses of Ethiopean comedy, songs, laughter and mirth. The production will be wholesome. New ideas and innovations, novelties, everything new. Watch for the street parade and listen to the band concert. Remember the date, abor Day, September 7th.

"WHITE CARGO."

Coming to the Grand soon, for the first time in our history will be the sensational success of two continents "White Cargo" dramatized by Leon Gordon from Ida Vera Simonton's book, "Hell's Playground," and produced by Earl Carroll; the play has enjoyed a run of over three years at Daly's Theatre, New York, and duplicated its furore at the Playhouse, London, and at the Cort Theatre, Chicago. "White Cargo" is a vivid play of love in the tropics, the action taking place on the West Coast of Africa, portraying the struggle for development in a country that defies encroaching civilizaiton and where the ever-shining sun breeds incvitable rot—a rot which penetrates not only vegetation but also the minds and hearts of the white men who attempt to conquer it.

The cast of "White Cargo" has been especially selected with an eye not only to the types they are to portray, with with a view of their histronic ability; the settings and equipment all that a lavish management could procure, in fact the entire organization, unlike many compahies sent on tour, contains an original cast of Broadway artists.

"White Cargo" is booked for the Grand on Friday, September 11, so an early reservation of seats is desirable so as to insure against disappointment.

AT THE ROYAL.

"GET-TOGETHER NIGHT" A SUCCESS AT THE ROYAL.

Another of the popular community nights pleased a crowded house at the Royal last night. The old songs from "Banks of the Wabash" to "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," made a hit because everybody knew them and sang them.

The comedy slides between the different songs puts the audience into the proper community spirit, and it seems an easy matter to sing when you "feel at home." W. P. McGeachie is responsible for the clever wording of the slides.

The amateurs were all good: Miss Harrison, "Horsie, keep your tail up" and "Lulu"; Mr. Cole, "Broadcasted??"; Earl Waterman, "You don't know Susie," and Teddy Markham was the hit of the evening with his English character songs.

Sam. Harris made his usual hit with his jokes and imitations. His rendering of "The Lobster is the Wise Guy After All," and "Sadie Salome Go Home," with both received with enthusiastic applause. It was all good entertainment.

"THE NIGHT CLUB."

In "The Night Club," Raymond Griffith is back, silk hat shining, shoes glistening, razor like creases in his morning trousers, his cutaway coat faultless, a white carnation in his lapel. He smiled his way through the production and into the hearts of everyone in the Royal yesterday when the picture opened.

"The Night Club" was adapted for the screen by Walter Woods from the William de Mille stage play, "After Five." Keene Thompson is credited with the scenario, and Frank Urson and Paul Iribe, who directed Griffith in both "Changing Husbands" and "Forty Winks," made this one also.

In "The Night Club" Griffith is wistfully eager to be of assistance to everyone, and every effort ends in disaster. You laugh at him and feel sorry for him at the same time.

Ray's sweetheart jilts him. That's funny, too, but somehow Griffith manages to get sympathy again. The villain appears — the audience hopes Griffith gives him just what he deserves. In the picture Griffith has the role of Robert White, whose lawyer announces that he has inherited a million dollars and a manservant from his uncle, but to collect the money he must marry a girl selected by his uncle. Now Griffith has just gone through the painful experience of being left flat at the altar and doesn't feel any too kindly toward women in general, and he tells the lawyer point blank that he won't have a thing to do with the money. He does take the valet, however, and the pair of them seek seclusion in a little Spanish town, where White hopes women will be the last thing he'll have to think of.

Everything goes wrong. Women—tall women — short women, slim women, fat women—women of every description are soon tagging at his heels, and then one day he meets the "one girl," who proves to be none other than the girl mentioned in his uncle's will. Bob doesn't know this, however, and there is a misunderstanding and some real laughs before things are patched at the climax.

"The Night Club" is fun from beginning to end. There's not a serious or sensible moment in it!

Former Flapper Has New Role in Her Latest Picture, "So Big."

She is playing mother to Ben Lyon, First National's youngest leading man, in "So Big," playing at the Royal Theatre Monday.

In "Flaming Youth," young Ben was one of many in the love-life of the star, and in "Painted People" he was "the" one. But now that Colleen has emerged from flapper portrayals and has a role which ranges from young girlhood to motherhood, her screen affections for him become those of a mother for her son.

"So Big" is the most comprehensive dramatic effort Miss Moore has attempted to date. She is supported by a cast of celebrities which include, besides Lyon, John Bowers, San De Grasse, Gladys Brockwell, Jean Hersholt, Ford Sterling, Dot Farley and Charlotte Merriam.

AT THE CAPITOL

"CODE OF THE WEST"

The "Code of the West," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week end, is something quite out of the ordinary in Western dramas. It has plenty of thrills and action, but the main theme is the always attractive one of the struggle made by a man for a woman. Unlike some past examples of picturization of Zane Grey's stories, notably that of "The Light of Western Stars," which were somewhat unsatisfactory to the public, this is an extremely satisfactory picture. The producer has achieved very effective scenes, handled excellently, in the furious race between the hero and his rivals to register first claim on newly-opened homesteading land, and the forest fire, with the big horse, Graylock, as a central figure, is extremely good, and not too long drawn out.

A hero who impressed one observer, at least, as being typically western in his rather reserved manner and the way in which he rose to the situation every time, was Owen Moore. The first husband of Mary Pickford has changed a good deal since the days when he frolicked through gay pictures with his former wife, but there is something extremely likeable about his acting now. As Cal Thurman, the impassive young ranchman who kept away from the "skirts" and then fell hard for the girl from the East, with her flirtatious ways and pretty clothes, he does some rapid-fire work. Incited by Tuck Merry, the jolly gentleman from the East, he uses cave-man methods with the spoiled Georgie Stockwell, practically kidnaps her, then marries her, and makes her wait on him hand and foot. The story is interesting and splendidly acted, with a good supporting cast of typical Western characters and is handled with a method new and entertaining. Scenes from the Tonto Basin, in Arizona, make a splendid background.

The comedy is an amusing one, depicting the woes of Cyril Fromage, a harassed hotel detective, and introduces the big lion that is a feature actor in many of the latest comedies.—Jeannette.

OBITUARY.

CAMPBELL DEVITT.

DUNSFORD, Sept. 4. — Gloom was cast over the community on Friday last, when news reached here of the death of Mr. Campbell Devitt, who passed away in a Peterboro hospital.

Mr. Devitt and family moved from Bobcaygeon to a farm about one mile east of Dunsford, about three years ago, and have always been cheerful and ready helpers in both social and religious functions during the brief stay he made here. In religion he was a member of the Anglican Church.

Left to mourn his loss are his sorrowing widow, four sons and five daughters: Ronald, Nelson, Alexander and Freddie, all at home; Mrs. Wilfred Bardeau, Bobcaygeon; Isabelle, Alice, Lillian and Helen at home.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. T. R. Haughon in Christ Church, Bobcaygeon, and interment was in Bobcaygeon Cemetery.

JAMES J. HODGE.

James J. Hodge died yesterday at Cobourg at the age of seventy-five years. At the time of his death he was staying at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. George Moon. Death followed a very short illness.

Surviving relatives are his wife and daughter, Mrs. George Moon, both of Cobourg.

Mr. Hodge was at one time a resident of Peterborough, moving to Belleville later. He had been in Cobourg four months prior to his death.

The funeral service will be held on Saturday, September 5, at 1 p.m., proceeding from the residence of Mrs. George Moon, Cobourg, to Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough, where interment will take place.

MRS. ROBERT MAXWELL.

The death occurred this morning at the family residence, 694 George street, of Rachael Wilson, beloved wife of Robert Maxwell.

The late Mrs. Maxwell was born in Ireland, but has resided in Peterborough for 35 years, where she will be sadly missed by a large circle of friends.

Surviving to mourn her loss, besides her husband, Robert Maxwell, are four daughters, Mrs. Long, Toronto, Miss M. Maxwell, Peterborough, Mrs. Renner, Irvington, N.Y., Mrs. Reece, New Jersey, N. J.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 694 George street, on Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 p.m., and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

SHOTGUN BLEW MAN'S HAND OFF

Madden Taylor, of Curve Lake, Was Victim of Serious Accident.

WAS DUCK SHOOTING.

Through a shooting accident yesterday, Madden Taylor, an Indian of the Chemong Reserve, lost his hand.

Taylor and his brother had been duck shooting on Curve lake. On the return journey he lifted his gun from the canoe when the shot went off, almost severing his hand at the wirst.

He was immediately rushed to the surgery of Dr. Smith, of Lakefield, who had him taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, and amputated the hand. Taylor this morning was visited by his brother and several Indians from the reserve, who report that he is every cheerful and is doing nicely. Dr. Smith is still attending him.

It will be recalled that a similar accident happened last fall to another Indian, Hank Musgrave, of Hiawatha, who was also shot in the hand while duck shooting.

GENERAL ELECTION NEXT MONTH

Parliament Dissolved Today and Premier Goes to Country Near Latter Part of October

Four Reasons For Appeal, Based on Transportation, Immigration, Senate and Fiscal Problems, Which Require Fresh Mandate From the People.

MR. KING CLAIMS DEFICITS WIPED OUT.

Suggests Railway Service Control to Advantage of Both C.P.R. and C.N.R. — Sir Henry Thornton's Contract Renewed—Cabinet Changes Announced at Richmond Hill.

RICHMOND HILL, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press).—Parliament is dissolved. Addressing his constituents of North York here this afternoon, Premier King declared his intention to appeal to the polls. The date of the coming elections is understood to be Thursday, October 29.

John A. Robb, Minister of Immigration and Acting Minister of Finance, becomes Minister of Finance instead of Right Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, becomes Minister of Immigration, instead of Mr. Robb.

Premier King announced also that Sir Henry Thornton's contract as president of the Canadian National Railways had been renewed for a further period.

In his speech, the Prime Minister dealt at length with the record of his administration. He cited four reasons why, he considered, there should be an appeal to the polls—the necessity of dealing with problems of transportation, immigration, the fiscal question and the Senate. These were questions, the Prime Minister argued, which could be handled only by a House of Commons fresh from the people and with a mandate to carry out their will. "I do not believe," he added, "that any one of the four can be dealt with effectively by a government which is not supported by a substantial majority in the House of Commons.

Mr. King claimed that under his administration, the deficits in the public finances had been changed to surpluses. The government had reduced taxation, he added, saying "we must reduce taxes. We must put an end to deficits. We must reduce our national debt. Whilst aiming at a further reduction in the public debt, we must aim also at further reduction in the income tax and the sale tax."

Surpluses on C.N.R.

In the finances of the Canadian National Railways also, deficits—such was the Prime Minister's contention—had been changed to surpluses under the Liberal administration. In the two calendar years 1920-21, the Canadian National, he said, had a total operating deficit of forty-four million dollars; in the three years 1922-23-24 there was a total operating surplus of forty millions.

He thought the amalagamation of the Canadian National and the C.P.R. would result in a most complete monopoly and, for his own part, he was unalterably opposed to monopolies of any kind.

He thought there were measures, however, which could be adopted to the advantage of both systems. Why, suggested the prime minister, should there not be some system of railway service control. Why should not a considerable saving be effected by running rights being granted by each railway to the other, why should one union depot not serve the purpose of two? The solution which must not be delayed but it could only be worked out by a Government which had strong support in parliament.

No Monopoly

The Government's policy was of no monopoly on land or sea. The death of Sir William Petersen had occasioned some delay and alteration in the Government's plans for dealing with the ocean combine but it has not altered the Government's intention to cope with the problem.

In immigration Canada required a vigorous policy and, within the past few days, an arrangement had been come to between the Department of Immigration and the railway companies whereby their agencies overseas will be brought into more

Mr. Meighen's Golf Clubs Are Laid Away For Season

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—(Special to The Examiner.)—"Well, what have you decided?" asked Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative party, as he met Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., in Ottawa at 8 o'clock last night. Mr. Gordon had just come from a conference with the Prime Minister and Mr. Meighen was carrying his golf clubs.

"We're all set for the long slide," answered Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Meighen dropped his club bag and shook hands. "When can we expect it?" he asked.

"I think we will decide that at a council meeting tonight," Mr. Gordon said. "It will be about the twenty-fifth of October."

"I knew it was coming; I saw this five months ago," said Mr. Meighen. "I knew without a shadow of a doubt there would be a general election this fall."

"I suppose you'll be laying those aside for a while," suggested Mr. Gordon, indicating the golf clubs Mr. Meighen carried.

"Yes, here's where they start to collect dust," was the Opposition leader's response as he hurried off.

GORDON IS NEW MINISTER

Brings Honor To City.

HON. G. N. GORDON, K.C., M.P.,
Last night appointed to the Cabinet with the portfolio of Immigration and Colonization.

FULFILLING PREDICTIONS

(Reprinted from The Examiner of May 9, 1923).

Written by Arthur Hawkes for The Star.

The Secretary of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, asked for the most characteristic thing about his city, said: "The people of Seattle get what they get after." The Deputy Speaker and Chairman of Committee of the House of Commons is recorded as having been born at Brighton, Ontario. He must have come from Seattle. To become Deputy Speaker after only one session in Parliament is, in its way, as astonishing a performance as the offer of the Premiership to Pitt when he was twenty-three. Pitt had a great name at a time when it was too often assumed that the name was the standard of the man. He had been trained to the mentality of Parliament by the greatest Parliamentary force of that age. But George Newcombe Gordon went to Ottawa in February, 1921, with a political reputation that had been made in a bewildering bye-election, and the reputation was rather that of a swashbuckling D'Artagnan of the hustings than of the student of rules and order and the calmly restrained, the grave and reverend seigneurs schooled and fitted to preside over portentous debates. In a year his party was in office, though scarcely in power. He had made his title clear to Peterboro, and when posts were distributed he named the Deputy Speakership for his own, and the Prime Minister was induced to affix his mark also, and Gordon got what he got after. He will get more, before he's very much older. When there's another turnover of portfolios, he will get after and get the handiest one.

Gordon is not one of those fellows of whom it is said when they land preferment, "How on earth did he get it?" One look at his pictur tells you a whole lot. He is not only a getafterer, and a getter, but he makes good when he has got. He's Peterboro's latest big man, and in his own sphere doesn't dread being mentioned in the same sentence with George A. Cox, Joseph Wesley Flavelle, E. R. Wood, and — but's what the use of filling half a column with a catalogue of Peterboro men who have made Toronto famous.

That by-election now, was Gordon's stunt. It was brought on by Ham Burnham's resignation on the ground that Commoners elected to support a Union Government whose first, last, all-the-time business it was to win the war, had no business to go on sustaining another Government that had really ceased to be a union, and was not at war. There were five candidates, with Gordon the regular Liberal nominee. He inspired his own campaign, and showed that there can be a good deal of the showman and promiser about a modern electioneer. As a promiser, he could give Ned MacDonald any handicap and beat him in a canter. But misunderstand not—the Gordon promises had little or nothing to do with filthy lucre—they rested on the country's need for things to be done which no weak, incompetent reactionary administration like that in power could ever achieve. His orientations for the future were harmonious with his heraldings for the present. He used the billboards literally and without any suggestion that a sucking dove was dictating the copy. For instance, as you walked the city between meetings,

Peterboro' Has Cabinet Member For First Time in Its History Is Announcement This Afternoon

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate winds; cloudy and unsettled, with showers to-night and Sunday.

Hon. J. A. Robb Retires From Ministry of Immigration and Colonization, Which is Taken By West Peterborough Member—Robb is Minister of Finance, Replacing Fielding.

UNCONFIRMED SENATE CHANGES REPORTED.

George Newcombe Gordon, K.C., M.P., for West Peterborough and Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, has been elevated to the Cabinet of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, as Minister of Immigration and Colonization, bringing to Peterboro the first Federal Ministry that has fallen to it in its poliitcal history. The Order-in-Council making the appointment has gone through and Mr. Gordon was to have been sworn in this morning at 10 o'clock. Having, however, a case in police court here which he desired to handle personally, Mr. Gordon was compelled to handle himself, and the formal swearing in will probably take place on Tuesday.

Important Portfolio.

The position of Minister of Immigration and Colonization is one of the most important portfolios in the work of the Government; its administration requiring the greatest skill, tact and acquaintance with labor, employment and business conditions in every country in the world.

In a short interview this morning Mr. Gordon told The Examiner it will be his purpose to endeavor to bring to Canada immigrants who will build up the buying power of the country by developing its natural products, while preventing the influx here of tradesmen and mechanics who would compete in the already overcrowded industrial centres with men now employed here.

J. NELSON STONE RESIGNS OFFICE A PARTY HEAD

SHOULD BE NEUTRAL.

Clarence Massey, Vice-President, Succeeds Stone in Presidency.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5. — J. Nelson Stone, who was unanimously elected president of the Northumberland County Liberal Association at the annual meeting held in Warkworth early last spring, has resigned the position, the resignation to take effect at once.

Mr. Stone is now returning officer for the county, having been recommended for that position by the Liberal executive, as Fred J. Slade, the Liberal candidate, did not care to take the responsibility of making a selection. The recommendation of Mr. Stone for the position was confirmed at Ottawa and he is now engaged with the duties of his new office.

At the time of Mr. Stone's selection, the executive decided that if it was found that the duties of the dual position held by Mr. Stone clashed in any way, Clarence Massie of Morganston, vice-president of the Association from Cramahe Township, should act as president until the next annual meeting. Mr. Massie thus automatically succeeds to the office vacated by Mr. Stone. He is a Liberal of long standing and one of the best workers in the party.

Competent authorities have given it as their opinion that there was nothing illegal in the president of a political association holding the position of returning officer. Mr. Stone however, resigned because he was convinced that the latter official should be neutral, and his action will result in silencing all criticism on the point. He was in Cobourg yesterday getting the election machinery in working order.

A. J. Meyers of Campbellford, continues as secretary of the Liberal Association.

TRUANT OFFICER WAS DISCHARGED

Council Decided to Have Police Chief Discharge the Duties.

TRUSTEES DIFFER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5.—At a recent meeting of the Board of Education, a motion was passed relieving J. R. Wilkinson of his duties as truant officer, a position which he has held for the past three years. There was no criticism of Mr. Wilkinson's administration, the general opinion being that he had discharged his rather trying duties with tact, the only object in letting him go being to save the taxpayers' money.

When the Council decided to engage a night policeman it was understood that Chief Brown was to take over additional duties, including those of the truant officer, whose compensation has been $120 a year, as well as acting as sanitary inspector and collector of licenses. These latter positions had been filled by an official, who was paid $25 a month.

May Remain in Office.

Mr. Wilkinson has received no official notification from the Board that his services have been dispensed with, and he has carried on as usual, acting on several cases since the re-opening of school. There was a small attendance at the meeting when the motion dispensing with his services was passed, and some of those who were not present have assured Mr. Wilkinson that the action will be reconsidered. The Council, they maintain, has no right to interfere with the business of the Board or to dictate its policy in any way.

STIRLING WOMAN HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. P. B. Tweedie Was Viewing Another Mishap hap Near Oakville.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Mrs. P. B. Tweedie, of Stirling, Ont., is in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering from severe abrasions and bruises to her right thigh and left ankle which she received when struck by a motor truck on the Hamilton Highway about 11 o'clock Thursday night. The truck passed over Mrs. Tweedie's thigh and at St. Joseph's Hospital it was stated that there is a possibility that the thigh had been fractured.

The accident happened as a direct result of another motor accident in which none of the occupants of the car was injured. About 10.45 p.m. a sedan, driven by a Mr. Gray, of Toronto, went off the highway into a ditch east of Oakville. The car straddled the ditch and none of those in the car was injured. A crowd of people quickly gathered on the highway and a truck suddenly came east along the highway and struck several of the spectators.

The drives claims that he was blinded by the headlights of several of the cars and this caused him to swerve his truck. As he did so, Mrs. P. A. Tweedie was struck heavily and thrown against John Douglas, Shore Avenue, East Oakville. Mr. Douglas was not hurt but the girl was knocked down and painfully injured. She was attended by Dr. Page of Oakville, and was then taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in the Oakville ambulance. Mrs. Tweedie was driving in her husband's car and had got out to see how the car which had left the highway could straddle the ditch without turning over when she was struck by the approaching truck.

KEEP OFF THE POLES.

The Ontario Safety League has asked the Examiner, in conjunction with other Ontario newspapers, to warn the public against the dangerous practice of climbing power poles.

During the past two weeks there have been three fatalities in Toronto from this cause, as follows:

Aug. 23—Ernest Holt, electrocuted while rescuing kite from a pole.

Aug. 24—Frank J. Wood, electrocuted while rescuing cat from a pole.

Aug. 31—Arthur Rippen, electrocuted while rescuing a kite from a pole.

The wires on or adjacent to these poles may carry an electric current that will kill.

Parents at the same time should also warn children not to touch fallen wires—and the police should be notified at once when any such wire is noticed.

Three lives lost in a few days in Toronto offer a tragic warning to keep away from all power poles; they are dangerous things to meddle with.

THE COLLEGIATE CRISIS.

The Board of Education should have no difficulty in demonstrating to the members of the City Council the dire necessity of more Collegiate Institute and commercial training accommodation.

The fact that the registration for academic and commercial courses this autumn is even larger than many anticipated supplies a convincing argument.

It is manifestly impossible that the situation can be any more than temporarily met by the use of the old South Central School building, even by utilizing two more rooms there and adding a couple of teachers to the staff.

In the first place, it is obviously a pity that one-third of the Collegiate Institute pupils should be cut off from the main body, missing many of the benefits of their high school career.

Secondly, the South Central building, given up years ago as useless for Public School purposes, is not suitable at all for the use to which it is being put.

It suffers from many defects, not the least of which is the fact that it can truthfully be described as a fire-trap.

Yet it is all that can be offered 200 pupils who desire education along commercial lines.

The present situation cannot be allowed to continue, and the only alternative seems the adoption of the plan brought forward by the Board of Education after giving the question earnest consideration from every angle.

BOOMING MR. NICKLE.

Hon. W. F. Nickle is being strongly boomed for the chairmanship of the Ontario Hydro-electric Commission in quarters where the Attorney-General could scarcely expect support were it not been for peculiar circumstances entering into the situation.

It is an open secret that Mr. Nickle is too rigid in his enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act to be persona grata with the wet wing of his own party.

The McCausland group would prefer a more plastic Attorney-General than the member for Kingston, who has a mind and convictions of his own and refuses to allow the former to be controlled or to drop the latter merely because there are those in his party who would welcome a lax administration of the regulations.

Hence the present campaign to transfer Mr. Nickle to the Hydro-electric Commission.

The present Attorney-General undoubtedly would make a good fist of filling the position for which he is boomed.

He has the ability and the qualities essential to the post, and would make good as a successor to Sir Adam Beck about as well as any one that has been suggested for the post.

The question of whether he is of greater value to the Province as Attorney-General or as Chairman of the Hydro-electric Commission does not enter into the matter so far as some of those behind the move are concerned.

THEY'RE ALL WRONG.

With the Montreal Star it is a case of "they're all out of step but our Sandy"—nothing is right except the Star's conception of things, and thus the Montreal oracle gives its opinion of the various political parties:

"The outstanding characteristic of all our political parties today is timidity.

"They are all afraid to step off the old paths. They dare not utter anything but the well-worn shibboleths.

"'A great political pronouncement' in this year of grace is a re-hash of what has been said over and over again for years—if not for decades—back. The time has passed when leaders enunciate new policies.

"There was a day when they made them fresh for every election. Sir John Macdonald launched Protection for the election of 1878—and turned the country over. If he had fought it on the humdrum issue of "the record of the Government"—the thrifty and honest Government of Alexander MacKenzie—he would have lost heavily.

"The Conservatives made a new issue for the election of 1882—the C.P.R. The Liberals made a new issue for the election of 1891—Unrestricted Reciprocity.

"But the pigmies of the present neither make issues nor grapple with those which conditions force to the front.

"Today we have no policies offered on—

"The railway incubus.

"The crushing public debt.

"The failure of our immigration efforts.

"The 'exodus.'

"Our changing relations to the Empire.

"Our drift toward Annexation.

"We are pounding away, fast, fierce and furious, on re-threshed straw. Anyone might safely offer a fat prize for one new idea in any political speech. The "big issue" just now is whether or not the seventeen odd—very odd—gentlemen at Ottawa who are trying the water with their toes will decide that it is too cold to take the plunge."

SOLVING CANADA'S LARGEST PROBLEM.

One of the chief objects, if not the object itself, of Confederation was to promote interprovincial trade. Neither the Maritime Provinces nor British Columbia, one at the extreme east and the other at the extreme west of Canada, would have entered the union had it not been to end the isolation with which they were both afflicted. In each case, a railway to connect them with the settled parts of Canada was made a "sine qua non," in one case the Intercolonial and in the other the C.P.R. Their only hope outside of interprovincial communication was closer and more intimate relations with the United States. In each case strong British principles predominated and prevented it.

The problem which has developed today is to achieve more fully the objects which were sought in 1867, and at the same time not to impose undue burdens upon any section of Canada in the process. The situation presented to us is that the Maritime Provinces, so far removed from the central markets, find their facilities for profitably buying and selling hampered by freight rates. The Middle West is handicapped in a similar manner by what the Edmonton Journal aptly describes as "the economic cost of the natural barriers around the north shore of Lake Superior—in freight rates on products of eastern factories moving west; in freight rates on agricultural products moving east to world markets."

* * * *

In this connection the Edmonton Journal has a most constructive, as well as suggestive, editorial dealing with the subject in a wide, national way. It refers to a proposal made some months ago in Nova Scotia for the establishment of regional tariffs in Canada so that the Maritime Provinces could regulate their own trade in a manner in keeping with their own interests. This was implemented by a resolution passed by the Legislature, the proposed arrangement, however, to be made subject to the section of the B.N.A. Act providing for free interchange of products among Provinces. Readers will remember when the "six hundred" delegates from the Maritimes waited on the Government here during the last session of Parliament, that was hinted at as a last resort as a solution of their grievances in case no other adjustment of economic conditions could be arrived at consonant with general interests. The Journal very properly points out that that would involve a line of custom houses in the Dominion in order to exclude foreign goods admitted free into one Province from entering another in which duties were maintained against them; and dismisses it as impracticable to work out and as incompatible with the general purposes of Confederation.

A similar idea in somewhat different form has just recently been revived, this time in the far West. The Farm and Home Journal, Vancouver, hypothesizes that, as no fiscal system can be devised to serve the interests of all sections, without doing injustice to some, Canada should be divided into four regional divisions, in each of which conditions are more or less homogeneous. These natural geographical zones are the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario, the Middle West and B. C., and each of these would devise a tariff or free trade policy consistent with its own liking. Our Edmonton contemporary dismisses this as equally, if not still more, absurd. Such a system could not be erected and at the same time national unity be maintained. Against the contention that the Fathers of Confederation could not have contemplated economic conditions now existing, or they would have provided for ways and means of amending the constitution so as to deal with the new problem that has arisen, it points out that the accomplishments of nation-building under its egis, despite all that has been said, have been very great, and any such plan would undo all that has been done in nearly 60 years towards making Canada what the cherished hope of the Fathers was she should become.

* * * *

The Edmonton Journal, notwithstanding its environment, holds that a protective tariff in Canada is necessary for the maintenance and extension of its industrial development, but also contends that means must be found to "lift the tariff out of the realms of sectional controversy." Its policy in that respect outlined some time ago is in line with, and really anticipated, that enunciated by Mr. Meighen in his resolution moved last session of Parliament, in which was endorsed the principle of having the whole Dominion bear a fair percentage of the cost of carrying the unequal burdens of outlying portions of the country; and it concludes by saying:

"The parts of his resolution and his speech which dealt with this phase did not receive the attention at the time that they deserved. He had frequently urged before the need of a protective policy, but he was breaking new ground when he came out for compensation to the areas which benefit least from that policy, by the absorption on the part of the Dominion of a percentage of the transport charges across the country's barriers.

"The two ideas should go together. If they are both applied, the tariff will be freely accepted as a national necessity in those Provinces which have hitherto been most hostile to it and it will no longer be the subject of that bitter and persistent sectional controversy which has done so much to impair Canadian unity."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

Mr. Crerar says the Progressive party has no appeal in Eastern Canada, and the fate of the Drury Government in Ontario and the disappearance of farmer representation in New Brunswick confirm his statement.

This is the week-end when Toronto folks think they're lucky if they can save room enough on the living-room floor to get a few hours' sleep.

Judging by the number of United States cars still in evidence, the beauty of Ontario in September is being widely recognized.

Reports from Stratford indicate that Peterboro is not the only city that is suffering from lack of Collegiate Institute accommodation.

KRIM THWARTS ATTACK BEFORE IT IS LAUNCHED

Artillery is Blazing Away at Franco-Spanish Military Fleet.

DEFENSE EFFECTIVE.

Planes and Naval Guns Unable to Clear Landing For Troops.

(By Al. Bradford, United Press)

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Abd-el-Krim's Riffians, facing the possibility of defeat from the Franco-Spanish offensive, are giving desperate battle to the allied forces.

Krim aims as thwarting the offensive before it is fairly launched.

His artillery around the Bay of Alhuecemas on the Mediterranean is stubbornly blasting away at the Franco-Spanish,—mainly Spanish—fleet which has been hammering for several days before the very doors of his domain.

The fleet continues its pounding and airplanes are dropping their deadly loads of explosives.

But so far, according to information reaching here today, the fleet and the planes have not been able to clear a path which would admit their landing forces.

(Fez dispatches yesterday indicate that some forces had landed, but apparently not of consequence.)

Hence today, the Spanish transports, crammed with Spanish soldiers ready to avenge Krim's earlier victories against Spain, are waiting still behind the shelter of the bombarding battleships for the final crumbling of the Krim artillery.

Meantime, the Riffians on the western front have launched a violent attack with the purpose of preventing the Spaniards of Primo de Rivera from concentrating. The Spanish losses so far are believed to have been heavy. In fact, the Riffian menace has become sufficiently serious to cause the Spanish dictator to leave the general council at Melilla and has asked Tetuan to take personal command. The council at Melilla had been mapping the programme of the great co-operative smash against Krim.

CULVERTS PRESENT TRAFFIC DANGERS

Road Officials Say Funds Are Too Scarce to Allow Reconstruction.

ORLAND, September 5. — The recent heavy rain was very timely for a good many of the farmers who were ready to do their fall plowing but many others have large fields of grain out, and some had stacks of grain half built which will in all probability have to be again stooked out to dry.

Walter Carr is putting in a new three foot steel culvert on his division of the Campbellford and Trenton County Provincial Highway, three-quarters of a mile west of Wooler at Mr. Wm. Ruttan's place.

There are seven culverts on the same division within a distance of less than 1¼ miles from Codrington, which are all in a most dangerous condition. All of these culverts have been in a bad condition for years but the road officials claim that there are no funds to rebuild them.

The little daughter of W. T. Phillips of Rochester, who has been visiting at relatives here was taken very ill at the home of her grandparents, but at the time of writing has been pronounced out if danger by Dr. H. Clarke, of Brighton.

Chas. Cowan had the misfortune to break the rear axle of his car recently while on his way to assist a neighbor thresh. The accident took place midway up the Cowan hill, which is very steep, and Mr. Cowan had no trouble difficulty in getting the disabled car to the bottim of the hill.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir:

Let there be no mistake about "Prohiibtion." It has come to stay and if the Almighty wants to furnish the ways and means for making liquor well and good. Prohibition-its will still fight on. R.M.L.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: Individualism and individual liberty have been for many centuries a thing of the past in the East. From darkest Africa to darkest Mongolia, across a stretch of twenty-nine millions of equare miles and from Constantinople to the Chinese Sea the individual counts for nothing. The West owes its success to its individual enterprise. Even the stupidest of us knows that. Yet every effort is being made by social laws and by measures of public ownership to destroy individual liberty and individual enterprise in Ontario. We are following in the footsteps of the dead East. When the East killed the individual, his liberty and his enterprise, it killed itself, and that is why the East is dead, and that is why death is creeping upon us here.

Paid uplifters are said to be the curse of the United States, and it is well known that only the unpaid uplifter dare go into the slums and dives of the great American cities. Even the worst of mankind knows the difference between the real thing and the paid article. It is the difference between chivalry and self-sacrifice, which even the lowest admire, and the reduction of the virtues to a business basis. There will soon be no virtue, nothing that is not either forced or paid for. Then ruin.

NO SURPRISE IS OCCASIONED BY ANNOUNCING OF ELECTION

Interview With Local Men of Both Parties Show It Was Expected.

AND BOTH READY.

Conservative Leaders in Peterborough Say Party Is Eager For Fray.

There was no surprise evident in Peterboro to-day when the Examiner bulletin board flashed the news of Parliament's dissolution at 2.30, while Premier King was still speaking at Richmond Hill. Men prominent in political circles were interviewed where available, and all spoke as though they had anticipated the announcement as a certainty.

Among those who were out of the city and could not be interviewed, were F. D. Kerr, K.C., and J. J. Duffus.

V. J. McElderry, President of the Liberal-Conservative Association. — "The announcement of an election is just. Conservatives all over the country have been making preparation and a strong fighting campaign will be waged to overthrow the King Government." Mr. McElderry was confident that an election would put a period to the career of the present regime. "I think the people generally are of the opinion that a change of government is essential. A proper tariff is needed to bring good times to the country, and in order to have that the present administration must go."

Beyond the statement that the Conservatives were ready and willing to enter the fray, Roland Denne, former president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, would not express an opinion.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., took up a similar attitude. He said he would reserve comment until he had read and digested the Premier's speech.

Congratulates Gordon.

The Provincial member expressed gratification at the announcement of the elevation to cabinet rank of G. N. Gordon. Though they were of different political beliefs, he said, he appreciated the qualities of the Liberal member and was glad the party had recognized his services in its ranks.

The Examiner sought an expression of opinion from E. A. Peck, but this was unobtainable, as Mr. Peck is still out of the city.

J. H. Burnham, when interviewed by the Examiner, gave the following expression of opinion with regard to the impending elections:

"Friday's issue of the Globe states that while the Farmers' Party in Ontario was a most unfortunate experiment to the Province, what is known as the Farmers' Party of the Dominion is an entirely different matter and the Globe approves of Mr. Crerar's statesmanlike statement that the Federal Farm Party must give up its name and expand into a Dominion-wide party looking after wider interests than farm legislation involves.

"Only in that way, says Mr. Crerar, can Confederation be preserved and the general prosperity of the country be ensured. But Mr. Crerar strikes more than that great note of statesmanship; he warns Canadians that they are fast drifting into national bankruptcy. Their taxes are like those that crushed the ancient Egyptians.

"No country that pays 150 millions of dollars a year in deficits for the pleasure of owning railways, canals, etc., can long survive. Canadian finances and her financial system are utterly disintegrated. With few exceptions this is an era barren of gig men.

"We have crushed the spirit of private enterprise by public ownership; of individual personality by compulsory laws; and then we wonder at our inability to handle our problems.

"Until Mr. Crerar's warning is brought home to the people of this country there is no use in discussing any other question whatever. Our extravagances seem to know no bounds, and the people are being crushed by the weight of the cost.

"It is a fortunate thing that Mr. King is bringing on the election in order that we may get this tremendous problem settled.

Proper Effect.

J. F. Strickland, Secretary of the Liberal - Conservative Association, said:

"The pressure brought to bear on the Prime Minister by public opinion has had its proper effect, and the people of Canada will have an opportunity of expressing themselves at the polls on the vacillating Government of the Right Honorable Mackenzie King. The public generally will be interested to learn what national considerations have urged this step on the Premier in view of his statement of August 24th last, when he indicated that the only necessity for an election appeared to be the Right Honorable Mr. Meighen's desire for one. The dissolution announced by the Prime Minister is his only action which has met, or will meet, with the approval of the electorate."

Liberal Executive.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, a member of the Liberal executive expressed the opinion that the issue before the electors would be the tariff and the Canadian National Railways. He thinks that Mr. Meighen will promise manufacturers a protective tariff as high as Haman's gallows and that the aim of the Conservative party is to get rid of Sir Henry Thornton and make the Canadian National Railway a road run by politicians and for the benefit of politicians. Mr. Wearing believes that a high tariff policy will not appeal to the majority of Canadian voters, because only a small minority would stand to benefit by such a tariff, while the large majority would be certain to suffer. He stated also that Mackenzie King should be given great credit for the consistent support he has given Sir Henry Thornton in his policy of making the Canadian National Railways a paying business proposition, and Mr. Wearing feels too that most thinking people will support King in a moderate tariff policy which tends to unite all classes, both east and west.

First Saturday Session Of Mines Was Active

TORONTO, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press).—The first Saturday session of the Standard Mining Exchange for some months was an auspicious one, trading being moderately heavy and the general trend firm, despite a drop of 7-8 in Hattie Preferred, the leader. Columbus Kirkland gained 1 1-8, Harry Hollinger 2, and Tough Oakes and Keora a half each. Premier eased down 3, and Canadian Lorrain 1.

General Rise In Prices On Toronto Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Sept. 5. Canadian Press. — Practically every issue dealt in on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, was advanced in price. Brazilian, the leader, reached a new high at 84 3-4 and though it receded from this mark the close at 73½ was a ¼ point gain. Canada Bread followed up its 3½ point gain of yesterday by selling up to 61½, a further advance of 2½.

CANADIAN LABOR STEERS MIDDLE COURSE BETWEEN AMERICAN AND BRITISH INTERNATIONAL ACTION

Communist Group Urged, Calling World Conference For One Big Union.

WANT BETTER BEER.

Nationalization of Canadian Mines Also Advocated In Resolution.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press).—The nationalization of Canadian mines, better beer for Ontario and condemnation of the exploitating of Chinese child labor in the treaty ports of China, were among the sentiments expressed in resolutions passed by the Trades and Labor Congress. The re-election of Tom Moore as president and the return to office of the entire executive of last y. were features of the Friday morning session. Montreal was selected, after a strenuous campaign involving three ballots, as the place for the 1926 convention.

Debate waxed hot for part of the afternoon on a resolution of international flavor, put forward by the Communist group in the convention favoring the calling of an all-inclusive conference representative of the trades unions of the world for the purpose of establishing a basis for one great trade union international. John Macdonald of Toronto declared that it ought to be the policy of Labor in Canada to draw closer to the Russian workers. Russia was being segregated by the other Powers of Europe and militarism was strong in Poland and the Balkans. Therefore, to prevent the war which was imminent, Labor should ally itself wtih labor in Russia. He pointed out that the British trade union congress had approved of such a conference as was suggested in the resolution.

President's Comment.

President Tom Moore spoke of the two international organization—the Red International which was the right wing, and the Amsterdam International, which was the left wing and with which the Canadian congress had affiliations. The American Federation of Labor had broken away from the Amsterdam Congress, but for the Canadian Congress to break away and call for a world conference of trades union representatives would only complicate the situation. It was better, President Moore intimated to let the British Trade Union Congress go ahead with its world conference, and the American Federation of Labor to break away from the Amsterdam International, and for the Canadian Congress to steer a middle course.

"Dirty Work" in China.

A second flurry was raised when the committee on resolutions moved for non-concurrence in an expression of sympathy with the Chinese workers and the struggles of the Chinese people for national freedom. James Simpson, Toronto; Bert Merson, Toronto; and John Macdonald, Toronto, all rushed to the support of the resolution. Mr. Simpson referred to the "onslaught upon Chinese laborers" and spoke of the conditions of child labor there which should never be tolerated. The British Government was to be condemned for its countenancing this "dirty work."

Mrs. Adam Shortt, of Ottawa, came in for sharp criticism from Vice-President Bert Merson, who spoke on the resolution favoring "more just and sympathetic administration of the Mothers' Allowances' Act of Ontario. Her influence in the "niggardly administration" of Mothers' Allowances by the Mothers' Allowances Commission, was condemned.

SCHOOL DESERTED.

Only Five Pupils For Township School.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press). — Because only five pupils were available for the session, Bradfield's School, in the Township of Elizabethtown, three miles east of here, which has been in existence for more than 75 years, has been closed. The majority of the pupils who live within the school section but in close proximity to Brockville, are attending the local school.

Modern Pavements Make Feet Tired

The miles and miles of hard surface roadways and side-walks are very wonderful, but, being hard, non-resilient, and excellent conductors of heat and cold, they torture our poor feet unmercifully.

It has been found that if tired, sore feet are bathed in warm water containing a few drops of Absorbine Jr. they will be delightfully cooled and refreshed.

But this is not the only use for Absorbine Jr. It is a liniment, antiseptic, and germicide in one—the handiest, most useful article in the family medicine cabinet.

Not only does it kill germs and prevent infection in open cuts and sores, hastening the healing—not only does it limber up to new freshness, tired, stiff muscles, but as a mouth wash, throat spray or gargle it protects you against wandering disease germs and leaves behind a piessant, clean taste and odor. $1.25 a bottle at your druggist's.

OLD INDIAN RELICS.

Sent From Saskatchewan to New York Museum.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Swathed in its original wrappings, some of the inner material being hundreds of years old, one of the oldest relics on the American continent is now on its way to New York to its long rest in the Museum of American Heye Foundation, an institution devoted exclusively to Indian relics.

D. A. Cadzow, curator of the museum, was in Regina yesterday after more than a month spent in the various Indian reserves in Saskatchewan. He secured a mass of old knives, arrows, blankets, beads and other trinkets, but the prize he was after, and secured, was possibly the last of the peace pipes retained by the Crees.

REHEARING MAY BE DEMANDED IN RAIL RATE CASE

Within Power of Dissenting Commissioners—Means Loss of Millions to Railways.

WERE NOT INFORMED.

Dissenting Commissioners Issue Statement Reviewing Judgment and Opposing It.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—Steps are being taken by a part of the railway commission for a rehearing of the case in which two members of that body, Chief Commissioner McKeown and Commissioner Oliver—have ordered a cut in the rates on grain moving to Pacific ports equivalent to those which prevail on the eastward movement.

Three commissioners — McLean, Boyce and Lawrence—disagree with the ruling, and claim that by reason of the importance of the question it should not be dealt with separately and apart from the general question of rate equalization.

The three members constitute a majority of the board, and while they were not in the hearing upon which judgment has been given, it is quite within their power to seek a reopening of it.

Within Rights.

On the other hand, the two commissioners detailed for the case heard the evidence, and in issuing an order they maintain that they are quite within their rights, and, moreover, that the action taken is not inconsistent with or prejudicial to the fuller inquiry which is to be undertaken, and it is well known that the Canadian Pacific objects strongly to the order, but the Canadian National is quiescent. It was not an active defendant when the case was heard.

Dissenters' Statement.

In the opening part of his judgment, issued yesterday, Commissioner Boyce states that "on August 29 last, after this case had been discussed at more than one meeting of the board, presided over by the chief commissioner, my brother commissioner Lawrence and I informed the chief commissioner, in writing, through the secretary of the board, that if it was proposed to deliver any judgment, purporting to deal with the matters involved herein apart from the general rate investigation, of which the subject is a part, we desired to express our views. The judgment of the minority of the board was, however, issued without the knowledge of Commission Lawrence or myself, and order thereupon was signed by the chief commissioner, without according to me or to Commissioner Lawrence, as members of the board, the most usual and ordinary courtesy of perusing and preparing our opinions upon such judgment before an order issued in terms thereof."

Commissioner Boyce states that the Canadian National Railways whose revenues would be affected by any judgment granting the application to the extent of over a million dollars, protested that it had not even had notice of the hearing of this complaint, and no opportunity for preparing its case at the hearing.

"After a careful and anxious examination of the proceedings, I find as a fact, that no notice of hearing

SHIP STRIKERS GET LAND JOBS

200 Seamen at Sydney, Australia, Likely to Remain Ashore.

NO SETTLEMENT YET.

LONDON, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press Cable). — That the seamen's strike is a slight help in Australia's immigration problem seems indicated in a Reuter message from Sydney, Australia. The striking seamen's secretary, J. Lyddell, declares that over 200 strikers have found work in Sydney and are not likely to return to their ships even if a settlement is reached.

Attempts to settle the dispute between the striking seamen and the ship owners have failed. At a private meeting of the strikers in the Communist Hall at Sydney Friday, it was decided not to resume work until their demands were granted. According to Secretary Lyddell, the men are quite prepared to face prosecutions, which are being threatened by the shipowners. The strikers demand the Australian rates of pay, and they also demand other concessions.

Unions to Meet.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—In connection with the British seamen's unofficial strike as it affects Australian ports, representatives of the unions of the key industries here will meet next week to consider the matter. It is understood that a majority of the unions in question will oppose the idea of calling a general strike, which has been suggested in connection with the seamen's strike.

The Cape Town Sector.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—The latest development in connection with the proposed conference between representatives of the striking British seamen and the shipowners is the announcement that the men will not attend the conference unless the strikers at Durban are directly represented thereat or fully consulted before any decision is arrived at.

The strikers have declined proffered assistance from local unions or offers of mediation and the local unions are astonished at this attitude.

Meanwhile the congestion of shipping at Cape Town and Durban is becoming somewhat serious, and 14 more vessels are expected to arrive at Cape Town next Monday.

DUBLIN, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press).—The formation of a company to establish a new trans-Atlantic shipping line, with Blacksod Bay, in County Mayo, and a Canadian port as termini, was authorized by a meeting yesterday at which Brigadier-General Sir Edward Bellingham presided.

The report issued after the meeting states that a United States financial magnate who was present, was selected as chairman of the new company.

Sir Edward Bellingham said that the new line would be the main artery of traffic between Europe and America and Australia.

G. N. Gordon Is Again Prominently Mentioned For Reconstructed Cabinet.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press)—Until ten minutes before Premier MacKenzie King left to board his train for Toronto at 11 o'clock last night, the Dominion Cabinet was in session. The night sitting followed two others, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Between the morning and afternoon sittings was sandwiched in the Premier's important call upon the Governor General, at which it is understood, he requested his excellency to dissolve parliament. No announcement followed the protracted cabinet meetings, save that, just before his departure, Mr. King admitted that some appointments had been made.

Rumored Appointments.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 5.— (Canadian Press.) — The Patriot (Liberal) yesterday stated it has reliable authority that J. J. Hughes, M.P., of Souris, and Creelman MacArthur, M.L.A., of Summerside, have been appointed to the Senate of Canada, succeeding the late Senators Yeo and Murphy.

Former Conservative Minister of Finance Discusses Exchange Conditions.

ISSUES STATEMENT.

Government Checked Imports By "Strangling Production," He Declares.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance in the Conservative administration, in a statement issued last night, sharply challenges the claim that the present Dominion Government is entitled to credit for the return to par of the Canadian dollar in New York.

"Different orators on behalf of the King Government and its candidates, who are all the more qualified when they know nothing about the subject," declares Sir Henry, "make much of the return of the Canadian dollar to par on the New York exchange, all as a result of the wise policies of the King Government.

"No economist or international financier of standing has so far claimed any credit for the King administration. Every one with the slightest knowledge of the situation knows that the Government not only have made no change whatever in the statutes relating to our currency or the gold reserve, but have, on the other hand, followed in so far as this one question is concerned the practice of its predecessors."

Sir Henry recapitulates the situation as follows:

(1) The King Government have not increased the value of the Canadian dollar on the international exchanges by any change in its character or value and can claim no credit for any direct action raising the dollar's real value.

(2) The Government have had nothing to do with the improvement in sterling exchange, with which Canadian exchange always has been and still is, although to a somewhat lesser degree, related.

(3) The Government has not helped the exchange situation by tariff increases, which, to the extent purchases would be checked would decrease the demand for foreign currency and limit the amount of Canadian exchange available, thus materially improving the exchange market situation from the Canadian standpoint.

Strangled Production.

(4) The Government has, however, checked imports by strangling production. As a result, great reductions have been made in the importation of raw materials, and many factory workers, as a consequence, have had to leave the country. Further, as a result of large reductions in the national payroll and, there, in the purchasing power of the people, importation has fallen off, while the position of a people with a greatly reduced purchasing power, with a scarcity of work and wages, is to be deplored, undoubtedly the standing of the Canadian dollar on the exchanges has improved with decreased importations into our country. The unfortunate thing is, the cure is much worse than the disease. An active, fully employed people, with a currency depreciated in the exchanges, but as good as ever at home, are much better off than those faced with unemployment and difficulty in living, with a currency temporarily or even permanently at a premium.

(5) The Government's policies and basis of taxation facilitate the exportation of raw or only primarily processed materials. This exportation certainly directly benefits the standing of the Canadian dollar on the exchanges as it creates to the full value of materials exported a demand for, and a strengthening of, the Canadian dollar, and, to the

Cotton Fields Flooded 500 Refugees Cared For

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Several hundred additional acres of cotton were flooded yesterday when dikes broke between El Paso and San Elizario, Texas. At San Elizario, where 500 men are working to stem the tide, the dike broke, flooding nearly 1,000 acres on the upper end of San Elizario Island. Glendale, a hamlet near here, was wiped out yesterday morning.

The crest of the flood is approaching Fabena and residents of that town are throwing up protective dikes. The Red Cross cared for five hundred refugees Thursday night.

18 DESTROYERS RUSHING TO AID SEARCH OF SEA

Intensive Effort to Find U. S. Plane Missing Since Last Tuesday.

SWEEP THE PACIFIC.

Navy Radio Operators Continuously at Keys Handling Thousands of Messages.

HONOLULU, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Fast fading hopes for the rescue of the five aviators of the missing navy seaplane, PN-9 No. 1, were revived Friday by news that 18 more destroyers were coming to aid in the search.

The U. S. S. Whipporwill's report of sighting supposed flares also served to spur on the tired searchers, who have been operating almost continuously since the seaplane disappeared about 1.45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The PN-9 No. 1, which was trying to make a non-stop flight from San Francisco to Pearl Harbor, ran out of fuel and was lost in a rainstorm.

The 18 destroyers, coming to Hawaii from Samoa, were not due until September 10, but it was supposed here yesterday that they had been ordered to put on top speed.

In the midst of the orderly haste with which the search is being conducted, the work of the navy radio has been an outstanding feature. Some operators, who have been at their keys and earphones continuously since Monday night, listening in and handling thousands of messages, still are carrying on. Hundreds of radio despatches are being handled daily giving position reports, instructions, orders, suggestions and information upon which the fate of the missing seaplane may depend.

It is always more or less of a mystery to women, that men like to go fishing.

And the worst of it is, they don't seem to be bothered by the cold, the rain, the clock or lack of food. Men who will grunt and groan about having to get up at seven-thirty in August, will jump out of bed at five, on a cold and rainy September morning, just to go fishing.

Now, what's the answer?

There is no use asking a question unless prepared to give some sort of satisfactory answer, for we get enough of the sort that nobody can tell head or tail about.

For answer as to why men act so queer about fishing, if we can't blame it on the fish, perhaps we can blame it on the chances they always run of having some unforseen experiences with nature, which will add to their stock of winter evening stories, to tell beside the fire, of a cold and stormy night. One of these just happened this week, and it is too bad that it happened to me, as I am not much of a story teller, but, let us suppose that it happened to a regular fisherman. This is about how he would tell it, beside the fire, on such a cold night.

"Say! that story isn't in it with the experiences which my guide and I had up the Thingamajig River last summer. I can remember it clear as the spark on the end of that log there. We had had rotten luck all day. Not a trout on the string and the guide, Napoleon Whatnot or something like that, was making a fire and just going to cook some bacon we had brought, in case the fishing would prove punk, when I saw something move quickly and jump behind a rock. Then, out came a mink, with a dandy brook trout, which it seemed to hide behind another rock. It went away, then returned with another and put it behind the rock. It did that so often that the guide and I went and investigated, and say, friends, there were eight of the finest brook trout I ever saw, lying in a row like soldiers. The guide wanted to take them all and let the mink fish for more, but my fisherman ethics would not let me take more than seven. No, we didn't eat the bacon, we took it all home again. Put another stick of wood on the fire, boys."

SYNOPSIS.

Three tramps have scrambled up the framework of a railroad trestle in Granite Gorge to escape a landslide, when the Limited approaches. Two start to descend, but the third, a young man, stands in the center of the track and, using his coat as a flag, signals frantically in the glare of the lightning flashes and the locomotive headlight. The train stops within a few feet of a boulder which has fallen on the track. The engine grazed the tramp as it drew in, leaving him dazed and bruised.

"Morse, where's the fellow who saved us? I want to thank him!"

The engineer, with the indulgence of grey and grizzled hair and thirty years of fatherhood, smiled in kindly understanding upon the speaker.

"Oh, hullo, Fowler—say, for what's waitin' you in Crater City I guess you would want to thank him! Reckon you've got more reason than any of us for wanting to get to Crater City alive to-night."

Then, in disappointment, after a swift around:

"Hell, he's lit out. Gee, I thought he didn't look like no ordinary bum, and this proves it, or he'd be hangin' around for a handout. Look! There he goes now—past the sleepers. Hey!"

Whether or not the storm prevented Bob from hearing, at any rate he gave no sign that he had heard, but with his hands in pockets and shoulders hunched continued indifferently on his way. Jim Fowler, the young mail clerk who, more than any other, had reasons for wanting to reach Crater City soon and in safety, darted after Bob, determined that he should not run away from the gratitude of at least one of those whom he had benefacted.

"What the hell do you want? Why don't you let me alone?" Bob asked sullenly when overtaken.

Unrebuffed, Jim Fowler extended a friendly hand. "I want to thank you, Mister, for saving my life upon the night of all nights in my life when I am most needed at home——"

Bob shrugged and did not even extend his hand. Curiosity as to why he had mail clerk's life did not rouse a spark of interest in him, for to this tramp the little everyday affairs of the world seemed unrealistically far away, remote and long ago. For him, now, the only starkly real things were the rain, the depressing chill, his aching head, and his desire to be alone. He felt sheepish rather than pleased because he had saved members of this human society which he hated as a whole. He turned abruptly and started away again, without a word.

Regret and bafflement shadowed Jim's eyes at the attitude of this man who had saved his life—and others—yet seemed to regret having done so. But Jim's own happiness had the illimitable elasticity of completeness; so, he tried again.

"Why are you headin' west, 'bo—there's nothing but barren mountain passes and a couple of empty section shacks for more miles than you can tramp in this storm. Better ride in to Crater City in my mail car!"

Bob halted and stared inquisitively at Fowler. This was a practical suggestion and did not savor of charitable sympathy but he waited ironically for the mail clerk to add an obvious offer for a meal upon arrival in Crater City, knowing full well that the still living shreds of his pride would turn him irrevocably away into the night if such an offer came. He was not a handout bum yet, though this state was perhaps not far distant, since every other quality of his old status seemed to have gone.

But Jim did not do the expected; perhaps because his eyes, breaking lances with Bob's on a physical level in a joust of essentially sound and honest and manly young personalities, read the alert defensiveness in them. He did not extend his hand again, nor was there any trace of coaxing in his voice as he said:

"Morse brought the Limited up so smartly when he saw you that mail bags flew around like bricks at an Irish brakemen's picnic. It took me five minutes to dig out. It's a hell of a mess that I have to straighten out before we get to Crater City, and I'm all alone except for the marine guard, and he's a useless dumbbell. Say, I'd appreciate it if you'd come along and give me a hand!"

"I don't mind," said Bob.

"My name's Fowler—Jim Fowler," the clerk informed him, "and this is my car," pointing to the first of three mail coaches. A stocky marine with an alert rifle was silhouetted in the half-open door—a reluctant bodily martyr to regulations while curiosity towed his spirit to the engine's nose.

"My name's Bob—Bob—Wilson," replied the young tramp, meeting for the first time the need of inventing a surname.

The two picked their way silently along the trackside toward the trestle to ascertain how long the delay would last. Male passengers returning, with an important sense of being adventurous souls, to bear first hand tidings to their affrighted females as to what had happened—and how long we'll be—and where are we—and was anybody hurt—looked upon Bob as he passed with the supercilious gratitude of the well-fed. Some patronized him with a shoulder pat; others called out words of approbation. Bob shrank from the slaps, and with moody tolerance ignored the praise.

The train crew had crowbarred the boulder off the trestle to eternal oblivion on the bed of the torrent below, and were now engaged in inspecting the tracks. The big stone seemed to have struck the trestle squarely in the center, between the rails, which were undamaged except for minor dents; one tie was squashed into wood pulp, and several others were immoderately splintered. Still, it was safe to proceed cautiously, the conductor and the engineer decided.

Spike and Potts had drawn discreetly into the background, out of the circle of action where they might have been invited to help remove the boulder; but, catching sight of Bob simultaneously with observing that the bulk of work was now over, they came close again.

The conductor cocked an expertly calculating eye at his watch, ordered the trainmen back to their posts, and with Morse, the engineer, then approached Jim and the tramps.

"I've invited this man to ride to Crater City in my car, Smogs," said Jim to the conductor; then, with hesitation, "and the other bu—his friends, I mean—can come too, I guess."

The beefy conductor stared at Bob importantly. "It was a courageous thing for a fellow like you to do, and of course we're all grateful. It was my intention to suggest that you could ride in with us. The passengers have signified their purpose of taking up a purse, which will be presented to you when we arrive in Crater City. We hope you will put the money to some useful purpose," he concluded virtuously, "that might redeem you from your—err-r—present mode of life!"

Some repressed emotion agitated the corners of Bob's mouth, as he heroically overcame an impulse to punch the conductor's nose. He turned his back abuptly upon the conductor, who, much put out, rolled his eyes expressively at Morse to bear witness to such ingratitude. But the engineer merely grinned and happed nimbly up to his cab, where he confided to his fireman a profrane opinion that Smogs, the conductor, was undoubtedly a fathead.

A minute later the Limited was sliding prudently across the bruised trestle.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

POSSIBLE CAUSES OF GULLET CANCER.

Some interesting facts were brought out in the course of a recent meeting of the X-ray specialists. Much was said about cancer and its causes. One speaker made the claim that high-pressure living and hasty eating on the part of the modern American are productive of a decided increase in the development of cancer of the oesophagus.

The common name for the oesophagus is "gullet." It is the passage-way from the throat to the stomach. Through your gullet passes every particle of food and every drop of water you take.

If this passage-way had the diameter of a stove-pipe it wouldn't matter so much what size the morsel of food is, or how jagged and pointed its edges, or how hot or cold it is. But you see the gullet is comparatively narrow. It is lined with delicate membrane. It is easy to tear or otherwise damage it.

There is a muscular coat in the walls of the oesophagus. By its waves of contraction it strips the food along the passageway and lands it in the stomach. Should there be violent spasms or contractions of the muscular walls of the gullet at the place where it enters the stomach, the bolus of food could not past the obstruction. It would stick there like a boy in a sewer pipe.

One of the speakers at the convention I have mentioned contended that habitual gulping of food may result in such spasm as to retain the food in the oesophagus for hours. This, he said, would cause expansion of the lower end of the gullet, until in some cases it may form a pouch capable of holding a pint or more of food.

Some parts of the body are made to withstand irritation. For instance, the palms of the hands have thick layers of skin and can be trained to put up with any degree of rough treatment. But when a part of the body, especially one of the delicate mucous surfaces, is submitted to constant irritation, such as a broken tooth may give the edge of the tongue, there may develop serious trouble.

It is not difficult to understand that highly strung and nervous persons, more or less run down in health, may have irritation, inflammation and, ultimately, cancer of the oesophagus. Gulping hard crusts of bread, chunks of meat, bones of fish and other unyielding or sharp-covered things may easliy cut or tear the delicate tissues. Swallowing great boluses of food will stretch the gullet and tear open any half-healed wounds.

Excessively hot beverages or soup, too hot for the mouth, may be hastily swallowed. Even though you do not feel it perhaps, the surfaces of the gullet are burned just as the tongue is. Quantities of ice-cold water and other things swallowed before the tongue and cheeks can warm them cause further irritation.

To avoid cancer and less serious troubles, these practices should be overcome.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY DISCOVERS A LITTLE VILLAGE.

When Dicky rounded the foot of the hill a strange sight met his eyes. As far as he could see in front of him were little mounds at the sides of holes in the ground, and on almost every mound sat a queer little reddish-brown animal. They were all sitting up on their hind legs, just like Rags, Dicky's pet dog would do when he was begging.

"Squirrels, as sure as I'm alive," mused Dickey, and he almost jumped out of his boots as something touched his hand. Turning around he saw a wee little elfin smiling up at him. "Oh, Squeedee, I'm mighty glad to see you. I was just a wee bit startled when you touched me. I thought maybe it was one of those squirrels."

"Squirrels," laughed Squeedee, the elfin from Joyland. "Why, Dicky, to hear you talk anyone would know you hadn't always made your home in Kansas. These little reddish-brown animals are Prairie Dogs not squirrels, at all."

"Prairie Dogs!" cried Dicky excitedly. "Oh, Squeedee, do you suppose we could get close enough to see one?"

Squeedee laughed and blew on his magic whistle, and every little animal ducked into its doorway. All but one, who seemed to be chief guard. He sat up and listened, and when Squeedee blew again he came out to green Squeedee and Dickey.

"Have You Seen Our Mascots?"

He was shaped something like a gray squirrel, but was much larger, with sharp ears and short, flattened tail.

"Come here, Mr. Prairie Dog. I want you to meet Dickey," called the elfin. "He thought you fellows were squirrels."

"My, but you must have a large family to need all these rooms I see scattered around," said Dicky, shaking Mr. Prairie Dog's claws. "What's the idea of so many doorways?"

"Every house must have its own doorway," chuckled Mr. Prairie Dog. "You're looking at a village instead of a single family's house. Yes, we have quite a nice village here now. Would you believe it, every opening you see ends in a cozy little house, from twelve to fifteen feet under the ground. Have you seen our mascots yet?"

Dicky shook his head and Mr. Prairie Dog laughed and pointed to the mound outside his doorway. There sat a funny little Owl.

"There is one of them," laughed Mr. Prairie Dog. "He is called the Burrowing Owl. He and Mr. Rattlesnake are our guests most of the time. You see, we live in this prairie because if has such lovely buffalo grass, and we do love buffalo grass. Well, if you'll excuse me now I'll go and tell my friends you're not an enemy," and away he trotted back to his mound. Perching himself on the top he gave out a queer cry and out of every doorway peeked a tiny whiskered nose.

"They certainly are cute creatures," whispered Dicky, "even if they are a nuisance to the farmers. Come on, Squeedee, let's find some new adventure," and away Dicky and Squeedee ran over the prairie in search of new adventure.

TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION

The Surest Way to Relieve Stomach Trouble is Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When the stomach is feeble and food lies in it undigested, the poisonous gases distend the walls of the stomach and cause serious interference with the other organs, especially with the action of the heart and lungs. These poisonous gases have other ill effects. They are absorbed by the blood and so weaken and corrupt it as to cause aches in remote parts of the body and the formation of unhealthy tissue everywhere. Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will enable it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment. The tonic used ought to be one that will agree with the most delicate stomach and this is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do.

Here is a bit of convincing proof given by Mrs. Chas. Ladner, Flerslie, P. E. I., who says:—"For some years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, sour stomach and belching. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and I grew weak and very nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and these simply worked wonders. I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months, by which time every symptom of the troube had disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest symptom of stomach trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills"

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY SEPTEMBER 6-7.

Sunday's astrological forecast points to exciting conditions, in which law and quarrels should be avoided. The health should be given attention. With care affairs may proceed favorably.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of excitement, contributed to by quarrels and litigation. Shun these and attend to the health. A child born on this day may be rash, headstrong and quarrelsome, thereby inviting defeat.

Monday's horoscope holds auguries of good business and financial interests, but warns against fraud and deception. It is favorable for those in employment, but change is not encouraged. Attend to the health.

Those whose birthday it is may have good business and financial prospects, but there is a menace of fraud and betrayal. Avoid change and good fortune may come to those in employment. Likewise care for the health. A child born on this day may be clever and enterprising and should succeed in business for itself or in employment.

YOUR GARDEN

A BRIEF GLOSSARY OF GARDEN TERMS

Although the average writer in garden topics endeavors to avoid technical terms(even mildly technical) certain rather well recognized words will creep into his writing or conversation. A few of these will therefore follow with definitions and though some may be familiar, others will not.

Accent Plant—a tree or shrub usually, but any plant used to give prominence to its location. Chosen because of its peculiarly interesting habit of growth or characteristic fruit, flowers or foliage.

Ball and Burlap—(B. & B.) Digging a plant with enough earth adhering to the roots to form a ball. This is then carefully covered with burlap or sacking so that the plant may be safely shipped long distances without losing this earth.

Callus — The new tissue which forms over a wound as a natural protective measure.

Clump—A cluster of roots or bulbs that can be divided into separate plants or it may be considered as one large mass of plants that appear as one single plant.

Crown, of bulbs or other herbaceous plants. The portion of stem which persist and bears the buds which form the next step.

Dehorn—The removing of a portion of the top of a plant so as to leave only short portions of the main branches.

Fillers—Short lived or rapid growing plants (usually trees or bushes) which are only temporarily planted between the permanent plants. In mass plantings or rows they should be cut out before they crowd.

Flat—A box, usually averaging 3-4 inches in depth. Filled with earth it is used as a receptacle in which to plant seeds or cuttings.

Heave out—the nearly complete or partial lifting of a plant out of the soil due to frost action.

Humus — the decayed vegetable matter or partly decayed organic matter in the soil.

Mulch—A covering of the surface about the base of a plant to retard or prevent the evaporation of the soil moisture. It may also prevent sudden freezing and thawing. Materials like dead leaves, straw or strawy manure may be used.

Opening up—The removal of sufficient growth in pruning to admit sunshine to the centre of the plant. Also admitting sunshine to the area about a group of plants.

Propagation — The multiplication or increasing of plants either by reproduction from seed or from cuttings.

Renovate—The regular pruning of trees and shrubs over a period of two or three years so that at the end of that time they will be renewed with new wood that has developed within that period.

Sour Soil—An acid soil which is usually deficient in drainage and consequently in air supply.

Specimen Plant—Usually a tree or shrub but any plant that is placed by itself so that it will show to greatest advantage and develop normally and without restriction.

Subsoil—That layer of soil immediately beneath the top soil. Unless given special treatment by increasing the air supply, it will not sustain plant life.

Top soil—The tilled surface, four to eighteen inches deep which will sustain vegetation.

Vista—A view or prospect, seen through and bounded by a group of trees or an avenue. In planting, the trees themselves.

Winter killing — The death of plants due to sudden changes of temperature in winter.

NEW CAMERA MAKES EXPLOSIONS SLOW

Super-speed Movie Machine Takes 5,000 Pictures a Minute.

LONDON, Sept. 4. — (United Press).—A new super-high-speed motion picture camera is in operation here today which takes 5,000 pictures a second.

With this new machine the speed of a shell traveling 1,000 feet a second can be reproduced in the screen as a "slow motion" object traveling only two miles an hour. With it pictures of a powder explosion have been taken showing scientists for the first time the actual mechanics of an explosion. A solid rubber ball fired from a small cannon against a solid wall was seen to flatten out and float off through the air much as a soap bubble does when it bumps against an object and bounces back without breaking.

Photographs taken with the machine of an electric light globe being struck by a hammer showed that the glass on the opposite side from which the hammer strikes breaks first.

The machine will be used by the war department in examining the mechanics of a shell striking and entering armour plate. Manufacturers of the machine say that the scientific possibilities of super-rapid photography are only in their infancy.

Medical scientists say that a man in good average health ought to be able to walk from twenty to twenty-five miles without undue fatigue.

"Please keep the door closed to prevent swallows building inside the church," reads a notice posted on the church door in an English village.

HEBREW PLAYS IN MOSCOW THEATRE

Partly Subsidized by the State —Art Has Universal Appeal.

MOSCOW, Sept. 4.—Soviet Russia is probably the only country in the world that maintains a special Hebrew theatre, where plays are produced in the modern style, but by a special cast of artists in the ancient Hebrew tongue.

This theatre which is partly subsidized by the state has its own building, where performances are given from two to four times a week. During the last two years the Hebrew players have scored great successes and nearly the whole Moscow population, Jews and orthodox alike, flocked to see their art, despite their own inability to understand a single word.

The Hebrew theatre, known under the name of "Habima" has become one of the Moscow's sight-seeing objects and every foreigner, visiting Moscow, who is at all interested in art, deems it necessary to visit the theatre.. During last year two mystical plays—"Hadibuk" and "Golem" were performed, and two new plays staged by Stanislavsky will be produced the coming season. The company will leave in the autumn for an extended tour of Europe and America.

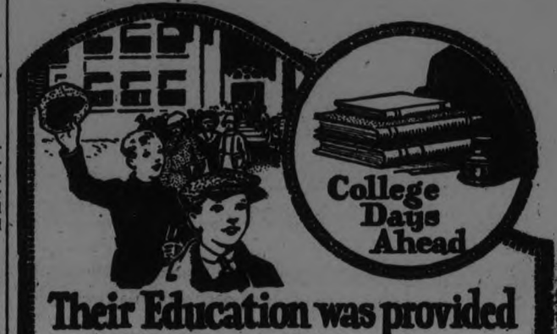
SOLUTION OF CROSS-WORD PUZZLE IN LAST ISSUE.

My Word, MINTO



Their Education was provided by Their Fathers' will

CHILDREN are apt to grumble about school sometimes, finding classes irksome. They need a firm, parental hand—but the time comes when they are very glad of their education.

"How can I make sure that they will continue their schooling after I am gone?" he asked his wife when they told him he had better put his affairs in order for the last time.

She, poor woman, stricken with the verdict the doctors had pronounced, could offer no suggestions. But he found a way. He made a will, leaving the proceeds of one of his Mutual Life policies to be set aside for the purpose, and naming a trustee to help the mother administer this fund.

You, too, are anxious to insure the education of your children, whatever may happen. Let our agent explain the benefits of the Mutual Life's Educational Endowment Policy, specially designed for safeguarding this important purpose. Write this office for "The Mutual Book".

GOLD WATCH MARKS ASSOCIATES' ESTEEM

Presentation Made to Hastings Business Man on Departure.

HASTINGS, Sept. 5.—On Tuesday evening of this week a number of friends and business associates of Mr. W. A. Baker met in the office of Mr. G. B. Stevenson to bid farewell prior to his departure for Florida. Mr. W. M. Fowlds was appointd as chairman, who, in a neat address, stated the meeting was called for the purpose of bidding farewell to one who had always taken an active interest in the affairs of the town, having served on the council and public school boards for a number of years, and on behalf of all present expressed the wish that he and his family would have health and prosperity in their new home. At the conclusion of the chairmans' address, Mr. J. F. McCarthy made the presentation of a beautiful gold watch, inside of which was engraved the following: "Presentd to W. A. Baker, by his business associates in Hastings on August the twenty-eight, 1925."

Mr. Baker, although taken completely by surprise, feelingly replied to the many kind things said about him, and assured those present that Hastings and his friends here would ever hold a warm sport in his thoughs. Several other business men present expressed their regret at the departure of one of their number, and wished him and his family success in their new home. The singing of "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow", brought the gathering to a close.

same degree, increases the supply of available exchange of the country to which the materials are exported. This is being done, however, at the expense of the country's natural resources, and of the Canadian workers. It mean the exploitation of Canada's resources without benefit to Canadian workers.

Helped By Loans.

(6) The exchange situation has been greatly helped by loans of hundreds of millions of dollars placed on the New York market — a cure again much worse than the disease it is supposed to remedy, and in the long run bound to create a condition much worse than the first. Not only have the loans to be repaid but interest as well. These repayments help the exchange of the creditor nation at the expense of the Canadians, just as the advance of the original loan helped the Canadian exchange and more to the extent of the interest payments.

On the question of loans abroad, Sir Henry further asks if Liberals "really want to see the country mortgaged here, there and everywhere to New York. Surely they, even they, must realize that this country is now indebted to an enormous extent and that further loans, even if the King Government is enabled to do a little more idle boasting as to what they have done for the Canadian exchange, must in the end cause even the most devoted and prejudiced follower of William Lyon Mackenzie King to wake from his trance and realize what he has done to Canada.

WEDDING BELLS.

BURKE-CONDON

A pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's church on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock when Kathleen Magdalene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Condon was united in marriage to Wilfred Thomas Burke and Mrs. Burke (Now Mrs. John Millaly) of Kirkfield. Rev. M. J. McGuire performed the ceremony in the presence of many friends and relatives.

The bride wore a chic suit of navy tricotine with blouse of peach georgette, a tailored hat of sand-colored silk and velvet with satin shoes and stockings also in sand shade. BAXTER—SHERWIN.

ROSENEATH, September 5. — The home of Mr. A. Sherwin was the scene of a pretty wedding when his daughter, Miss Violet, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert John Baxter, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baxter, at three o'clock, on Wednesday afternoon.

The bride in her bridal dress of white satin, with tulle veil and orange blossom wreath, was given in marriage by her father, and was attended by her sisters, Laura, dressed in tangerine georgette crepe as brides maid and Elsie as flower girl, who was dressed in pink silk. The bouquets they carried were of pink and white asters. The groom was supported by Mr. Leslie Down.

Miss Hilda Arthur played the wedding music and Rev. J. N. Lovelace, pastor of the Union church, performed the ceremony.

The groom's gifts were to the bride a wrist watch, to the bridesmaid and pianist French ivory jewel cases, to the flower girl a silver pin and to the groomsman gold cuff links.

STREET NAMES

HAZLITT STREET

Thomas G. Hazlitt was born in County Armagh, Ireland, 1823. He came to Canada in 1847 and for several years was a master in Picton Grammar School. He moved to Peterborough in 1852 and engaged in mercantile pursuits. In 1865 he went into the lumber business with his father in law, Samuel Dickson, on whose death, in 1870, he assumed direction of the large and varied interests of the company. The concern became a joint stock company in 1855 organized under the name of the Dickson Co. Ltd. and Hazlitt became managing director of the new firm which developed into one of the most prosperous corporations in Peterborough. He was actively engaged in many other industrial ventures, and in the organization of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. For several years he held office as Justice of the Peace. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He died on October 12, 1899, and was buried in Little Lake cemetery.

The hospice of the monks at the top of the Great St. Bernard Pass in the Alps is now connected by telephone with the inn some ten miles lower down the Pass. In times of storm nowadays when a traveler leaves the inn word is 'phoned to the Hospice and one of the monks goes out with his dogs and reaches the traveler before he is overcome. So no lives of those trying to 'make' the Pass in winter have been lost in many years.

RAIN OPPORTUNE

Cisterns and Wells Were Depleted, While Grass Was Dried and Brown.

BETHANY, Sept. 5.—The rain coming on Wednesday evening was very welcome as it was greatly needed. The cisterns were dry and wells getting low, while the lawns and gardens were burnt yellow, and the leaves were falling in great showers from the trees.

The harvest, which is almost over, was abundant in the district. Very few barns were large enough to store all the grain. Some were fortunate in getting some threshing done to make room, while others stacked their grain outside to await the threshing machine. A number of farmers have commenced their fall ploughing, and the rain will help to make this task easier.

PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED TO-DAY

On the tariff there must be an effort to find the middle path between extremes. "What we require," said the Premier, "is a common sense tariff, not a tariff based on any economic theory to be made to prevail to the exclusion of all others." A tariff to the general interests of all classes and of all parties. The tariff policy must be one to serve both east and west. To this end the G overnment was appointing an advisory board on the tariff, and on this board women tional right to continue in office until February, 1927, that being five years from the date at which the last writ of the last general election was returned. As I have said elsewhere, Conservative administrations from the days of Sir John A. MacDonald up to the present time have not hesitated to continue in office up to and even beyond the full period for which they were elected.

Could Carry On.

"Next to be considered is the question of the ability of the Government to carry on. So far as the House of Commons is concerned, I see no reason to believe that such support as we have all along been than with which for want of an adequate majority in parliament we are unable satisfactorily to cope?"

Recalls Noah's Days.

"I wish to be perfectly frank with you and with the people of our country. After four years' experience of government without a visible majority in the House of Commons, with a Senate that is politically hostile and an Opposition continually thwarting important measures for no reason other than that the government does not take up one extreme position or another or go in opposite extreme directions at one and the same time, I have come to the conclusion that it is not in the national interest further to postpone the day when questions that are pressing urgently for solution can be dealt with in a reasonable and satisfactory manner. Let me give portant reason: It is not the length of time spent in talking, but what is said, and the baneful effect, not only throughout the length and breadth of our own land but in other countries as well, in the continuous detraction. I submit that here is something of which too careful account cannot be taken.

"Of all the factors that have tended to lessen confidence in our country, to retard its progress, to discourage its citizens, to occasion a feeling of continued depression, to keep people away from Canada, to cause individuals and families to migrate to the United States, other than to come to Canada or to remain here, not one has been so potent or powerful as the unwarranted and reckless statements made by Mr. Meighen and persisted in by him for no purpose other than sowing the the Canadian Pacific Railway, to my mind, is as much a Canadian undertaking as the Government-owned systems. It is an institution of which every Canadian has reason to be proud. Nothing like it, with its vast railway equipment and its fleet of ships, exists elsewhere. It is a Canadian enterprise which encircles the globe. An injury to the credit of that great system would, I believe, soon prove an injury to our national credit. The present administration has held that, while Government ownership should be given a fair trial, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company should be given fair play. Both have been recognized as competing systems but both also have been dealt with by the Government as great national enterprises, deserving of a like impartiality of treatment at the in-

"It may not be an easy matter to bring about a tariff best suited to our national needs. Such a tariff will certainly not be brought about by a ministry acting blindly or by action upon insufficiently or unreliable information. It can, I believe, be brought about as the result of careful investigation, accurate knowledge and expert opinion, applied to tariff as a means of revenue, and which will have regard for the safeguarding of our established industries against conditions elsewhere that may be prejudicial to their well-being and development. A tariff so framed and fashioned should inspire trust and confidence.

Let's Talk It Over

TOO MUCH STRAIN FOR AN IRON-CLAD FRIEND

This article is going to be unpopular. To-morrow's mail will consist largely of literary eggs, tomatoes, apples and cats, all of them very dead, and all because I am going to administer a kick on the shins to a young man who asked me to implant a chaste and teary kiss on his beaten brow. Worse than that, I am going to tell him to take his grief out and drown it. And, even worse, I am going to step upon an Established Custom—the custom of weeping and expecting the world to weep with you.

With this much off my chest I will go on with the letter:

"For some time I have been reading your column, and I want to congratulate you and wish you luck for the column that has been the only sunshine I've had in two years. In two years I have not gone out much, so have had time to analyze both myself and my problem. But I have not come to any satisfactory solution of either.

I am a young fellow of twenty-two who has had some hard knocks. I go out with only one fellow and an iron-clad friendship has grown up between us. Now here is my problem. I hate dancing because dancing brings back memories that I want to forget. I do it when only absolutely necessary. So isn't it a shame that my friendship with this party should be coming to an end? He does not know why I dislike dancing and friends do not ask questions of one another. But, isn't there anyone who would be willing to let that go until this wound has healed? If there is anyone who does, fellow or girl, where do they keep themselves?

Will you or your pals point out wherein I have failed with friends?

DISGUSTED.

Yes, I'll tell you, Pal. YOU HAVE FAILED BECAUSE YOU HAVE BEEN SELFISH. Why should you expect your friends to share your mourning? Why should you indulge in mourning, give way to grief and bury yourself in the past? What right have you to shut out the blessed sunshine of the world and steep yourself in brooding and morbid introspection?

How do you expect this wound to heal if you go on probing and pampering it? The first principle of healing in physical life is rest. In mental life it is the same—rest. Forget it—ditch it—bury it—do anything you want with it, but don't cuddle it And above all don't expect the rest of the world to cuddle it with you.

"Ironclad friendships" are usually selfish and yours seems to be several degrees more selfish than usual. You can't blame your friend for "drifting away" if you persist in dragging in these "sad memories," darkening his life as well as your own. My advice to you, young man, is to have one more go at that problem of yours and then SNAP OUT OF IT! Remember that frienship is a give-and-take proposition, and you must contribute more than a bunch of gloom if you expect to take anything more than good-byes in this game.

You're not alone in your secret griefs.

Sorrow comes to us all, and there is no simple gesture of every-day life that does not bring some poignant stab of memory to someone. Indulgence in grief, like indulgence in anything else, is selfish. The finest men and women are not those who deck themselves in crepe and nurse their sorrow, but those who hide their aching hearts lest others suffer for their sake.

And now, if you're the regular human I think you are, you'll take the crepe off your hat and the heart off your sleeve and go out and jazz with your friend BECAUSE IT will GIVE HIM PLEASURE, AND THERE'S NOTHING BETTER OR BIGGER OR FINER IN ALL THE WORLD THAN UNSELFISHNESS.

Them's my sentiments! And I know that all the brickbats that will come sailing in my direction will be thrown by humans as selfish as Disgusted. The real, red-blooded, right humans will agree with me.

And that's that!

A PAT HAND

Anxiously she waits for the last card! What will it be? Four of a kind already—she can't hope for better luck than that. But will the last card help or hinder? Fate plays many jokes on her unsuspecting subjects, and perhaps the joker will be the final card. She holds four of the finest in her dainty little hand now but she can't decide which to keep, or which to discard. She knows that only a straight flush will beat her—shall she try for it? Yes, she'll stand pat and probably win—this time! But the time will come when she'll hold just one in her hand—and then Fate will laugh and Cupid will chuckle and she'll be delighted for the card which Fate will hand her will be her winning card and then—Love and happiness forever after!

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A YELLOW KASHA DAY DRESS.

Madame's imagination seems to have been playing strenuously with colors this season.

"I've never known a Fall when you made things in such lovely colors as you're using this year," I remarked to her to-day.

"I always love very colorful things for Fall, because the rich Autumn shades out of doors seem to call for colors," Madame answered.

This Dress of Soft Yellow Kasha Is Made with Brown Satin Godets.

"Well, you have lots of excuse to use all the colors you want this season when plumage shades and other such lovely tints are in vogue," I commented.

"What do you know about plumage shades?" Madame queried with a smile. She seemed amused at my glib use of the word.

"Only what I read this morning in a fashion magazine, that such tints as grackle head, grays and browns, the kinds seen on fowl of all sorts, will be smart for Fall," I replied.

"I am using some of those colors," Madame conceded. "But the loveliest dress I've designed this Fall is done in the two colors that are my old stand-bys."

"Yellow and brown?" I guessed.

"None other," Madame answered.

We manikins tease her about her strong liking for this color combination, but when all is said and done I don't see why we tease her, as she could hardly pick on two more lovely colors.

"May I see the dress?" I asked.

"Indeed you may," Madame answered. "I was just going to ask you to step into the nearest fitting-room and put it on for me. I want to see it on you."

Madame sent for the dress, and I did as I had been bidden.

"It's a dream!" I exclaimed appreciatively, when I saw the combination of soft, rather dull yellow and a rich deep brown.

I saw that the yellow material was of kasha, and that the brown touch was introduced by the use of heavy satin.

First there was a trim two-piece skirt of the yellow kasha, which I donned separately.

Then came the effective tunic, which slipped on over my head. It had tight sleeves, cut in one with the body of the garment. It flared becomingly at the lower edge, the flares achieved by the use of insets of brown satin. The insets were repeated at the cuffs, and there was a slender band of brown satin to finish the V neck.

"You must wear these earrings when you model it," Madame said, adjusting a pair of lively long amber earrings for me.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two young girls who have been out with several different young men but they never seem to suit us. The ones we like we can't get an introduction to or if we know them they only speak. We can always get someone we don't want. How can we get who we like?

PALS.

PALS: You two girls have hit on one of the oldest problems in the world, and one of the most aggravating in human relationships. 'Twas ever thus. It's like the verse about the weather: "As a rule, man's a fool. Always wanting what is not. When it's hot, he wants it cool. When it's cool, he wants it hot. Always wanting what is not. As a rule, man's a fool."

If you can't have what you like, can't you like what you can have? Try and see. Of course, if you can't do this, then you will have to make an effort to change your ways. your dress and possibly your manners, so that the men you like will like you. You know, if you demand more from life that Fate sends you in the ordinary course of events, you will have to earn it by hard work.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

VARIOUS WAYS OF SERVING BEANS FROM THE GARDEN.

The products of the kitchen garden include many kinds of beans among the late offerings.

Baked Lima Beans.

Shell enough large limas to make a full quart, cover them with cold water and bring slowly to boiling point, skim off the froth and boil gently until they are tender when pierced with a straw. Drain the beans when done and add to them salt, pepper, a half cupful of butter, a quarter cupful of sugar, and a quarter cupful of very fine dry crumbs. Butter a pudding dish and pour in the beans, add a quarter cupful of molasses and place a small piece of pork in the middle, scored as usual. Then pour over some of the water the beans were cooked in, add a tablespoonful of vinegar and bake slowly like Boston beans. Bake until the liquid is all absorbed and the beans brown over the top.

Creamed Lima Beans.

Shell beans enough to make one quart and boil as directed. After the beans are done, drain them. Have ready a rich cream sauce that is made more like drawn butter, with part milk and part water, and well seasoned. Add the beans and serve. A hard-boiled egg chopped and added gives a good flavor, or a tablespoonful of capers make a pleasing novelty.

Escalloped Butter Beans.

String and break the beans into very short lengths. Cover with fast boiling water and boil rapidly until tender. Drain the beans and save a little of the water. Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of beans, dust with pepper and salt, dot with butter, sprinkle with a tablespoonful of grated American cheese and a teaspoonful of sugar. Add another layer of beans and then the seasoning, last of all add a sprinkling of cheese mixed with two tablespoonfuls of very fine crumbs. Pour in a cupful of tomato juice and a half cupful of the water the beans were boiled in and bake a nice brown in the oven.

Sweet Pickled Green String Beans.

String carefully four quarts of fresh string beans and leave them whole. Plunge the beans into boiling water and boil them rapidly until tender but not soft, then drain them thoroughly. Place two and a half pints of cider vinegar in a preserving kettle with two pounds of sugar, a large spice bag, a halved red pepper with seeds removed, and a bunch of celery leaves tied together. Boil six minutes after melting together, skim, then add the beans. Cook until the syrup is rich and the edges of the beans look glassy. Then remove the spice bag, the pepper and the celery. Can and seal the beans in the usual glass jars.

Wax Bean Puree.

Boil the beans in a quart of good stock or chicken broth until soft, then season and put through a puree sieve. Season well with butter, pepper, salt, a little sugar and after reheating add a small cupful of hot rich cream and serve.

Mirrors

By HEDDA HOYT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(United Press).—Friends may flatter or slander, but the little old mirror is the friend that does not lie—the friend that doesn't conceal our faults nor depreciate our better points.

A full length mirror is a necessity to the well-groomed woman. If the bedroom is too small to accommodate a full-length glass one can be set into the bathroom door at very little expense. Triple mirrored dressing tables acquaint one with one's profile and rear head and are therefore more dependable than friends who flatter or barbers who clip one's hair according to style and not according to becomingness.

Most women seem to believe that if they look alright from the front they must look alright from the rear. Of course, the girl whose only desire in life is to keep a well-powdered nose, can be content with a hand mirror. One can always tell such a person on the streets. Usually her skirt is not hung straight, there is a run in the rear of her stocking or her belt is perched at too high an angle accentuating a large waist. She never sees herself as others see her.

Many a woman looks badly groomed simply because her left heel is slightly run over or because the seam in her stocking has gone wrong. It's well to get a line on the rear views we present before the world. It's just as important to keep the back of the neck clean as it is to keep the nose dull.

After you are ready for the street, take a hand mirror and back up to your larger mirror and look yourself over. See whether the hair at the back of your neck needs clipping. See that your skirt hangs straight and that your heels don't lean like the Eifel Tower. Some one might sneak up on you from the rear one of these days and get an insight on your character that they never had before. Be well groomed from the ground up.

DELORO BOWLING.

D. E. Bell's Rink Won Local Tournament.

MARMORA, Sept. 4 — Though everyone is enthused over the prowess of the Deloro Baseball team, interest in other sport has not been allowed to abate. The first Lawn Bowling Tournament has just been concluded in which five teams played return games. The successful team was No. 1 which was in the main of Marmora make-up, and comprised, D. E. Bell, skip, M. E. Grant, A. V. Yates, Dr. H. Crawford and J. P. Marrin.

This tournament was in reality a preliminay to a stiffer one about to be started, wherein six teams will compete for honours In the near future a field day similar to the one held here last year is promised. Tennis and bowls figure on the programme and stern contests are anticipated.

TEAM DEFAULTED.

Indian River Team Failed to Appear at Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 5—The play off between Indian River and Lake field in the second game of the finals for the championship of the East Peterborough Softball League scheduled for 6 p.m. on Thursday was defaulted by Indian River it is assumed as the team neither appeared or sent any word. The Lakefield team turned out in full force including subs and rooters and waited in vain for the visiting team. The locals employed the time in a work out and when the visitors failed two scratch teams were made up (some who came to root remained to play) and a game was put on which made up in enthusiasm and fun what it lacked in science. Apparently every player was an umpire and every umpire a player, but the good feeling between the teams suffered not at all by this remarkable system.

When it became too dark to play, the cars were loaded up and in a few minutes the grounds were deserted again.

Challenger Demands Showdown From Dempsey.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, arriving from a tour of Europe Friday on the Aquitania, expressed the opinion that the proposed match for the heavyweight boxing crown between him and Jack Dempsey never would be held.

Dempsey's most persistent challenger was warmly greeted by a throng of friends and followers in one of the most spontaneous receptions any fighter ever received returning from abroad.

"I want to fight Dempsey," Wills said. "I'll fight him when he's ready. Why don't he either fight or retire? Why is he always passing the buck?"

IN STONE AGE FEW YEARS AGO

British Columbia Was One of Last Countries to Emerge From It.

INDIANS USED STONE

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press)—British Columbia was one of the last countries in the world to be visited by the Stone Age, according to archaeologists who point out that the number of stone implements and other signs of that prehistoric era in this province is far greater than in most regions.

British Columbia, in fact, is just emerging from the Stone Age, they point out. It is not a matter of a thousand years since the age was in full sway in Canada's Pacific province, but barely fifty years ago.

When the first white explorers and traders came to this wilderness west of the Rockies they found simple dark-skinned natives who depended very largely on stone implements in the course of their every-day existence.

It is a common thing to find stone hatchet heads and other tools of stone under a thin covering of soil representing the accumulation of only half a century or so. Particularly frequent are these finds made on the sites of Indian villages, often in heaps of clam shells left as a relic of countless Indian feasts.

GOLF STAR AND PROTEGEE MEET IN FINAL ROUND

Bobby Jones and Young Watts Gunn Finalists For Amateur Crown.

BOTH GEORGIANS.

Champion and His Pupil Disposed of Last Contenders Friday.

OAKMONT, Pa., September 5. — Canadian Press. — On the field of Oakmont, scene of the national amateur golf championship, two sons of Georgia, the mighty Bobby Jones and the sensational little Watts Gunn, continued yesterday their march from Atlanta to victory.

Jones and Gunn came to Oakmont side by side, the greatest of friends, one the pupil, the other the champion. To-day they will as golf enemies on the field they swept clean yesterday for the amateur crown.

Champion Bobby, victor in 1924, at Merion, conquered the same foe he faced there in the finals, George Von Elm, of the Rencho Golf Club of Los Angeles, but the margin was somewhat narrower. Von Elm bowed last year 9 and 8, to-day the score was 7 and 6.

Little Gunn, who eliminated the former champion, Jesse Sweetser, by an overwhelming margin in Thursday's play, had a more serious contender in Dick Jones, but finally conquered the White Plains star, dropping a 45-foot putt at the 33rd green to end the tussle, 5 and 3. At the end of the morning round he led by one hole.

The champion, who had experienced comparatively light opposition in gaining his way to the semi-finals, went at Von Elm like a tiger yesterday and rounded the first turn in two under par figures.

Von Elm, beaten in the first few holes, played some excellent shots during the day, one of which, a pitch at the 16th, gave him an eagle three. The ball dropped within two feet of the cup. Again after passing the turn, he molded a birdie three at the eleventh by virtue of a 20-foot putt, and Jones' advantage was only two, but he could not contend with the birdie four that Bobbie gained at the long twelfth, the hole that was destined to end the match on the next round.

The coast entrant again cut into the champion's lead by sinking a 35-foot putt at the short thirteenth for a birdie two.

PLAY TIE GAME

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

When you press with the golf club—that is, apply great exertion in the forward swing—you get rigid in the arms, wrists and shoulders. This prevents the wrists from unwinding in the forward swing. The 'wrist snap' we hear so much about is nothing more than the good golfer simply letting his wrists "play" or unwind with the club's swing. When the wrists are rigid as the ball is hit the ball is given a "stiff-arm jab." Such a ball never travels far, at least never anything like as far as the same ball would go if hit with wrists loose enough to unwind. Compare the action with nailing a nail with a hammer. This illustrates the unwinding of the wrists perfectly. Imagine swinging a hammer with stiff wrists! Yet that is what you try to do with your golf club when the wrists are rigid. The golf club swing is the hammer action on a larger scale.

HOBBS' BIG SCORE.

Surrey Cricketer Made 266 Runs Not Out.

LONDON, September 5. Canadian Press Cable. — Jack Hobbs, the noted Surrey cricketer, who on August 18th last established a world's record by making his 127th century and another record by making his 14th century in one season, scored 266 runs, not out, in the match between the Gentlemen and the Players at Scarborough, which was drawn on Friday. This is the highest score Hobbs has ever made in first class cricket. His previous best was on the Oval in 1914, when he made 226

The Gentlemen scored 270 in their first innings (Carr 101), and 235 in the second (Tennyson 79). The Players, after scoring 480 for the loss of three wickets declared (Hendren 129) and Hobbs, as stated, (266, not out.)

BOROTRA SAVED FRENCH TENNIS TOURNEY HOPES

Defeated Australian Captain After Lacoste Lost to Gerald Patterson.

DOUBLES TO-DAY.

International Net Struggle in Semi-Finals For Davis Cup.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 5— France stayed in the fight for the Davis Cup, international team tennis trophy, yesterday, when Jean Borota conquered James O. Anderson, captain of Australia's team, after his countryman, Rene Lacoste, had fallen before the bombarding of Gerald Patterson.

Battling to determine the opponent of the United States in the challenge round at Philadelphia next week, these rivals split even in two matches which confounded all advance predictions. France tasted a bitter pill when her favorite, Lacoste, the Wimbledon champion, went out at the hands of Patterson in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, but Australia met an unlooked for reverse when her leader, Anderson, bowed to the fiery attack of Borotra, also in straight sets at 6-4, 6-3, 8-6.

The ranking stars of both nations thus met their Waterloo in the first two matches of the inter-zone series and the outcome of the battle is in as much doubt as ever. Today the same players who competed yesterday will meet in the doubles, and on Monday, Labor Day, the final two singles encounters will be played, with Lacoste facing Anderson, and Patterson opposing Borotra.

Australia is favored to take the doubles and gain an edge today, but she will have a stiff fight on her hands, particularly if Anderson does not show better form than he did Friday.

Such cannonading as Patterson turned loose against Lacoste has seldom been seen on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club. The burly Australian took the heart of his little rival with a succession of battering service shots and booming forehand drives, then completed the rout with a baffling mixture of chops and lobs.

The downfall of Lacoste, however, seemed to inspire Borotra, for he came out and played Anderson off his feet with a dashing, brilliant attack. Anderson never was able to get his shots working effectively for more than two or three games in a row, while Borotra was all over the court, pulling remarkable recoveries, coming to the net for dazzling volleys and passing his opponent frequently with whistling drives.

REHEARING MAY

was ever given to the Canadian National Railways under the rules of the board, or otherwise, and what examination of the complaint did take place at the hearing at Vancouver, in November last, was, as far as the Canadian National Railways is concerned, entirely without due notice of hearing or service of complaint," the commissioner continues. "The notice of hearing to all other parties was shorter than that usually allowed for such a hearing at a far distant point."

No Formal Notice.

"Primarily, therefore, the judgment of the chief commissioner purports to dispose of a complaint involving an aggregate loss of revenue to both the large railways concerned (the one nationally owned and already carrying a heavy annual deficit) estimated at nearly two million dollars annually, without any formal notice whatever as to the National Railway, and insufficient notice as to the C.P.R.," states the judgment. "It is difficult to conceive that such a condition of things should be possible in this country, and in view of the provisions of the Railway Act and the rules and practice of this board, and what is generally accepted as a fundamental basis of natural justice, but the facts, I state, are as I find them for the record of the proceedings, and were fully brought to the attention of every member of this board by strong protests from the railways oft repeated and insisted upon, before any decision was prepared."

Declares It Not Binding.

Recapitulating his reasons for dissenting from the judgment, being beinding upon the board , Commissioner Boyce states that "the Board, as a body, prescribed publicly the practice to be followed in making its investigations under the order-in-council, and by its public notice, where testimony had been taken, but no decision had been given, new and material testimony could be given. "The railways having demanded that right and given notice that they intended to avail themselves of it, the case was not closed or ripe for decision," he states.

Since the passage of the order-in-council the whole subject of rate investigations was in the hands of the board as a whole, he maintains. The whole case, as it now stands, having been laid before the board as part of the general investigation, the board has precluded itself from dealing with it, except as part of that investigation.

Commissioner Lawrence concurs in Commissioner Boye's memorandum. Inasmuch as there had been many protests against the board taking action, or getting decision effecting any place or locality on the rate structure has been thoroughly investigated, and inasmuch as the board has intimated that no such action will be taken, he states that the board is in duty bound to observe its obligations, as set out in the circular of July 9, 1925.

British Columbia Will Fight.

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 5 (Canadian Press).—"If Canadian railways attempt to upset the railway board's order establishing equalized freight rates on westbound grain, the British Columbia Government will be ready to defend its victory to the last ditch," Premier John Oliver said yesterday.

The Premier's announcement was made in a letter to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Federal member for Vancouver, who came forward yesterday with a warning to the provincial government against the upsetting of the railway board's new order.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR PARKS ARE PLANNED

Light Will Be Put Up in Central Park—King Edward Park to be Levelled.

At the meeting last night of the Parks Committee, attended by Aldeman Turner, chairman; Mayor Turner, and Aldermen Phelan, Hancock, Greene, Fife, MacIntyre and Crowe, it was resolved upon to have a light installed in the centre of Central Park, the Utilities Commission having estimated the cost at $50.

It was also decided, on the motion of Aldermen Phelan and Greene, to level a portion of King Edward Park in preparation for the construction of a tennis court, to be ready in the spring. It was mentioned that several residents had sent in a petition asking that a court be constructed to permit of the playing of tennis.

The question of straightening a footpath through the same park and having a cement curb laid was also taken up along with that of preparing the skating rink and the toboggan slides for the winter. Alderman McIntyre moved and Alderman Phelan seconded that the chairman be asked to report on these matters.

Some consideration was given to the replacing of dead trees in the parks. This was left to be dealt with by the City Engineer in collaboration with the caretakers of the parks.

BACK TO SCHOOL

(By Molly Bevan)

Out from the corners where they've lain,
In dim and dusty attic nooks,
Reluctant hands bring slowly forth
Despised and tattered lesson books;
The great day dawns; the old bell rings
Across the field its challenge gay,
In little laughing, bright-clad groups
The children schoolward wend their way.

Behind them all their carefree play,
Three golden months of perfect weather
When Youth and Summer, hand in hand,
Went off adventuring together;
Before them Autumn's red and gold,
The leaping joy of Christmas fires
New friends to make, new truths to learn.
New hopes, ambitions and desires.

Strange how a schoolboy's dearest goal
Is that of being "through with school,"
He sees his fondst d reams fulfilled
When he can lose its galling rule;
Strange that we never realize
How swiftly Youth's gay days are flown
How these long schooldays we despise
May be the best we'll ever own.

Through school!—perhaps we're never through—
Life in itself—a teacher just—
Keeps schooling us, through all our years,
In ways of work, and truth and trust,
Sometimes we pass; sometimes we fail;
Yet never can our lessons cease
Until we win, through solving all,
A scholarship of endless peace.

TRANFER MONEY TO BOARD OF WORKS

Finance Committee Add $1,000 to Appropriation—Revenues Decreased.

During the discussion in the Finance Committee on a motion which led to the diversion of $1000 from the funds of other committees to the Board of Works, for the purpose of buying a car of oil for city roads, it was intimated that while the estimated revenue from licenses for the year was $5000, so far the receipts only reached $4100, including the sum of $1000 from gas pump licenses, which was not in the original estimate.

The chairman explained that an anticipated source of revenue from pool rooms had been closed by the promotion of clubs, an expedient that had resulted in the evasion of the tax.

General agreement was expressed as to the necessity of oiling the roads to maintain the present standard of efficiency, but several makers hesitated to sanction the transfer. It was pointed out that a revenue of $618 was derived from inspection fees of sewer connections by the City Engineer, which had not been credited to the Board of Works.

On the motion of Alderman Turner, the committee agreed unanimously that all such money would in the future be credited to the Board of Works.,

The motion which carried was that $500 of this money and $500 from the Legal Committee should be diverted to the Board of Works for the purchase of a car of oil.

It was unanimously agreed that the chairman examine the accounts presented before the meeting and report for payment that they were properly certified.

A letter was read from the City Clerk of London, Ont., urging the council to co-operate with other municipalities in opposiiton to the latest amendment to the Power Commission Act which throws on the landowner the onus of collecting arrears in light charges.

Alderman Turner moved and Alderman Greene seconded that the letter be received. This was carried.

A letter was received from a dealer in ice cream cones asking for a reduction in the license charge. This was received.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT BY THE GUY BROTHERS MINSTRELS

Farce, Fun and Frolic at the Prince Edward Theatre Last Evening—Another Enjoyable Programme Billed for This Evening.

(From Charlottetown, P.E.I., Daily)

A large house greeted the opening presentation by the Guy Minstrels at the Prince Edward last night, when this clever group of fun makers gave an evening of clean and excellent comedy interspersed with musical selections and songs.

From the grand opening number to the closing Plantation Festivertie and its darky merrymakers there was not a dull or slow moment in the show.

The programme was divided into two parts, the first comprising vocal selections, monologues, dialogues and dances. Vocal solos were given as follows:

A Smile Will Go a Long Way.—Max O'Neil.
Good Bye, Liza Jane.—Chas Guy.
When You and I Were Young Maggie—Ernest Barrett.
Melon Time in Dixieland—Al Pinard, Jr.
When Will the Sun Shine for Me?—May Mee.
The Lady Baritone.
When the Wind Blows North—Tom Mee.

Part one concluded with "The Minstrel Man" sung by Mr. Chas. Guy and the minstrel chorus. The solos and choruses were accompanied by the troupe's excellent orchestra which is under the leadership of Mr. Harold Gifford.

The olio and vandeville section of the programme was replete with clever acts, the farcical side being supplied by black face, white face, and hick comedians.

After an overture by the orchestra the first act to be shown was the exhibition by the contortionist, Normile. In Satanic attire this supple acrobat virtually tied himself into intricate knots and his startling performance thrilled and fascinated his spectators. His act concluded with a difficult balancing and contorting feat while seated upon a high and unstable stand.

A clever female impersonation by Sellars was the next act.

Step-dancing, embracing many new and difficult steps, by Al Pinard and Tom Mee won rounds of hearty applause.

LaMotte Lewis, the musical rube from Pumpkin Centre, kept, with his droll chatter and instrumental imitations, a continuous roar of laughter. His local hits came in for a large share of the applause.

"Mrs Didimus Party," the concluding number was a humorous negro sketch that evoked loud applause and portrayed the humorous superstitions of the lazy southern darkey It made a fitting finale to a pleasant evening consecrated to fun and frolic, and special mention should be made of its bones clapping solo by Mr. George R. Guy. It was a number of no mean order and revealed a startling degree of efficiency in this negro minstrel act.

Another excellent programme will bt given tonight and no doubt the company will be accorded the compliment of another large house.

"WHITE CARGO."

The sensation of two continents, that is what "White Cargo," from the pen of Leon Gordon, is proclaimed; it is a vivid play of love in the tropics; "White Cargo" has run for three capacity years at Daly's Theatre, New York, and duplicated its record in Chicago at the Cort Theatre and at the Playhouse, London. In the reviews of the play the New York Telegram said: "It's a stronger and more logical play than 'Rain,'" and the noted critic, Burns Mantle, on the New York News, claims it to be "A vigorous and exciting drama," while the N. Y. Tribune quoted it as the "best play of the season." N. Y. Herald said: "A cloudburst of sensationalism"—in fact, the entire list of all papers in the three leading cities of the world gave "White Cargo" the most glowing of reviews, praising not only the unique story it unfolds, but also credit for the excellence of its acting company and scenic equipment. The company that appears at the Grand on Friray, Sept. 11, contains an original cast of Broadway artists, the same that appeared in the larger cities of the country—in fact, Earl Carroll, the producer, is noted for not changing in any way his casts when on tour, so theatregoers can rest assured that when "White Cargo" appears here it will be in its original entirety.

Miss Moore Achieves Life Ambition in Ferber Story "So Big."

Colleen Moore has been the shining light of many screen successes in the past. She has headed casts composed of the foremost personages of the screen hall of fame. Her name has become a synonym for the modern girl, the "flapper."

Although she has been placed by public favor on the same lofty eminence as any of the older luminaries her debut among the celestials was a decided thrill for the young Colleen. This feeling possessed her all through her arduous role in the filming of "So Big."

The characters of "So Big" are picturesque. The story centres around life in a Dutch farm settlement near the Chicago of the early 90's. Ben Lyon, John Bowers, Wallace Beery, Ford Sterling, Dot Farley, Jean Hersholt Sam De Grasse and Gladys Brockwell are among the favorites in a notable supporting cast.

The picture will be shown at the Royal Theatre next Monday. It was directed by Charles Brabin under the personal supervision of Earl Hudson.

DENNY HAS NEW COLORFUL ROLE

"Oh, Doctor!" acclaimed as one of the most humorous stories ever written when it was published as a serial in The Saturday Evening Post, for which it was written by Harry Leon Wilson, has been made into a motion picture by the same name, "Oh, Doctor!" the Universal-Jewel version will be seen in the Royal Theatre commencing Thursday.

Reginald Denny is the star of the picture version of the famous story, taking the part of Rufus Billup, Jr., the hero who attained manhood despite the fact that since infancy his death was deemed imminent.

Circumstances made this creature of a not unusual mental quirk, a guest in the home of a robust aunt, and also a borrower from three Shylocks who loaned him only on his agreement to turn over to them the entire fortune he would inherit if he lived for three years.

AT THE CAPITOL

SILLS IN ANOTHER THRILL FILM SOON

"Sea Hawk" Has Stellar Role in "The Making of O'Malley."

Another big First National feature picture, with Milton Sills in the stellar role, has been secured for the Capital Theatre, and will be shown on Monday.

The coming picture is "The Making of O'Malley," an adapation of Gerald Beaumont's Red Book magazine story of the same title. It is Sills' first starring vehicle, and is a vivid, heart-gripping story of a New York policeman and a society heiress, especially fitted for the stalwart dramatic vigor of the star—outstanding exponent of two-fisted roles.

Supporting Sills is an excellent cast headed by Dorothy Mackaill, last seen here in "Chickie." Others in the cast include Thomas Carrigan, who gained a high place in filmdom as Nick Carter in the detective series; Helen Rowland, six-year-old screen phenom; Claude King, Warner Richmond, Julia Hurley, Allen Brander, Charles Graham, Nell Craig and Jack de Lacey.

AT THE REGENT

SECURE RIGHTS TO SCREEN COMEDY.

"Charley's Aunt," Famous Farce, Brought to Screen With Syd Chaplin.

One hundred thousand dollars is the amount paid for the screen rights of "Charley's Aunt," the famous old play by Brandon Thomas, which, as a feature-farce with Syd Chaplin in the title role, will be shown here on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when it will begin a 3-day run at the Regent Theatre.

Here is a play which has earned upward of three million dollars. Playing continuously for thirty-three years and in practically every country of the world is a wonderful record indeed, and an accomplishment made possible by the fact that "Charley's Aunt" has the basic qualities of farcical humor which can be understood in any language. It is an exceptional piece of material for the universal language of the screen.

Even to-day to play it on the stage in Los Angeles for a week one would have to pay $750 royalty. As far back as 1901 Scott Sidney, who directed the motion picture of "Charley's Aunt," paid $2,500 a week royalty for four weeks to play it at the Grand Opera House in Pittsburgh. It is no wonder that the owners of "Charley's Aunt" for years hesitated to sell the motion picture rights.

When the film rights were secured by Ideal Films of London, that company immediately began negotiating with the Christies of Hollywood to make the picture, because the Christie organization with its wonderful experience in making screen comedies was considered the logical producer to film this laughing classic.

With the wonderful opportunity that the screen affords for developing the comedy situations of the play, the pictrue is said not only to match but to outnumber the play in point of laughs. As is done when the play is given on the stage at the present time, all customs and costuming in the screen version were brought up to date, so that the atmosphere is modern in every respect.

Syd Chaplin in the title role brings to the picture the talent which he has shown for riotous comedy in "The Pilgrim," "The Galloping Fish," "Her Temporary Husband" and "The Perfect Flapper." His supporting cast is made up of players of the highest repute here and abroad.

GARDEN PRODUCE WAS TOO PLENTIFUL

Dealers All Had Large Supplies on Hand Late in Morning.

The farmers' market this morning overflowed with the fruit of the orchard and the market garden. At a late hour, the majority of the dealers appeared to have large stocks on hand, and the same condition applied to the basket section, where dairy products and fowl were plentiful.

Tomatoes were much in evidence, and of good quality. They sold for a dollar a bushel, and for 30, 35 and 40 cents in large baskets. Large red peppers, hot and sweet mixed, were 30 cents a dozen, and green peppers were priced at two for a nickel.

Corn was 10 and 15 cents a dozen, butter beans 10 cents a quart, "telegraph" cucumbers from 5 cents to a quarter apiece, beets three bunches for 10 cents, and pumpkins and squash 15 cents each.

Little onion tops were 15 cents a quart, and small white onions for pickling, 25 cents a quart. Potatoes were 30 cents a peck. Small cucumbers and gherkins mixed were 50 cents a basket, and large-sized cucumbers were 60 cents. Cauliflower were 10 to 20 cents a head, carrots 25 cents a peck, vegetable marrow 10 to 20 cents, and long pole beans 25 cents for two quarts.

Muskmelons were on the market this morning, at 10 to 25 cents apiece, and there was a novelty in the little husk tomatoes, or "ground cherries," tiny yellow tomatoes described as excellent for preserving, and selling at 75 cents a basket.

Apples were fairly plentiful. Alexandras and Wolf Rivers were 35 cents a peck, Red Astrakhans 40 cents, Duchess 30 cents, and yellow harvest apples 25 cents.

Pears were having a good sale. Bartletts for eating or preserving were 75 cents a peck and 50 cents, and Flemish Beauties were 50 cents. Preserving pears were 25 and 40 cents, in small and large baskets. The fruit dealer had pears at $1 a basket.

Blue plums were 10 cents a quart and green gages 2 quarts for 25 cents. In large and small baskets, they sold for 50 and 85 cents, with extra good quality at 60 cents a basket. Red Lombards were 60 cents a large basket.

Elderberries were having a good sale at one section, for 40 cents a large basket.

Clover honey, sold by a small boy, was 80 cents for a five-pound pail, and 20 cents for the sections. Light amber honey was 75 cents for the pail, and sections at another counter were 25 cents each.

Little pigs were $15 a pair. Collie pups were $1 apiece.

In the basket section, eggs were priced generally at 35 cents a dozen, and butter sold from 50 cents to 42 cents a pound. Ducks were 30 and 33 cents a pound, chickens 30 cents and hens 25 cents.

Flowers were plentiful upstairs. Gladioli could be bought at 40 cents a dozen, large asters at 25 cents, and smaller specimens at 15 cents a dozen, the same price asked for the two members of the marigold family on view, the Trianon, the old fashioned marigold with the brown centre, and the lighter centred calendula. The lovely cornflower, with its triple names of bachelor's button and centurea, was 15 cents a dozen also. Small spicy carnations were 10 cents. Wax sweet peas were 50 cents a bunch.

An energetic gentleman was disposing of a little contrivance for putting icing on cakes, and had an interested audience. On the open market, a small coupe was up for auction. A price of $95 was reached and there the bidders stuck. A prospective buyer took a ride in the little car, then came back and boosted the price to $105, at which the automobile was knocked down.

But Mr. Murphy retains his portfolio.

Lucien Cannon, M.P. for Dorchester, has been appointed to the position of Solicitor-General, left vacant by the retirement of Hon. E. J. MacMurray, and George Boivin, of Shefford, former deputy Speaker of the House, inherits the portfolio of Customs, vatcated by the elevation to the Senate of Hon. Jacques Bureau. Robb has been confirmed in his place. George N. Gordon, Deputy Speaker of the House becomes Minister of Immigration and Colonization, the portfolio held by Mr. Robb.

It is apparently the intention of the Government to merge the portfolios of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and Health formerly held by Hon. Dr. Beland, into Defence and Labor respectively.

Peterboro, Ont., Sept. 2nd, 1925.
Mr. J. J. Cunningham.

Dear Sir and Bro.: It is with a feeling of heartfelt sorrow that I have learned of the death of your brother, and personally and on behalf of the officers and members of L.O.L. No. 457, I wish to convey to you and the members of your family our deepest sympathy in these hours of your sore bereavement. We are well aware that the common places of condolence cannot assuage the grief so deep, but we trust that this expression of our sympathy may be to you some source of comfort. He who is too wise to err, too good to be unkind, has seen fit to transplant your beloved brother in his own Paradise, and hence makes Heaven that much brighter and bids you follow. May you see in this the hand of God leading a tired child home, and be ever ready as your principle has been to put your trust in him, and the same Providence which has removed your loved one hence, is willing and able to heal the broken hearts with the aid of his everlasting love.

Yours Fraternally on behalf of the Lodge,

F. Sanderson.

KING'S REASONS FOR ELECTIONS AMUSE MEIGHEN

Conservative Leader Charges Liberals With Lack of Policy, Not of Majority.

REPLIES TO SPEECH

Nothing Done on Tariff, Senate, Transportation and Immigration.

OTTAWA, September 8. Canadian Press. — In a brief statement issued last Sunday evening, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conserv ive leader, deals with some of the points raised and charges made by Premier King, in his speech at North York.

The Prime Minister seeks to excuse "four years of futility on the plea that he had not an adequate majority," says Mr. Meighen, in the course of his statement. He declares that the Prime Minister had no policy on the questions of transportation, immigration, the tariff and the Senate, all of which, according to Mr. King, require solution.

"There are few in Canada who have any real hope that more can be expected from the pale residue which now remains of the Mackenzie King Government, than was actually experienced from its barren and blundering original," he concluded.

The statement follows:

"The country will hear with a sense of relief that the government has at last surrendered to the public demand for a general election; the intimation given by Prmier King two weeks ago that there were no 'imperative national considerations necessitating an appeal,' and that the government would wait until there were such 'considerations' has been revoked and rightly so.

Meighen's Summary.

"There was no need of elaborating a lot of so-called reasons. The public were aware of good enough reasons already. Those which Mr. King gives are more amusing than impressive. They are as follows:

1. That the country is very prosperous and soon to be more prosperous still.

2. That the country is being destroyed by Mr. Meighen's speeches.

3. That the government has enjoyed abundant support and large majorities during this parliament.

4. That because the government has not a majority in this parliament it is compelled to 'stand pat' and cannot solve the problems of the nation.

"These contentons destroy themselves.

King Had no Policy.

"Transportation, immigration, the tariff and the Senate are problems, says Mr. King, which call loudly for solution. He seeks to excuse four years of futility on the plea that he had not an adequate majority. What Mr. King lacked as to each and every one of these subjects was not a majority but a policy. If he had a policy as to any one of them, or if he has anything yet better than mere words and platitudes the time has come for him to explain where it differs from the Progressives. For years he proclaimed the principles of the two parties as identical. With the Progressives he had three-quarters of the House.

"The fact is that during its whole term of office Mr. King's government has not brought forward a respectable proposal on any one of these four questions. As to lake transportation, and again as to ocean transportation, it introduces legislation which was not even sane. In both cases the failure was grotesque.

"There are few in Canada who have any real hope that more can be expected from the pale residue which now remains of the Mackenzie King government than was actually experienced from its barren and blundering original."

BOY INJURED BY BIG TRUCK

Lloyd Aslin, 12, Miraculously Escapes Fatal Injury on George Street.

FELL OFF WHEEL.

George Street was the scene of a motor accident at 4.35 on Saturday afternoon, when Lloyd Asling (12) was knocked down by a truck belonging to Gerald Dunsford, and driven by Carl McDonald.

Young Asling was riding a wheel between the street car tracks a few yards ahead of the truck. Inclining to the right to get out of the way, his wheel caught in the rail almost opposite the store of Robert Fair & Co., and he was thrown to the ground. The truck was pulled up quickly, but not soon enough to prevent the front wheel of the truck from running over the cycle and the hind wheel from passing over young Asling's chest.

He was immediately rushed to Nicholls Hospital, and was attended by Dr. J. M. McCulloch. He is suffering internal injuries, but his condition is not regarded as serious.

Ammonia Fumes Fill Buildings While Girls Battle Way to Safety

Nineteen Carried to Safety By Firemen, While Many Escape Over Scaffolding—Hundred Employees Threatened Laura Secord Candy Factory at Montreal.

THREE OVERCOME BY GAS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—While ammonia fumes filled the building of the Laura Secord candy factory this morning and threatened to suffocate upwards of 100 employees, 19 girls were carried to safety by firemen down ladders from the most dangerous part of the establishment, while the remainder made their escape over the scaffolding of an addition that is being made to the factory. Three of the girls were overcome by the fumes, which originated in the basement and rapidly spread upwards through the air shafts. The most serious situation developed on the second floor where 19 girls were at work dipping bonbons. Had it not been for the prompt arrival of the firemen and their quickness in placing ladders to the windows, many, if not all, of the trapped women would have succumbed. The cause of the accident was a break in a pipe.

C.G.E. GIRLS WON BY GREAT FINISH AFTER BEING TWELVE RUNS DOWN

Oatmeal Bribe Failed To Hire Scot To Fall

LONDON, Sept. 8 (Special by United Press).—Since the temptation of St. Anthony, perhaps no mortal has been so severely tried as David Kirkwood, Socialist M.P. from Clydeside. It would be enough to make any Scot fall from grace to be offered as a bribe all the oatmeal he wanted for himself, and entirely gratis, but Kirkwood nobly resisted the temptation.

It was Kirkwood himself who told the story in a speech yesterday, saying that as chairman of the Kitchen Committee of the House of Commons, a Scottish oatmeal firm made that offer to him if he awarded it the Commons contract.

Big Deficit at Middle of the Fifth Was Turned to Lead in Eighth.

BEAT BOLTON

Losers, Previously Unbeaten, Put Up Good Game in C.N.E. Tourney.

The middle of the fifth—twelve runs down—what fan would say anything else but "They're beaten," yet the C. G. E. ladies were in that position last night in the C. N. E. Softball Tournament game with Bolton, a team that has not been beaten all season, and won out 16-15.

Shaken by the loss of their star first base player, Kathie Taylor, who hurt her ankle on Saturday, and played only one inning, the Peterboro girls played wretched ball behind Babe Vincent and the Bolton girls, waxing more confident, took advantage of every slip that was made.

Perhaps it was something Manager Jack Pilling said, perhaps it was the continuous appeal of dozens of loyal rooters scattered through the 7000 spectators who filled the coliseum, and who never lost hope of victory, but whatever was the cause, at the middle of the fifth the girls made a fresh start, pounded the ball to all corners of the building, and played airtight ball behind their game little pitcher. The runs began to pile up, and a great cheer arose when the score was tied, and then the girls forged ahead.

Great credit is due to the battery. With her team mates treating the ball as if it were a football, Babe Vincent continued to pitch the same steady game. Dot Mortimer was the life of the team, steadying down the more excitable players and helping materially with the bat, getting four hits and a walk. Playing first base after the first inning, Maggie Todd, an outfielder by choice, turned in a wonderful game, taking throws from all angles. The other members of the team all played wonderful ball in the last half of the game, after their almost disastrous start.

The Bolton girls played a clever game. In the first four innings, the Peterborough ladies were unable to solve Hilda Doupe's slow delivery, seven of the first twelve outs being on easy pop flies. Her support was good until the winners began to hit steadily and then cracked in the eighth to let in seven runs. Miss Beamish made the feature play of the game when she pulled down a screaming drive from Miss Forsythes

WEATHER

More rain has already fallen in September than fell during the entire month of August. The heavy rainfall of Sunday, which amounted to 1 inch and 12-100, together with what fell a few days previously,gives September a total of 1.72, as compared with 1.62 for August. The late rains should revive the pastures, and renew the water supply in wells and streams, which is said to have been greatly needed in some places.—W.P.

CANADA'S IMMIGRATION ISSUE AS SEEN BY HON. G. N. GORDON

Factories Are Developed Ahead of Demand and Await Increased Population.

DEFINES PROBLEM

Dominion Does Not Desire Industrial Workers to Compete With Labor.

To bring to Canada families, preferably of Old Country strain, who will settle on the land;

To encourage and effect the return to Canada of families of Canadians now resident in United States;

To support the British Empire Settlement League in its work of populating Canada with suitable persons.

These are the objectives of the Dominion Department of Immigration and Colonization as seen by its new head, Hon. G. N. Gordon, and outlined in an interview for The Examiner prior to his departure to Ottawa, where he was sworn in as Cabinet Minister yesterday. The ceremony took place at Rideau Hall, performed by His Excellency the Governor General.

Peterborough's first Cabinet Minister is not entering upon his office without a realization of the responsibilities involved and the magnitude of the task confronting him. To The Examiner he admitted that the determining of an Immigration policy and the putting into effect of its provisions is a serious problem, but with that buoyant enthusiasm which has marked Mr. Gordon's political career throughout, he outlined the steps which he plans to take toward a satisfactory solution.

Hindered By War.

All attempts made by Canada to bring immigrants from Great Britain or any part of Europe must be made in thet light of the results of four years of war, for the struggle cost sixteen million lives. In the Great War Great Britain and her allies lost three and a half million men killed and three million seriously wounded, which means crippled, and Germany and her allies lost three million men killed and nearly three million crippled. Most of these men, killed and wounded, were of what the government terms "emigratable" age, young men who might be expected to leave home and venture their lives in other countries, and their loss of course is a serious handicap to the dominion in seeking suitable subjects for colonization. Their dependents, who will be next in order as prospects, have not yet reached the age where they would make successful settler or workers on farms.

Factories Over-Developed.

The factories of Canada, Mr. Gordon pointed out, are waiting for business. They have used a vast amount of the earnings that would ordinarily have gone into excess profits for extension. "I have been told," he said, "by reliable authorities, that in some lines of manufacturing we have double the plant needed to satisfy the needs of our own present population." This is a serious condition at present, but with sufficient immigration of the right class would be a great advantage to the manufacturers who have planned ahead of their business.

"My present idea," Mr. Gordon continued, "is that we should actively support the British Empire settlement scheme, for which £15,000,000 has been voted by the British government over a number of years, and bring out settlers, particularly from the old land, who can make satisfactory farmers and good dairymen. We should not encourage city dwellers who would settle in the urban centres, and no more are needed at present. We must actively encourage immigration, and I intend to see the first opportunity of consulting with Sir Clifford Sifton, under whom nearly two-score settlers came to Canada, and who was responsible very largely for the rapid settlement of the prairies of the west."

Canadians in U. S.

Mr. Gordon referred to the number of Canadians who are now resident in United States, but did not despair of winning them back to the Dominion. He intends, he said, to canvass the situation to ascertain in what seetions Canadains are chiefly centred, and to endeavour to induce them to return in numbers. "They are our own people and are of greater value for that reason than new immigrants, since they require no time to take up the trend of life here and become re-established."

The Government must be more particular as to quality than as to quantity of its immigration programme. It must be careful in the admission of citizens to bring in such people as will remain in Canada, and it is particularly interested in the type of people who will remain on the land and stay there. It should also endeavour, as far as possible, to bring in families, since a single man has no anchor to keep him on the land and is therefore more apt to drift away.

Consult Tom Moore.

Mr. Gordon expressed his determination to consult with Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Council, and others who know labor conditions in Canada, with a view to gaining a broad acquaintance with the labor situation here. The cardinal principles as Mr. Gordon now sees them, should be the exclusion of those who would compete in the labor market in the already crowded industrial centres and the admission of suitable settlers who will increase Canada's production and add to the number consuming Canadian produced manufactures.

DAUGHTER OF MAYOR TURNER MARRIED IN ST. LUKE'S TO-DAY

Church Beautifully Decorated and St. John's Chimes Are Rung.

RESIDE IN TORONTO.

Reception at Home of Mayor and Mrs. Turner, Water Street.

While the People's Chimes at St. John's Church rang out in honor of the occasion, St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, beautifully decorated by the Chancel Guild with a profusion of pink and white asters, gladioli, hydrangea, ferns and palms, was the scene at one o'clock today of a lovely wedding, solemnized in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties, when Margaret, only daughter of Mayor and Mrs. J. J. Turner, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Kendall L. Doll, son of Mrs. Harriet Doll, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield, assisted by Rev. Canon Sawers, of St .Matthew's Church, Toronto.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite gown of ivory charmeuse satin, with sleeves and godet flares of French lace. Her veil was of silk net, appliqued in floral design and caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. The only ornament was a platinum shoulder pin, the gift of the bridegroom. White satin slippers and white silk stockings were worn, and the bride carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lily of the valley, with long ribbon streamers.

The bride had three attendants, who wore gowns of pleated georgette, with self-colored satin sashes, hats of georgette matching their frocks, with trimmings of silver ribbon, and slippers of silver brocade. They carried charming old-fashioned nosegays, and wore the gifts of the bridegroom, butterfly pendants. The maid of honor, Miss Constance Lenard of Dundas, was in poudre blue, and the bride's two cousins, the Misses Marjorie Turner and Isobel Vincent of this city, were gowned respectively in orchid and yellow.

Mr. Russell Curry of Toronto acted as best man. Ushers were Mr. Norman Fairhead of Toronto, and the bride's three uncles, Messrs. Reginald H., Achilles W., and Webber F. Turner.

The Wedding March was played by the church organist, Mr. J. Thompson, and Mrs. Gerald McClelland sang very sweetly "At Dawning."

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mayor and Mrs. Turner, at 515 Water Street, when a buffet luncheon was served to over one hundred guests, including a large number from out of town. The rooms were decorated in pink and white, with asters, cosmos and gladioli; the bride's table centred by the wedding cake, framed with pink tulle, vases of pink asters and cosmos, and pink candles in silver holders. Mrs. Turner, mother of the bride, wore a gown of blue and brown cut velvet, with small hat of brown velvet encircled by a bandeau of glycerined feathers, and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Harriet Doll, was in grey pleated georgette, with orchid panel, and wore a hat of grey mohair, trimmed with French flowers and corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Doll left by motor for a honeymoon in Muskoka, after which they will reside in Toronto. The bride travelled in an ensemble suit of Balkan blue and grey, with shoes and stocking to match and small hat of grey Australian velour.

RED EXTREMISTS TO BE ATTACKED

British Government to Take Action Against Revolutionary Chiefs.

SEDITIOUS LETTER.

LONDON, Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press). — The National minority movement which represents the most active element of the British Communists and which includes Tom Mann and S. Saklatvala, member of Parliament, in its membership, also is to be the target for Government attack, says the Daily Mail, principally because of revolutionary speeches which leaders of the movement are alleged to have made since the beginning of the present unofficial seamen's strike.

Avowed Communists in recent speeches have not disguised the fact that their aim is revolution by the working classes. Letters distributed among the soldiers said:

"When occasion arises in the future and armed forces are instructed to fire on their comrades, they must know what to do and which way to fire. We will teach them this."

TO ATTEND CONGRESS.

Ex-Chancellor of Germany Going to Inter-Parliamentary Union at Washington.

BERLIN, Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Former Chancellor Wirth left for the United States to-day on the steamer Stuttgart, to attend the congress of the Inter-Parliamentary Union in Washington.

STIRLING LADY DEAD IN TANK

Depression Following Serious Stroke Believed Basis of Tragedy.

HUSBAND ILL.

STIRLING, Sept. 8.—Mrs. George Green, of Gore Street, was found dead in her cistern yesterday morning by Wm. Wallace. She suffered from a stroke some time ago, but was getting better, so that she could be left alone. Her husband, who is about 90 years old, has been confined to his bed for nearly two years, was in the house. Mr. Wallace, whose family is related—some of whom usually called every morning to see how Mr. and Mrs. Green were—was surprised upon entering the house to find a row of chairs around the trap-door of the cistern, and not finding Mrs. Green in sight, discovered her body in the cistern with three smoothing irons attached to it, he says. Dr. Zwick was sent for, and he stated that the occurrence must have happened early in the night. The coroner, Dr. Alger, was notified, but no inquest will be held. The husband and one son survive.

HURT FALL FAIRS

No Excitement at Campbellford When Election Is Announced.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8. — "The campaign will wean interest away from the Fall Fairs" was one comment heard here—and about the only one—when it was definitely announced that the Federal election is to be held on October 29. Otherwise, the season chosen is regarded as an admirable one, as the busy time for the farmers will be over, and they will have an opportunity to attend political meetings and listen to fervid discussions of their status by the different party orators as well as estimates of their value as part of the general national economy. There promises to be a lively campaign in this riding, and a special fight will be put up in Campbellford, which is generally conceded to hold the key to the situation.

In the morning swimming races for boys and girls and for adults were held at the harbor. The other events took place at Victoria Park, and there was also a baby show that attracted a great amount of interest.

JERKED CANOE; FIRED SHOTGUN; DIED OF WOUNDS

Ottawa Man Accidentally Shot on Rideau River on Monday.

HOLIDAY TRAGEDIES.

Brothers Drown; Infant Scalded to Death; Boy Fatally Shot.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—Eric Anderson, 32, of Ottawa, was shot and fatally wounded on the Rideau River near here yesterday morning through the accidental discharge of his shot gun, which was lying in his canoe. When Mr. Anderson gave the canoe a jerk as he was pulling it ashore, the hammers of the gun caught on the seat against which it was resting.

The charge caught Mr. Anderson in the abdomen and he died shortly after. His father, Rev. E. A. Anderson, resides at Brandon, Man.

ANOTHER FATALLY SHOT

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—Andrew Jacob, 16, of Caughnawaga, was fatally injured here yesterday when he accidentally discharged his shot gun whil stooping to pick up a decoy from the bottom of the boat from which he was hunting.

TWO BROTHERS DROWN

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—Balfour, 18 years old, and John, 10 years old, sons of Rev. R. H. Fotheringham of Lennox United Church, were drowned yesterday in Thunder Bay at a point about 600 yards east of the city pumping station when their canoe upset in a squall. Una and Evelyn, their sisters, and their brother, Grant, saw them struggling in the water, and later saw the canoe and the boys disappear. No trace of the canoe or the youths has been found. The canoe capsized in fifty feet of water when a huge wave struck it broadside.

CHILD SCALDED

WINGHAM, Ont., Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—Eva, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baker, was fatally scaled yesterday at her home in Lower Wingham.

A pan of hot water had been placed on the table and by some means the child climbed on to a chair, and reaching the pan, upset the contents over her, severely scalding her body. The child died in a few hours.

HEALEY FALLS FISH IS SEASON'S CATCH

Measures 52 Inches long, 18 Inches Around and Weighs 30 Pounds.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8.—A. Branch of Cleveland, Ohio, spending his vacation at the summer resort of Fred Keller at Healey Falls, made the piscatorial capture of the season last week, when he landed a lunge that weighed 30 pounds. Mr. Branch chartered a motor boat and went trolling, accompanied by J. A. Wiegand, who is also a resident of Cleveland.

The fish was landed only after a fight that lasted for over half an hour. During the fight the captive towed the boat around the river at will, although the engine was in reverse action, the fishermen declare, and at one time it looked as if they would be obliged to cut the line to save themselves from being drawn into a dangerous rapids. Their prize weighed and measured in the presence of reliable witnesses, was 52 inches long, 18 inches around the thickest part of its body and the spread of its tail was 11 inches.

Messrs. Branch and Wiegand appear by that capture to have achieved the piscatorial ambition of their lives and have left for home with their prize which they will have mounted.

A fish weighing 30 pounds is no great novelty in the summer resorts of Ontario, but to the American tourists, it is regarded as an aquatic monster. This particular lunge, when mounted, will probably find its way to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington or wherever it is that the Americans place on exhibition ancient and modern marvels of the animal and vegetable kingdom. Another possible fate is to pass into the possession of a museum or circus owner, who will exhibit it at so much per capita as the ltviathan that gave Jonah the most interesting in-

HEAVY LOSS IN PONTYPOOL FIRE

Roy Kellett Lost His Barns, Crops and Much Machinery.

VEHICLES SAVED

PONTYPOOL, September 8. — Roy Kellett, who lives 1½ miles east of the village, had the misfortune to lose all his barns, including his season's grain crop, all his hay, 400 bush. of old oats, and considerable machinery by fire last week. He managed to save the most of his hogs, and also his car and other vehicles, but all his fowl, harness and a wagon, with a load of chop on the barn floor, were burned. The cause of the fire is supposed to have been spontaneous combustion, and the fire spread rapidly. A large crowd soon gathered there by the use of phone, car and fire bell. The loss is a very heavy one which is only partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Kellett has not decided whether he will replace the buildings or not as he has not been enjoying the best of health of late.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The Pontypool Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Robert Payne, on Thursday afternoon. There were 14 members present, and six visitors.

The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. George Wilder. The meeting was opened by singing "I Hear Thy Welcome Voice," after which Mrs. Richard Ridge led in prayer, after which Mrs. Wilder read the 23rd Psalm. Items of business were then discussed, and the ladies proceeded with sewing for the coming bazaar in November. The meeting was closed by singing. Lunch was provided by Mrs. Payne and a social hour was spent together. Proceeds of lunch and fees were $4.19.

The next meeting of the Aid will be held at the parsonage.

Harvesting is almost finished in this community and threshing is in full swing. Mr. John Frick has purchased a new threshing outfit and is kept busy.

Mr. Lorne Wannan, Kendal, is engaged as school teacher for S.S. No. 14, Manvers, and commences duties on Thursday of this week. We wish him success.

On Wednesday night the Pontypool girls, and their manager, Mr. John Payne, journeyed to Janetville, to play a game of soft ball, but owing to the weather conditions the game was called off, and will be played at Janetville on Friday, September 11th at 5 p.m. The girls deserve the support of all the village.

A Sudden Death.

Mrs. George Argue of Manvers went to bed in apparently good health on Wednesday evening, and was found dead the next morning in bed. The funeral was held on Saturday.

Miss Ida Payne, who has secured a position in the office of the Bowmanville foundry was home over the week end.

CLOUDBURST KILLS MANY IN MOUNTAINS

Twelve Bodies Recovered and Five Known Dead Still Missing.

WENATCHEE, Wash., Sept. 8. —(Canadian Press.)—Twelve bodies have been recovered and five known dead are still missing as the result of a cloudburst, in the Squillichuch mountains on Saturday afternoon, which sent a flood over South Wenatchee.

That other deaths may have resulted was indicated to-day when parts of half a dozen automobiles parked in the tourist camp at Appleyard, were found scattered in the debris.

Watch Out, Madam!

When beauty is at stake use Palmolive

FOR your sake and for ours, we must combat a false idea.

Some people, we learn, think ordinary soaps, claiming to be "for the complexion," have an effect similar to Palmolive.

That is wrong. They don't. Palmolive complexions come only from Palmolive.

In the old days you were told, "Use no soap on your face." For soaps were too harsh.

Then came Palmolive. It was made of cosmetic oils, of olive and palm oils famous as beautifiers since the days of Cleopatra—combined in a secret beauty blend. It was made to be used freely, to be used lavishly on the skin.

Then note what happened. Women tried it, got amazing results, and told others. Palmolive became the leading toilet soap of the world. In France, the home of cosmetics, Palmolive is one of the two largest selling toilet soaps. French women have largely discarded French soaps for Palmolive.

The reason is this: Palmolive is a unique creation, based on 60 years of soap study. It is a scientific soap. A soap made for ONE purpose only . . . to foster good complexions.

It is not recommended for laundry work, nor even for fine fabrics. To make it good for those things, we should have to reduce its cosmetic qualities greatly. And good complexions are too precious to be thus endangered.

So we ask you, madam, when seeking a soap for fabric cleansing, to get a good laundry soap.

But we urge you, above all things, when beauty is your aim, to use Palmolive.

Palmolive is not claimed the only great complexion soap. We know of two others. But they cost you 25 cents, while Palmolive sells for but 10 cents . . . no more than ordinary soaps. Enormous production brings you this modest cost.

Wash, cleanse, launder with any soap you wish. But for your face . . . take care! . . . use Palmolive, a soap you know is safe to use. It is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

IN PARIS
French women are discarding French soaps for Palmolive

Palmolive is today one of the two greatest selling toilet soaps in France. Parisian beauties are glad to pay almost twice as much for a cake of Palmolive as Canadian women pay. And, in many cases, three times as much as for their own French soaps. Remember this when tempted by "French" claims for soaps.

(MADE IN CANADA)

Note carefully the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 8, 1925.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The Examiner stated the other day that the majority of people in this city and district, irrespective of their party affiliations, had received the announcement that Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., was likely to become a member of the Federal Cabinet as a Minister without Portfolio with a great deal of satisfaction.

This will undoubtedly be redoubled now over the definite announcement that the member for West Peterboro is not only to join the Cabinet but is to have a very important department, that of Immigration and Colonization.

This portfolio, in which he is the successor of Hon. J. A. Robb, who takes over the position of Minister of Finance, is one involving much responsibility, and Mr. Gordon's selection for this post is a personal tribute of which he may well be proud.

At the same time it will be regarded generally as an honour to the city and district which for the first time in its history is to be represented at Ottawa by a Cabinet Minister.

Mr. Gordon's political career has been brief, but studded with triumphs; first the most honourable position of Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons and now Minister of Immigration and Colonization, all within five years.

His fellow-citizens heartily congratulate Hon. George Newcombe Gordon, K.C.; M.P., Minister of Immigration and Colonization.

THE ELECTION IS ON.

The uncertainty is ended at last.

Canada is to have a Federal election this autumn—on October 29th, to be exact—and for the next seven weeks the Dominion will have all the oratory, din and noise of a general election.

The time is not long, as Dominion campaigns go, but it is ample.

Much of the preliminary work has already been done, for the party organizations anticipating the official announcement have been preparing their machinery for the contest, candidates are even now in the field in many ridings, and the fight will start at top speed.

The Government of Premier Mackenzie King goes to the country with a reconstructed Cabinet, of which the most important change from the local standpoint is the selection of the member for West Peterboro, G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., as Minister of Immigration and Colonization. Famous old campaigners who will not be on the battle front include Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. Jacques Bureau and Hon. Dr. Beland.

In this riding the chief initial interest will centre upon the identity of the candidate who will carry the Conservative banner. The Liberal convention will be a formality, of course, with no opposition in sight for Hon. Mr. Gordon, but the Liberal-Conservative convention promises to be full of interest.

SATURDAY'S TAG DAY.

The annual tag day of the Children's Aid Society is to be held on Saturday of this week, and the Examiner is sure that it is only necessary to call attention to the date of the annual appeal to ensure a liberal response.

The work of the Children's Aid Society on behalf of neglected and dependent children has been established upon such effective and successful grounds that surely nowadays nobody needs to be told of what the Society has done and is doing along these lines.

It is an old but true saying that a community's best asset is to be found in its children; it is evident, therefore, that any organization which takes hold of youngsters whose surroundings or circumstances prevent them from having a fair chance in life and makes useful citizens of them is deserving of general support, if only as an investment.

The Children's Aid Society, like every other organization, cannot carry on without funds.

Its affairs are efficiently and economically administered, yet the yearly overhead is necessarily large, and the proceeds of the annual tag day are needed to finance the Society's operations.

The need this year is greater than ever, and a record collection on Saturday would be of invaluable assistance to the officers of the Society.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Because of the extremely important part which agriculture plays in the business life of Canada, September 1st might be regarded as the commencement of the Canadian business year. By this date, a large percentage of our crops has been harvested, and some idea can be formed of the cash returns which the farmers will receive. This year, the season is commencing under favorable auspices, and the prospects for Canadian business are the best we have had since 1919, says the Royal Bank report.

Crops in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces are in general satisfactory. In the West, a wheat crop approximately 100,000,000 bushels larger than the preceding one is being harvested from an acreage only fractionally greater than that of 1924; and wheat prices are satisfactory. This crop will in addition go far towards restoring the purchasing power of the Western Provinces, whose inability to buy on a normal scale has contributed quite materially to the industrial depression of the East during the last few years.

The increased freight tonnage, which will result from large harvests and better business, will benefit the railroads and with them the country as a whole, because a large part of every dollar received by the transportation systems is spent in Canada for wages and material.

Because of the reduction in the United States wheat harvest this year, that country will have only a small surplus for export; in fact, after a comparatively short time, there will in all probability be no export surplus so far as the better grades of wheat are concerned. Wheat futures in Chicago are well above Winnipeg quotations, a situation which will assist the export business of Canadian millers, although it does not give them an overwhelming advantage because of the fact that favorably situated U. S. flour mills can import Canadian wheat to be milled in bond.

In the above remarks on the Canadian business outlook, we have stressed the favorable factors because in our opinion they justify the expectation of a material improvement in business as compared with the unsatisfactory period of 1923-1924. It would, however, be wrong to expect great prosperity from the results of one good season only. In the final analysis, the continued progress of this country depends on a reduction in taxation and an increase in immigration.

MR. CRERAR'S FOURTH PARTY.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressive party at Ottawa, has found it necessary to come out in the open with a statement telling what he said behind closed doors regarding the formation of a new political party in Canada. There was a session of the Saskatchewan Progressives held at Regina, and it was there that Mr. Crerar unburdened his soul in secret. Some person talked to the press afterward, so it became necessary for Mr. Crerar to tell in detail what he hoped had been unfolded in secret.

Mr. Crerar put the three political parties in Canada on parade and took the box seat in the reviewing station for himself.

The Liberals, he contended, had failed in their term of office to do the things that might have been expected; they had not gone as far in tariff reform as he desired, nor made a sufficient cut in expenditure to have an appreciable effect on taxation. He desired to see more definite action than he had noticed on the part of the present Government.

When the Conservative troops marched past Mr. Crerar told the Regina gathering that he saw no hope in them. His own words were, "The only important suggestion in the program of the Conservatives was an increase in the tariff if returned to power, and that this would only place additional burdens upon Western Canada and in no way improve conditions, but rather the reverse."

When Mr. Crerar analyzed the Progressive movement he spoke with less freedom. He said, "I pointed out that the Progressive party, for reasons which I need not give here, but which I gave to my fellow western members at the meeting, had failed to make any appreciable appeal to Eastern Canada."

Mr. Crerar's solution is that a new movement, national in its outlook, should feel its birth pains in the West, and come forth bearing in its hands the solution for the railway situation, extension of markets, "a tariff based primarily on the needs of revenue rather than looking alone for the protection of industry," a new immigration policy, and a view that was national rather than sectional.

There is no new definite panacea in Mr. Crerar's statement; it is so general that he has committed himself to nothing at all. As far as his suggestion for the creation of a new party is concerned, it is as hopeless as his platform is vague. The one way any party can bring to pass the ideals it professes is to have the numerical strength to do it. If Mr. Crerar's fourth party were to have any chance of doing this it would have to supplant both Liberal and Conservative forces and also the Progressives, unless it saw in the latter some timber that might be salvaged for the new structure.

A party that struck root in the West, and found its strength there, though it might claim to have a national vision, would find itself gravitating toward the western viewpoint. If it did not, it could not muster volunteers from the West. A party that found anchorage and direction in the East alone would do exactly the same thing. Both would fail because neither would be able to look clean across from Atlantic to Pacific with that sympathetic interest necessary to the all-round development of Canada.

The Premier had very pointed experience on this point. He tried to help western development, and to do so in a way that would work no injury on the East, but he found that he could secure support from the Progressives only when he was moving in their direction. When he came to the point where he considered it desirable to stop in the interests of the East the support of the West was withdrawn. Mr. Crerar's idea that he can take the Progressive vessel and cast it on another mold and make of it an image that has one eye turned toward the East and the other toward the West would result in a crossed vision. His plan does not look any more feasible since he brought it out in the open than it did to those with whom he discussed it in private.—London Advertiser.

MERELY HOLIDAYS.

Labour Day has taken its place in the list of public holidays whose significance passes unemphasized in Peterboro.

Devoted as its name suggests to a recognition of the rights of the toilers of the world, it has become in this city, at least, like most of our other holidays, merely a day off from work and a good opportunity to get out of town.

For a number of years there was a Labour demonstration in Peterboro on the holiday, but this has been abandoned, with the result that there was absolutely nothing yesterday to accentuate the purpose to which the day was supposed to be devoted.

Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Civic Holiday and Labour Day all have their own peculiar importance, and it is unfortunate indeed that all four are allowed to pass by with no attempt to stress that importance.

These anniversaries have been allowed to become just holidays, that's all—meaning nothing save that the stores are closed, and the factory whistles cease to blow.

It is not a development upon which we as a community have any reason to congratulate ourselves; rather should the lack of enterprise indicated by such a lapse be regretted as a sign of dry rot in the community structure.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

One week from today will see the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition launched into what it is hoped will be the most successful show in the history of the event.

Tom Moore, elected President of the Trades and Labour Congress for the eighth time, is evidently going to be the Sam Gompers of Canada. The country generally owes much to his sane leadership and strong stand against Red activities.

DEATH SUMMONS FRENCH ORATOR AND STATESMAN

Rene Viviani Succumbs to Breakdown Following Death of Wife in 1922.

VISITED AMERICA.

Collapsed in Law Court While Pleading a Case in June, 1923.

PARIS, Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Rene Viviani, former Premier of France, and twice his country's representative on important missions to the United States, died Monday morning in the Malmaison Sanatorium, where he had been a patient for the last two years.

The part which M. Viviani played in the relations of France in the United States figures largely in the tributes which the press pays his memory. Trying to describe his extraordinary powers of oratory, most of the papers give as an illustration the effect he produced on American audiences, entirely ignorant of the language he spoke, when he visited the United States with Marshal Joffre in 1917 and when he attended the Washington Conference in 1921.

M. Viviani's end came peacefully after a long period of extreme feebleness, which friends said was to be traced to the death of his wife, soon after his return from Washington in 1922. He collapsed while pleading a case in court on June 8, 1923, and had been confined to the sanatorium since, suffering from complete breakdown.

His friend, Stephen Lauzanne, writing in Le Matin, recalls how M. Viviani said to him when they were returning to France aboard the liner Paris from the Washington conference, "We may love several times in a lifetime, but we really love but once." M. Lauzanne says that he only understood the meaning of these words when, a few months later, he saw M. Viviani at his wife's funeral. That was the date from which the former Premier's mind began to fail, his friend writes.

"He was not a man of action," M. Lauzanne sums up, "but let us not make the mistake of undervaluing our men of words. If they do not aid poor humanity to mount the hill, they at least light the road magnificently."

SOMETHING COMING

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—I am informed on what I consider reliable authority, that three things somewhat unexpectedly are about to happen in this province:

1. A rupture between Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Nickle over 4.4 beer.

2. A new Bible by the Modernists doing away with God's Bible altogether and giving us one without its errors.

3. Putting by the Government of the morals of the people in the hands of paid uplifters to supersede the ministry.

J. H. BURNHAM.

GIVES CONGRATULATIONS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—As a former opponent at the polls of the Hon. G. N. Gordon, now Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the Federal Cabinet, permit me to extend my hearty congratulations to him on his elevation to cabinet rank.

Mr. Gordon has been a fair fighter and I can pay him no higher compliment. A Cabinet Minister, however, runs a greater risk in an election than an ordinary member, since he is held strictly responsible for the policy of the Government, while a private member sometimes eludes the issue. Peterborough as well as Mr. Gordon has been honored by his elevation.

J. H. BURNHAM.

FOR PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—There is a lot in your paper and in every paper about the "glory of democracy." Now if the "people" only can get at anything they will put it right, etc., etc. Now we all know that the "people" are no more capable of leading themselves than a herd of 2-year-old steers. They see wonders in everything they have waved at them. That is right too. If the leaders can get them so easily to run in the way they are told and ought to go, why talk of "liberty" and such nonsense, as some of your correspondents do. The people are made to be led and ought to be led and if they can be made to provide the whip for their own backs, why complain? Let Prohibition alone.

M. T. H.

The Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted to refer to your edition of September 3rd.

On page twelve you have given prominence to a meeting which was expected to have taken place today September 4, between the Premier and the Governor General, in which the former was expected to ask for a dissolution of Parliament, which should mean an election. Those same people who remember reading a statement from the Premier of about eight weeks ago, who stated that there would be no election this Fall, must, after reading page 3, columns 3 to 5, (not column 7) and knowing the close alliance that exists between your estimable paper and the Deputy Speaker and the Premier upon whose behalf Mr. Gordon, K.C. and M.P. is going to speak, must be somewhat chaotic—not so much chaotic, perhaps, as suspicious that the Premier in his statement of eight weeks ago, was either insincere or guilty of an error of judgment.

The article on page 3 (not column 7), after extracting the historical value, leaves one with the impression that a very signal honor has been paid to West Peterboro in appointing her representative the Deputy or Assistant Speaker of the House of Commons, the principal qualification of which should be that he be a King's Counsel and then a man physically qualified to stand the arduous duties which the office demands.

West Peterboro, as a constituency, appreciates the honor that has been conferred upon her in the eyes of Canada for appointing her elected candidate the Deputy Speaker, but those electors who have followed locally the political progress of this constituency, who remember the intrusion into the political arena of various politicians whose entries were responsible for the election of Mr. Gordon, K.C. and M.P., must be in a quandary after reading this article..

Either Mr. Gordon or the Examiner is responsible for this article. I, personally, hope that the article was not written by the Deputy Speaker, or even submitted to him before publication because of the deliberately ignorant or slurring reference to himself speaking to the Right Hon. Mackenzie King and Mr. Arthur Meighen. The title "Right Honorable' belonged to Right. Honorable Arthur Meighen before the present Premier was awarded that right by being appointed to the Privy Council.

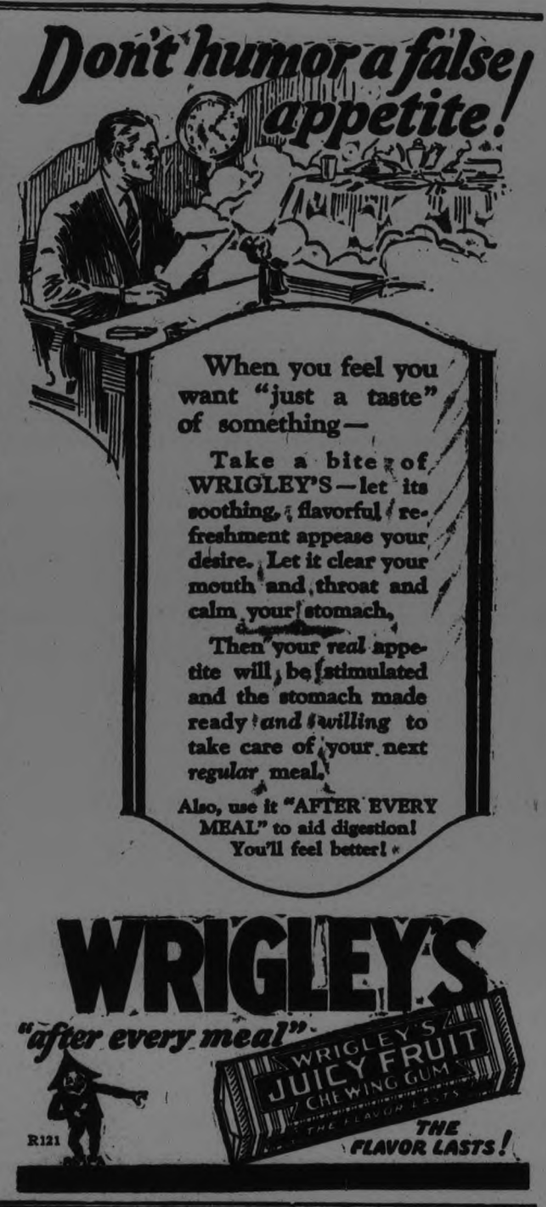
The reference to the required physical qualifications of the Deputy Speaker possessed by our member, must be interesting to those returned men who remembered hearing the same gentleman state, in defence of his position during a political campaign after the dark days of the war ,that he had in his possession a telegram from some doctor, stating that he was physically unfit to serve overseas. That was, in his opinion, sufficient to wipe that criticism aside.

My purpose in writing this letter is to warn the electors of the County of Peterboro and more particularly the citizens of a city dependent upon its industrial development and progress, against the demagogic utterances of a man who, it is stated, has boasted that he is a politician, or that it was his ambition to become a politician, who is endeavoring through his ignorance of industrial knowledge, to stifle the development of this riding. To those free traders who may suspect that I am holding any brief for the manufacturers, I would suggest a letter to the general manager of the Canadian Woollens Ltd., Mr. Dawson, and then carefully realize what effect the closing up of 80 per cent. of the factories of Peterboro would have upon their budget. The employees and employers of all the factories are dependent upon the surrounding farmers for their produce. The farmers are dependent upon Peterboro as a place in which to market their products, and with the factories closed and the employees without funds, they are consequently unable to purchase their produce.

I am, yours truly,
C. H. Ackerman.

Editor's Note: The article dealing with the office of Deputy Speaker was written by an Examiner reporter. At the same time W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., was asked to give his experiences in the Ontario Legislature. He is now preparing data for this article. Such articles are in the class termed "feature stories" and have no political signifiance whatever.

(This letter was received on Saturday morning prior to the announcemnt of Mr. Gordon's appointment to the Cabinet. .



Modern Women's Hands Becoming Much Larger

LONDON, Sept. 4. — (United Press).—The hands of English women are growing bigger.

London jeweler of thirty years experience is authority for the statement.

"Twenty-five years ago to receive a request by a woman to have her ring enlarged was considered an extremely rare occurrence," he declared. "Beginning about 20 years ago I began to get perhaps one such request a year.

But last year I received nine requests for enlarging rings; while in the twelve months just ending my books show 57 orders for enlaring rings. Tennis and golf and women's wider interest in general athletics I believe is the cause of the rudden tendency for women's hands to grow larger."

OPEN LETTER NO. 4

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

Canada's tariff changes since 1921 have been in the general direction of lower duties. Here are sixty-three countries that meanwhile have been changing their tariffs in the general direction of higher duties:—

Algeria, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, British East Africa Dependencies, British Guiana, British Honduras, British West Indies, Bulgaria, Chile, China, Colombia, Czecho-Slovakia, Ecuador, Egypt, Esthonia, Finland, France, Republic of Georgia, Germany, Gold Coast Colony, Greece, Guatemala, Holland, Honduras, India, Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Luxemburg, Madagascar, Malta, Mesopotamia, Mexico, Netherland East Indies, Newfoundland, New Zealand, Nigeria, Norway, Paraguay, Persia, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Samoa, San Salvador, Sarawak, Serb-Croat-Slovenne State, Seychelles, Sierra Leone, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunis, United States, Uruguay.

Sixty-three countries have been making it more difficult for Canada to sell in their markets. Canada has been making it easier for the whole world to sell in her market!

Can you point to a single important civilized country, other than the United Kingdom, whose policy would serve as a precedent for what Canada has been doing? And can you point to a single important civilized country where unemployment has been worse than it has been in the United Kingdom?

And is it not a fact that now, under the Baldwin Government, even Great Britain is moving in the direction of higher tariffs?

The fond mother, watching the company of soldiers march past, remarked that everybody seemed to be out of step but her Johnnie. Is all the world, except Canada, out of step in the matter of tariff legislation? Isn't there just a chance that it's we ourselves who are out of step?

Yours respectfully,

TWELVE LIVES SNUFFED OUT AS THREE AUTOMOBILES ARE STRUCK BY TRAINS AT LEVEL CROSSINGS

Three Persons Reported Killed and Two Injured Near Ottawa on Holiday.

SIX IN TENNESSEE

Two-Year-Old Girl Only Survivor of Party of Seven.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8—(Canadian Press).—Three people are reported killed and two injured as the result of a collision between a Canadian National train and a motor car on a level crossing near Rockland, 14 miles from Ottawa, Monday.

Daniel Gauron, 28, married, of Ville St. Pierre, is at the Montreal General Hospital with serious injuries, having been brought here by a Canadian National train at 7.30 last evening.

Details of the accident were difficult to get, Gauron being unable to give particulars of how it happened or who his companions were. The other injured man was taken aboard the train but was apparently debarked en route to Montreal.

It is learned that an automobile carrying five persons was crossing the railroad near Rockland when an Ottawa-Montreal train struck the car. Of the five, three were instantly killed, the hospital authorities were informed, and two injured.

ANOTHER THREE DIE.

BATAVIA, N.Y., Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Three persons were killed and one injured Monday when a westbound New York Central passenger train struck an automobile at a grade crossing near Godfrey's Pond, five miles east of here. The dead are: Mrs Charles Simpson; her mother, Mrs. Duncan Campbell, and Mrs. J. M. Myles, all of Buffalo. Charles Simpson, driver of the car, is in a hospital here. His condition is critical.

SIX VICTIMS HERE.

RIVES, Tenn., Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Claude E. Warren, a farmer, living near Beardstown, Tenn., his wife, two children, his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. C. Cude, and Tom Curl, were killed near here on Sunday when an Illinois Central passenger train struck his automobile in which they were riding at a grade crossing. A two-year-old daughter of Warren escaped unhurt.

INFANT SCALDED.

Died of Burns From Upsetting Hot Water.

WINGHAM, Ont.(Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Eva, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baker, was fatally scalded Sunday at her home in Lower Wingham. A pan of hot water had been placed on a table, and by some means the child climbed on to a chair, and, reaching the pan, upset the contents over her, severely scalding her body. Dr. Calder was called, and the child rushed to Wingham General Hospital, but death came to its relief about six o'clock Sunday evening.

YES INDEED, SHE DID .

The famous young lawn tennis player, Miss Joan Fry, who recently played exhibition matches in Canada, tells an amusing story of a sprightly young damsel who, after a series of practice matches offered to give a lift home to a man she knew who lived in the same street as herself.

It happened that the afternoon had been very chilly, and as she sank back among the cushions and the car started forward, she said to her companion:

"Oh, dear! How cold it has turned. My hands are like ice. Feel them."

But the young man did not respond. He regarded her bashfully for a few seconds, and said:

"You should have brought a muff with you."

"I did," she said abruptly.

CHILD SLAIN BY WEALTHY YOUTH

Former Harvard Student Also Alleged to Have Confessed Killing Negro.

ONCE IN ASYLUM.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Harrison Noel, 18-year-old son of a prominent Montclair family, and for a few months last fall a Harvard student, late on Sunday led the police to a wilderness of thickets near Van Geisen Gap, where they found the dead body of Mary Daly, the six-year-old girl who was kidnapped near her home Friday noon.

Standing over the body, he pointed to the two bullet wounds, one in the temple and the other in the neck of the child, and, according to the police, declared: "Well, I put two in her."

Then, the police alleged, he admitted that he had fired the shot which killed Raymond Pierce, negro, whose body was found in a culvert, where it had been crammed prior to the kidnapping.

Following his alleged confession that he had planned the kidnapping, had killed Pierce Thursday afternoon, shortly after the negro had borrowed the car, and had swooped down upon Mary as she was playing in the street near her home, Noel was returned to Montclair police headquarters. He was slipped in the back way, to avoid a crowd of several thousand persons gathered in front, which was greatly excited by the news of the alleged confession.

Noel, who at one time was the inmate of an insane asylum, was earlier in the day identified by John Sandin as the man who had wounded him during the chase which followed the kidnapping. Sandin, chauffeur of Joseph Bower, a neighbor of the Dalys, was shot in the head when he drew his car alongside of the kidnapper's automobile after a ten-mile chase through Montclair and the Orange Mountains.

Noel, who would give no motive that impelled him to plan and commit the crime, was grilled by the police all night and again yesterday before he finally confessed. Even then he tried to bargain with them by assuring them that Mary was alive and unharmed, and offering to lead them to her hiding place for $4,000.

AUTO OVER CLIFF.

Weston Man Killed, Woman Badly Injured.

HAMILTON, Sept. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—Strange to the road and ignorant of the sharp turn that lay ahead, Fred Moffatt, of Weston, Ont., was instantly killed, and Miss Leila Bull, of the same place was badly injured, when the large car they were driving crashed over a high precipice on the highway that descends to Dundas. The tragedy occurred about 8 o'clock Saturday night.

Miss Bull was found to have received a broken pelvis, badly wrenched limbs, lacerations, contusions, and is feared to have been injured internally. She was removed to the General Hospital here. She is a young woman about 21 years of age. Mr. Moffatt was said to be abonut 23 years of age.

TWO GIRLS ARRESTED.

Held With Four Youths on Housebreaking Charge.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Two girls, Ruth Taylor and Greta Forsythe, and four youths, Harry Austin, Oliver Martin, Harold Woodruff and Kenneth Pybus, were arrested at Verona yesterday morning at 1.30 by Provincial Officer MacLachlan, charged with breaking into the residence of Ross Emmons, Glenvale, on Sunday afternoon. The six were charged before Magistrate Bradshaw and remanded until to-day. The Emmons home was entered during the absence of the family, and it is said that $55 is missing, also some bread and berries. The party were in an auto and apparently had been joy-riding about the country.

CANADA LAUDED BY NATIONS AS WORLD EXAMPLE

Canadian Senator Elected President of League of Nations Assembly.

A MONTREAL MAN

Canada Felicitated as Link Between Great Britain and France.

GENEVA, Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Canada constituted "an example to the world of how to handle successfully the problem of the treatment of minority populations," declared Paul Painleve, Premier of France, as the retiring chairman of the League of Nations Assembly, speaking in the Assembly Monday afternoon on the election of Hon. Senator Raoul Dandurand of Canada to the Presidency. The election was the feature of the session.

M. Painleve paid a tribute to Senator Dandurand as a statesman of high capacity and deep knowledge of juridical questions, and referred to Canada as a common ground of British and French views.

Following his election to the Presidency of the Assembly, which opened here Monday, Hon. Raoul Dandurand, of Montreal, was invited to take the chair by M. Painleve. The French Premier delivered a charming speech, in which he congratulated the Canadian senator on his election to the high office. He referred to the new President's high capacity in knowledge and courtesy, and said that the choice of the Assembly was particularly felicitous as Canada was on common ground with the British and French civilization.

Cheered By Assembly.

M. Painleve then formally asked the bilingual orator to advance to the tribune. There was a touching scene as Senator Dandurand left his seat, and, with evident emotion, walked forward to the French Premier, who cordially shook him by the hand and escorted him to the president's chair. As he took his seat the whole assembly rose and cheered him heartily.

The new President of the Assembly then addressed the gathering in French and English.

In electing him to that high position, President Dandurand said the Assembly had desired to do honor to Canada. As a descendant of the heroic Frenchmen who were the pioneers of civilization throughout the North American continent, he was profoundly moved in being received at the assembly by a representative of the country whose traditions and language remained with those of that racial group in Canada to which he belonged.

History, he observed, had never before known of an example of six countries, equal among themselves with one and the same king, in whose name they spoke and acted both at home and abroad. He was convinced that enlightened collaboration between the statesmen and legal and technical experts gathered at the assembly would contribute much to the establishment of the peace of the world founded upon justice for all.

BROTHER OPPOSING BROTHER IN SOUTH HURON WHERE THE PRIME MINISTER SPOKE ON THE HOLIDAY

Two McMillans Are Respectively Liberals and U.F.O. Candidates.

PREMIER'S ADDRESS

Charges Hon. Arthur Meighen With Persistent Propaganda, Hurting Canada.

EXETER, Ont., Sept. 8.—(By a Staff Correspondent of Canadian Press).—South Huron, into which Premier King carried his campaign Monday presents in its political candidature a curious spectacle of a family divided against itself. Seventeen years ago two brothers McMillan farmed in the county side by side. Then one decided to retire. He sold out to his brother, who continued to farm the two farms. Today the two brothers are opposing candidates in South Huron. One, Thomas McMillan, is the nominee of the Liberal party, and, oddly enough, the actual farmer of the two. It was in his interests that Premier King spoke yesterday.

The other, R. G. McMillan, is the candidate for the U.F.O. These are so far the only two official candidates, but a Conservative nominee is expected any day. There were three candidates, Progressive, Liberal and Conservative, in South Huron last election. William Black, Progressive, won, but with a majority of only 44, defeating the present Liberal candidate. So close was the polling that merely 140 votes separated all three candidates.

It is fifty-one years since a Dominioon Premier was last officially received in Exeter. That was Alexander MacKenzie, and there were present yesterday two elderly ladies, who were there when Alexander MacKenzie "came to town."

Wants Real Majority.

Premier King opened his Western Ontario campaign here with sharp strictures for what he termed the "detractions" of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative party. As at Richmond Hill on Saturday, Premier King pressed for a substantial majority in the House of Commons that the Government might effectively deal with the problems of the tariff, transportation, immigration and Senate reform. He spoke of difficulties which the Government had encountered in Parliament—with a nominal majority of only one in the House and with a majority hostile in the Senate, and it was more particularly in touching upon difficulties in securing immigrants that Mr. King was most critical of Mr. Meighen. There were, he declared, two reasons greater than others which had prevented immigration. The first was Mr. Meighen, the second was the cost of bringing in immigrants.

"I say," was the Prime Minister's heated accusation, "that of all things which have helped to keep back this country of all things which have helped migration to the United States is the belief that we have depression in this country, that the United States is more prosperous than Canada. And no influence has worked to that end as effectively as Mr. Meighen's in the way he has talked about conditions in this country."

Encouraged Emigration.

Mr. King charged that in his detractions, Mr. Meighen had made statements he knew were not true. What, Mr. King asked, could more effectively help migration to the United States than to have the leader of a great political party declaring that there was prosperity in the United States while there was depression in Canada? There had been suffering in Canada, Mr. King added, but there had also been suffering in the United States. The present Government had inherited the results of previous administrations.

"We told the people," he proceeded, "we know the country is in a bad way, but give us time. Give us a chance to get out of some of this debt and you will begin to see industry and business reviving. Is it not true that things are gettting better, that business is more prosperous? That is the harvest of our work for the last three years. We have got this country started on the right track."

"We have virtually given up hope of rescuing the crew," Captain Moses said. "We now have eleven destroyers fueling at Honolulu for the purpose of engaging in a final survey of the waters where the PN-9 No. 1 came down. We have done all that could be done."

BORDER CAR RECORD.

15,000 Tourists' Cars Crossed at Sarnia Monday.

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press)— All previous holiday week end records for volume of automobile tourist traffic was declared broken last night when nearly 15,000 tourists' cars crossed the river on the return from the Labor day holiday. Many hundreds were still to come late last night as from early noon onwards there had been a queue extending a mile and a half from the ferry dock along the Sarnia-London highway.

EXCURSION BOAT SANK.

Lurched Suddenly at Hoboken, N.Y. Pier.

HOBOKEN, N.J., Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— The excursion steamer Machgonne sank Sunday while tied up to her pier at the foot of 17th street, where she was being made ready to take an excursion party from New York. Three members of the crew, on board the steamer at the time she suddenly lurched and sank, jumped to the pier.

The owners, who will raise the vessel, have no explanation to offer for the sinking.

OPERATORS CALL AVERTS BIG FIRE

Bell Telephone Employee's Intelligent Surmise Leads to Discovery of Otbreak.

SUNDAY MORNING.

A timely warning to the police from Miss Martin, a Bell Telephone Operator, led to the discovery of a fire on Sunday morning, in the store of the Peterboro Hardware Company, George street, which would undoubtedly have assumed alarming proportions had the alarm been delayed a few minutes later.

At 7.45, Miss Martin found that both telephones of the Peterborough Hardware Company were ringing in. Receiving no answer to her query and being convinced that the premises were unlikely to be occupied at the time, she shrewdly concluded that a fire in the store was the cause of the strange behaviour of the telephones. She immediately phoned to the police station and acquainted Sergt. Deannard with her suspicions.

Outwardly the store gave no indications of anything untoward, but an investigation of the interior disclosed the fact that the rafters of the cellar were aflame.

The Fire Department was summoned, and the flames were speedily extinguished. Some of the goods in the store were slightly damaged by the smoke, but otherwise the loss was negligible.

It was afterwards discovered that spontaneous combustion had originated in a pile of rubbish which had been thrust into the unlit furnace after a cleaning up on Wednesday last, and was to have been burned some time this week. As the stuff took fire the furnace door was forced open, and the leaping flames travelled to the rafters.

The police are loud in their praises of the young lady whose intelligence and promptitude in giving the alarm averted a serious loss by fire.

What About the Child's Education?

YOU HAVE HOPED--you have planned--that your child may be fitted to take his rightful, honorable place in the world which will know him as a man. Some niche awaits him in the future--which he must be educated to fill.

Yet you may not always be here to earn his right to that education. You have planned so far. You have still a little way to go. There is one way you may provide for the future of those you love, even after you have gone.

It is a safe, sane, certain way, the way of Life Insurance Service. Let a representative of Life Insurance Service explain the matter more fully to you.

LURE OF SOUTHERN SEAS DRAWS AGED CANADIAN EXPLORER BACK

Frank Burnett, 74, Goes To Search Haunts of God Rasikalu.

AMBITIOUS TRIP.

World's Greatest Authority on Fast Dying Tribes of South.

The lure of the "Summer Isles of Eden" has once again proved too strong for Frank Burnett, Vancouver author, explorer, ethnologist and collector of rare curios. In November he is leaving his luxurious home for the South Sea Islands, the unknown interior of Borneo, and a dash as far as Kashmir, India.

Mr. Burnett is seventy-four years of age.

For twenty-five years this intrepid explorer has been devoting his time, talent and money to the study of the South Sea Islands. Today he is recognized as one of the world's great authorities on many races that are fast dying out. In his library is to be found every book ever published on the South Seas, and his collection of weapons, idols, mattings, earthenware, jewelry and curios is believed to be the largest owned by any one man in the world.

"This is to be one of my most ambitious trips," he explains. "I propose to explore a tropical mountain labyrinth which has thousands of passages on the Island of Cicia, one of the Windward group. Later I shall go through virgin territory over a height of land in unexplored Borneo. Then, after returning to civilization, I intend climbing Kina Balu, 13,700 feet, the highest mountain in Borneo. After that I propose going on to India at least as far as Kashmir."

In exploring the labyrinth Mr. Burnett will also try to discover whether an ancient island legend has any background of fact. There are two islets on the outskirts of the Windwards, Cikogia and Cicia. In 1923 a native named Mbengi, known to be over 100 years old, showed Mr. Burnett the entrance to a mountain labyrinth on Cicia and told him that this led under the sea to the top of another mountain on Cikobia, inside Koro Macau, now deserted, but once a fortified town.

Ages ago the god of earthquakes, Rasikalau, dwelt in this labyrinth and accepted the human sacrifices of the islanders. Then there came a time when the Cikobians angered him, and he led their hereditary enemies, the Cicians, into their stronghold through his underground passage, with highly gratifying results to the invaders.

Unexplored Labyrinth.

Mr. Burnett is the only white man who has seen the cavernous entrances to this labyrinth. He has penetrated under the mountain, but only for a short distance, for he found tortuous passages branching out in all directions and reluctantly refrained from going beyond sight of the opening.

This time, armed with torches and accompanied by runners from tribes which know not of the terrible god Rasikalau who still lurks in the Stygian darkness, Mr. Burnett will adventure to the limit.

In the spring Mr. Burnett will go to British North Borneo, ascend the river Beram to its source, force his way through dense jungles over the height of land, then drift down the river Kayan back to civilization on the other side of the great island. This journey will take the veteran explorer through territory where head-hunters abound. His packers and paddlers will be Dyaks, the fiercest fighters of all the uncivilized tribes in the East Indies, and the route is through a land never yet traversed by a white man. For miles and miles paths will have to be cut through the forests, and there will be danger of attack by wandering tribes at all times.

Mr. Burnett has no fear of leaving his white-haired head as a trophy to some Dyak brave. He knows and understands these savages and makes them realize that he is boss from the first day out.

"If a native acts at all in a suspicious manner," he says, "make him walk ahead of you and stick your rifle in the small of his back. . . Anyway, there're not particularly interested in white men's heads. They collect these gruesome trophies to impress their lady loves, or as revenge for murders committed perhaps generations ago. No Dyak youth can hope to win the smiles of the fair sex until he has at least one.

As farmer, grain dealer, banker and speculator, Mr. Burnett experienced prosperity and failures for fifteen years, then, with his purse well filled, moved to Vancouver, in 1895. Seven years later he retired from business, independently rich.

Feeling the need of a hobby, he bought and outfitted the Laurel, an 80-ton schooner, and set out for the South Seas on what he describes in one of his books as "the dirtiest voyage in history." That was first of many voyages to the Solomons, the Fijis, the Friendly Islands, and many other scattered groups where he collected his marvellous curios.

RUSSIAN REFUGEES ARE GREAT PROBLEM

Many Scattered Over the World Are Unemployed Dependents.

(BY HENRY WOOD.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

GENEVA, September 8. — World wide statistics just completed by the International Labor Bureau place at 194,000 the number of unemployed Russian and American refugees still scattered about the world as a result of the great war.

Of this number 124,000 are to be found in the various European countries, living almost from hand to to mouth.

Austria, 2,559, of which 730 are women over 14 years.
Bulgaria, 4,000.
China, 70,000.
Esthonia, 3,000.
Germany, 50,000, mostly agricultural workers, intermittently employed; and also about 45,000 colonists from the Volga region.
Greece, 1,691.
Latvia, 1,910.
Poland, 6,700.
Serbia, 1,200.
Turkey, 550.

In addition to the above Russian refugees there are still in Greece over 7,000 Armenian refugees without employment.

Final settlement of this problem is being sought by the International Labor Bureau which keeps in close touch with the labor market all over the world and which is seeking to transfer and place these refugees in the various countries where the particular kind of help they are capable of giving is needed.

Many May Go to South America.

The Labor Bureau expects soon the final report of the mission headed by Colonel Proctor which it sent to all of the leading South American countries with a view of permanent placing many of these refugees there.

It is expected that Colonel Proctor will have succeeded in making arrangements with several of the South American countries that will permit of a final transfer and settlement of several thousand of these refugees.

For the rest the Labor Bureau hopes to secure appropriations from various countries that will render it possible whenever the labor or market of any country calls for a certain number of workers along any special line to at once transfer and permanently settle all of those for whom employment can be found.

FACT AND FICTION CONCERNING SNAKES

Book Written to Tell Truth About Habits of Reptiles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(United Press).—In view of the many bizarre tales and beliefs about snakes Dr. George T. Hastings, has prepared a list of truths and untruths about reptiles for the guidance of Boy Scouts:

It is true, says Dr. Hastings, that some snakes "play dead" as a means of protection; that some snakes lay eggs while in others the young are born alive ;that a number of snakes are cannabalistic, that is, eat other snakes; that if a poisonous snake's fangs are extracted, another pair of fangs will deveop to take the place of the extracted pair; that snakes can live for many months without eating; that two-headed snakes are not uncommon; that King Snakes are immune to the bite of poisonous snakes; that snakes generally hibernate in the winter; that as a two-snakes can not strike more than two-thirds their own length; that the only poisonous snakes in the northeastern states and the Rattle-snake and the Copperhead.

It is not true, he says, that snakes are able to charm birds and people; that there is such a snake as the Hoop Snake, which takes its tail in its mouth and rolls like a hoop; that there are snakes in this country which can spit poison for a considerable distance; that some snakes in this country attack people without provocation; that snakes are slimy; that when snakes are killed, they remain alive until sundown; that Puff Adders are poisoning; that female rattlesnakes are yellow in color while the males are black; that the number of rattles on a rattlesnake's tail denotes its age; that the majority of snakes in this country are harmful and should be killed.

'QUAKE ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED IN JAPAN

Traffic Will Halt in Memory of Great Disaster.

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 8.—(United Press.)— Japan to-day will observe a solemn holiday on the second anniversary of the great earthquake and fire which devastated Tokio and Yokohama, Sept. 1, 1925.

At 12.59, the hour when the first tremors of the earth gave warning of the disaster that was to come, tramcars and traffic will stop, the wheels of industry will halt and populations of the two great cities boy a moment in memory of the greatest tragedy of Japanese history.

Services will be held in many temples during the day, while civic associations will hold lectures on the disaster exhibiting motion pictures taken while the fire was at its height.

In Honjo, where thousands were suffocated, an especial memorial service will be held, priests offering prayers for rest of the souls of the dead.

Only Partly Rebuilt.

The second anniversary of the great fire finds Yokohama only partly rebuilt, still but a shell of the once prosperous seaport. Tokyo has fared better but many gaunt skeletons of once mighty steel buildings still rear themselves skyward as reminders of the earthquake and fire.

It is planned to make the anniversary of the great tragedy an annual holiday with appropriate services to emphasize on the people the necessity for discipline in case of a recurrence of disaster, care in the prevention of fire and to keep alive the memory of the heroic dead, many of whom lost their lives in the most gallant service of their fellow men.

It takes 220 pounds of flowers to make a single ounce of essence of roses. This essence has a selling value of more than $10.

No one ever heard of a person being killed by lightning while lying in a feather bed.

POLICE UNITE FOR MOONSHINE RAIDS

Ulster and Free State Forces Are Cleaning Up Border Stills.

BELFAST, Sept. 8.—Moonshiners in the south of Ulster have lost the protection which formerly was accorded them by the border line, across which they used to flit when hard pressed on one side or the other.

The Ulster constabulary under command of Inspector Robinson, and the Monaghan Civic Guards, under Chief Superintendent Murphy, recently carried out a joint raid on an 18-mile front. It was the first time the rival police forces have cooperated in such a manner. Together they carried on their activities for eight hours and thoroughly routed the stills.

MANY FINE HOMES AT SPITZBERGEN

Visitors From South Are Surprised at Comforts Enjoyed.

BARENTSBURG, Green Harbor, Spitzbergen, Sept. 8 — (Associated Press). Travellers who imagine Spitzbergen to be inhabited by a few rough trappers and seal-hunters, living on raw blubber in wretched hovels, are agreeably surprised at the comforts and even luxuries enjoyed at the different administration buildings at Barentsburg, Long year City and Ny Aalesund.

These local headquarters of the different coal companies are veritable havens of refuge to the few visitors who lack the comforts of the tourist steamers which run up to these ports during Spitzbergen's brief summer season, between July 15 and August 15.

There is no field here for the "drummer." All supplies are provided by the coal companies, and may be obtained at reasonable prices fixed for the common benefit by the company administrators.

Here in Barentsburg,all the houses which are of wood, as they are elsewhere in Spitzbergen, look trim and freshly painted. The local director's house, high up the mountain side is easily the finest in the archipelago. Steam-heated, with double doors and windows, music and billiard rooms, a well-stocked library, priceless fur rugs on polished floors and old Dutch masters on the walls. Director Dresselhuys' far northern home appears as if it might have been bodily transplanted from the finest residential quarters of The Hague or Amsterdam.

She Never Seems Bored So She's Very Popular

Mrs. Baldwin, wife of the British premier, has become very popular in a quiet way among the various social circles of the Old Land. Naturally there must be a reason for this outside of the fact that she is the wife of the country's leader.

A casual investigation seems to reveal the reason and a simple enough reason it is. Mrs. Baldwin is never bored. Whether it be interviews, receptions, bazaars, garden parties or committee meetings, she is always enthusiastic.

She is in addition a great champion of the British woman, though not a militant one. She disapproves of militant methods. Nor are her campaigs along political lines nor her ambitions for political power.

Her interest is in much more homely but equally important affairs. Spends a great deal of her time in such non-spectacular pursuits as giivng away clothes to people who need them.

She has no particular pet charity, but anything and everything tending towards the betterment of conditions for mothers and babies has her support.

Discussion of this subject is her favorite topic of conversation, she admits. "I may introducer it," she says, "even though it is not the least appropriate to the occasion."

There is nothing of the grand dame about her. Mrs. Baldwin is—well, Mrs. Baldwin.

FARMER MURDERED SUBJECT OF DREAMS

Said He Was Possessed of Devil and Attacked Female Resemblance.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 8.—(United Press).—Vincent Tokar, a farmer living in the village of Bekeszaba, Hungary, recently became obessed with the idea that a woman was bewitching him. So great was the obsession that he called in his neighbors to help him break the charm and "cast the devil out of him."

His neighbors came and found him lying in bed. He told them that a devil in the form of an old woman had taken possession of him and was causing him much misery. His story was so unusual and interesting that the neighbors failed to take any notice of the door which was opened behind them.

Suddenly all in the room were startled by hearing Tokar scream. "There he is now." Turning they saw an old woman advancing toward the bedside, presumably to offer some aid to the sufferer or to join the group of neighbors who had been summoned. Fearing complications, one of the group called to the woman and told her to proceed no further. The woman was deaf, and continued toward the bed.

Tokar became frantic because of his illusion that the old woman was a real devil coming after him. Jumping from his bed he attacked her with such ferocity that he killed her before the stupefied onlookers could effect a rescue.

PRESS SUPERVISION

ROME, Sept. 8.—Reformers who urge that newspapers be forbidden to print gruesome details of crimes or sensational news, tending to influence legal investigations or trials, won a signal victory recently when the Prefect of Rome exercised the powers vested in him under the Facist Press Law to suppress an important newspaper which asserted erroneously that the perpetrator of a sensational crime had been identified.

An edition of the Tribuna, one of Rome's leading evening newspapers was seized and the next day the prefect announced the suppression had been caused by the paper's publication of a statement that a criminal who had brutally killed a little girl had been found. This, the prefect explained, was untrue and its widespread publication, he asserted, tended to frustrate the ends of justice.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL CRUISERS AS GUESTS OF PETERBOROUGH ON LAST LEG OF HISTORIC TRIP

Argonauts Laud Scenic Beauties and Resources of Canada.

18-FOOT BOAT

Thousands of Miles of Inland Waterways Traversed Without Accident.

John Edward Hoag, Frank Wilson and their jovial looking mascot dog, arrived in Peterboro' on Saturday, after having "putt-putt-ed" some 4,500 miles across the American "ocean" in an 18 foot water bug, propelled by two outboard motors used at intervals.

The trio had a healthy weather-beaten complexion which was a direct result of long hours in the open. Sickness, Mr. Hoag said, had never troubled them, although he admitted that the warmth of some receptions left a considerable hang-over on mornings after.

The guests were met by Frank G. Stinson, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and conducted to a luncheon at the Empress Hotel. F. D. Kerr, K.C., acted as host in the absence of his worship, Mayor Turner.

The argonauts were given no opportunity to dress for dinner, but ate attired in the rough flannel which maintained their identity as voyageurs adventuring in unconquered worlds.

New Minister There.

The welcoming committee consisted of F. D. Kerr, K.C., host, Alderman Green, J. Wells Frazer, President of the Chamber of Commerce, A. L. Killaly, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, Frank G. Stinson and G. N. Gordon, K.C., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, who had a few hours previously received an intimation that he had been appointed as Minister of Immigration, a Cabinet post. Mr. Gordon was made the recipient of congratulations on his attainment, that little luncheon being the first occasion where official public recognition was made.

Mr. Hoag when requested to give an abridged history of his venture, told that he had conceived the idea two years ago after the completion of a trip down the Pacific coast from Skagway to Seattle. It occurred to him that people had crossed the American continent in every conceivable way except by boat. There was no record available to tell of any continuous water trip, although Champlain, Chaudiere and La Salle had made long voyages entailing a great part of the distance.

When he (Mr. Hoag) considered that Yellowstone Park had a lake whose one outlet flowed to the Pacific, while the other ran to Atlantic waters, he was more than ever convinced that the trip from coast to coast was not impossible of accomplishment.

The party had now travelled five-sixths of the distance and the last leg of the journey from this city to New York should be comparatively simple.

Taxed Ingenuity.

The conditions with which the party was forced to contend taxed their knowledge of seamanship to the utmost. Val. Woodbury, who was numbered with the crew until he was forced to leave at Port McNicoll, was a former naval officer and was a viauable member to the navigators.

Mr. Hoag said that it was difficult to get accurate information all along the route, more particularly was this evident on the American territory through which they passed. The boat was taken from the water only on two occasions. The first time was when the long portage was made over the Rockies, while a coating of paint was added on the second occasion.

Mr. Hoag averred that the Trent Waterway Route was the most beautiful part through which he had passed, and he paid a glowing tribute to the generosity and good will evidenced by Canadian people.

Following Mr. Hoag's recital a general discussion ensued. Mr. Gordon presented a brief resume of Canada's position at the present time and hinted at the possibility of certain tariff adjustments. Mr. Hoag was of the opinion that the United States had been mistaken in many of its restrictive measures.

Personally, Mr. Hoag is an advocate of Free Trade, and believes it to be the sovereign cure of all present international ills.

On the conclusion of the luncheon, the party motored about the city, when the most important places of interest were visited.

Hear Of It Later.

Mr. Hoag is a journalist of considerable note and the trip now in progress will form the basis of an exhaustive series of articles which will appear in some of the leading publications in the immediate future.

Frank J. Wilson is a movie photographer of recognized merit. When it is considered that he "shot" the scenes for that thriller "Hunting Big Game in Africa," some conception of his ability as a cameraman may be obtained. His reproducing instruments have been clicking throughout the entire route and millions of people will see the pictures flashed on the silver sheet next winter. The mascot dog has withstood the rigours of the expedition like a seasoned tripper, and will doubtless broadcast his adventures throughout the canine world so that there should be no possibility of ignorance concerning this epochal, history-making adventure. Had Columbus but known it, the American contient did not present the impassable barrier which he considered it.

Already, Mr. Hoag is planning fresh conquests, as he has under consideration a trans-European voyage.

The boat which was especially designed for the present undertaking will be disposed of to the Evinrude Company for advertising purposes as the craft was powered by their out-board motors.

JUDGING CONTEST DRAWS ATTENTION

Exhibition Offers Unique Opportunities to Young Men and Women.

One of the big features of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year, as last, will be the judging competition. This is divided into two sections, one for young men and one for young women, and the sections are composed of comprehensive tests in their distinctive fields.

Great enthusiasm was displayed last year, and the marks were close, showing a remarkable knowledge on the part of both young men and young women. The livestock judging competition is open to any young man in the county of Petesborough and in the townships of Cavan and Emily, 26 years old or under, who has never attended an Agricultural College or taken part in a Provincial competition. Prizes are awarded on 50 per cent marks allowed for correct placing of the animals and 50 per cent for reasons.

The judging takes place on Thursday, September 17, beginning at 9.30 a.m., and entries may be made up to the time of starting. The stock to be judged and the times are:

Beef cattle, 9.30 to 10.00 a.m.
Dairy cattle, 10.00 to 10.30 a.m.
Heavy horses, 10.30 to 11.00 a.m.
Swine, 11.00 to 11.30 a.m.
Sheep, 11.30 to 12.00 a.m.

Young Ladies' Tests.

Young ladies enter contests suited to their sex, intended to develop interest in household science and good taste in sewing and dressing. The competition is open to any young lady in the county of Peterborough and in the townships of Cavan and Emily, 26 years old or under, who has never attended an Agricultural College or taken part in a Provincial competition. Prizes are awarded on the same basis as in the competition for young men.

This judging takes place on Thursday, September 17, at Barries' store at 10 a.m., and proceeds as follows:

Class 1—Good dressing, 10.00 to 10.30 a.m., at Barrie's store.
Class 2—House dresses, 10.30 to 11.00 a.m., at Fair Grounds.
Class 3—School lunches, 11.00 to 11.30 a.m., at Fair Grounds.
Class 4—Bread, 11.30 to 12.00 a.m., at Fair Grounds.

The Denne Prize.

The grand prize is presented by Roland Denne, President of the Exhibition Board, who has taken a keen interest in the plan since its inauguration. Mr. Denne offers to the two young men and the two young ladies making the highest scores in their respective competitions, free trips to the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, with all expenses paid. This prize, one of the most munificent in the whole Exhibition list, was highly appreciated last year, and the competition promises to be keen this year.

The other prizes in each class are: 1, $4; 2, $3; 3, $2; 4, $1.

In addition to these, the Peterborough U.F.O. Club offers $5 to the boy, and $5 to the girl, making the highest total score in the respective competitions.

PROCLAMATION OF DISSOLUTION WHICH WAS MADE ON SATURDAY

Addressed to "Our Beloved and Faithful" Senators and Commons.

NEW PARLIAMENT

Quaint Phraseology Retained in Announcements by Governor-General.

Many persons must have wondered just how dissolution of Parliament is brought about, and what the Governor General does to dissolve it. This is the official proclamation, issued at Ottawa on Saturday and given to The Examiner through the courtesy of Hon. G. N. Gordon:

GEORGE the FIFTH, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, KING, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

To Our Beloved and Faithful the Senators of the Dominion of Canada, and the Members elected to serve in the House of Commons of Our said Dominion, and to all whom it may concern, Greeting:—

A PROCLAMATION

WHERRAS We have thought fit, by and with the advice and consent of Our Privy Council for Canada, to DISSOLVE the present Parliament of Canada, which stands prorogued to the fifteenth day of September next, 1925;

Now Know Ye, that We do for that end publish this Our Royal Proclamation, and do hereby DISSOLVE the said Parliament of Canada accordingly; and the Senators and the Members of the House of Commons are discharged from their meeting and attendance on the said fifteenth day of September next, 1925.

In Testimony Whereof, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent and the Great Seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Our Right Trusty and Well-beloved Julian Hedworth George, Baron Byng of Vimy, General on the Retired List and in the Reserve of Officers of Our Army, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Member of Our Royal Victorian Order, Governor General and Commander-in-Chief of Our Dominion of Canada.

At Our Government House, in Our City of Ottawa, in Our said Dominion, this fifth day of September, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and in the sixteenth year of Our Reign.

By Command,
G. R. SHIBLEY,
Acting Under-Secretary of State.

Calling New Parliament.

Parliament is now dissolved, and it is necessary to arrange for the gathering together of a new parliament. With somewhat the same preamble, except that it is addressed "To all to whom these presents shall come," the following proclamation is made:

WHEREAS We are desirous and resolved, as soon as may be, to meet Our People of Our Dominion of Canada, and to have their advice in Parliament;

We Do Make Known Our Royal Will and Pleasure to call a Parliament, and do further declare that by the advice of Our Privy Council for Canada, We have this day given orders for issuing Our WRITS in due form, for calling a Parliament in Our said Dominion, which Writs are to bear date on the fifth day of September, 1925, and to be returnable on the seventh day of December, 1925.

Setting Opening Date.

And then, parliament having been dissolved, and a new parliament arranged for, it is necessary to set the date for the first gathering. This is the proclamation, again with the usual preamble and ending:

KNOW YE, that We being desirous and resolved, as soon as may be, to meet Our People of Our Dominion of Canada, and to have their advice in Parliament, do hereby, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council for Canada, summon and call together the House of Commons in and for Our said Dominion, to meet at Our City of Ottawa, in Our said Dominion, on THURSDAY, the TENTH day of DECEMBER next 1925 then and there to have conference and treaty with the Great Men and Senate of Our said Dominion.

RALLY IN NINTH DEFEATS ROTARY

Elizabeth Bantams Scored Three Runs in Last Inning to Win.

SCORE WAS 7-6.

The Rotarys, Bantam champions from Peterboro, came all prepared to repeat their no hit, no run game which they put over Elizabeth, T.A.B.A. champions, at Peterboro on Wednesday last, winning by the score of 10 to 0. They had it doped out that Crary, their pitching ace, would repeat, and up to the sixth innings he turned the trick. In this innings his record went by the boards, when an error of judgment by the first baseman allowed Elizabeth their first hit in fifteen innings. This upset Crary so much that he weakened and allowed three hits in the next frame and again in the last. For six innings Elizabeth played wretched ball behind Miller, making ten errors which, coupled with Rotary's five hits, gave the Cereal Boys six runs, while shutting out the Playgrounds from hits or runs.

When the break came Elizabeth scored four runs on a walk, a single, and two mammoth home runs by Gibble and Duckman, making the score 6 to 4. The eighth gave Rotarys two hits, but neither team scored. The last innings, with Miller getting better as he went along, Rotary fanned, three in a row. It was now up to the Playgrounds. Waxer, first up, hit to left for a single, taking second on a passed ball, and scored on Miller's single to same place, Gibble hit to pitcher for an easy out, Miller taking second and scoring tht tieing run on Duckman's single to right, Sagman, pinch hitting for Goldstein, struck out, with the winning run on third, Bobkin hit to Dormer, who gummed up the play, and the game, allowing Duckman to come in with the winning run, Elizabeth winning by the score of 7 to 6. Miller struck out over Crary, getting seventeen strike outs, walking five and allowing seven hits. Crary striking out twelve, walking three and allowing seven hits.

The Dressmaking Department Of The HALL Store Opens THIS WEEK.

MISS WELCH will once again be in charge with a staff of dressmakers equal in skill to any we have ever employed in that department.

NEW MATERIALS are arriving in the dress material department and for Autumn 1925 Mr. Macintyre will be able to offer you a selection of silks and woollens second to none in the trade.

We hope we shall not only be able to expect our old customers of former seasons but that many more will be able to take advantage of our better service.

WOOL MATERIALS this season are prettier than ever. The colors are more varied, the patterns are in far greater variety. Pretty deep Burgundy shades vie with pencil blues, pansy purples and warm russet tints for the leading place in Dame Fashion's regard but they are closely followed by green, grey, beige and a host of other pretty tints.

THE NEW AUTUMN SILKS

Are even more varied than the woollens. Pretty stripes, checks, jacquards, jouys, brocades, as well as plain crepes, satins, armures and failles make the selection of the new fall dress at the same time a real pleasure and a matter of difficulty.

WE CAN HELP YOU SELECT THE BEST

The splendid selection of materials we are able to offer you, the patience and ability of our sales staff and the skill of our dressmaker all combine to put us in a position where we can give you help and advice that will solve all your dressmaking problems.

OTTAWA, September 8. Canadian Press. — Hon. George N. Gordon, formerly Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, was sworn in as a member of the Cabinet Council yesterday morning, in the presence of His Excellency Lord Byng, and became Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the present government.

Mr. Gordon, after a brief conference with several of the members of the staff of the Department of Immigration, left for Toronto where he will join Premier King.

C.G.E. GIRLS WON

bat, which was ticketed for three bases.

With the willow the Bolton Girls hit oftener, but less effectively. Their hits were a little more evenly distributed, none of them going hitless, but in four innings they left hitters stranded, while in every innings but one that they got hits the C.G.E. girls made them count for runs.

Miss Mortimer and Miss Greenhalgh, with four hits and a walk in five tries each were the heavy hitters, while the others backed them up well.

The game finished up with a thrill. In the eighth the C.G.E. girls, who batted last, started a drive that was not halted until eleven players had batted, and the score had been changed from 14-9 to 16-14. In the first of the ninth the first two Bolton batters went out on good stops and throws by Misses White and Greenhalgh. Miss Beamish then contributed a double and scored on Miss Hutton's single. Miss Fuller was safe when Miss Todd dropped a throw and then Dot Mortimer saved the game. With Miss Hutton rounding third she raced out back of first, picked up the ball and sprinted back to the plate in time to tag Miss Hutton for the final out.

Buck Hughes and Joe Spring were the arbiters and their decisions met with approval from players and fans.

The C. G. E. ladies play in the semi-finals on Wednesday night. The four teams left are Hope Ladies, Danforth Ladies, Humber Bay and C.G.E. The final game will be played on Friday.

WORKERS REACHING END CONCESSIONS

Says Union Leader, and Will Fight For Improved Conditions.

LONDON, September 8. (United Press.) — A. M. Swales, president of the Trades Union Congress, in the opening speech of its fifty-seventh annual meeting at Scarborough yesterday, announced the Labor Unions' policy: that the workers have reached the limits of concessions to employers and from now on will fight for improved conditions.

"There is a limit," declared Swales, to the concessions the unions can be forced to make. That limit has been reached. The union policy in future will be to re-establish and improve the standards of wages, hours and working conditions, and to co-ordinate and intensify trade union action for winning a larger measure of control in industry for the workers."

ONE BABY OUT OF FIVE DIES IN THE FIRST YEAR

Dr. McPherson Refers to Need of Greater Care for the Developing Child.

PASTEURIZED MILK.

City's Bathing Places Badly Chosen from the Standpoint of Health.

That one out of every five children born in Peterboro died within its first year, that activities such as the Well Babies Clinic and the Peterboro Health Association should be under the control of the Public Health Department, that not a quart of milk that was not pasteurized should be allowed to be sold in Peterboro, and that the city's two bathing beaches could not have been located in worst places from the viewpoint of health unless they had been placed below the entrance of the sewer into the river, were some of the striking statements made by Rotarian Dr. A. W. McPherson, in a most interesting address on "The Care of the Developing Child," before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today.

Rotarian McPherson said that every child was entitled to a fair chance to be healthy, to grow up, to enjoy himself and to take his place in the world.

That meant that his health must be safeguarded, proper habits of industry, thrift and honesty must be formed and he must be trained for his life work.

The speaker referred to the necessity of caring for the mother during pregnacy and then went on to point out that many of those children who at birth are in bad health because of prematurity, general weakness, etc., could be saved. He outlined the pitfalls along the child's journey, the danger from bad feeding, the menace of pneumonia, the peril of whooping cough and measles and later diphtheria and scarlet fever.

The community's duty was a health department properly organized to include the Child's Welfare Clinic, the Health Association of Venereal diseases, with public health workers to go into the homes and teach the mothers. The value of propaganda and the effectiveness of immunizing agencies were stressed by Dr. McPherson, who went on to outline the community's duty in the matter of food and drink supplies, declaring that no unpasteurized milk should be sold in Peterboro.

Speaking of recreation, Dr. McPherson emphasized the importance of facilities for organized and supervised recreation for boys and girls.

In conclusion, he urged that great care should be taken in the training of under-privileged children, those of weak mentality. It was a mistake to attempt to educate such a child for a higher position than he was capable of filling. Some were born to rule, and others to be hewers of wood and drawers of water, and unless this was recognized there was danger of developing misfits instead of useful members of society.

At today's meeting which was presided over by Rotarian R. J. Kingan in the absence of President J. H. Seel, Rotarian V. J. McElderry expressed the regret of the club at the loss of Rotarian J. M. McHardy, whom he characterized as a good Rotarian, who had always made good on every assignment. His departure was a real loss to the Rotary Club and to the community in general.

Rotarian McHardy, in reply, declared that he had taken out of the club as much as he had put into it, and thanked the members generally for their assistance.

Soviet Refuses Permission to Italian Airplanes to Fly to Moscow.

LAST MINUTE CHANGE.

TURIN, Italy, Sept. 8.—(United Press). — Three Italian airplanes hopped off here to-day on what was originally intended to be a flight to Moscow but which at the last moment was converted into a flight to Eastern and Southern European capitals.

Th eleventh hour change resulted from the fact that the Soviet Government refused permission for the squadron to land in Russia.

Making the trip under command of Colonel Bolognesi were three 700 horse power bombing planes. It had been proposed to send the machines by way of Vienna and Budapest to Kieff and Moscow, and thence by way of Odessa and Constantinople home.

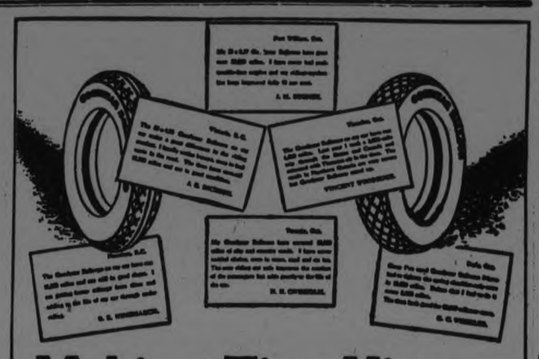
MEET TO DISCUSS SECURITY PACT

British and French Premiers and Foreign Minister Arrange to Details.

OUTLOOK HOPEFUL.

GENEVA, Sept. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The Allies have definitely decided to invite Germany to a conference for consideration of the proposed Security Pact, British spokesmen announced to-day. The spokesmen, at the same time, stated that Premier Painleve and Foreign Minister Briand of France, accompanied by Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, are motoring to Aix-Les-Baines this afternoon to confer with Stanley Baldwin, British Prime Minister, and iron out the details of the projected meeting with the German Foreign Minister, Dr. Stressmann.

Mr. Baldwin's trip, he continued, was not to be taken as an indication of any new crisis in the situation, which in fact continued hopeful.



Making Tire History

SUPERTWIST is doing that in Goodyear Balloons

MOST of the earlier users of Goodyear Balloon Tires were impelled to buy them by a desire for greater riding comfort.

But these users have long since learned that in Goodyear Balloons this greater comfort is matched by a surprising increase in serviceability.

They are piling up mileage totals, and records for freedom from trouble, which users say are astonishing.

Back of the splendid achievements of these Goodyears is the new cord fabric, SUPERTWIST, developed by Goodyear to solve the special needs of the balloon tire.

The superiority of this new material lies in its greater elasticity; SUPERTWIST far outstretches the breaking point of standard cord fabric.

When a Goodyear Tire made of SUPERTWIST strikes a stone, the elastic cords yield to the impact, stretching under the blow like rubber bands.

If you want the fine kind of tire performance that is reflected in this impartial testimony, get the only tires that are made with SUPERTWIST—Goodyear Tires.

Your Goodyear Selected Dealer has tires made with SUPERTWIST in both Balloon and High-Pressure types.

CONGRATULATIONS COME FAST TO MINISTER OF IMMIGRATION

Peterborough's First Cabinet Minister is Generally Esteemed, Messages Show.

PARTY HONORED.

Mayor Turner Conveys Appreciation of Honor Bestowed on the City.

Hundreds of congratulations have poured into the offices here and in Ottawa of Hon. G. N. Gordon, who was on Saturday appointed Peterboro's first Cabinet Minister, and telegrams and letters continue to arrive hourly. Men and women in every walk of life and in every province in the Dominion have telegraphed, telephoned, or written to convey their good wishes and express their satisfaction with the choice Premier King made. Not all of them are of the Liberal party, but all agree that the Prime Minister made a happy choice in raising Mr. Gordon to new honors.

Party Is Honored.

Typical of the messages Mr. Gordon has received are these two, from the ends of the country:

"The Prime Minister in honoring you has honored the Liberal Party."

"Please accept congratulations as Minister of Immigration. The portfolio is probably the most important in the gift of the Premier, and the people of Peterboro and county are highly honored in having a Cabinet Minister represent them at Ottawa."

Part of the List.

Some of those who had extended their congratulations up to noon today were:

W. A. Coats, Montreal; Thomas Wren, Quebec; Duncan McDougall, Montreal; R. Ruddy, Whitby; Clair Jarvis, London; Mr. Cullen, Ottawa; Mrs. Genevieve Lipsett Skinner, Vancouver; W. A. Buchanan, editor Lethbridge Herald; A. B. Cameron, Pictou, N. S.; N. G. Guthrie, K.C., Ottawa; W. H. McGuire, Toronto; Pierre P. Casgrain, K.C., M.P., Montreal; Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, Ottawa; Leon Garneau, K.C., Montreal; Helen Doherty, Ottawa; A. E. Dyment, ex-president Canadian General Electric Co., and at present on the executive committee of the C.G.E., Toronto; Don Wilson, Ottawa; Joseph Archambault, Montreal; Charles Murphy, Ottawa; Lindsay J. McIntyre, Ottawa; Robert Harstone, Estevan, Sask.; Dorothy D. Workin, Toronto; J. G. Perdue, Bletchley; H. F. Sheritt, Ottawa; Thomas J. W. O'Connor, Toronto; J. C. Smith, Peterboro; Tom Calker; Mayor J. J. Turner, Peterboro; J. H. Burnham, Peterboro; Mrs. J. Harris McClellan, Peterboro.

Scores of telephone messages were received at Mr. Gordon's office on Saturday and to-day.

For the Citizens.

Mayor J. J. Turner wrote to Mr. Gordon as follows:

"For some days I have watched the press to learn just what position would fill in the Premier's Cabinet, and was extremely glad to learn of your appointment as Minister of Immigration, which position you will fill with credit to yourself and to the advantage of the whole Dominion.

"All citizens may not see eye to eye with you in your political views, but I believe I voice their sentiments when I say they are proud and glad of this appointment, which reflects credit on yourself and is an honor for Peterboro.

"May I extend best wishes for your success and express the hope this appointment is just the stepping stone to greater honors."

The Globe Speaks.

"The Hon. George N. Gordon, who assumes the portfolio of Minister of Immigration, has been Deputy Speaker of the Commons since the King administration came into power. Apart from any political prejudices, he is esteemed almost equally by all parties in the House. His promotion to Cabinet rank is the logical sequence of the commonsense and ability which he has shown as Deputy Speaker. He will take charge of the Department of Immigration in succession to the Hon. James A. Robb, who, for the past two years, has been filling the difficult and dual role of Minister of Immigration and Acting Minister of Finance."

VICTIMISATION BESCO ACCUSED

Discharge Clerks Who Refused to Do Maintenance Work During Strike.

PROTEST FORWARDED.

SYDNEY, N.S., Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— In connection with alleged discriminatory tactics on the part of the British Empire Steel Corporation in refusing to reemploy certain clerks and other members of the so-called official staff, who refused to do maintenance work at the colleries during the recent strike, a protest has been forwarded to Premier Rhodes and Hon. Mr. Harrington, Minister of Mines, by the convention of workers.

LESS EMIGRANTS COME TO STATES

Also Many Foreigners Are Returning to Their Own Countries.

FEWER ITALIANS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press). The new immigration law has reduced by approximately 68 per cent. the influx of foreigners to the United States, said an analysis of immigration statistics for 1924-25, made public to-day by the National Industrial Conference Board. The statement also showed that many nationals of foreign countries were leaving the United States for their home shores. Several countries, the report asserted, have not only failed to fill their quotos but the net immigration has been reduced by an emigration of aliens. The case of Italy was cited showing that 20,948 more nationals of that country left the United States than entered it during the year.

Italy also fell 10 per cent. of filling her quota of fewer than 4,000 a year.

FOSTER BONNE ENTENTE.

Lieut.-Governors of Seven Provinces Gather in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— Spencer Wood was the scene of a unique event last evening, when Lieut.-Governors from seven provinces and their wives gathered there as guests of Lieut.-Governor Perioteau and his daughter, Mrs. McKenna, and were entertained at dinner. Premier Taschereau, his Grace Mgr. Langlois, the Earl of Mar and Kellie and the Countess of Mar and Kellie, were also guests.

A garden party is planned for to-day and in the evening the government of the province is tendering a dinner at the parliamentary cafe. Conferences on questions of interest to the Dominion will be held at Spencerwood, all tending towards a bonne entente.

SCHOOL FAIRS TO BEGIN ON TUESDAY

Hope to Bring Millbrook Fair Up to Standard This Year.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 8.— Owing to the illness of the teacher, Miss B. Montgomery, the primary room at the Public school has not been re-opened this week. It is expected that Miss Montgomery will be able to take up her duties after Labor Day.

The rural school fairs for this district begin this week, being at Welcome, on Tuesday, Garden Hill Wednesday, September 9, Millbrook, Thursday, September 10, and Ida, Friday, the 11th inst. The series closes with the fair at Crooked Creek, on Tuesday, September 29.

For some good reason the school fair at Millbrook has, for several years past, been the poorest both as to number of exhibits and attendance, of any in the district. Last year the plan was tried of holding it the same day as the regular fair, but this proved practically a failure.

District Representative F. C. Paterson is very anxious to bring the Millbrook fair up to standard, and this year put it early in the series so it would not conflict with the fall fair later, and also arranged to have it on the Thursday half holiday. Unfortunately the date chosen is coincident with the one for the big Conservative rally at Bethany when the Honorable Arthur Meighen is to be one of the speakers, and this fact will in all likelihood lessen the attendance at the rural fair for the schools of the vicinity. The overlapping of the dates was done inadvertently, and apparently in neither case can now be changed.

WEDDING BELLS

The marriage of Miss Jean Donald Shand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Shand of Coldbrook, and Rev. W. E. Fuller, curate of St. Luke's church, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Fuller of Peterboro', Ont., was solemnized in St. Mary's church at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Rev. Canon R. P. McKim, rector of St. Luke's officiated and Rev. R. Taylor McKim, rector of St. Mary's church assisted. Many friends and relatives of the bride and groom attended and the church was beautifully decorated with palms and yellow and pink gladioli, making a charming setting for the ceremony. The combined surpliced choirs of St. Luke's and St. Mary's churches led the singing, and Mrs. R. Taylor McKim was the organist. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly gowned in a suit of old blue trimmed with grey squirrel. She wore a hat to match and carried a lovely bouquet of lilies of the valley and blue cornflowers. Little Miss Mary Prudence McKim, daughter of Rev. R. Taylor McKim, was flower girl. She wore a dress of pale blue crepe-de-chene with swansdown trimming, a bandeau of pink and blue in her hair, and carried a basket of pink and mauve sweet peas, with asparagus fern.

The combined choirs met the bride at the door of the church and preceded her up the aisle singing "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," During the ceremony and while the register was being signed there also were musical numbers.

Students Ushers.

The ushers were divinity students from Wycliffe College, Matthew Newby, Harold Alexander and Lawrence Pocock. Amongst those from outside the city who came to Saint John for the wedding were Miss L. S. M. Shand, Victorian Order Nurse at Belleville, Ont., sister of the bride, and Rev. J. T. Ibbot, assistant at St. Paul's church in Halifax.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller left on the 8.05 C. N. R. train for Toronto and other points in Ontario where they will spend their honeymoon. They will be away a month and will return to take up residence in St. Luke's parish.

Mr. Fuller, before he became curate of St. Luke's church, had spent one summer as a student assistant at St. Mary's church. Both bride and groom are very popular with a wide circle of friends and they received very many beautiful and costly gifts including a substantial check from relatives of the bride in Scotland.—St. John Telegram-Journal.

CARROLL—VEENMAN

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday morning at All Saints' Church, the Rev. J. D. Paterson officiating, when Violet, the second eldest daughter of A. C. Veenman, Patterson Street, became the bride of John Carroll, son of Mrs. Carroll, London, England. The bride was given away by her father, and was becomingly attired in an ensemble suit of sand wool crepe, with hat and shoes to match, and badger choker, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid, Miss Doris Veenman wore an ensemble of almond green, sable choker, and black velvet hat. The groom was assisted by Mr. Harry Lucas.

The gift to the bridesmaid was an ivory bracelet, studded with amethysts, and to the groomsman a gold eversharp pencil.

A buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride, after which the young couple left on a motor trip to the States. On their return they will reside in Peterboro'. Many beautiful and costly gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll.

GANDY—HAYES

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at Trinity Episcopalian Church, Rochester, N.Y., at 4.30, on Saturday afternoon, August 29, when Dorothy Hayes, youngest daughter of Mr. F. Hayes, 147 Stewart Street, became the bride of Wilfred Stephen Gandy, second son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Gandy, 558 Water Street City. The Rev. J. R. Lytle officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, and looked charming in a beautiful gown of henna silk canton crepe and picture hat to match, carrying a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. The couple were unattended.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Howell, to a number of the immediate relatives and friends.

The happy couple received many useful presents and telegrams of best wishes from friends in Peterboro'. On returning from their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gandy will reside at 125 Fulton Ave., Rochester N.Y., U.S.A.

WHITE—HOLMES.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday morning at seven o'clock in Knox church manse by Rev. M. C. MacKinnon, when Edna F. Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmes, Townsend street, became the bride of David White, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Zack White, of Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. White left on a motor trip for Detroit. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

OBITUARY.

MRS. W. DAVIS.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 8.—The funeral took place on Friday to the Lakefield Cemetery of Vera May Mitchell, wife of Mr. Wesley Davis, of Smith, and only daughter of Mr. Aubrey Mitchell, of Lakefield, at the age of 22 years. Mrs. Davis lived in Lakefield until her marriage, about three years ago, when she took up her residence in Smith Township. She is survivved by her husband, two young children, and her father, Mr. A. ELDERS INDUCTED Campbellford Church is Scene of Interesting Ceremony—Eight Chosen.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8. — In his sermon in St. Andrew's Church, Sunday morning, Rev. James Grier told his congregation that while he had nothing but respect for the system of government of other denominations, he was convinced that the one used by the Presbyterian Church was sciptual in every sense and that the Apostles had installed elders when the Christion Church was first organized.

Mr. Grier's discourse was introductory to the induction of eight elders recently elected to fill the vacancies created when nine members of the session went out with the Unionists. One of the members of the congregation chosen, W. S. Russell, passed away soon after the list of the elected was announced. Those inducted Sunday were: Robert Innis, Robert McCulloch, Thomas Campbell, Ernest Haig, Henry Hay, Allan G. Watson, James A. Massie and Charles McKelvie.

Paul Was an Elder.

Mr. Grier based his sermon on a verse taken from Paul's address to the early Christians, when he called the elders, the rulers of the church together, when he prayed with them after a parochial exhortation and then bade them good-bye. The words of the text were: Take heed, therefore, with yourselves, and to all the flock over which the Holy Ghost had made you overseers." Paul himself was an elder just as today a Presbyterian minister is an elder, those to whom he addressed the above words were elders, filling offices which the text indicated had been divinely instituted. The original word used to designate a bishop was the same as the one which meant an elder. Elders in the early ages were charged with the oversight of the spiritual affairs of the church, just as the members of a session are today.

The Induction.

Just as Rev. James Grier himself had done, when he was inducted into the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church a few weeks ago, the new elders reaffirmed their belief in the Confession of Faith and pledged themselves to support it as an expression of the Divine will. They also declared that they believed that the system of government of the Presbyterian Church, by elders, presbytery and general assembly was the one in accord with the Divine plan given effect when the foundation of the Christian Church was laid.

The elders in addition to the above, who will form the session and who assisted in the induction sermon Sunday, extending at the close the right hand of fellowship to their new associates are: James Allan, C. L. Owen, W. W. Clarke, J. A Anderson, George Mitchell, Wm. Cock and William Watson. Mr. Anderson is clerk of the session.

Special floral decorations had been provided by the ladies of the congregation and a large audience witnessed the impressive ceremony which marked the completion of the old order and the commencement of a new chapter in the history of St. Andrew's Church. W. G. Lucy presided at the organ in the absence of William Pearson, the regular organist, who is on his vacation.

DEGREE MEETING

Frankford Preceptory Exemplifies Degrees—Banquet and Social Gathering.

ORLAND, Sept. 8. — Brighton Royal Black Preceptory put on a degree meeting on Friday, inviting the degree team of Frankford Preceptory to exemplify the Apron and Blue and the Red Cross degrees. The work and slide views were excellent, and especially the historical lecture by Sir Kt. Garvey, which was much appreciated by the local members.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Frankford boys, which was nicely replied to by the Preceptor of Frankford.

A banquet was provided, and the meeting was closed about 12 p.m. with a pressing invitation from the Frankford Preceptory to Brighton Preceptory to be with them on a like occasion in their fine lodge room at Frankford.

Sir Kt. Stanton deserves great credit for arranging and carrying out these fraternal visits as it goes a long way towards acquainting the members with one another and lasting friendships are bound to be the outcome.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Let Your Conscience Rule Your Body

I was up to Madison, Wisconsin, to attend the funeral of Senator LaFollette. On the train coming home we stopped for a few minutes at a station where lunch was served. I had a sandwich and a piece of excellent apple pie. The middle-aged man who served me said the price was twenty-five cents and I laid down thirty-five. Rather sharply he said, "You misunderstood me; the bill is twenty-five cents." He picked up the quarter, leaving the dime on the counter. "You intended that as a tip, I suppose. I don't need it and won't take it. I get a good salary for my work and am in no need of charity."

I felt rebuked. You must confess the circumstances were unusual. Even now I feel it would have been more tactful for the man to take the money, and since he had no use for it to give it to some needy person.

But that man has an alert and ever watchful conscience. Whatever he undertakes, I have no doubt he does with all his heart and soul, with an eye single to his duty.

I am sorry the train whistle blew so soon. I wish I could have found out how the man takes care of his body and health. If he is so conscientitious in money and business matters, it should follow as a matter of course that he takes care of the temple of his body which has been given him to minister to during his earthly career.

It is too frequently the case that a man who is extremely devoted to business or to the interests of his employer, is wickedly negelectful of his own health. This is a foolish division of duty. You owe just as much to yourself as you do to your employer. You owe him loyalty, unstinted service, honest hours and watchful attention to his interests. Bu you owe yourself abundance of rest, sleep, recreation, good food, decent clothes and a respectable home.

A man who wilfully neglects to care for his health is just as sinful, as I see it, as the man who neglects the work he is paid to do. If a parent neglects the health of his child, or deliberately exposes others to disease, he can be arrested and haled to court. In the last analysis, isn't a man just a culpable who neglects himself and takes a reckless chance of getting disease?

I don't know, of course, but my lunch-room man might think I'm crazy to hold such ideas. Then, again, he might endorse this view. Of one thing, at least, I am morally certain—he would have a positive opinion of some sort and woudn't hesitate to express it.

Many of the diseases we have are traceable to neglect. Rheumatism and neuritis can be traced to bad teeth, tonsils or some other local disturbance. Colds and pneumonia are usually grafted on to a run down condition, plus undue exposure. Stomach and intestinal conditions are apt to have bad eating as a cause. Tuberculosis is fostered by bad housing and bad habits of living.

These are but a few of the many troubles which might be avoided. A conscientious person should give heed to such conditions, just as he would to business matters, or to the trade he follows.

Have you ever thought about the number of accidents due to recklessness, lack of caution and the exercise of plain common sense? Why tempt fate?

You should let your conscience be your guide in physical matters, as in moral concerns.

"THE LIMITED MAIL"

By ELMER E. VANCE

Novel by William Basil Courtney

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros.
"THE LIMITED MAIL" with Monte Blue, is a picturization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Bob, a young tramp, has prevented a terrible disaster by signalling the Limited as it was about to dash into a boulder on a trestle in Granite Gorge. Passengers and men of the train crew want to show their gratitude but Bob sullenly rejects their advances. Finally he accedes to the request of Jim Fowler, the mail clerk, to ride to Crater City in the mail car, helping him, en route, to assort the bags which were thrown into confusion when the train came to its sudden stop.

CHAPTER II—Continued

Jim and Bob, under kindred moods of fascination, leaned out of the half-opened doorway of the mail car and peered into the naked abyss which, like a black vampire, was couched immorally in her rockbed enjoying the ravishing caress of the gale.

"Listen to that wind," said Jim, awed. "The Old Witch is tearing her hair tonight, all right!—she's sore because we escaped, and she's promising to get us some other time."

After a tentative sideglance at Bob, in the manner of a shy man who wants to make sure his auditor is not the sort to laugh at a premonitory confidence Jim went on, while a bewildered shad, crossed his face.

"Do you know, this Gorge holds a sort of spell over me. I never cross it, fair weather or foul, without looking out and listening, for I've the queerest notion that it's saying 'I'll get you yet, Jim Fowler, I'll get you yet, Jim Fowler!' Every once in a while I have a nightmare in which the Old Witch chases me with a broom and sweeps me into the Gorge. I always wake up as I'm falling in. Funny, isn't it?"

Bob signified agreement by a grave nod. Then, as the soprano rattle of trestle rails underwheel was succeeded by the secure tenor of solid, ballasted right of way, Jim left his hunch behind with the Gorge, banged the car door shut, and turned to throw up his hands in dismay at the chaos of sacks and letters within the car.

In the corner farthest away from the work table Spike and Potts had made themselves smugly at home without ado, cleaning up the contents of Jim's supper can, to which he had bid them welcome. One fly in their ointment, however, was the constant and hostilely suspicious surveillance of the marine, who was annoyed because after a glance at Spike's face, when the tramps had entered the car in tow of Jim, he felt that it would not be safe for him to doze serenely as he customarily did throughout the trip.

Bob's less adaptable appetite had not survived the excitement of the night. Furthermore, he was rendered uncomfortably ill at ease by the balefully feudistic way in which Spike watched him, though he pretended not to notice it. Instead of food he politely asked Jim's leave to clean up at the wash basin that was in one corner of the car.

"Better wash the grit out of those cuts on your forehead," advised Jim, giving him soap and a clean towel. "You'll find some iodine in the compartment behind the mirror here."

Whatever little caste as a tramp Bob had, in Spike's eyes, was lost now as the latter saw him washing; and he leeringly drew Potts' attention to this unethical departure. But Potts, being a man of broader human experiences, merely shrugged with the air of a lenient inquisitor who disapproves but does not condemn.

Later, refreshed, Bob found time to study the lean, merry face of the mail clerk, and was conscious of an unaccountable liking for him. Bob noticed that even as Jim's flying fingers tossed letters, automatically into the yawning bags his eyes were devotedly glued to that portion of the wall over his sorting table where hung the picture of a comely young matron. This recalled to Bob what the mail clerk had hinted about—an "important reason" for wanting to arrive home on time. Resolved to make amends for his boorish indifference, he stepped to Jim's side and nodded with a friendly smile at the picture, "Your—?"

"My wife," said Jim with quick pride, in a low, intense, and passionately possessive voice that the others in the far end of the car could not hear. Something in Jim's voice told Bob that he had not finished, and though he nodded he waited for Jim to continue.

Jim, encouraged by the sudden change that a wash-up had worked in Bob, released on him a hot glance of gratitude that could not longer be denied expression.

"You see," he whispered happily, "why I was so grateful to you. Er-r—Bob—the fact is, I'm expecting to be a father before dawn—"

Then in a spontaneous moment, he added, "If our baby's a boy, I'm going to perpetuate the thanks my wife and I owe to you by calling him—Bob!"

It was such a sincere and unexpected compliment that Bob, caught off pose, became so sheepish, embarrassed, pleased, and upset all at once that he laughed outright.

"I'm sorry I didn't shake hands a while back," he declared honestly. "Will you shake now?"

Jim instantly gripped the extended hand.

"Now," asked Bob, "what can I do?"

"If you'll gather up those scattered letters from the floor and stack them on my table it will facilitate sorting," directed Jim.

Bob enjoyed a certain pleasant restfulness in the light work. For a while there was no sound withing the car save the sifting of envelopes in Jim's nimble fingers and the snores of Potts and Spike, who, according to the immemorial tradition of tramps, had followed food with sleep. Even the marine, seeing no reason now for being overfaithful to the spirit of his Corps on a stormy night in the remote Rockies, drowsed over memories of warm Caribbean beaches.

Such an atmosphere caught Bob unprepared for the letter he suddenly found in his hand, amongst the cluttered mass he had been retrieving from the swaying car floor. It was addressed to himself—his real self—at the Hotel in Salt Lake City where he had first gone, and where he had made his momentous decision to cast loose. Since its first futile destination, the letter had been cancelled and re-postmarked a half-dozen times; it, too, had become like him a derelict—an official mail tramp. There was no return address; but Bob knew the handwriting. It was from—her!

He was debating whether to slip it surreptitiously into his pocket for future reading, or to allow it to drift unclaimed in the mail sea, when he heard Jim's voice at his shoulder.

"Saw you looked puzzled. Need any help? Oh, that—it's been bobbing around this Division long enough." Jim took the letter from Bob's hand and pitched it into a compartment smaller than the rest, labelled "Dead Letters."

"No use fooling with it any longer. I guess the party must be dead."

"Yes, he's dead all right! And you've made it certain," muttered Bob.

"Beg pardon? What did you say, Wilson?"

"Oh—oh—nothing. Here—I've got to get a move on, or you'll be firing me." Bob laughed, with an attempt at lightness that he knew was lame. But it fooled Jim, who returned to his sorting with an unsuspecting smile.

Again—an interval of quiet within; and Bob lost himself in moody conjectures about the letter, while the Limited, on a straight and slight down grade, pounded along at full sixty miles per hour. Morse, the engineer, was paying back to a grudging schedule the time lost at the Gorge, and fighting withal to keep untarnished his reputation for bringing the Limited in on time, snow or rain, winter or summer, peace or tempest.

Thousands Have Banished Gray Hair with this Clean, Colorless Liquid

Make a Test of Kolor-Bak Today

People everywhere praise Kolor-Bak for its remarkable power to banish grayness. The results are really astonishing, for no matter what the original shade was, it quickly reappears when this clean, colorless liquid is used.

According to scientists, grayness comes when age, illness, shock or disease causes a lack in the normal supply of coloring matter furnished to the hair—but whatever the cause, Kolor-Bak soon brings back the former shade, and the shade is uniform throughout—no "dyed" or streaked appearance. Results appear quickly—often in a week. Kolor-Bak is the most satisfactory substitute for the natural pigmentation. It also removed dandruff, stops itching of the scalp and keeps the hair from falling out.

"My Hair Was Quite Gray"
"Only a short time ago my hair was quite gray. It was falling out. My scalp itched and dandruff appeared. Kolor-Bak stopped the itching, dandruff and falling. Most wonderful of all, however, is that my hair is its original shade. I look 10 years younger." (A typical letter)

If your hair has turned or is turning, do what thousands of others have done—let Kolor-Bak make your grayness a thing of the past. No need to supply samples of your hair as this one clean, colorless liquid is effective on any gray hair. Just ask for a bottle of Kolor-Bak. Money returned instantly if desired results do not appear.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Felts

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(United Press).—"Cutting a dash" by cutting a slash in the felt bonnet is the latest millinery craze. One rarely leaves the felt or velour bonnet in its original shape for hats must express originality if they are of the felt family.

An off-the-face model, for instance, is cut in scallops about the edge of the upturned brim. These scallops may be then bound in silver or gold leather binding or they may be left unbound. Both real and imitation leather binding, by the way, can be purchased at the ribbon departments nowadays. Besides scallops there are many other ways fo slashing and manipulating the brims of the felt or velour hat. Rear brims may be entirely cut away or, newer still, they may turn up abruptly, in which case the front brim is cut to suit the face of the wearer. Some women wear a wider front brim than others, but where the rear brim turns upwards the front is sure to turn slightly downwards.

One of the most novel brim treatments is used on the mannish felt hat. In this case the edge of the brim is hacked unevenly with a scissors to give the effect of a hat that is in the last stages of decay. The hacked edge is then scraped with the dull edge of the scissors until a frayed edge is achieved. One looks like a little vagabond in the hat but that seems to be the effect nowadays.

Tiny upturned front brims with no brims whatever in the rear are worn by many smartly dressed New Yorkers at present. Also large felts of poke shape, wide in front and at the sides, and cut short or with the brim upturned at the rear, are modish. For those who can wear large shaped hats, the large felt is a trifle newer and more flattering than the smaller shapes of which we see so much.

Freezing temperature of salt water is four degrees lower than that of fresh water.

In Belgium nearly all motorists carry emergency kits to be able to assist any injured person found along the way.

SOME PATRONS LEAVE ARTICLES; OTHERS TAKE HOTEL PROPERTY

Toilet Articles Most Often Left, Although Valuables Are Found.

SOUVENIR HUNTERS

Linen, Spoons, Wallpaper; Anything Will Do As a Memento.

Quite a variety of articles is left behind by tourists in the hotels of the country every year, and according to local proprietors the hotels in Peterborough are by no means exceptions to the general rule.

Hair brushes and razor strops are the articles most frequently listed as being left derelict by their owners. A pair of pyjamas is occasionally left in the room to testify to a hurried exit on the part of an occupant eager to catch a train or to make good time on the journey to the next stopping place. Sometimes a pair of slippers is found under the bed after the departure of the guest, or a pipe and tobacco pouch may be left on a chair by the beside, telling of a few whiffs enjoyed while the smoker was ensconced between the sheets. Fishermen who have come to the district to exercise their skill on the finny tribes of the Kawartha lakes, have been known to drive off in blissful forgetfulness of the fact that rod and line were securely laid away in the hotel they had just vacated. It is worthy of note that there is not a single case on record in which the angler has forgotten his catch. Guns have been left behind in the shooting season, overcoats in the winter, and keys in all seasons.

Now and then a traveller, after a night at the hotel, goes away, oblivious of the fact that the night before he had placed his purse under the pillow for greater safety. Needless to say, in such cases communication is quickly re-established with the hotel. At times a man goes away without his watch, or a woman leaves her ring. In one of the Peterborough hotels a valuable diamond ring was left in one of the bathrooms and was discovered after the guest had left, by another traveller, who immediately placed it in the hands of the manager, by whom it was restored to its absent-minded owner.

Some hotels do everything in their power to obviate the possibility of guests going away without part of their property. A small knob for the razor strop is often placed on the wall close to the washstand basin, where it is unlikely to be overlooked. Other hotels have a notice posted up in a conspicuous place bearing the words: "Are you sure you have forgotten nothing?" The consensus of opinion among hotel maangers is that the commercial traveller, by reason of his long experience on the road, is less prone to forget his goods than is any other kind of guest.

There is one thing that is sometimes left behind, which hotel proprietors look at with manifest aversion and which they would gladly return to thier former guest, if it were possible. That is—an unpaid bill.

All property found on the premises, whether of much or little value, is taken charge of by the manager of the hotel, who endeavors to notify the owner, or forwards the article to his address, if it is known.

On the other side of the ledger the hotels are sometimes the losers by the forgetfulness (and the presence of mind) of some of their visitors. Many travellers forget to return the key of the room in which they had slept; there are cases where a lamp and golbes have been deliberately taken from the hotel. Every hotel loses a number of towels each year. Theatrical parties, especially chorus girls, find the towels very useful in the dressing rooms. Carrying off rugs has been a form of amusement among certain kinds of motorists, and disgruntled patrons who considered themselves overcharged, have got even by helping themselves to table cloths or such fixtures as would be conveniently packed into a bag.

Then, there are some people who have queer ideas of what constitutes a hobby. No hotel manager cares to entertain a man whose ambition is to cut a small square of wall paper from every room in which he has slept while on tour—or the lady who wants a spoon or a piece of crockery as a souvenir from every hotel in which she has spent a day. A well known American society lady once achieved notoriety by giving a tea party at which all sorts of dishes were placed on the table, every one of them being a "souvenir" taken from a hotel in Europe or America!

NO BABIES BORN ON ISLES FOR 30 YEARS

Population of Japanese District is Rapidly Decreasing From Malaria.

TOKYO, Sept. 8.—The population of the Ryukyu Isands, which lie between Japan and Formosa, is rapidly dying off, declared S. Sakurai, a health officer of the Okinawa perfecture who attended the recent health conference in Tokyo. Malaria is blamed principally for the decrease. In eight villages of the Yaeyama group, it was said, not a single baby has been born for the last 30 years.

In Nozoko village, Mr. Sakurai said, one sick woman was the only inhabitant. In 1922 an appropriation of 10,000 yen was made by the government to combat malaria in the islands.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

WHEN A TYRANT RULES THE HOME ROOST.

Who's the head of your house?

Do you know?

A judge, sitting in a Western court, didn't know what to think of the question.

A man and his wife were brought into court because they didn't make their little boy go to school.

Father wanted the boy to go to work and Mother wanted him to go to school.

And the judge couldn't decide who was the head of the house and who was to blame.

I know a house where the little sixteen-year-old girl is the boss of the family.

Everything is regulated to please her.

She goes to parties at night. So; in the morning, Father sneaks downstairs to his breakfast as if there were an invalid in the house, and Mother won't let the younger children speak above a whisper because they might disturb "Sister."

Sister has her breakfast about eleven o'clock—oh, yes, it puts the family routine out of order; it makes the cook cross, and spoils the morning for Mother—but what does Sister care about that?

She must have her beauty sleep.

And Sister must have new dresses and new shoes, no matter whether there's any money in the bank or not.

Sister must go to hiking camps and Sister must have vacations and Sister must take swimming lessons and Sister decides when the automobile is so old-fashioned that there really has to be a new one. Six months is as long as Sister can endure the same make of car.

Sister says who shall come to dinner and who shan't. Why Sister even decides about what church Mother shall attend—and who Mother shall make friends with.

And Father and Mother are so proud of Sister that they don't know what to do.

If they could hear some of the things the neighbors say about Sister they might not be quite so proud.

I know another family where a baby six months old is the head of the house.

He rules the roost and he rules with the hand of a despot, too, let me tell you.

He has what he wants and when he wants it—whether it's good for him or good for anybody else or not.

And I heard the mother of the baby wondering the other day why some of her old friends seemed to want to drop her.

I know a man who's head of the house in his family, or he thinks he is. He bosses Mother and he nags the girls and he commands the son; he goes out into the kitchen and lectures the cook; he always knows just how many eggs there are in the house and what's in the ice box and what became of that piece of chocolate cake that ought to have been left from dinner—and his wife deceives him and his sons lie to him and his daughters make fun of him and the servants hate him and imitate him behind his back.

I know a woman who's the head of the house in her family.

She does it with a weak heart.

Whenever something happens that she doesn't like—she has a heart attack.

She gets new clothes and trips across the continent and a new dinner set every time she feels like it —or she has a heart attack and that settles it.

I saw her husband downtown having luncheon with a pretty girl the other day. The pretty girl looked as if she didn't know she had a heart.

What rubbish it is to try to "boss" another human being!

Why can't we let each other alone and live happily in some kind of decent harmony and not have any actual "head of the house" at all?

What do you think about it?

(Copyright, 1925.)

It is estimated that if throughout the world all of the water power sites were developed by hydro-electric generating stations the total capacity of all these hydro-electric plans would be approximately 453,000,000 horse power of electrical energy. Of this, North America would produce 66,000,000 horsepower; South America, 54,000,000; Europe, 57,000,000; Asia, 69,000,000; Africa, 190,000,000, and Oceania, 17,000,000 horse power.

"Is that CORN COMING BACK AGAIN?"

If you merely cut the top OFF it certainly will. The business end is the root. You must get it OUT.

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotions, etc., doesn't do any good. It may do great harm by causing infection or even blood poisoning.

Also it hurts and the root just sprouts right up again, so your corn soon has a brand new top on it bigger and more painful than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. Get at the little pointed part or core that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out. A good handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and callouses, like water softens soap. Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers, and out it will come root and all. The refined Reudel Bath Saltrates costs very little, and any druggist will have it. A half-pound or so is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

Obtainable at most drug stores for 50c. or direct from the distributors Macnamara Limited, New Birks Building, Montreal

MENUS FOR SMALL FAMILIES

Menu suggestions are always helpful, especially in catering for a small family of four people or less.

Breakfast.
Fruit in Season.
Cereal.
Poached Eggs on Toast.
Coffee.

Luncheon.
Hot Bouillon or Soup.
Fish, Meat or Vegetable Ramekins.
Crackers and Jam, Cocoa or Tea

Dinner.
Soup.
Chicken Pie, Vegetables,
Lettuce Salad.
Applesauce Pie, Coffee.

For breakfast fruit, oranges cut up or eaten from the skin, baked apples, stewed fruit, or orange marmalade will do. Cooked or uncooked cereal may be used according to taste. The poached eggs may be garnished with broiled bacon if they do not seem hearty enough without.

For the luncheon, there are excellent bouillon cubes that may be used if there is not time to make it fresh, or last night's soup may be reheated, or a quick cream soup may be used from a small can of corn, peas, beans or tomatoes, as foundation. Any left over from the dinner the day before can be converted into a ramekin dish if carefully made and nicely seasoned. Hot muffins are nice with the ramekins.

When the chicken is boiled for the pie the broth may be made into soup and still leave sufficient for the gravy needed in the pie. Boiled beets and cabbage boiled in half milk and half water, chopped, seasoned and served attractively, are good with the pie.

A plain lettuce salad with cream cheese balls and French dressing nearly every one likes. The applesauce pie should be made of a smooth, rather dry and well-flavored sauce not too sweet.

A short, thick, boiling chicken, young and fresh, weighing three and a half to four pounds, will make the pie and the soup.

The secret of attractive vegetable dishes is to vary their cookery. For instance, boiled beets with butter dressing today, sweet and sour beets to-morrow, beet salad, then beet soup. Change the position on the menu and service of this reliable vegetable so no one objects to its frequent appearance. There are so many ways of using the potato that one never tires of it. Markets in most localities are so well supplied with vegetables of different sorts that it is a good idea to make a vegetable dinner now and then take the place of meat. We also find that fish, well selected and nicely cooked, helps reduce the cost of living.

Late melons make most acceptable fruit desserts that save time and labor for the busy housewife. Home-made ice cream, made with a little vacuum freezer, makes a delicious Sunday dessert.

When Bakeday Comes Depend on Carnation

Uncertainties ruin many a milk dish through absolutely no fault of your own.

You want whole milk—you have only the skimmed milk left after you took the cream from the top; you should have two cups—you just have a cup and a half. Milk you thought fresh is just on the turn.

Why take those risks. Insure with Carnation Milk.

Carnation is just pure, fresh milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. Nothing is added. Some of the natural water is taken away—all the food value left in.

Get it from your grocer. Tall (16 oz.) cans or by the case of 48 cans.

Their Future

If your boy or girl could speak now with the wisdom of later years, they would ask above all else for education—for knowledge of a business or profession which would give them a fair chance in the keen competition for success.

You want your child to be equipped as others are; and perhaps you are working to that end.

Why Not

Make Your Plans Secure?

Why not provide, as many parents are now doing, that, "no matter what happens," your boy or girl will have a fair start in life?
Let us tell you how this is done through the new Canada Life

Educational Policy

This contract brings into existence a life insurance fund for educational expenses, to be held in trust at interest. This fund cannot be used or converted, except by you, but when your boy or girl is, say, eighteen years of age, it can be paid in any number of separate amounts required, six months apart, or in monthly cheques, to cover the vital years of training.

You can guarantee funds for those vital years of training—for your boy or girl.

You have probably thought this matter over many times. Here is a chance to do something—tangible, immediate—yet quite easy.
We will send a proposal giving more complete information. A request will place you under no obligation.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DORIS MEETS A QUEER LITTLE HEN

When Doris saw the little Mother Bird run across the roadway, followed by ten wee brown fluffy chicks, and disappear among the bushes, she crept up real close and peeked in.

It was a Mother Quail and her dear little family. Doris knew them for her Uncle Johnny had often hunted for Quail. The little Mother Hen looked all her babies over, then she began to call wildly.

"Come, come, come," she chirped, crouching down and covering the babies with her feathers. "Come, come, come."

Across the roadway scampered two more little fluffy balls and huddled under their Mother's feathers.

"Come, come, come," once more called Mother Quail, and two more fluffy little chicks came from behind a clump of bushes and joined their Mother.

She clucked and chirped several times very softly and soon the youngsters were all quiet.

"You might just as well come from behind that bush, Miss Doris," laughed Mother Quail. "I know you are there."

"Oh, you dear little Mother," laughed Doris. "Don't be afraid of me. I won't harm you or your babies. But tell me can you really and truly count?"

"Why, if you mean do I know when I have all my family together, I should say I do," chuckled Mother Quail. "It's a poor Mother that wouldn't know how many children she has," and Mother Quail laughed merrily.

"Don't Be Afraid of Me."

"At nesting time, I laid eighteen brilliant white eggs, and in order to fit them into the nest, I had to place them point down. I have eighteen little baby chicks and it keeps me busy keeping track of them. You know I have been pretty lucky with my nests. No one has ever disturbed my eggs."

"Well, that's fine," Doris laughed. "Some birds leave their nests if they are disturbed."

"So do we," chuckled Mother Quail. "My last nest was over in the fields. I found a lovely hole at the foot of an old stump. I lined it with leaves and grass. Daddy Quail helped me. That's one thing I must say for Daddy Quail. He loves to help me. Now along in May, I think it was I hatched my first brood and when I laid my second nestful of eggs, Daddy Quail took all the care of the youngsters. He hunted their food and taught them how to get their own meals. He is a lovely fellow."

There was a whirring sound and Doris looked up just as Daddy Quail soared above her head, and dropped down beside his wife.

"I just came from your house Doris," he chirped merrily, "and your Grandma is there."

"Oh goody, goody!" cried Doris, and bidding her new friends goodby, she hurried home. Sure enough, she found her Grandma sitting on her porch waiting for her.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.

A quiet day is presaged on the basis of the rather insignificant transits in operation both by lunar and mutual direction. In business things may be expected to move in routine grooves, but, because of an unfriendly place of Venus in aspect with Luna, domestic, social and affectional relations may develop along unpleasant or annoying lines, although the difficulty will be of minor consequence.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a quiet year, with events moving along in customary grooves. This concerns business, but in social, domestic and romantic affiliations there may be slight annoyance or inharmonies. A child born on this day is likely to have a retiring and studious nature and will doubtless have a rather quiet career, although much depends on the hour of its birth.

A GOOD FISHERMAN.

Miss Vic Walsh, Charlotte street, who spent the holiday at Chemong, captured two nice lunge, one an eight pounder and the other smaller. She was quite elated to-day over her catch.

Again we return to the flirting waxwings. They took all the white string and made a nest of that, mixed with pieces of spruce twigs.

How silly of them! I could watch them flying right to the nesting place, the streamers of white being quite easy to follow with the naked eye. Following their pathway through the air was needless, for their nest is more white than anything in the branches for many miles around these mountains, so we cannot help seeing it.

A flock of Bluejays appeared yesterday, gathering for the trip south. They are a hard lot to get close to, up here in the woods, for they yell and scream upon the first sign of my coming, scaring all the birds within three miles. Even some Shelldrake, or saw tooth ducks, or Mergansers, as they are known in books, were scared up from the lake yesterday, just because the Bluejays made such a telltale holler about my sneaking down the path. I wish they would mind their own business. And, after all, I suppose I am inconsistent for they were very much on the job when they saw me stealing down the path, all bent up like a jack-knife. The big bird-books all say that one must see exactly what the markings of the shelldrake are, then it is possible to tell what kind of a Merganser it is, and here the Bluejays go and give the show away and lead me astray too, for I weakened in my studies and took more fun out of seeing the what-not. ducks fly away, than I ever would have had out of knowing what sort they were.

When deep-dyed Ornithology,
Gets mixed with plain Birdology,
The Nature-lover gets alarmed,
And always runs away.

I'm weak in every ology,
But make no weak apology,
I'd sooner be by nature charmed,
Than work, when I play.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

By Temple Manning

WHEN THE ORANGE BLOSSOM FIRST BEDECKED A BRIDE

Although the modern bride very often prefers to say "I do" attired in tailored costume and then rush off to her honeymoon, there is still a large majority of brides who cherish the veil and the pomp of ceremony. To this portion of the feminine sex the orange blossom is as important an adjunct to the wedding as it was hundreds of years ago.

It is not known exactly when the custom of entwining orange blossoms in the bridal wreath was begun, but in America and England this is of comparative recent date. Like the fashions in dress which we adopt from the French, this practice came to us from that demonstrative nation, who, in turn, got it from the Spanish. Spanish senoritas, it is recorded, had long favored the orange blossom and had derived it from the Moors hundreds of years ago.

An old Spanish legend, however, gives a different account of its origin. The importation of the orange tree by the Moors caused a sensation in Spain, and it was the desire of every lord to obtain an offshoot from one of these trees. The French Ambassador, in particular, was especially anxious to get a slip in his possession. The gardener's daughter was aware of this, and one day she managed to get a slip which she sold to the Ambassador for an exorbitant price. She used this money for her dowry (which otherwise would have been nil) and was married shortly afterward.

On the occasion of her wedding she tied an orange blossom in her hair in recognition of her gratitude to the plant which had procured her happiness. According to the legend, this established the orange blossom as a symbol of marital happiness, and soon no Spanish wedding was performed unless the bride wore the flower of this exquisite plant.

Since the orange was introduced into Spain at a very early period by the Moors, the legend establishes the antiquity of the custom as far as that country is concerned. Many centuries elapsed, however, before it was spread over Europe. As late as the middle of the nineteenth century it was the practice for ladies to be married in hats or bonnets.

STREET NAMES

GLADSTONE STREET.

William Ewart Gladstone was born at Liverpool in 1809, of Scottish ancestry. He was educated at Eton and at Oxford University, and he commenced his political career as a Tory, representing Newark in 1834. Two years later he became a Cabinet Minister in the Government of Sir Robert Peel. But it was as a Liberal that Gladstone was destined to become famous. Along with Sir Robert Peel, he helped to abolish the Corn Laws. This cost him his seat at Newark, but he was soon in Parliament again as member for Oxford University. He served in successive Liberal administrations, being entrusrted with posts of increasing importance until he became Chancellor of the Exchequer and Liberal leader in the House of Commons. At the general election of 1868 he lost his seat, but was elected by another constituency and became Premier.

A series of much needed reforms soon justified the country in its choice of Gladstone to shape its policies. He carried through bills for the disestablishment of the Irish Church for the abolition of the purchase of commissions in the army, passed the Irish Land Act, the Ballot Act and the Scottish Education Act. Parliament was dissolved in 1874 and a Conservative Government came into being under Lord Beaconsfield. But Gladstone's influence was still a power in the land, and he became Premier again in 1880. In 1884 he carried through a measure which extended the franchise to all heads of households. A year later his party was ousted from office, only to come into power again after a short period in Opposition. His introduction of a bill to give a measure of Home Rule to Ireland precipitated one of the greatest political controversies in modern times. The bill failed to pass the Commons and the general election which followed unseated the Liberal party and led to the establishment of a Conservative Government with Lord Salisbury as Premier. Gladstone resumed authority once more in 1892; on account of advanced age and failing health he resigned on March 2, 1894. He died on May 19, 1898, being interred with a State funeral in Westminster Abbey.

MERCHANTS RETURN TO CAMPBELLFORD

Spiers Bros. Visited Many Important Cities in Eastern States.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8.—John K. and R. Spiers, who are in business on Front Street, have just returned from a trip to the United States, their absence extending over a period of three weeks, during which their store was closed.

Mr. John K. Spiers says that they visited Atlantic City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and other centres in the Eastern States. There seems to be no business depression over there although, in spite of the high protective tariff on woollen goods, the textile trade with the Americans is dull just as it is in Canada. The majority of the nation appeared to be on a holiday as Atlantic City and other summer resorts were filled to capacity. Money appeared to be no object with the American holiday seekers and exorbitant hotel rates have no terrors for them.

The Spiers Brothers were in Philadelphia the day armed bandits held up the street car which, under police escort, contained $16,000 with which to pay the employees. The bandits got away with the entire amount. They were dressed as railway guards and stopped the street car at a crossing. The rest was easy.

The brothers were interested in the vast business blocks in Philadelphia. Wannamakers is at present supposed to be one of the finest mercantile establishments in the United States, but the Gimbel Bros. are putting up, at a cost of $7,000,000 a store building that will eclipse the one that has held first place so long.

In Philadelphia the buildings which were used for the centennial celebration in 1896 are still standing, and will be opened again next year for the big exhibition that will be held then to celebrate another anniversary in the nation's history.

MAKING YOUR SKIN SILKY

MAKING YOUR SKIN SILKY

A smooth silky skin is the desire of every woman who values her beauty.

I wonder if you take every precaution possible to keep your skin as silky and lovely as you know how? There are so many small aids to this type of lovely skin that I want to mention a few of them to you.

In the first place, the things you eat have a very great effect on the texture of your skin. If you have unlovely bumps to mar the smoothness of your face, this may be a sign that you are eating too many things that contain fats and sugars. Cut down on these and see if you can notice an improvement.

Then, too, little hard chalky bumps are often the outcome of too much acid in the system. It may take a long time for these to disappear, once you have acquired them. But if you restrict your diet, so as to avoid all very acid foods, you should get rid of them. Pineapple is full of acid. Cucumbers are also to be avoided. If you are sure you have too much acid in your system you would do well to get your doctor's advice on a suitable diet.

A perfectly regulated digestion is the best guarantee of a smooth lovely skin. Exercise plus proper food should keep your digestion in order and your bowels working correctly. For those who need an occasional laxative, two tablespoonfuls of milk of magnesia, taken at night from time to time, will help. I know a skin specialist who prescribes this for her clients who want to improve the texture of their skin. But you should not take it often enough to become dependent upon it as a laxative.

Now, here is an excellent treatment to smooth the skin of your arms, which may have become rough and bumpy. First wash them with warm water and dry them thoroughly. Now take a Turkish towel and apply coarse kitchen salt to your arms, rubbing them vigorously. If your arms smart after a short period of this rubbing, soothe them with an application of cold cream. This smoothes the skin of your arms wonderfully. Many women have rough places on the outer side of their upper arms, probably because they neglect to dry their arms thoroughly here after they have washed them. The above treatment will smoothe your arms so hey appear at their best in your short-sleeved day frocks and your sleeveless evening gowns. If your elbows need smoothing, scrub them with warm water, soap and a good brush and then rub in cold cream at night.

WHAT CINDERELLA SAW

(From the San Francisco Bulletin.)

The story of Cinderella and the prince, and the pumpkin that turned into a coach, is a fairy tale. Fairy tales are those in which everything comes out well. In the latest news version, involving a Long Island millionaire and a poor Bohemian girl of uncertain age who he tried to adopt there has been much destruction of illusion and little salvage of the dignities, the adoption has been dissolved, and Cinderella declares that if she can't enter a convent she will marry a poor boy. Either course would tend to keep her pretty busy, and probably save her a great deal of trouble.

One thing, however, this Cinderella earned, and it would be worth while if she could become a missionary to youth and teach it to some of her feather-headed contemporaries. She says:

Browning began taking me around nights. It was mad fun at first. Then I got dizzy from lack of sleep and seeing too many things. You can't enjoy too much, I found out.

No, you can't enjoy too much. The ancient Greeks knew that, and they had never seen the chewing-gum signs and other bright lights on Broadway, nor sought surcharges of fevered pleasure in some gilded night club. The wisest of them concluded that moderation in all things was best—and that is one of the hardest things for youth to learn. In fact, age does not always get it, and a people must be very old and very wise before it can adopt it as a rule of conduct.

Epicurus knew that through the exercise of prudence life can be made to yield much pleasure, even happiness. But satiety is the pale, gray dawn of the morning after. If you would greet the sunrise with joy be careful what you do with the night. And the life of "Waltz Me Around Again Willie, Around, Around, Around," speedily grows more stale than the orator's phosphorescent mackerel in the moonlight.

Cinderella saw so much it made her dizzy—but not happy. But she saw one other thing: That it is easier to be dizzy than happy, and that there is a great difference between them.

Wealth adds to the wisdom of the wise and to the fol'y of fools.

YOUR GARDEN

PERENNIALS FOR SPECIAL PURPOSES

LONG HAIR WILL SOON BE STYLISH

Hairdresser Refuses, However, to Set Date for Return.

CHANGING NOW

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 2—(Canadian Press).—"Long hair will soon be in style again, though I cannot state even approximately the date at which it will begin to be a general fashion," said J. M. Perron of Toronto, secretary of the National Hairdressers' Association of Canada, speaking of proposed alterations in dressing of women's hair. "The change is taking place in England and France. It will be hard for the Canadian girls to grow used to the idea at first, and so they won't bother much about the kinds of ornament they will choose for their long locks, for some time yet. Among the wealthy people transformations will be very much worn. Having been abroad and having been in contact with people who know the profession thoroughly, I am safe in saying that in Canada we have as good hairdressers and workers as in any of the other countries. In Canadian hair dressing parlors I have seen graduates from schools of England, Belgium, France and the United States."

SPECIAL TABLE DECORATIONS

Hostesses who have small dining rooms and a small dining table are making use of the extra table tops for special occasions. Nearly all department stores carry the tops, round, square and oblong in shape, but where fancy shapes are desired a local carpenter is given the job of making them. For an engagement party, a heart-shaped top may be desired, for elaborate center decorations, an open circle or hollow square is used, and if one happens to entertain dignitaries of the church the top may be a Grecian cross in shape. As the tops are of plain wood they are not expensive.

The tendencey is toward simple decorations for the usual five courss dinner with flat ware laid for two courses and the relish only, the rest being added as required. The china used follows the color scheme where it is possible, unless a silver or modern glass service is used.

Many liberties may be taken with the fancy table tops and instead of the conventional linens, other coverings may be used. For instance, in using a heart-shaped table for an engagement party, the top may be covered with white satine then pink chiffon over it swirled in soft folds. A whorl of fern leaves under each service plate and a basket of pink roses in the center, silver candlesticks with pink candles, and a few fresh rose petals scattered over all the last minute, make a lovely table. A single rose beside each plate with the place card may be added.

For a Ma Jong dinner party, a square top can be used, or a large fan-shaped top. Cover with pumpkin linen, bordering the eighteen inch fall with black silhouette figures of Chinese children cut from silk, or of glazed paper that may be pasted on to the linen. In the center, form a lattice of narrow black ribbon three feet square and in the center place a black lacquer bowl filled with yellow pumpkin bossoms, of paper, or real yellow chrysanthemums. Black pottery candlesticks with yellow candles or yellow sticks with black candles may be used. A small yellow parchment roll fastened with black sealing wax and ribbons may serve as a place card and contain a recipe for a famous Chinese dish.

Fans may be used for souvenirs and tiny baskets of Chinese candles take the place of the usual bon bons. Black lacquer service plates and soup bowls complete the effect but are of course not a necessity.

JAPANESE CAUGHT ENTERING STATES

Authorities Believe They Have Nipped a Human Smuggling Plot.

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 8. (United Press.) — Six Japanese and a white marine engineer, L. T. Armour, are held here pending investigation of reports that the Orientals were smuggled into this country, contrary to the immigration laws.

Each Japanese had exactly $38 in cash and each carried a passport from Tokio to Havana.

A speed boat was found submerged in the harbor. In the vessel were found Japanese literature, rice and other provisions, which led the authorities to suspect that they had nipped a human smuggling plot.

Around The City.

A new form of diversion—that of throwing apples at passing motorists—has become popular among the boys in some sections of the city. Two of them got a rude shock last night, when an irate motorist who had been struck on the face by an over-ripe apple pursued them, and after taking their names, gave them a severe reprimand. Two very penitent youths gave their pledge that they would never offend again in a similar manner.

THE LAST DIP

By Eleanor Hope

The last vacation day and the last dip of the season. What a thrill! And with what regret does she enter the embrace of the waves for the last time! It's been a wonderful two weeks and she hates to go back to the dull grind of office routine. But—here's the secret! Love has enrolled her, and the regret of leaving is mitigated by the knowledge of the happy days to come with Him to whom she has given her heart. Her playtime has been so happy. Days filled with romance, nights of starlit wonder. Do you blame her for breathing a sigh of regret when she has to leave these scenes so filled with happiness?

ADVICE TO GIRLS
By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

My sweetheart's mother is coming to town. On being introduced to her, should I kiss her or not?

ONE WHO CARES

One Who Cares: It is difficult to have a set rule for introductions of this kind, my dear. How you should acknowledge an introduction of this sort is dictated not so much by convention as by individual temperament. I think it best, however, not to be too demonstrative until you are quite certain of your "welcome." If your mother-in-law-to-be is especially cordial and friendly upon meeting you, you can mold your conduct accordingly.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from your women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

SENATORS SHATTER THE HOPES OF CONNIE MACK BY WINNING HOLIDAY PAIR FROM ATHLETICS

MISTAKES COSTLY

Quakers Demoralized—Have Lost Twelve in Row—Pressed by Chisox.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 (Canadian Press).—Any lingering doubts that the banner of American League supremacy would perch atop the Washington stronghold for the second successive year was removed today when the Senators dealt two stunning blows to the Athletics, the team which until its sudden downfall fought a nip and tuck battle with the world's champions for the peak. Double defeat today by scores of 2 to 1 this morning and 7 to 6 this afternoon virtually eliminated the struggling Mackmen from the race. They are now nine full games behind the buoyant title-holders. Mathematically, they still have a chance to win in the month of campaigning that remains, but it will take something moving with the speed and destructive power of a typhoon to dislodge Bucky Harris and his gallant crew from the top.

A vast gathering of close to 70,000 fans—30,000 in the morning and a capacity turnout of 30,000 in the afternoon—came out to see the Athletics make their last ditch stand. They saw the home team put up a sensational fight for both games only to make costly mistakes at vital moments that tossed away chances of victory and shattered the last trace of Connie Mack's dream of his first pennant in eleven years.

Today's setbacks were the eleventh and twelfth straight sustained by the Athletics since they started crumbling in their last western invasion. They not only appear hopelessly out of the race, but face a strenuous tussle to retain even their hold on second place. Scores:

Ruth Returns.

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (Canadian Press).—The Red Sox topped the Yankees today, 5 to 1, bringing to an end the four game winning streak of the Hugmen.

Babe Ruth, who has made his peace with Manager Miller Huggins, was back in the lineup for the first time since his suspension and $5,000 fine. He was loudly cheered throughout the game, but failed to distinguish himself, fanning twice and making an error in left field. The best he could get was a single in four times at bat.

Howard Ehmke held the Hugmen to five hits, one of which was Gehrig's sixteenth homer of the year. Rain caused the postponement of the first game of a scheduled double-header. Score:

C.G.E. GIRLS WIN FROM KODAKS

Outclassed the Toronto Team and Piled Up 34 to 9 Score.

TORONTO, Sept. 7 — Saturday night's game in the Dominion championship tournament at the Exhibition was somewhat of a walk-away for the Peterboro C.G.E. team, defeating the Kodak team of Mount Dennis by a score of 34 to 0 in a game stopped in the eighth inning.

Kodaks were completely outclassed and although they played the worst game seen by their followers this season, they would have been no match for the winners at their best. Three Kodak pitchers were touched for 24 hits, including doubles, triples and three home runs. Miss Greenwood, the Kodak regular pitcher, was hit feely, and when injured by a foul tip from her own bat, was unable to finish the game. Misses Kirkpatrick and Gordon, who finished the game, could do nothing with the Peterboro batters. Kodak errors also helped the winners.

Miss M. Vincent, on the mound for the winners, pitched masterly ball, and allowed but seven scattered hits. She struck out 11 Kodak batters and issued seven bases on balls. She received good support from her team and helped her own cause when at bat by a single and a triple. The whole Peterboro team had safe hits, A. Vincent being the only one to get less than two safeties. Misses Todd, White and Forsythe hit home runs.

FRENCH TENNIS PAIR IN FINALS

Jean Barotra Defeated Gerald Patterson and Eliminated Australia for Davis Cup.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., September 8. — Canadian Press. — Two doughty sons of France yesterday won the right to challenge the United States for the Dwight F. Davis' Cup, symbol of the international tennis supremacy. The Tri-color representatives elimnated Australa from the competition and as a result will meet the United States team in the challenge round on the turf courts of the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Australia, winner of the American zone bracket, fell before the dazzling play of France, winner of the European zone tournament in the interzone final, 3 to 1. Jean Borotra, of France, Wimbledon champion in 1924, lifted the Tricolor to its place in the challenge round by scoring the third victory of the tournament for the nation when he stroked his way to a smashing victory over Gerald Patterson of Australia, on the wet grass courts of the West Side Tennis Club yesterday 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Previous to Monday France had scored one singles and one doubles victory in the tournament against Australia. Borotra's victory over Patterson yesterday elevated the Frenchmen to the challenge round without the formality of playing a fifth match.

In defeating Patterson and eliminating Australia, Borotra rose to heights he never before attained. Only in service did the Australian have an edge on his French rival and only by the accurate use of this offering was Patterson able to force the issue into four sets.

Despite Borotra's ability to handle his vicious service, Patterson scored 14 service aces in the match to but three or Borotra. Against an ordinary opponent the big Australian would have reaped a bag full of aces but the Frenchman's uncanny ability to meet that service held Patterson's average down to a minimum.

NINE RAYBESTOS ERRORS AIDED ADA'S SMELTERS

Deloro Won First Game by 7-6 at the Exhibition Park.

O.B.A.A. PLAYOFF

Visitors Stacked Up Four in First, But Were Overtaken in Eighth.

Four runs scored in the first inning before the Raybestos team got settled gave the Deloro nine an advantage on Saturday which the home team was unable to overcome, and the final score was 7 to 6 for the visitors. It was the first game of the O.B.A.A. Intermediate round between the two teams, who will meet again in Deloro on Wednesday.

Singles by Ada, Johnston and Quinn, with errors by H. Nicholls, Ranger, and Rogers, gave the visitors four tallies. As the game went along, with both teams putting men on the sacks, but being unable to score them, those four runs looked as big as a house.

In the seventh, the home team broke through the Deloro defence for two runs. McIntyre cracked a single through the box and stole second and third. Moore struck out and Leal took Batten's fly, but Ranger drew a walk and stole second. Rogers dropped a single back of short to score McIntyre and Ranger came in when Brown let the ball get by.

Umpire Missed Play.

The visitors pulled their lead up to four again in the eigth. Brown was safe when Ranger's throw pulled Corrin off the bag. Corrin tagged the runner, but the umpire missed the play. Regan's attempted sacrifice should have been a force, but Rogers threw badly to second, giving the runners an extra base. Hughes' fly to Ranger and Leal's drive to Duggan were good for sacrifices, the two runners scoring after the catches.

At the end of the eighth it was even-Stephens. O. Nichols hit a liner past Ada for three sacks, the finest hit of the game. Corrin hit over the first base sack for a single to score Nicholls. Leal walked Duggan and McIntyre. With the bases full Moore hit to Leal, forcing Corrin at the plate, but in his hurry to complete a double play Quinn threw to right field allowing Duggan and McIntyre to score and Moore to reach second. Batten sacrificed the pitcher to third and he scored on Ranger's hit to second.

H. Nicholls also singled, but Ranger was caught off second on a snap throw from Quinn.

With matters even, the visitors got busy. Schultz hit a high one to Duggan, but Johnston looped a hit to centre.

Moore tried to catch him off; but threw wild, giving him a base. Boudreau was hit. Quinn singled and the runners all took another base when McIntyre missed the ball, Johnston carrying over the winning run. Brown walked, filling the bases but Regan's tap to the box forced Boudreau and Hughes struck out. After H. Nicholls had flied to first and O. Nicholls to right field, Corrin singled but Ada took Duggan's long fly and the game was over. The nine at the bottom of the error column tells the whole story, as the Raybestos boys outhit the visitors 12 to 8. Slipshod fielding at critical moments caused the loss.

DROVE CAR 118 MILES AN HOUR

Bob McDonogh Covered 250 Miles in 2 Hrs., 6 Min., 54 Secs.

SPEEDWAY, ALTOONA, Pa., September 8. — Canadian Press. — Driving 250 miles at the terrific pace of 118 miles an hour without a single stop, young Bob McDonogh, the speed boy from the west coast, yesterday won the annual autumn automobile race classic on the Altoona speedway. His official time was 2 hours, 6 minutes, and 54 seconds.

Two days later Harry Hartz flashed across the line, taking second place. His time was 2 hours, 8 minutes and 12 seconds.

The veteran Earl Cooper, who gave the monster gathering of racing fans a sample of high speed during the final 50 miles of the grind, was third, 26 seconds behind Hartz. Fred Comer was fourth; Leon Duray fifth; Norman Batten sixth; "Red" Shaffer seventh, and Vic Spooner eighth, finished in the money.

Few thrills marked the gruelling contest, which was staged under a blazing sun. At the outset, the only car accident occurred, Jim Hill, getting his racer tuned up to take the starting flag from Fred Wagner, lost control for a moment. The roaring machine spun around on the grade of the bowl. But Jim quickly righted his car and was off, as the fans cheered.

Bennett Hill, favored to win the contest, led for 25 miles, but was forced out by engine trouble. McDonogh then lashed into the lead, and held it until the end.

NESTLETON WON IN SECOND GAME

Evened Up Durham League Series by Win at Millbrook.

SCORE WAS 8-4

MILLBROOK, Sept. 8. — The second game in the play-off for the championship for the north section of the North Durham League took place at the agricultural park here on Thursday evening, and resulted in a win for the Nestleton team, the score being 8-4.

The brand of ball put up by the local nine, at least, was not up to standard, and the onlookers were disappointed when their expectations for the home team fell so much below par.

The report which circulated about noon, that owing to wet weather the game would have to be postponed, lessened the attendance considerably. A number of Nestleton fans motored over and gave their team all possible encouragement.

Chalk and Rosevear, of Fort Hope, were umpires. The line-up was the same as for the game at Nestleton on Monday evening, with the exception that Ross Edmunds pitched for Millbrook, instead of Foster Russell, who fanned sixteen men in Monday's game, and that Howard Lancashire was back at his old place in the field. Having run a nail in his foot, Howard was unable to play at Nestleton.

Having won a game each it will be necessary to play off again, the date being as yet undecided. The winners of this section meet Weslayville to decide the Durham championship.

DOLLAR SYSTEM USED IN CANADA DUE TO ACCIDENT

Trade with Spanish Colonies, Using Dollars, Resulted in Change.

PIECES OF EIGHT

English Coins Were Rare in All Colonies Before Revolution.

In connection with the question of exchange and currency it will be of interest to know that the use of the dollar instead of the pound sterling in this country and in the United States was due to accident rather than design, though for the matter of that the form of currency peculiar to any country has usually been a matter of accident.

This is particularly noticeable in the case of our neighbors and ourselves, because the change came about while the American Colonies were still apparently contented under British rule, and pounds, shillings and pence the legal currency of the country.

In the early part of the eighteenth century the British coinage was in a wretched state, and silver was the standard of value, though gold was also in circulation. Silver as bullion had been rising in value, until the silver in the coins was worth more as metal than the coin itself. This caused the export of these coins in large numbers to other countries where it was profitable to melt them into bars, and sell the metal. There were severe penalties against the practice, but it was no moral crime, and the chances of profit in the business did the rest. What silver coins did remain were only worn with use, or chipped, and these with gold coins (gold was under, not over-valued), were the only coins in use. Naturally, with a shortage of coin in Great Britain the colonies were even worse off.

Used Spanish Dollars.

At that time the trade with the West Indies, which were largely under Spanish control, was the most important trade of the colonies outside that with Great Britain, and in this trade Spanish coins, largely dollars, were the chief medium of exchange. These dollars or pesos, were the old "pieces of eight" of which as boys we used to hear so much in our favorite literature. It was these that the old pirate computed the ransome of those who did not "walk the plank."

These coins came into general use in the colonies as a matter of convenience, and contracts, even those made by the Government, called for payment in the coin in such common use. In other words, they gradually became the fashion. The colonists still used the term shilling which was valued at so many to the dollar. This value was different in different colonies. In one it was six and a half, in another seven, and in New York eight to the dollar, hence the term York shilling or twelve and a half cents, which was often heard a few years ago. In California the dollar or peso of eight reals, was divided into four quarters which were generally known as "two bit" pieces. In the first stages of the gold boom the "two bit" piece was the smallest coin in circulation, and when the ten-cent piece was introduced it was known as the "short bit," and the balance the "long bit," in making change.

In Nova Scotia, which came under British rule before the fall of Quebec, a different standard was adopted of 5 shillings or 10 six pences to the dollar. They might, of course, have adopted the same standard as one of the colonies, but were like the "Mackays" in Noah's time, they wanted a boat of their own. This was the old Halifax currency, the ratio of which was $4.44 4/9 to the pound sterling. After the American revolution the feeling in the United States against Great Britain and all her works was so strong that there could have been no chance of copying even the terms of coins from that country and the decimal system was adopted.

In Canada we had become accustomed to the American system of dollars and cents and as we have always had closer trading relation with the United States than with Great Britain, we naturally adopted the system in most general use in the trade we saw most of, as a matter of convenience. —A.B.B.

BRIEF-CASE IS OUTDOOR GYM

Man Who Takes It Is Forced to Take Exercise, Whatever His Wishes.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

The brief case has at last found a supporter in a writer who declares that those who ridicule it are not aware that this humble instrument of industry is conferring physical benefits on those who tote it, is, in a way, an outdoor gymnasium in which the business man, willy nilly, takes exercise. That such is the fact was illustrated in a luncheon club the other day when two members, at first in a spirit of fun and then with intense earnestness, tested the strength of each other's grip in the fashion that was popular on the flat surface of the bar in the days when the cry "draw one" was still heard in the land.

Standing sidewise at a table and resting their gripped hands upright on it, each tried by combined strength of fingers, wrist and forearm to lay the other's hand flat on its back on the table. Bets were on the six-footer, big of wrists and thick of fingers. The five-footer, of slender wrist and fingers, seemed got to have a chance.

But he smiled and made no effort, apparently, while the other put forth all his strength without avail. The little chap's hand remained upright. Then he began to exert the pressure of his muscles, and slowly but nevertheless surely the big fellow's hand went over. In a trice it was flat.

Some wonderment was expressed at his victory. "I lug a brief-case around all day," he explained.

Life is not so short but there is always time enough for courtesy.

BOND HEAD ONCE A FLOURISHING PORT

Several Causes Contributed to Decay of Lake Shore Town.

Oliver Goldsmith would find material in Canada to work on. Along the shores of Lake Ontario there is an ancient wooden pier where the waves have washed through and are rapidly dismantling what was once a busy bit of wharfage. It is many decades since a boat tied up at the dock. Nearby summer cottagers run across other evidences of a former prosperity occasionally when they find a grassy hole that once was the cellar of a home. One of these cottagers is today building a fireplace from the stone foundation of an old mill. The spot was once the site of the flourishing lake port of Bond Head, whence many a cargo of barley was shipped for Americans posts across the lake. The McKinley tariff, the removal of the only nearby industry, the Massey-Harris Company, and the—to the town—unforutnate routing of the railways, have done their worst, and there is not even the ghost of a town left, although close at hand the village of Newcastle maintains a pretty front and a few old families.

STINGS OF WASPS RAISED BLISTERS

Broke Out on Victim Within Few Minutes of Attack.

QUESNEL, B.C., Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Covered almost from head to foot with blisters, which broke out on him three minutes after being stung on the hand and arm by black wasps, Hugh C. Lee, a commercial traveller, was forced to go into hospital here.

Examination showed the strings of one wasp had been inserted into a vein on Lee's arm, and the rapid circulation of the formic acid contained in the bee's sting had caused the outbreak of blisters.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Wood clubs should be of the same length. We commonly see players with a brassie an inch shorter than the driver, while for some reason golfers everywhere appear to have the notion that a spoon should be short. The only difference one wants in these woods is in the loft. When the shafts differ in length an entirely different swing is called for between driver and brassie shots, or brassie and spoon shots. The golfer does not want this because a brassie shot, following a drive, ought to be as nearly a repetition of the drive as it can possibly be. The same thing applies with the spoon. This rule is so true that many expert players now carry only two woods, the driver having a loft just between the straight-faced driver and the ordinary loft of a brassie, while the brassie is lofted about midway between the ordinary brassie and the spoon.

OIL STORAGE BYLAW

New Regulations Planned for City—Engineer and Fire Chief Consult.

A change is being contemplated in the city By-law which deals with the storage of oil within the city limits. The present By-law was passed in 1894, and is considered utterly inadequate to regulate present day conditions, as no restrictions are provided as to the place of storage. The new By-law which ill be drawn up following the receipt of a recommendation from the Fire Chief and the City Engineer, who are in conference on the subject, will define the areas wherein oil may be stored.

QUAKERS LOST TO THISTLES

Winners Were Pressed in Last Period But Held 3-2 Margin.

Quakers lost to the Thistles at the Oval Saturday by the score of 3 goals to 2. The game started 30 minutes late in a drizzle of rain. The Thistle, winning the spin for ends, Curtiss set the motion and a nice movement was frustrated by Anderson. Dawson received from Williams, his parting shot being wide. It was some little time before either goalkeeper got anything to do, midfield play being pretty much in evidence. Some nice play by Hutton ended in Browell being pulled up for offside. Montgomery was in evidence with his two handed clearances. End to end play followed until Richmond, getting the better of J. Willshaw in a tussle for possession, went in to open the scoring 30 minutes after the start.

From the kick-off, the Quakers made ground through Smith and was robbed in the act of shooting. Some midfield play followed and then came the equalising goal. It was a nice lob from 35 yards out by Buchan and beat Brown all ends up. At this stage the Quakers were the men who made the running, all down on the Thistle defence in a heap. A break away by Ward ended in a corner for Thistle, which when kicked the whistle sounded the half time. Thistle 1, Quakers 1.

After the interval the Thistle made the running on the right, but a fruitless corner was their only reward. Some nice work by Dawson and Richmond ended in the former putting the Thistle ahead, Montgomery having no chance.

Some nice work by T. Williams was spoiled by playing too close up to his forwards. A run and cross by Browell was mussed up by his inside men. Ward catching on, drove in a nice one for Montgomery to make a good clearance. Then came a third goal for the Thistle, Richmond being the scorer. A higher cross from the right, which Honor and Richmond made for, in the tackle Honor was hurt and had to retire for the remainder of the game, R. Willshaw falling back to the defence. With ten men the Quakers played up, but could not get past a steady defence. A melee in front of Quakers' goal ended in R. Willshaw handling in the penalty area. J. Wade took the kick, but Montgomery made a nice save, the ball going for a corner. A break-away by Browell and Dawson ended in Dawson trying to walk ball into the net instead of shooting. From the goal kick the Quakers went down with a rush and H. Curtiss found Brown on the spot to make a fine save.

The closing minutes were full of excitement. Smith of Quakers carried the ball down into the Thistle defence before parting to Gore, who drove goal-wards, the ball glancing off F. Wade out of Brown's reach in the net. Just on the call of time Gore almost scored again, Brown having to look lively to save a counter. The final whistle left the Jags winner by 3 goals to 2.

BRITISH PEER'S WIFE OWN COOK

Baroness, Living in Cottage, Can't Afford to Pay Servant's Wage.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Living in a small villa at Putney, a peer, whose wife does her own cooking because she "can't afford a cook," is pressing his claim to possessions of estates of some 400,000 acres in Scotland.

The peer is Baron Strathspey, brother of the late Earl of Seafield, who died in 1915 of wounds received in action near Ypres. Following the earl's death the family estates, in accordance with the will of the Dowager Countess Caroline, wife of the seventh earl of Seafield, passed in direct descent to the late earl's daughter, a girl of 19, who is now Countess of Seafield.

Lord Strathspey, however, claims that the estates, which include Castle Grant, at Grantown, Morayshire; Cullen House, Banffshire; Balmacaan, Inverness-shire; and a number of shooting boxes, should have been left to him. He contends that, at any rate, the portion of the lands belonging to the Clan Strathspey, and won by former chieftains by conquest.

Oldest Chieftain.

In the drawing-room of his modest villa at Putney, Baron Strathsped described himself as the oldest chieftain in Scotland.

The barons means are limited to £700 a year left him by the Dowager Countess Caroline. The early part of his life was spent in New Zealand, where he worked for three years in a lawyer's office and eight years in the Civil Service.

He married there, and has a daughter of 18, and a son of 13, both at boarding school in England. He returned to England in 1913, travelling steerage on account of his moderate income.

"It was the first time the estates had passed to a woman," he said, "although 150 years ago they passed through a female line, that of Margaret Ogilvie. I have approached the trustees of the estates for an explanation, but they will not give me one."

Workman's Cottage.

"Only the other day a lady friend said to be," remarked the baroness. "I don't know how you manage to live on £700 a year as Lady Strathspey.' She was right, and that is why I have to be my own cook. I simply can't afford to pay the wages cooks ask nowadays.

"And I can't afford to take my seat in the House of Lords regularly," added Lord Strathspey. "It takes both money and time to go there, and, of course, I cannot afford a motor-car.

"I think it is a disgrace," added the baroness, alluding to the small but neat and picturesque little villa in which she lives, "that we should have to live in a workman's cottage, with only three bedrooms, for which we have to pay £150 a year."

Lord Strathspey would be glad to add to his income, but says that as an overseas man he finds it difficult to find employment. "Titles are not wanted on the directorates of companies unless there is money also."

BIG DRAMATIC ROLE FOR COLLEEN MOORE.

Play Scores Great Success in "So Big," From Edna Ferber Novel.

"Big. Bigger. So-o- Big"!

That is how Colleen Moore, with a flourish of her arms, describes her ambitions for the future of her baby son in "So Big," her new First National picture, at the Royal Theatre.

Edna Ferber, who wrote the novel, has drawn a vivid word picture of the dream every mother builds about her son, and Miss Moore has given it an amazingly real visualization.

The story takes Colleen out of her erstwhile flapper characterizations, which won her fame in "Flaming Youth," "The Perfect Flapper" and others. It shows her as the wife of a poor truck farmer near Chicago a generation ago, wrestling on her ranch and knees with the weeds in a cabbage patch.

It is a surprising role for the young star and grows more surprising as, with the passage of years, she is seen slowly transforming into a middle-aged woman of poverty. Nothing could be more remote from the gay and giddy flapper of yore.

But the climatic surprise comes with the emotional heights to which the actress rises in the finals of her difficult role.

The baby has grown to manhood and stands at the portals of fame as an architect. It is then a designing woman enters his life and threatens him with disgrace.

The mother sees her one life aim, to which she has devoted years of slavery, imperilled, and she rushes to the rescue of her son. Confronting the woman and her husband, she battles them for her great ideal and finally wins back to the pathway of her ambition the baby she wants to become "so-o-o big."

Miss Moore has done nothing like this before, and it is doubtful if any other actress has ever portrayed a role as dramatic and as compelling.

First National has surrounded the star with an unusual cast, particularly for comedy relief. Included are Wallace Beery, in the role of a Dutch farm hand; Phyllis Haver, Ford Sterling, John Bowers, Bee Lyon, Jean Hersholt, Dot Farley and Gladys Brockwell.

Charles Brabin directed the picture, under the personal supervision of Earl Hudson, First National's production supervisor. "So Big" will continue at the Royal Theatre until Wednesday night.

"OH, DOCTOR!" IS DENNY'S LATEST.

Universal Pictures Corporation obtained a "corner" on some of the screen's finest character artists when it selected the cast to support Reginald Denny, star in "Oh, Doctor!" Universal-Jewel coming to the Royal Theatre next Thursday. The picture is the screen version of the celebrated Saturday Evening Post serial of the same name, written by Harry Leon Wilson, and was directed by Harry Pollard who directed Denny in "Sporting Youth," "The Reckless Age" and the first series of "The Leather Pushers."

"Oh, Doctor!" is the story of a young man who since childhood had been coddled and nursed and made to believe that only by the greatest care could he live. Through a series of humorous events the story emphasizes the manner of life he leads.

An aunt who has little patience with his fears endeavors to restore him to a normal condition of mind. Then comes the necessity of borrowing money enough to permit him to remain ill in luxury and to die in luxury. He will inherit a considerable fortune if he lives three years and after three old Shylocks have been convinced by specialists that he has nothing the matter with him, other than his mental attitude.

Mary Astor has the feminine lead in a cast of well-known favorites, which also includes Otis Harlan, William Mong, Tom Ricketts and Mike Donlin.

AT THE CAPITOL

MILTON SILLS IN "THE MAKING OF O'MALLEY"

The Capitol Theatre had a good crowd last night. Evidently the popularity of the veteran actor, Milton Sills, who made such a hit in "The Sea Hawk," and whose work in other pictures has ensured him a large and appreciative public, is still as persistent as ever.

It is a pretty story, "The Making of O'Malley." Although the action drags slightly in the beginning, the production speeds up later to a thrilling finish, with a good deal of the heart interest theme, centering about the devotion of Patrolman James Patrick O'Malley for the lovely Lucille Thayer and the little daughter of the jail-bird Danny the Dude. O'Malley is instrumental in sending Danny, a bootlegger, to prison, but he is also the guardian of Danny's daughter, and has her cured of a crippled condition while her father is in jail. Danny, however, does not know of the policeman's kindness, and he goes after O'Malley as soon as he gets his parole. The action is complicated further by the fact that Herbert Browne, a young society man, in love with Lucille, is the head of the gang of bootleggers who are defeating the ends of justice in O'Malley's district.

Milton Sills is as good as ever in his role as O'Malley, the policeman who is unnecessarily harsh in his administration of justice, and whose heart softens later through contact with the school children he is set to guard, and their young teacher, Lucille Thayer, played by Dorothy Mackaill. There is a good supporting cast and the interesting theme of the picture makes it appealing to its audiences. The raid on the liquor storehouse and the spectacular chase of the head of the gang by the patrolm make thrilling incidents.

There is a very funny comedy, "Soup to Nuts," with this picture, one of those whimsical affairs that depict impossible, but laughable, situations, with an old friend taking the place of Friend Husband, who enacts the role of butler in the meantime.

An entertaining portion of the programme is the introductory short section, with some new and very real bits from out of the way parts of the world.—Jeanette.

FACTS ABOUT THE MAKING OF "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS." At the Capitol Thursday.

After eight months of preparation production was started in desert locales duplicating Israel's exodus from Egypt and stay in the Sinaitic Wilderness. More than 2,500 people were used in the Biblical scenes of the story. Means were found to represent Israel's dryshod passage of the Red Sea and engulfing of the hosts of Pharaoh.

Among the engineering works accomplished were the Israelitish slave-built City of Rameses with twenty-four sphinxes and four colossi, also alongside it a modern Ten City with every public utility convenience to accommodate the working throngs; the conversion of the asphaltic bed of the Mojave dry lake into a racing ground for Pharaoh's chariots; the construction of the Sinaitic canyon where Moses read the tablets of the Law and where subsequently three thousand idolaters were consumed by Heaven's wrath for the worship of the Golden Calf.

On the next page will be found some account of the lost art of Egypt, the effects of which Mr. De Mille was enabled by the labors of Egyptologists to reproduce. Before the play opened in New York, an extremely interesting exhibition of the actual costume designs, models and ornaments was held at the Hotel Astor. It was attended by hundreds of courtiers, fashion designers, artists, illustrators and others professionally interested, as well as by the merely curious. In the wardrobe department of the production which these master models served, nearly 85,000 yards of cloth were made up into the clothing of the armies of people.

In the modern story advantage was taken of a great contemporary work of Cathedral building, the erection of the new and stately Sts. Peter's and Paul's in the city of San Francisco. Many of the scenes were filmed atop the nave or high in the spirework of the rising Cathedral, with the Golden Gate and the Bay as the backgrounds. Scenes of wild storm and havoc were secured on the ocean. Even Chinatown yielded new secrets for the foreign quarter episodes of the story.

AT THE GRAND

"WHITE CARGO."

Three years at Daly's Theatre, New York, two years at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, and two years at the Playhouse, London, are the record runs enjoyed by the sensational success, "White Cargo," which is coming to the Grand Friday, September 11.

"White Cargo" is a dramatization of Ida Vera Simonton's book "Hell's Playground," by Leon Gordon, depicts the white man's efforts to civilize the dark jungle country of the West Coast of Africa—few Americans when they ride in comfort in their autos seldom think of the heart-breaking efforts of the workers in this undeveloped land getting out the rubber which makes their auto tires; the play is frank in its situations and dialogue — portraying naught but the truth, and although it is sensational, the author has not tried to make it so, giving to the auditor the plain untarnished truth.

This country of damp rot, which not only rots the inanimate things but also the moral and mental fibre of the white men who try to conquer the jungle lands is faithfully presented to you with a vivid love story of the inter-relationship of the white man and native woman—the lonesomeness of the jungle — the ever-shining sun—the heat—all pictured with realism so startling that the newspaper critics have said "White Cargo" transplants its audience to Africa."

The company comprises an excellent cast of metropolitan artists amongst whom may be mentioned: Lawrence Keating, Milton Boyle, Willard Dashiell, James Ryan, Franklin George, Fred Hunt and John Henry.

The entire production is in keeping with the high standard set by Earl Carroll, the producer, and, unlike many theatrical managers, Mr. Carroll always retains his original casts on tour, so theatre-goers can be assured that when 'White Cargo' is presented here it will be in its original entirety.

GUY BROTHERS.

The old favourite entertainers, Guy Brothers' Minstrels — "ask dad, he knows"— paid a Labour Day visit to the Grand yesterday and pleased two large audiences with a snappy programme, in which the olio overshadowed the first part. Guy Brothers have been on the road for such a long period that their name is a household one in Canada and it was a pleasure to yesterday's audience to see the veteran, Geo. E. Guy, still with the company and as clever as ever with his bones solo, which made the usual hit.

The first part was not as pretentious as usual, although the musical numbers, particularly the songs of Clayton Gerald and of Mrs. Tom Mee, the lady baritone and interlocutor, were very effectively presented, and Charles Guy, Tom Mee, Al. Pinard and Mickey Arnold contributed some amusing comedy and clever dancing.

The olio was full of good acts. The Dewey brothers scored in an unusually clean cut juggling act, during which they kept the air filled with baseball bats, straw hats and other articles, La Barron, the elastic frog, in a splendid make-up, did some extraordinary contortionist stunts, and Al. Pinard offered a clever dancing specialty. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mee introduced a lot of good comedy in their number, and Clayton Gerald did an impersonation stunt that challenged the work of Ross Hamilton or Jock Holland. The dancing and singing finale, "Old Kentucky Home," was a fitting wind-up to a splendid programme.

AT THE REGENT

AUDIENCE CHEERS "CHARLEY'S AUNT."

When they say: "It's enough to make a cat laugh," they don't go quite far enough. "Charley's Aunt" with Syd Chaplin is more than enough to make a crab laugh—even those 'crabs' that never admit it was the picture that made them laugh, it was only that they were feeling good.

Yes, we say this without any reservations whatsoever — "Charley's Aunt" is the funniest motion picture we have ever seen. It is a clean, wholesome story whose great charm and appeal lie in the simplicity of its humor interpreted by a cast of comedians who have caught the spirit of the farce and have carried it through to an hilarious success.

The farce was originally produced in England 33 years ago, and has played continuously and in almost every known language ever since. As a screen farce however it far surpasses the stage version partly because the screen permits greater latitude in settings and largely because Syd Chaplin is by far the greatest comedy actor who ever assumed the title role.

Syd Chaplin has the soul of a true comedian. Every gesture, every lift of the eyebrows, evokes a humorous reaction from his audiences yet he seldom so much as smiles. The production, directed by Scott Sidney, to whom much credit is due, in addition to being beautiful, is so smooth and steady it seems actually to flow along. There are no raw edges, no unfinished corners.

The simple story of a college boy, who assumes the part of an elderly aunt in order to help his chums win the girls they love, is told in the straight from the shoulder manner, which is so delightful and refreshing. Without recourse to gags and by-plots the play attains a maximum of suspense and manages by some miracle to maintain the fullest share of comedy throughout every moment of the production. There is not a single slow moment of the production. There is not a single slow moment in the film even in the rare intervals when Chaplin himself is not on the screen.

James E. Page, Spettigue in the stage version for the past twelve years, gives a delightful performance in the film and is responsible for many of the hundreds of laughs which were collected last night.

SIR ROBT. FALCONER IS STUDENT TYPE

Never Studied Business Management to Run University.

Universities, so say certain writers, are becoming nothing more than big business concerns. They have a tremendous annual output. They operate on the lines of a commercial organization. University heads are nothing more than business executives. University heads should be, first of all, business executives, others insist.

In any case, there is a wholesale amount of sporadic clamor on the subject which will probably burst out anew when autumn comes with the annual crop of red leaves and green freshness.

Sir Robert Falconer, who presides over the University of Toronto, not Toronto University, and its five to six thousand disciples of learning, has written the story of his youthful beginnings for T.P.'s and Cassell's Weekly. As far as it is possible to judge, he never plunged into a course on business management, never studied efficiency as a disease and as a way to earn a living, does not delve into magazines dealing with sales resistance and super-production, and is unacquainted with the science of graphs.

"I do not remember that I had any of the wild ideas which characterize so many youngsters for a career," Sir Robert writes, "—engine-driving, circus-riding, etc. I was rather a staid and ordinary lad with taste for classics which I cultivated with some thought of devoting myself to teaching them."

Sir Robert seems to have been, by nature and inclination, a student type. He speaks of living in Trinidad as a small boy where he was greatly interested, first, in the Oxford and Cambridge masters under whom he studied, and, secondly, in the natural beauties and picturesque commerce of the island itself.

Judging by his article, the outstanding memories of Sir Robert's entire youth are his professors and his studies. All his reminiscences are linked up with them.

He speaks of Edinburgh and the professors there, of Leipzig and the professors there and of Berlin and Marburg and the professors there.

His references to the sugar, cacao and asphalt industries of Trinidad and the cattle-steamers of the Orinoco are the only points which indicate the faintest leaning toward things commercial.

So that either a number of people are hullabalooing about nothing at all or Sir Robert is unusual among university presidents.

And if he is somewhat similar to others, then one might say, if anyone cares to know, that university presidents are students who don't want to drive locomotives, grown up.

Wheat and Corn Values Rise Unexpected Climbs To-day

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — Both wheat and corn showed a decided trend upward today as soon as the market here opened. A reduction of more than 2,000,000 bushels of amount of wheat on ocean passage, together with an unexpected advance in quotations at Liverpool, was largely responsible for the action of wheat. Wheat opening prices 2-4c. to 3 1-4c. higher, Dec. 151 1-2 to 152, and May 155 1-2 to 156 5-8, were followed by something of a sag and then by a fresh advance.

Use Malaria As Cure For Locomotor Ataxia

(By Frederick Kuh, United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Sept. 8—Locomotor ataxia, the dread ailment which hampers the functions of locomotion, can be cured by malaria bacilli, according to The Munich Medical Weekly. This recognized journal reports that Dr. Bering injected bacilli into 23 persons suffering from locomotor ataxia and cured six of them, besides practically curing 13 others.

In the remaining cases the progress of the malady was halted.

Experiments on the Continent and in England have recently shown that malaria germs are efficacious in curing some forms of mental trouble.

The malaria germs create a fever condition which acts on the mental trouble and often cures it.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served to about forty guests at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were decorated with white streamers and bells of pink and mauve asters.

Mr. and Mrs. Church left later for a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a dress of sand crepe, with hat and coat to match. On their return they will reside on Edison avenue.

Many useful and beautiful gifts were received by the young people, the bride being remembered especially with a quantity of pretty china, the gift of the girl employees of the Bonner-Worth Company.

OBITUARY.

JAMES ROBERT WHATMAN

The death occurred yesterday of James Robert Whatman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Whatman, 406 Sherbrooke Street.

The funeral took place this afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery; Rev. Mr. Daw officiating.

MARMORA, Sept. 8.—Under True Blue auspices the funeral of the late Adam McGarvey took place on Friday afternoon. Members of Marmora L. T. B. 177 were joined by members of Sulphide L.T.B. 322 in paying their last respects to the deceased. Among the large number of mourners were no less than twenty-one lodge members. This was the first True Blue funeral for a long period of years that Marmora has seen.

The rector took the service at St. Paul's Church and the committal at the graveside. The special hymns were: "The Saints of God, their conflict past" and "Praise my soul, the King of Heaven." The Rev. P. Caiger-Watson based his address on "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." After the committal, the members of the Loyl True Blue Association gathered in a circle with linked arms, the ritual of the order being taken by W. Bro. W. J. Cottrell, Master of the Lodge, and Bro. Arthur Hart, acting chaplain. At its conclusion, each member dropped a piece of blue ribbon on the casket. The hymns, "Blest be the tie that binds" and "The Sweet By and By," were sung very softly and sweetly course of the ritual, deeply impressing those congregated at the graveside.

Out of town relatives attending the obsequies were Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGarvey and daughter, Aletha, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Mumby, and two children, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Mr. James Allan McGarvey, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Mrs. Annie Hamilton, of Toronto. FACTS ABOUT OPTOMETRY

The Prevalence Of Far-Sight

It is the opinion of Optometrists that this error of vision is more often met with than any other. And in addition to being so prevalent, it is very detrimental. It is present in all ages, the majority of children being to some extent far-sighted. There is but one way to correct far-sight—placing glasses before the eyes that remove the error. We have success in such cases.

Conservative Leader Opens His Attack on the King Government

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen Declares Present Administration is "Feeble and Futile" —Demands Statement of Premier's Proposals On Senate Reform.

BIG ISSUE IS TARIFF POLICY.

WINGHAM, Ont., Sept. 9 (By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—In a speech which was at one and the same time a reply to charges made by Premier Mackenzie King at North York and a declaration of the policy of the Conservative party on the major issues, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen today opened his election campaign. Mr. Meighen repeated his declaration, that the present Government "is feeble and futile," lacking in policy on the main problems of the day, and quite unable to carry on the business of the country in a successful manner.

The Conservative leader satirized that portion of the Prime Minister's speech in which Mr. King blamed him for being "the principal cause of the country's calamities."

"I make this statement in the hearing of thousands and I ask each of you if it is not absolutely true. Of the half million or more people who have left this Dominion to make their living during the regime of Mr. King there is not one human being of the lot of them who moved away from his home land because of any word of mine," Mr. Meighen asserts. "They went, practically every one of them, because they could not stay. They had to live and they went where work was to be found."

Tarriff Is the Issue

Once again the Conservative leader declared his belief that the great subject of the policy in Canada was the tariff policy. Mr. King had "flinched this issue," but this time the people of Canada are not going to be "befuddled by twisting and shifting practices of Mr. King." added Mr. Meighen, who continued to say that a sound and strong and definite protective policy is the only means by which we can live and prosper.

"In the matter of senate reform the government had not a single proposal which it dare make and until Mr. King told the country what he wants done with the senate or until he tells the country what he proposes to do, it is all moonshine to be talking about the supposed issue of Senate reform."

By the Government's railway policy, Canada is being mortgaged, Under Mr. King's government the debt of Canada on the national

ITALIAN GOVERNMENT DIRIGIBLE LENT TO AMUNDSEN FOR FLIGHT OF EXPLORATION TO NORTH POLE

Italy Will Share Honors of Flight as Italians Will Man Airship.

FLY NORSE FLAG.

Conditions of Agreement For Loan Have Not Been Made Public.

ROME, Sept. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Captain Roald Amundsen's next attempt to fly over the North Pole will be made in an Italian dirigible, it was confirmed to-day by the Commissariat of Aeronautics. The dirigible, the N-1, which has been ceded to the Norwegian explorer, expressly for the Polar flight, will be operated by an Italian crew.

The conditions of cession by the Italian Government have not been made public, but it is not believed that the explorer purchased the airship outright since Italy is to share in the honors of the flight by furnishing the crew. It is announced, however, that the dirigible will fly the Norwegian flag.

RED PLAN FOR BIG CENTRAL UNION WAS DEFEATED BY BRITISH LABOR

Motion to Invest Council With Unlimited Power in Calling Strikes Was Overwhelmingly Voted Down By Union Men.

CREATION WOULD MEAN GENERAL STRIKE.

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sept. 9 (United Press).—"Reds" in England's trade union movement were heavily defeated today in the Scarborough Trade Union Congress, when their plan to weld a great central union with almost unlimited power was killed, at least temporarily.

The motion to invest the General Council of the Congress with supreme powers in calling strikes was voted down 2,318,000 to 1,708,000.

Around this motion the Reds had centred their hopes. Had the General Council been given the desired authorities, the Radicals proposed to join the various branches of the English trade union movement into a central order.

From this main body, the "Reds" hoped to exercise their power and its creation would have meant probably that the "Red" leaders would have tried in the spring a general strike such as they advocated during the recent coal strike.

Maid Of Orleans Was Unquestionably a Medium A Very Great Medium, Too, Says Arthur Conan Doyle

(By Minott Saunders, United Press Staff Correspondent. Copyright, 1925, by United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Joan of Arc was "unquestionably a medium and a very great one," according to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, novelist-spiritualist.

Here for the International Congress of Spiritualists, Sir Arthur told the United Press in an exclusive interview, that there could no longer be any doubt that the martyred "Maid of Orleans" had astonishing ability in this realm.

"She had spells; she had visions; she heard mysterious voices," declared Sir Arthur. "She went into trances and she came out of them in a manner almost exactly identical with our own observations of the characteristics of modern day mediums.

"I bow in reverence to the memory of that great inspired medium, Joan of Arc, and other spiritualists should do the same. She had her limitations, as have our mediums. But John of Arc exceeded modern mediums by being able to turn her ability to very practical ends."

(Joan of Arc had a vision in which she was called to liberate France. Taking up this movement, she was subsequently burned at the stake by the English.)

"Any sane person must realize by now the truth of mediumship. The difficult thing is to explain it. It is to that end that we must bend our next and deepest efforts.

"Another interesting phase of spiritualism, is the great grip it has taken on the people of France. France has recently superseded England as the centre of interest in spiritualism and the study of its phenomena."

Some animals, especially dogs, were susceptible to spiritualistic influences, Sir Arthur said, pointing out that dogs often "whined" with fear when brought into a haunted house. "If a dog stares fixedly, it may be gazing at something you cannot see, something psychic."

SPANISH FORCES START MARCH ON KRIM'S CAPITAL

Landed After Dogged Resistance By Riffs at Alhucemas.

ADJIR LIFELESS.

City Shows Little Movement After Bombardment By Airplanes.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—(United Press). —The Spanish march on Abd-El-Krim's capital, Adjir, has begun. The French Foreign Office was informed to-day that Spanish forces which landed after a dogged bombardment, and in face of hardy Riffian resistance at Alhucemas Bay, started their march upon Krim's stronghold.

Little Life Shown.

FEZ, Morocco, Sept. 9.—(United Press).—Little signs of life are evident at Abd-El-Krim's Adjir headquarters since the French forces, aided by Americans, started Sunday to bombard the city, according to reports received here to-day. Several tons of explosives were hurled down on the city, while at Chechaouena and Taberrant other French birdmen were pounding in like fashion.

FOUR BUSINESS PLACES VISITED BY BUSY THUG

Gets $100 to Reward His Frantic Efforts in Many Attempts.

POLICE BUSY.

Manning Garage is Chief Victim in Currency Loss.

Some time last night a crook had a busy time in Peterboro as he attempted to establish a record for versatility, speed, deliberation, width of field, and inconsistency. His efforts were possibly crowned with success in all departments.

So far as is known at present, the Manning Garage on Brock Street was the chief loser, as nearly $100 was missing from the safe, which employees say was locked, being rifled without injury to the combination.

The Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Company on Aylmer Street found that a cheque, payable to J. N. Burt, amounting to $13.92, was missing.

The Duffus Garage was relieved of small change, amounting to nearly one dollar, which was in the cash drawer of the register, while the paint shop owned by Coleman on George Street was relieved of some twenty cents in copper which had been left on the top of the cash register.

While the total amount stolen is not large, there are several angles of the theft which are remarkable.

New Features.

At one place a cheque was taken, while at others they were scorned, although many were present. Copper coins were cleaned out of some tills,

ONTARIO'S FULL SHARE OF POWER FROM ST. LAWRENCE SCHEME WILL BE NEEDED BY 1935 REPORT SHOWS

Last Document Revised By Sir Adam Beck Presents Details of Project.

EXPANDING MARKET.

Published to Impress Public With Importance of Early Development.

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—(Canadian Press).—With reference to the proposed improvement of the international stretch of the St. Lawrence River for navigation and for the development of 1,600,000 horse-power of electrical power, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has just issued a volume which treats of the project in great detail.

This volume for the first time makes generally available for reference purposes the details of the three alternative proposals put forward by the Hydro Commission. One project contemplates all of the power being developed at the foot of the Long Sault; another contemplates the generation of part of the power near Morrisburg, and a third is similar to the second, but with the upper power house situated at Crysler Island. While the documentary character of the original 1921 report, with its plans, estimates of costs, discussion of relative flooding and other advantages and disadvantages, and treatment of the economic phase of the project, is carefully preserved in the present book, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has supplied additional material, bringing up to date such features as power supply statistics, total investments in plant for the supply of electricity to Ontario municipalities, electricity in relation to Canada's fuel problem and similar matters.

Market For Power.

Of especial interest is a comment which amplifies the discussion of market for the disposal of the 800,000 potential horsepower of St. Lawrence power which is owned by the Province of Ontario. The Commission reports that, in view of the rapidity with which the output of the Queenston-Chippawa development has been absorbed by the Niagara system, the St. Lawrence development will serve an area with a population of two and one-half million people in Ontario, instead of a substantially smaller population, as was provisionally assumed in 1921, when uncertainty with respect to the probable course of electrical demands following the close of the war constrained the Commission to exercise special conservatism in its estimates of growth. The report states:

"The Commission, in its report as submitted in 1921, assumed that an increase in per capita consumption

POLICE SEEKING UNKNOWN MEN

OTTAWA, Sept. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Miss Marjorie McQuaig, of Ottawa, is in hospital in a critical condition, suffering from injuries received early this morning when the automobile in which she was riding with Miss Ivy Merkel, Gordon Kenny and two unknown men, crashed into a telegraph pole. According to Miss Merkel, the two unknown men, for whom the police are searching, drove them home from Hull, where the trio had been spending the evening, and after the accident disappeared.

BIG GAS FIELD AT TILLSONBURG

Flow of More Than Million Cubic Feet in Latest Well Bored.

SEVERAL BIG WELLS.

TILLSONBURG, Sept. 9.—(Canadian Press).—A flow of more than a million cubic feet per day is reported from a gusher struck yesterday on the farm of Milton Campbell in South Middleton. The well was brought in by David G. Laur, who is drilling for the Medina Gas Company.

Seven holes have been sunk since early in 1924, and in every case gas has been struck at 160 feet. Five of the wells produced from 250 to 300 thousand feet a day, and the latest well is taken as a very definite indication that there is a large gas supply in this area.

Gas men are reported to have said that it is the biggest natural gas field in Western Ontario.

City Council Passes Street Paving Plans For Trinity Section

Gutters, Storm Drains and Curb Construction Will Provide Employment This Fall — Five Streets Benefit — Deputation From Church Asks for Improvement.

MANY BOUQUETS FEATURE MEETING

Last night's meeting of the City Council was a love fest. Congratulatory, laudatory, and appreciative resolutions were passed conveying kindly sentiments to Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Minister of Immigration; Alderman Roland Denne, President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board; and the Salvation Army Band; and Alderman Crowe had a good word to say for the Ladies' Softball Team because of honors won in Toronto. Business was transacted with a dispatch that must be record-breaking in its efficiency, and the universal spirit of good-will even extended to measures that are usually productive of heated dispute, but which last night were dealt with unanimously. The paving programme that has been in a nebulous state all summer was consolidated and adopted without a dissenting vote. A deputation from Trinity Church, asking for a widening of the sidewalk, was told by Mayor Turner that it comprised the most intelligent members and the most gifted orators that ever gathered in one petitioning body before his Council, and since their requests met with favorable attention, and are in a fair way to being granted this Fall the members reciprocate the opinion and appreciate the good fortune that projected them into a meeting that was bubbling over with good-will and harmony.

Five Streets Benefit.

The paving programme is decided insofar as the streets surrounding Trinity Church are concerned, and preparations will be proceeded with under the City Engineer this Fall. Dr. Morrison urged action in behalf of the Trustee Board of Trinity United Church, asking that the sidewalk be widened throughout the block formed by the Church, suggesting six or seven feet as a suitable width to accommodate the Sunday crowd there. Mr. Campbell said the matter had been discussed before, but the condition remains a menace, and he thought action should be taken immediately. Messrs. Adams and Kidd, and Dr. Neal also spoke in favor of an improvement, not as a matter of ornament but as a case of real necessity.

Alderman Green said the deputation merely emphasized the statements he made earlier in the year when Council was discussing paving.

After some discussion as to the best way of proceeding, a by-law was passed unanimously, providing from the paving of Simcoe from Reid to Rubidge; Scott from Reid to Rubidge; Reid from Hunter to Charlotte; Rubidge from Hunter to Charlotte; and Stewart from Hunter to Charlotte. It is understood that only the preliminary work will be done this year, the actual surfacing being left until next year, but it was pointed out that storm drains, gutters, and curbs may be built by day labor, supplying much needed employment in the fall season and giving the ground a chance to settle before the surface is laid. This preliminary construction work will be done under the supervision of the City Engineer.

Mr. Parsons outlined his proposals for the widening of the sidewalk where required, suggesting the addition of two feet of concrete. This will permit the construction of a three-line roadway. In the block

THREE VACANCIES REMAIN IN SENATE

Will Leave Conservatives a Majority of Eight.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Three senatorial vacancies yet remaining after the batch announced on Saturday will be filled very shortly.

A strong effort is being made by his friends to have Dr. John P. Molloy, former M.P. for Provencher, appointed to the Manitoba vacancy, created by the death of Senator Bradbury.

Delay in the appointment of the remaining senatorship in Ontario is understood to be due to difference of opinion whether it should go to Dr. Rankine or W. M. German, both members of the former parliament. The Ontario ministers, it is said, are not unanimous as to this selection.

The New Brunswick vacancy is left open. Hon. Walter Foster aspires to it more than to the cabinet. When these appointments are made, the party standing in the senate will be: Conservatives 52; Liberals 43; Progressives 1.

FRENCH EXPORTS EXCEED IMPORTS

Difference for July Was Nearly a Half Billion Francs.

Exports from France exceeded imports by 451 million francs during the month of July, according to figures compiled by the French Customs authorities, and transmitted to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York by its Foreign Information Service.

Exports for the month were 3,484,373,000 francs and imports were 3,033,549,000 francs. Exports show a decrease of 22,161,000 francs over the month of June, but are nearly 500,000,000 francs higher than for July, 1924. Imports are 42,306,000 francs higher than in June of this year, and roughly 33,000,000 francs lower than in July, 1924.

For the first seven months of 1925 France's favorable trade balance amounts to nearly three and a quarter billion francs.

PARK RESIDENTS TO BE TAXED FOR REFUSE DISPOSAL

Arrangements Made to Cover Collection of Garbage.

SPEED SIGNS

Will be Placed in Effort to Curb Mania for Fast Travelling.

The members of the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in the County Council Chamber, Peterboro', on Wednesday. All the members were present with Reeve Middleton in the chair.

A communication was received from Messrs. Harris & Boddy giving prices on various kinds of signs governing the speed limit of autos in Bridgenorth.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Dr. J. A. Morgan, M.H.O., W. J. Thompson and ". Hungerford waited on Council as a deputation representing the Chemong Park Association. Mr. Bradburn, whose remarks were corroborated by each of the others, addressed Council on the question of the great need of garbage collection, and collection and disposition of other refuse in Chemong Park. A caretaker would be appointed by and under the jurisdiction of the Chemong Park Association whose wages would be secured by a direct tax on the assessed values of all property within the confines of Chemong Park and adjacent property profiting by the convenience. Council promised favorable consideration.

Moved by Councillor Mann and seconded by Councillor Coons that the Reeve and Clerk interview the Township Solicitor in the matter of placing a direct tax on all the assessed property in Chemong Park for the purpose of paying for the collection and disposition of garbage and refuse in Chemong Park. Carried.

Moved by Deputy-reeve Simpson and seconded by Councillor Coons that Road Superintendent Thos. H. Graham arrange to have two speed limit signs placed in Bridgenorth at the intersection of the Chemong Road and Mud Lake Road, and at the intersection of Chemong Bridge Road and Mud Lake Road. Carried.

In the matter of Councillor Mann's request to have By-law No. 577 repealed, and to buy that portion of the East Communication Road between Mud Lake Road and the eighth concession line, the Reeve reported having interviewed the Township Solicitor who asked for further time in which to consider it.

Moved by Councillor Fitzgerald and seconded by Councillor Mann that a new polling sub-division be established in Smith township comprising all that part of the present polling sub-division No. 5, north of the 15th concession line and west of Lot 32 and Deer Bay, said polling sub-division to be known as Polling Sub-division No. 6 of Smith Township. Poll is to be taken at the Orange Hall, 16th concession, and said polling sub-division No. 6 is to come into existence after its first appearance in the voters' list. Carried.

By-law No. 827 was passed to levy the amounts required by the Trustees of the several school sections.

By-law No. 828 was passed to levy the rates of assessment for 1925.

Moved by Councillor Fitzgerald and seconded by Councillor H. D. Coons that the following accounts be paid: Reeve Middleton, telephone to Department of Highways, 70c; Peterboro' Milk Products per Mr. Monerief, $7.65; Harris & Boddy, supplying and printing two signs, $12.

Council adjourned to meet at call of the Reeve. —Percy T. Udy, Clerk.

Board of Health.

A meeting of the local Board of Health for Smith Township was held at Dr. J. A. Morgan's office on Wednesday. The following were present: Reeve J. A. Middleton, Deputy-reeve Geo. H. Simpson, Dr. Morgan, M.H.O., and Secretary Percy T. Udy.

Dr. Morgan reported no contagious diseases in the township.

The M.H.O. recommended that pit closets in Chemong Park be discontinued and box closets substituted therefore or still better, chemical closets properly cared for.

A deputation waited on Smith Council just previous to the meeting of the Board of Health asking for a garbage collection system for 1926 at Chemong Park. The deputation consisted of Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Dr. Morgan, M.H.O., W. J. Thompson and F. Hungerford. At the meeting of the Board of Health this suggestion met with the approval of the Board.

It was also recommended that schools, public places, or individuals contemplating the installation of septic tanks or chemical closets should first consult the M.O.H. for instructions as to proper installation.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

J. A. Middleton, Chairman. Percy T. Udy, Secretary.

SPLENDID SEASON FOR GRAND PATRONS

Many Fine Attractions To Visit Peterborough This Season.

Peterboro play-goers will be interested in learning that the policy of the Grand Opera House for the present season is to be confined to road shows and moving pictures will not be shown. The management is planning to give Peterboro the best of the travelling attractions, and already it has been successful in booking some splendid offerings. Among these is the sensational success, "White Cargo," which comes to the Grand on Friday night; "Abie's Irish Rose," the record-breaking comedy, "Blossom Time," the most tuneful of modern musical comedies, and other plays equally meritorious. Good stock companies such as the Mae Edwards players, who scored such a hit here last year, are included in the list, and the two soldier entertainers, The Originals in "Thumbs Up" and the Dumbells in "The Lucky Seven," are also booked. An exceptionally strong list of attractions is already assured and more will be added before long.

NEW POWER PLANT PROMISES QUICK INDUSTRIAL GROWTH FOR THE VILLAGE OF FRANKFORD

Canada Paperboard Company Will Enlarge Plant—May Make Newsprint.

CHEAPER POWER

Village Incorporated Only Four Years Ago Shows Remarkable Development.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

FRANKFORD, Sept. 8.—The already flourishing village of Frankford is on the eve of another industrial boom as ground has been broken for a new power house to be erected by the Quinte and Trent Power Company, which is in reality the Canada Paperboard Company that has plants in this village, in Campbellford and Montreal, the largest of which is located in Frankford. The new power house means a great deal for the future prosperity of this municipality. This means that the plant of the Canada Paperboard Company, the present industrial backbone of the village will be enlarged and that the residents will have cheap light for their homes and streets. The company that turns out pulp, paper boxes and beaverboard in large quantities, running night and day with an average of 185 men on its payroll also operates a power plant. Frankford claims to have lighting rates that will compare favorably with those of any municipality in Ontario and this cheap electricity is developed by a private corporation.

The New Power House.

The new power house, for the construction of which a Peterboro' firm has the contract, will cost over $200,000, and the building of it will give employment to a large number of men. The power plant which this same company is putting up in Campbellford, and the one in Frankford will call for an expenditure of $400,000 but the one at the latter place is the larger.

Ideal Relations.

The relations that exist between the Paperboard people and the village are ideal from an industrial standpoint. The taxpayers understand and appreciate what the plant means to their prosperity. C. A. Morris, a former Campbellford man, who is manager of the company, is a member of the village council. The company so far has had no fixed assessment but pays taxes on an assessed valuation of $140,000, nearly half that of the entire corporation, so that besides employing a number of men who with their families represent the population of an ordinary village, the company is the chief source of civic revenue.

Lighting Franchise.

The power used by the company has in part been produced in its own plant and the balance was purchased from the Hydro. The domestic and commercial lighting used in the village has been furnished by the Paperboard people, operating as the Frankford Lighting Company.

A short time ago this company was granted a new franchise, 10 years for lighting and 30 years for authority to erect and maintain poles in the village. In return they are to furnish lights for homes and business places and to maintain 62 street lights at an annual cost of $9 each. Beginning with the first of next year the streets of Frankford will be brightly illuminated. On all lighting charges, including that for the streets, there is to be a reduction of 10 per cent if the bills are paid before the twentieth of the month.

Expensive Power.

It has cost the Canada Paperbox Company $7 for power to produce a ton of pulp under its present arrangement with the Hydro for a supplemental supply. This cost made it impossible to compete with other pulp producers whose power charges were lower and it was stated that unless lower rates could be secured the company would be obliged to curtail its operations, turning out only sufficient pulp to supply its own box making department, and that none would be shipped to other manufacturers.

When the new power house is in operation it is estimated that the cost of electricity for manufacturing a ton of pulp will be reduced to $3. The villagers hope to see the day in no very distant future when the company will be turning out newsprint in addition to its other products. At all events the plant is to be expanded.

The Quinte and Trent Power Company has the use of the Government owned dam at this place free of charge by agreement made several years ago. It has also had a wooden dam of its own across a branch of the river. This structure has been torn out and will be replaced by one of cement.

Cost of Light.

Without going into technicalities a general statement may give some idea of the cost of domestic and commercial lighting in Frankford, the charge being the same for both. P. H. Counsal, who has 11 lights in his home, pays on an average 65 cents a month. G. W. Potter, with seven lights, paid 86 cents for March and April and 60 cents for May and June. The price per kilowatt hour have within the past few years been reduced over 20 per cent. There was formerly a charge of 75 cents for floor space but this has been abolished and the consumer pays only for what he actually uses. There is a sliding scale of charges, varying from 0.6 to 1.5 cents per kilowat according to the amount taken. Industries wanting power are supplied at the same rate.

Other Local Industries.

The canning factory, the largest in the district, is the only industry here that has a fixed assessment. The plant was destroyed by fire some years ag and the company was given this concession when the factory was rebuilt with about five times its former capacity.

The evaporator plant, closed for some years, is to be operated again this season, and owing to the heavy crop of fruits and vegetables both these plants will be run to capacity.

Four Years a Village.

For a municipality that has been incorporated as a village for less than four years Frankford has certainly made progress. It was given the status of a police village in 1870 but never availed itself of this authority. No trustees were elected and it remained a part of Sidney township until 1923.

Since that time a new school has been built at a cost of $60,000. There are at present five teachers in the public and two in the continuation department. The Council purchased the old school building from the School Board, and now rents the rooms, the investment yielding return of nine per cent a year. The balance to be paid on the new school is practically all the debenture debt of the village.

The tax rate here is 45½ mills on a total assessment of $330,000. Of every dollar raised in taxes 61 cents goes to support the schools, 28 cents to pay the county rate and 11 cents is expended on village affairs.

Patriotism That Counts.

Standing in the park which the village owns is a monument erected at a cost of $2,200 in memory of the young men of the district who went overseas during the war and never returned. The patriotism and gratitude of the people of Frankford was not confined to platitude alone. On the very day the armistice was signed at a Thanksgiving service held in the park contributions for a monument were called for and over $1100 was subscribed as fast as three men could write down the names. E. E. Ketcheson, village clerk and postmaster and captain of the local militia company, was one of the young men who enlisted and who was wounded in the service.

Large Shipping Point.

Frankford on the records of the C.N.R. its railway is rated as one of a group of five stations, from which is shipped the largest amount of freight between Toronto and Ottawa. Since 1917 upwards of 60 residences and places of business have been erected in the village, these including a $15,000 addition to the pulp mill and a rebuilt canning factory. Debentures issued by the Canada Paperboard Company have been sold locally at $5 and bear interest at the rate of seven per cent payable half yearly. The village has four churches, a library and every trade and profession is well represented so that it is not necessary to go outside for any goods or service.

PRESENTATION TO MISS B. M'NEIL

Cavan Women's Institute Has Pleasant Social Gathering to Honor Member.

CAVAN, Sept. 8.—A very pleasant social gathering was held on the lawn of Mr. J. Armstrong, Eighth Line, on Friday evening, when the Women's Institute of Cavan entertained in honor of Miss Bertha McNeil, who will, in a few days, leave for Guelph College where she intends to take a dietician's course.

Miss McNeil had been a most popular and efficient president of the Institute for three years. There were about one hundred present.

The weather was ideal for an outdoor gathering and all enjoyed it. The lawn was nicely fitted up with seats, chairs and tables and was well lighted with anterns.

Miss McNeil's sisters, with their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, Millbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McNeil, Janetville, were present as guests of the Institute.

A short programme was given, consisting of songs by Messrs. T. McCamus and C. Winslow, accompanied by Mrs. L. Winslow; piano instrumentals by Miss Kathleen Sutton, and a recitation by Miss Muriel Matchett.

The piano was placed at the hall door and the vocal part of the programme given outside.

Mr. R. S. Staples made an efficient chairman.

The address, signed by Mrs. F. M. Staples, president, and Mrs. D. J. Hunter, vice-president, expressed the good wishes of the ladies of the Institute and the hope that Miss McNeil would return.

OMEMEE W.M.S. HAD REGULAR MEETING

Large Number of Ladies Attended and Much Business Was Done.

OMEMEE, Sept. 9.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church was held in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon, and as this was the opening meeting of the fall term, it took the form of a rally day service. There were about thirty ladies present and several visitors. The President, Mrs. Rowland, presided and the Scripture reading and prayer was offered by Mrs. R. Poast.

The Secretary's report was given by Mrs. E. Bradburn, followed by a report from the Treasurer, Mrs. T. C. Ivory. The President here gave an opportunity for any fees to be paid or the receiving of any donations, and also reminded the ladies of the One-Cent-a-Day Band if any wished to contribute to the Treasurer, Miss Eva Race

The annual request for fruit was received from the Deaconess House, Toronto, and it was decided to send a case each to the House and the Fred. Victor Mission next month, as in previous years, the empty jars to be sent for at once.

A letter of appreciation was read by the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Widdis, from Miss A. Neil and Mrs. S. Henderson, following which a communication regarding the monthly letter used for the Watch Tower was received, and as this paper is now to be incorporated into the Missionary Outlook, it was decided to send for a copy of same for the remainder of the year, for the use of the Programme Committee.

After much discussion it was decided unanimously to hold the annual bazaar on the last Thursday in November.

Responses from the Watch Tower were then received with interest. After singing that rousing hymn, "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult," Mrs. S. T. Wilson read a letter, entitled "A Message From the President of the Board of Managers to the W.M.S. Auxiliaries of the United Church of Canada," which was full of enthusiasm. The devotional leaflet, entitled "The Importance of Individual Prayer Life," was given by Miss N. Rutherford.

Following these splendid papers, Mrs. Coad of Saskatoon, a former Omemee girl, gave a splendid impromptu talk, in which she first brought the unofficial greetings of the West to the society at home, and after congratulating the ladies on the interest displayed at the opening service, related a number of her experiences and many sights which were impressive to her on her recent trip to England, France, the battlefields, etc. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the speaker at the close of her pleasing remarks.

The meeting closed in the usual manner, after which a dainty lunch was served at small tables centred with roses, asters and mixed flowers by the hostesses, Mrs. R. Bradley, Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and Mrs. W. Henderson.

The hostesses for next month are Mrs. C. Ivory, Mrs. Charles Rutherford and Mrs. M. Wilson.

KNOX ORGAN RECITALS.

Charles Peaker Has Arranged Historical Series For This Season.

The Sunday evening programmes given monthly in Knox Church, which proved so popular last season, will shortly be resumed. For the coming series the organist, Charles Peaker, has been most fortunate in securing the assistance of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, Miss Edwina Palmer and Miss Agnes Logan, acknowledged leaders in their fields. With their help a historical series is projected, and further announcement of the opening programme will be made later.

LAYING PLANS FOR FAIR AT WARSAW

Special Prizes Have Been Offered for Pupils at School Fair.

WARSAW, Sept. 9.—The Trustees and School Teachers' Association held a meeting on Thursday evening last to complete plans for the Warsaw School Fair, to be held on September 29, in Mr. Watt's field. A band will be in attendance.

There are several special prizes offered. One, by the U.F.W.O., is for elocution. Five dollars is to be divided into three prizes for the best recitation, the pupils contesting to be twelve years of age or under.

The Agricultural Society is giving four prizes for marching, the prizes to go to the school. The first prize is $15.

The Teachers' and Trustees' Association is giving several extra prizes for calves and other live stock.

The Women's Institute will give a year's subscription to a boys' magazine, for the best boy driver, and the subscription to a girls' magazine for the best girl driver.

The teachers will hold another meeting on September 22.

The community picnic was held on Monday at Hiawtha. Over forty people went down. Lunch was served in the park; the ground was quite dry. All sat down in a big circle. There were games, including horse-shoe throwing and baseball. A very happy social afternoon was spent. The damp day kept several at home who had planned to go.

On Tuesday evening, September 15, Rev. Mr. Herrington plans to show pictures of "Beautiful Japan."

At the W. M. S. meeting last Thursday, it was decided to send a barrel of fruit to the Deaconess' Home in Toronto. Mrs. Foster is giving the barrel, and Mrs. Sargent will pack the jars. Those contributing are asked to leave their jars with Mrs. Sargent any time this month.

HURT WHILE HUNTING

Stirling Man Was Shot in Arm—Two Other Accidents.

STIRLING, Sept. 9.—Messrs. B. Bedford and George Wilson, of Anson, were duck hunting at the Trent River last week, and by some means when they were getting into the boat a gun was discharged, and most of the charge entered Mr. Bedford's leg. Two doctors were called to attend the injured man. At latest reports he is doing well.

Francis Jeffery was delivering grain for Rollins and Jeffery on Thursday last, and in trying to avoid injuring two fighting dogs on the street near the Anglican Church, turned quickly, and the truck slipped into the ditch at the roadside. The car was damaged, but Mr. Jeffery and the two boys with him escaped without being hurt.

Another slight accident occurred at the drug store corner yesterday about eleven o'clock, when two cars collided, and were each damaged slightly but the occupants escaped without injury.

RICE LAKE DUCKS FEW.

Water Still Too Warm, the Hunters Say.

BAILIEBORO, Sept. 9 — Although duck shooting season opened last Tuesday there are as yet very few ducks around Rice Lake. The hunters claim that the water has been too warm and that the ducks have been seeking cooler waters.

There have been several small flocks of black ducks noticed feeding near the Rice beds at the upper end of the lake, and W. D. Hibbard was successful in getting seven out of these flocks.

The holiday on Monday ybrought scores out from the city, and although the ducks were scarce they took plenty of enjoyment out of fishing.

WEDDING BELLS.

BAILEY—TRIPP.

CAMPBELLFORD, September 9.—Olive Hazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tripp, Grand Road, and Samuel Bailey, formerly of Stirling, and now of Detroit, son of the late G. I. and Mrs. Bailey, were quietly married on Tuesday afternoon at the Seymour parsonage, Rev. C. D. Daniel officiating. The bridesmaid was Miss Irene Tripp, sister of the bride, and the groom was supported by her brother Ormond Bailey of Toronto.

The bride wore a turquoise blue dress and carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. The wedding gifts, mostly of silver, were handsome and useful, the bride being a member of the most prominent of the younger society set.

After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey left by auto for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. They will proceed from the latter plaec to their home at 1171 Philip Avenue. The groom has a position with a prominent motor company in Detroit.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ELIZABETH NUGENT.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Nugent, widow of Samuel Nugent, was held on Wednesday afternoon, September 2nd, from the United Church, Lakefield, to the Lakefield Cemetery. The service was in charge of Rev. P. L. Jull and Rev. Kemp.

The late Mrs. Nugent, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Hatton, was born in Smith Township, where she resided until 16 years ago, when she moved to Lakefield. At the time of her death she was in her 78th year. She was a member of the Methodist Church, and was well known and highly respected in the village and vicinity.

Her husband, Samuel Nugent, predeceased her about six years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. Blewett, North Monaghan; Mrs. T. Waram, Peterboro, and Miss Ethel, at home, and one son, William, Lakefield.

The pallbearers were: W. H. Casement, Thomas Watson, Jacob Reid, Henry Smith, Samuel Spence and Robert Duff.

CITY COUNCIL

south of the church, where sidewalk traffic is not so heavy, the City Engineer proposes to build a curb two feet from the edge of the present sidewalk, and utilize the space between for a grass boulevard. The great advantage in this, he points out, besides its beautification of the street, will be the provision for a wider sweep at the corner, permitting free turning of automobiles and minimizing the intersection danger.

Protect Children.

Alderman Turner introduced a motion to provide for increased safety for children through preventing them from climbing high power wire carrying poles. He recalled the two fatalities in Toronto recently, in which the youthful victims climbed poles to release their kites and were electrocuted. It is proposed to write the Utilities Commission of Peterborough and the Hydro-Electric Commission asking their co-operation and suggestions. The Board of Education and the Separate School Board will be asked to assist through warning the children of the danger involved in tampering with these high power lines and in climbing poles of any kind.

Thank the Band.

Alderman Crowe paid tribute to the Salvation Army band for gratuitously completing the programme of the Peterborough Symphony Orchestra in the public parks of the city, remarking upon the musical ability of the organization. He moved a vote of thanks, which seconded by Alderman Greene, was unanimously passed.

On suggestion of Alderman Greene a committee was appointed to consider the band question and prepare during the winter for the next season's concerts. Alderman Crowe, Green and Turner were named.

Fire Chief Convention.

Alderman Greene moved the elimination of a clause in the Fire, Water and Light Committee's report, endorsing the attendance of the Fire Chief and the chairman of the committee, at the Fire Chief's convention. The appropriation is for $200.

Alderman Greene said he believes in conventions but the council is now scouring around for funds to do necessary work. Peterborough's fire department is to be congratulated on its high state of efficiency, and Ald. Greene could not see why it is necessary to spend funds on attending the convention.

Alderman Fife said the money was placed in the estimates for the convention, and the Chief's attendance at conventions is responsible in large measure for the efficiency to which he has brought the department.

Alderman Crowe said he could not see where the department can be improved. Last year Alderman Stocker and Alderman McIntyre with the Fire Chief, went to Buffalo, and he did not know of any improvements that had been made. Alderman Crowe complimented Alderman Jones on the success he is making in his administration of the department. He (Alderman Crowe) had no complaints to make.

The amendment to the report moved by Alderman Greene and Crowe, was lost, and the appropriation for the convention was passed.

Straighten Street.

R. C. Braund's communication asking for the straightening of Rubidge street at the south end was referred to the Board of Works. He pointed out the danger at this point because of the sharp turn and the narrow roadway.

Convention.

Notice was received of a tax conference of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada to be held in London, Ontario, on September 29 and 30 and October 1. No action was taken.

Notice was also received of the twelfth annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association to be held at Chateau Frontenac on September 22, 23 and 24. No action was taken.

The Union of Canadian Municipalities asked statistics of the accidents at railway crossings in the city in 1922, 1923 and 1924, with a view to obtaining greater protection. The Railway committee will attend to the request.

Wants Sidewalk.

J. H. Meharry, 42 Victoria avenue, applied for 50 feet of cement sidewalk in front of his house. His request was referred to the Board of Works.

Police Commission.

The City Council of Kitchener recited a resolution asking the opinion of other municipalities on the proposal to appeal to the legislature to amend the constitution of the Police Commission. It is proposed that the Magistrate be relieved of his duties on the commission and that his place be filled by a capable citizen. The constitution of the Police Commission would then be Judge, Mayor and a capable citizen.

The letter was referred to the legal committee.

Refit Market Hall

Ex-Alderman Walter Stocker, now market clerk, drew attention to the "deplorable condition of the equipment in the market hall and suggested a committee to inspect the chairs, tables and supports. Mr. Stocker thought some new chairs should be purchased.

Alderman Denne bore out his statement and thought the matter should be left to the property committee with power to act. It is not right, Alderman Denne said, to take toll from market users when only the present equipment is offered.

The property committee will look after the needs of the hall.

Want Bridge Repaired

Mr. Townsend asked for action in repairing Centre Street bridge and supply lights. He was supported by Mr. O'Toole and an examination was promised by the Board of Works.

There were present, Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen Denne, Jones, Turner, Fife, Meyers, Hancock, Crowe, Greene and Denne.

In 1850 mail from eastern states, mailed in September, reached California in March of the next year.

ELECTION OFFICIALS.

J. N. Stone Appoints Cobourg Registrars.

CAMPBELLFORD, September 9.—Returning Officer Stone has appointed J. D. Haig and R. A. Allan of Cobourg, registrars for that town. As Cobourg is the only municipality in the riding of Northumberland that has a population of over 5000, the voters in that place will be required to register.

Four registrars will be appointed in Campbellford, one for each polling sub-division, in a few days, and the work of preparing the list will proceed. One such official for every subdivision in the county will be appointed by the returning officer.

INSTITUTE MEETING

MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 8.—The Mount Pleasant Women's Institute held its September meeting on Wednesday at the beautiful new home of Mrs. Harry Bland. There were fourteen members present and two visitors. The president, Mrs. Ira Lowes was in the chair. It was decided to omit sending the donation of fruit to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, to a later date when the weather would be cooler. At the August meeting each member was asked to bring to the september meeting a suggestion as to the best method of spending the branche's share of the money which the district has on hand. Three of the suggestions were chosen and will be forwarded to the district secretary. It was also decided by motion that the secretary should write for a copy of a play entitled, "Mrs. Jones Entertains the Women's Institute" of which the Cookstown Women's Institute has copies printed for sale. This Institute put the play on at the Toronto Exhibition last year. A call for charity for a family in need, in the township was mentioned after the meeting adjourned, and will be brought up at the October meeting.

Mrs. Chester Best and Mrs. B. Morden were responsible for the programme, which was as follows:—

A splendid paper, "The Aim of Our Institute", by Mrs. Thos. Graham.

A duet (Instrumental) Mrs. Garnet Shield, Mrs. Josh. Eggleston.

A paper on "The Care and Planting of Bulbs," by Mrs. Chester Best.

A duet (vocal) Mrs. Thos. Jamieson and Mrs. Best.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostesses for the day: Mrs. Thos. Graham, Mrs. Geo. Jamieson, and a social half hour enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Jamieson onNov. 7th.

SENATOR BUCHANAN.

None of the Senate appointments announced by Premier King was received with more pleasure in Peterboro than that of Hon. W. A. Buchanan, editor and publisher of the Lethbridge (Alta.) Herald.

Senator Buchanan is a native son of Peterboro County, born in Fraserville, and was for five years, from 1893 to 1898, a member of the editorial staff of the Peterboro Review.

During that time he made a host of friends in this city and district, who have followed his distinguished public career with great interest.

To the Senate he brings a ripe experience in the political life of this country, and the advantage of having lived both in Eastern Canada and the newer West, and thus acquiring a national viewpoint on Canadian problems.

He has had, too, training in public life as a member of the Alberta Legislature and of the Provincial Cabinet, augmented by ten years in the Dominion Parliament.

Fitted by reason of his professional training and his political experience for the honourable position to which he has been appointed, "Billy" Buchanan, as his wide circle of friends here still call him, should be of most useful service to Canada as a member of the Upper Chamber.

NOT A SNIPING POST.

With the announcement of a general election there comes to many people an almost irresistible urge to discuss in communications to the press the issues of the day.

With that the Examiner has no particular fault to find.

It is well that the fullest opportunity should be given for public discussion of the campaign, and the Examiner is ready to allow its columns to be used, in reason, by those who believe they have something of value to impart.

The line must be drawn somewhere, however.

We do not propose to allow the Examiner to be used as a sniping post for those who want to fire from ambush upon their opponents.

In other words, there must be nothing anonymous about communications on political subjects intended for the "Voice of the People" column.

Letters legibly written and not of an exorbitant length will be given space, provided that the name of the writer is published with the letter.

No nom de plumes will be permitted.

Under these conditions communications in regard to the campaign will be published as soon after they have been received as is conveniently possible.

HON. W. S. FIELDING.

The departure from public life of Hon. W. S. Fielding, veteran Minister of Finance, has not—perhaps because it is only one of a chain of changes involved in the announcement of a general election—attracted the attention that it deserves.

Political foes and political friends have a common feeling that something has gone out of Canadian politics with Mr. Fielding that it will be almost impossible to replace.

To few men has it been given to serve their fellow-citizens as Mr. Fielding has served for over forty years in one public capacity or another, a service to which he gave all the best years of his life, and from which he has now retired with a reputation free from blemishes and a pocket-book as illy filled as when he first entered public life over four long decades ago.

It is not surprising that the Nova Scotian has held the affection and esteem of those with whom he was at variance politically as securely as he did the regards of his political colleagues and the members of his own party.

He has been honest, honourable, sincere, conscientious and patriotic in his attitude toward Canada's problems, and because of those qualities demonstrated so patently during his long stewardship he now passes off the public stage with the plaudits of a nation in his ears.

Would that the problems of this country were developing more Fieldings; they are sorely needed in Canada.

POLLUTED BATHING PLACES.

The reference made by Dr. A. W. McPherson, during his address to the Rotary Club yesterday, to the city's two bathing places involved a challenge to the City Council and the Board of Health that calls for attention.

Dr. McPherson, in effect, said that the water at the bathing beaches at Inverlea Park and Lake street was polluted sufficiently to be a menace to the health of bathers.

In fact, he declared that from the standpoint of health worse places could not have been chosen unless the beaches had been located below the entrance of the city's sewer into the Otonabee.

Peterboro has rightly spent large sums of money to provide the community with a safe supply of good drinking water.

But if the youngsters are to be exposed to the danger of intestinal diseases because of the polluted condition of the water at the city's bathing places, what has been gained?

It is a physical impossibility for a child to swim without taking in a mouthful or two of water—yet a reputable physician declares that when this happens at the city's bathing places the child is taking into his system water that is polluted with sewage.

That condition cannot be allowed to continue.

If the river is being contaminated with sewage the sources of that pollution can be found and can be stopped.

It is the duty of the City Council and of the Board of Health to locate and eliminate the things that are making the city's bathing places a source of danger to the hundreds who use them.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEE BOARDS.

The Township Clerks and Treasurers of Oxford County held a meeting last week and discussed Premier Ferguson's proposals for the township system of educational administration, says the Kingston Whig. The general opinion was in favor of the proposed legislation, one Township Treasurer insisting that the advancement made in rural education facilities had been achieved in spite of the present section system.

In Middlesex trustees and ratepayers opposed a township board, but expressed a willingness to cooperate with the Education Department in an effort for greater efficiency and economy in the various school sections they represented. The Canadian School Board Journal notes that in the opposition to the bill the rather remarkable thing is that there is no reference made to the child. There is little consideration given to whether in the small one-roomed school he is getting due value or not, or whether in the outlook the future citizen is being properly cared for. The strongest condemnation of the present system is that the women are not linked up with it, and the men are not intensely interested in the schooling of the pupils. Expense is a sore point, especially after having just had to accept a township road superintendent. They think the closing of the small schools savours of consolidation and that transportation of pupils would more than offset any saving. Local control is also desired; outsiders, they say, would not be as interested as the local board has, forgetting that every section would have a representative on the township board and a voice in the control of a larger area, and a wider outlook in education. Summed up, much of the opposition can be put down as an inherent dislike to disturbances that adjustments would make. But the new system will ultimately come. It works splendidly elsewhere and will do so in Ontario.

A bigger and better school with advantages of secondary education and the keeping of children at home are desirable things. The welfare of the children and the future of rural Ontario should be paramount considerations. Every parent loves his child and its education in suitable environment and under the very best auspices for development should be pondered over at this time. It must be the aim of all that the very best results be obtained for the generous sums that are spent for education. Let us get full value for our money. The reform will come if the question is thoughtfully threshed out from all angles.

A STRANGLEHOLD ON ANTHRACITE.

Students of contemporary history cannot help being struck by the remarkable fact that Canadians are showing no indications of alarm at the strike in the United States anthracite field. Hitherto when the recurrent labor troubles in this field have become acute something like a panic has seized upon Canadian households, and with good reason, for the hardships due to a short supply of American anthracite have been considerable. Conditions, however, have changed. Canada has been building up other sources of fuel supply. First, there has been a phenomenal development of hydro-electric energy, which has proportionately lessened dependence upon coal. Secondly, oil has become an increasing factor in the fuel supply. And lastly, Canada is now receiving a large share of its imports of anthracite from England, and is increasing its use of domestic coal for household purposes.

Due, doubtless, to the increasing use of alternative fuels, the people in the United States also appear to be less concerned over this strike than on previous occasions when the anthracite supply has been cut off. All the same, the situation created in the neighboring public is serious, and many Americans as well as Canadians have been inclined to wonder that President Coolidge sits quietly at Swampscott and is reported to be "unmoved" by the prospect before the country. The circumstance is explained by the Boston Transcript. "It is not quite clear," says our contemporary, "what the critics of the President expect him to do at this stage of the game. The mining of anthracite is a close monopoly in the State of Pennsylvania. Not a ton of hard coal of the same grade is found elsewhere, and the anthracite industry is so closely related to the welfare of the State that it pays royalties to the city of Philadelphia, while the State imposes a production tax, paid by consumers everywhere, the constitutionality of which has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States. The business is purely intrastate, the court has decided, consequently it is not subject to control in the slightest degree by the Federal Government.

"It is tied even more closely to the State by the practice that no man can qualify as a miner until he has worked for two years in the mines and received a license from the State. The word 'miner,' it should be understood, is technical. It does not mean any man that works in a coal mine, but, according to the statute of the State of Pennsylvania, only a person 'who cuts or blasts coal or rock at the face of a gangway, airway, breast, pillar, or other working-place; also any person engaged at general work in a mine, and qualified to do the work of a miner.' The law furthermore heavily penalizes any operator or mine foreman or superintendent that employs a person as a miner who does not hold a State certificate."

All of which startling information should stimulate Canadians to even greater exertions to make this country absolutely independent of United States anthracite.—Montreal Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

The Peterboro Industrial Exhibition will be out of the way before interest in the election gets at fever heat.

There may be enough campaign heat to make Canadians forget the coal strike.

Apparently Mr. King and Mr. Meighen have not changed their opinion of each other.

With fall fairs and political meetings following a good harvest, Ontario farmers will not be able to complain that their life is dull.

The Liberals and Conservatives of this district can agree on one policy at least—that of supporting the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition next week.

FEW CHANGES IN SCHOOL STAFFS

Lakefield Scholars Were Welcomed by Most of Former Teachers.

UNION SERVICES END

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 9.—The Public and High school re-opened on Tuesday, September 8 with practically the same staff as last year Miss Curtis of Havelock taking Miss Mason's place as French and English teacher in the High school. Mr. J. M. Simpson has been re-engaged as Principal and Miss Corkery as first assistant. Miss Corkery has been given a months sick leave and Mrs. J. C. Smith will supply during that time.

Miss Duff is principal of the Public school and Misses E. Kennedy, G. Simpson, M. Payne, O. Northcott and E Kidd are the other members of the staff.

The Woollen Committee of the Ladies' Aid of the United (Methodist) Church is having a lecture by Miss Northcott, returned missionary from China, illustrated with lantern slides, in the school roof of church on September 15 at 8 p.m. A musical programme will also be given.

On Sunday the congregations of the Methodist and Presbyterian United Churches discontinued their senior services, which they according to custom, had held during the summer, and resumed services each in their own building with Rev. S. A. Kemp in charge in the former church, and Rev. P. L. Jull in the latter.

The local soft ball team journeyed to Deer Bay on Friday evening to play a return game with the international team which is summering there. The game was exciting, but not very long, owing to the lack of daylight.

The regular September meeting of the District Council of the A.Y.P.A. of Peterborough and district will be held at St. Paul's church, Perrytown on Thursday evening of this week.

A THOUGHT.

WHAT DO YOU SEE OR CARE?

Goldenrod and purple star, these flowers of August, how fittingly these royal colors serve as symbols of the month named for the Roman Emperor Augustus, said to be one of the greatest rulers that ever lived. And the sun in its golden glory—how beautiful its light on yellowing fields, on stream and brook, and arrowlike as it penetrates a clump of trees by the side of the road.

What masterpieces of nature, what a feast for the eyes of man, what memories for the cold bleak days of rain and sleet! Or are you so intent upon getting from here to there that the old wis-wagon goes by like a flash, and all you see is the road beyond and all you care is "to get there" ahead of some other fellow?—The Silent Partner.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Total receipts of cattle for to-day's market were close upon 6,000 and of these nearly half were western stockers and feeders, with a sprinkling of killers. The Ontario cattle included a large proportion of unfinished grassers. In addition to the westerners in the market a large number are being received direct at the packing plants. Under such conditions the market found it very slow going today, and prices generally were lower, especially on medium and common stuff. Trade was very slow at the opening, and up to midday comparatively few cattle had gone over the scales.

Calves were slow and easier around $11.50 tops.

Lambs slow and 25c to 50c lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—There was some demand from New York exporting houses on the Montreal market today and bids of 15 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option were made for No. 1 Northern for September shipment, with sellers asking 16 cents per bushel over, and sales of No. 2 Northern en route were made at 17 1-2 cents per bushel over the October option, c.i.f. Montreal.

The trade in cash grain on spot was quiet, there being only sales of odd loads of Canadian Western No. 4 barley at 79 cents per bushel, c.i.f. and No. 1 feed oats at 6 3-4 cents per bushel over the October option, c.i.f. and 11 cents per bushel over was asked for No. 3 Western barley, c.i.f. There was also some demand for Ontario and Quebec oats and sales of car lots of No. 2 white were made at 49 1-4 cents, and No. 3 white at 48 1-4 cents per bushel, ex-track.

The tone of the winter wheat flour market remained firm under a steady demand and the small offerings owing to the fact that Ontario millers in most cases have sold their output for export account for the month of September and in consequence dealers claim that they can only secure odd cars.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were were well maintained under a steady demand. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was easier with sales $3.50 to $3.60 per bag of 90 lbs, delivered to the trade.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—There is little change to be noted in the egg market. Edmonton market is weak owing to heavier receipts during the week. An advance in price was noted in Halifax owing to higher quotations from source of supply. The sale is reported of a car of fresh firsts for Toronto at 33 cents, seconds 29, f.o.b. Winnipeg.

Toronto country shippers report a sharp falling off of receipts. They are paying extras 37, firsts 33, seconds 26, and making sales of extras 39, firsts 36, seconds 30, f.o.b. cases returned.

Montreal demand is good for fresh eggs. Jobbing extras 40, firsts 37, seconds 32.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—Stimulated by a big falling off in the amount of wheat on ocean passage and by reports of unwelcome rain in Canada, the wheat market today scored a sharp advance. Closing prices for wheat were firm, 1 7-8 to 2 3-8 cents net higher, December $1.52 1-2 to $1.52 5-8, and May $1.56 5-8 to $1.56 3-4. Corn finished unchanged to 1-4c lower; oats unchanged to 3-8c up, and provisions varying from the same as yesterday's close to 20 cents lower.

Initial impetus toward higher prices in the wheat market came from the announcement that supplies of wheat afloat on the ocean showed a decrease of more than 3,000,000 bushels, and were down to nearly 12,000,000 bushels less than the aggregate a year ago.

Highest prices of the day in the wheat market came just before the close and were associated with a report of widespread rains in Canada likely to interfere with harvest operations, as well as with shipments from farms. The late strength in prices was also ascribed partly to a good demand from Europe for Canadian wheat. It was estimated that Europe had purchased 700,000 bushels of wheat today, chiefly Canadian.

CURB SALES OF BUTTER

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—On the local curb market today there were 600 packages creamery butter and 3,000 boxes of cheese offered. Sales of No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter were made at 39 1-2 cents per lb, No. 1 creamery at 38 1-2c per lb., and the cheese sold at 21c per lb. delivered here.

ST. PASCAL BUTTER

ST. PASCAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—The offerings of butter on the board were 300 packages which sold at 38 1-4c per lb., showing an advance of 7-8c per lb. as compared with a week ago, and 150 boxes of cheese brought 20 1-32c per lb.

MONTREAL BUTTER AUCTION

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—At the Quebec Federated Co-operative Society auction sale of butter, held here today, the offerings were 2,000 packages, of which 500 packages No. 1 creamery sold at 38 3-4c per lb., and 39 3-8c per lb. was bid for 1,500 packages No. 1 pasteurized creamery, with 39 3-4c per lb. asked.

REJECTED CHEESE PRICE

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (Canadian Press).—At the United Dairymen Co-operative auction sale of Belleville cheese held here today there were 2,376 boxes offered for which 20 1-2c per lb. was bid for both the No. 1 white and colored, f.o.b. Belleville, and refused.

Blames Caverly.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The verdict in the case of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, co-kidnapers-murderers of Bobby Franks, was blamed by Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, for the kidnaping and killing of Mary Dale, six-year-old victim of Harrison Noel, in Montclair, N.J.

The statement was the first made by the prosecutor on the decision of Judge John R. Caverly, a year ago, when he imposed life sentences on the millionaires after they pleaded guilty to the crime.

Mr. Crowe said he believed that if Judge Caverly had decreed death, many other murders would not have been committed.

ONTARIO'S SHARE

per annum of 33 per cent. would take place in the ten-year period from 1921 to 1931. Recent records issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Dominion of Canada indicate that this percentage increase of per capita consumption per annum in the Province of Ontario was attained in about two years.

"At present, the judgment of the Commission is that it will be necessary to provide new sources of electrical power amounting to more than 400,000 horse-power by 1931, which would be increased to over 1,100,000 horse-power by 1936. Viewing the future power markets in the light of present information, it may be stated that if authority were immediately granted to develop the international portion of the St. Lawrence—by 1935 or 1936 the whole of Ontario's share of the St. Lawrence River power would probably be absorbed by the Ontario markets alone."

Approved By Beck.

According to Commissioner J. R. Cooke of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Sir Adam Beck, the late chairman of the Commission, whose recent demise occasioned profound regret in Ontario and throughout the Dominion, looked forward to the publication of this material for reference purposes with great interest, having finally passed upon the supplementary data only a short time before his death.

"Sir Adam Beck," states Commissioner Cooke, "made it his life work to ensure that the electrical requirements of the municipalities of Ontario should adequately be supplied, spent, even during his last illness, a great deal of his time in considering by what means the development of power from the St. Lawrence River might be expedited. During recent years, he never neglected any opportunity to impress upon the public the importance of early development of the River."

The Commission states that the edition of this report on St. Lawrence development is limited, due to the expense of publication, but it is intended to be placed on file in prominent public, university and other reference libraries, as well as in the reference files of certain organizations, and with public officials specially interested in the matters with which the report deals.

St Stimulate Interest.

In an explanatory preface, the Commission points out that the International Joint Commission had not printed the report submitted at its request, and assigns as a reason for its own issuance of the volume its "deep interest in doing everything possible to facilitate the development at the earliest possible date;" and states its belief that in publishing the report, "an important contribution to the problem under discussion will be available for the consideration of all who are interested in furthering the development of the St. Lawrence."

The book presents all of the documentary information, including thirteen colored plates which embody the results of the Commission's extensive surveys conducted since 1913 —submitted by the Ontario Commission in 1921 to the International Joint Commission during the hearings conducted by that body on instructions from the Governments of the Dominion of Canada and the United States, and supplementary material compiled by the Commission during recent years.

Conservatives Ready In Peterboro Riding

The Peterboro Conservative Association, President V. J. McElderry told the Examiner today, has been quietly preparing for the struggle that has been foreseen for some time. Much of the preliminary work was already finished when Premier King made his announcement on Saturday. The party is confident of the outcome of the election both here and elsewhere. The convention at which the candidate will be nominated will be held some time about the end of the present month.

POPULATION OF CAMPBELLFORD INCREASED 147 DURING YEAR, AND TOTAL ASSESSMENT IS $1,494,585

Trent Town's Inhabitants Now Number 3,217 in the Assessor's Returns.

MAKING PROGRESS.

Assessment Increase Last Year Was $99,090— Assessed Income $20,485.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9.—The population of Campbellford has increased by 147, and now stands at 3,217, according to the figures of Assessor Matt. Mulhearn, who has completed his work and turned in his roll to the Town Clerk. The total assessment on lands and buildings on which the taxes will be levied is $1,494,585, an increase of $99,090 over the assessed value of the town in 1924.

The total value of Government, municipal and school property, entirely exempt from taxation, is $136,350, the value of the school lands and buildings alone amounting to $136,250.

The assessed value of the churches with the attached lands, the convent and other property that are liable for local improvement taxes only is $58,700. The church lands are estimated at $7,800, and the buildings at $46,000.

Ward 4 is the most highly assessed of the four sub-divisions in the town, the total, including business and income assessment, being $455,075. Ward 1 is second on the list with a total of $421,885, Ward 2 third with 369,000, and Ward 3 fourth with $290,625.

Ward 4, which includes the plant of the Campbellford Cloth Company, and of the Canada Paperboard Company, has the highest business assessment, the total being $81,700.

It seems that Ward 2 is the home of the most opulent portion of the population as the income assessment in that sub-division is the highest, the total being $16,100. The income assessment of the entire town is $20,485, and the returns are not yet all in.

The substantial increase in the assessed value of property, due to the number of new houses that have been erected during the past year, and the growth in population, shows that Campbellford is making steady progress.

The canine population has grown from 131 to 152.

FRENCH PREPARE FOR OFFENSIVE

WILL USE POISON.

LONDON, Sept. 9. — (Canadian Press).—A Jerusalem despatch to the Daily Mail says it is reported that the French will have 25,000 troops in Syria by next week, ready to begin an offensive against the revolting Druse tribesmen. The despatch says that the French commanders in Syria have received orders from Paris to use poison to quell the rebellion.

Steamer Grounded Twice in St. Lawrence.

BROCKVILLE, September 9.—Canadian Press. — The passengers on the Steamer Riverside of the Holmes Brothers' line, staged a wild panic and donned life preservers when the craft passing through the Canadian Channel of the St. Lawrence, inside Grenadier Island, grounded twice in rapid succession owing to the very low water. At no time, however, was the boat or its passengers in any danger.

OLD RESIDENT TO LEAVE TOWN

A. J. Jenkins Has Lived in Campbellford For Twenty-one Years.

POPULAR CITIZEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9. — General regret was expressed in town Tuesday when it was learned that A. J. Jenkins had severed his connection with the Campbellford Cloth Company, and would probably leave town. Mr. Jenkins has been a popular resident of Campbellford for the past 21 years, coming here in 1904 to take a position in the office of the woollen mill, rising to the position of chief accountant. He has been a useful and public-spirited citizen, chairman of the Public Library Board and one of the pillars of Christ Church in which he held the position of lay reader, taking the services during the absence of the rector on his vacation or for any other reason. He was popular with his associates in the mill, and with all classes in the community.

Mr. Jenkins has not made plans for the future.

BRITONS VEXED BY COMMUNISTS

Indignant Over Attempt to Insult Princess Mary at Rotherham.

ACTION PLANNED.

LONDON, September 9. — Report has it that the British government has taken the offensive to check increasing activities of the Communists within its territories by ordering the arrest of agitators concerned in plots to spread propaganda among the members of the army and navy.

The action the home office which has impressed Scotland Yard into the service, is said to follow reports received during the past several weeks that agitators have been making rapid headway in Great Britain, carrying on propaganda in army centres, particularly at Aldershot and in the navy yards and at shipping centres.

Monday at Rotherham a band of Communists gathered in the public square for the purpose of insulting Princess Mary and her husband and the members of the royal party accompanying the princess, who inaugurated a hospital. The temerity of the communists in working so openly incensed the people who broke up their meeting, tore up the banners and chased them from the streets before the princess arrived.

Scotland Yard is reported to have handed the home secretary evidence of an alarming spread of communism work since the late Labor government Ramsay MacDonald removed the restrictions against the entry of Russians into Great Britain.

FATHER BLAMED FOR LIBERTY OF INSANE SLAYER

Assumed Responsibility For Son's Actions When Released From Asylum.

TO HOLD INQUIRY.

Youth Raced Home From Crime and "Tortured" Piano.

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 9.—Should Harrison Noel, confessed slayer of Mary Daly, 6 years old, and Raymond Pierce, colored taxicab chauffeur, be saved from trial by a plea of insanity, the action will have to originate with the defence.

A conference of prosecutors yesterday decided that the State would make no motion for a medical examination of Noel.

The 20-year-old kidnapper and confessed slayer of Mary Daly, 6, was termed "hopelessly insane" by Captain James F. Mason, who aided in extracting the confession.

Meanwhile, the reasons for Noel's being at large were the subject of State inquiry. The youth, son of a prominent New York lawyer, had been a patient at the Essex County hospital for the insane at Overbrook, Bellevue Hospital, in New York, and Craig sanatorium, at Beacon, N.Y.

The board of freeholders of this county will meet at Overbrook next week to fix responsibility for Noel's release. Police Chief Edward Reilly of Montclair, declared that Dix W. Noel, the father, was to blame for the youth's discharge from Bellevue, having signed an affidavit avowing responsibility for his son's actions.

Noel was brought to the county jail here from Montclair, after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of kidnapping, and of not guilty to a charge of murdering Raymond Pierce, negro taxicab chauffeur, whose car was used in the abduction.

Two other major crime charges face the youth. In Passaic County he is to be arraigned on charges of murdering the Daly girl and of atrocious assault with intent to kill in connection with the shooting of John Sandin, a chauffeur, who pursued him.

Celebrated Crime.

How the slayer celebrated his killing of Mary Daly was revealed by neighbors. Fresh from his crimes, a series without parallel for sheer horror in the criminal annals of New Jersey, he raced home from the woods in his car, red-faced and sweating. He sat at the family piano and for an hour there rumbled from the instrument a frenzied burst of fantastic chords — classical and jazz, abruptly jumbled.

Should Noel be found sane, his plea of guilty to the kidnapping charge probably would be accepted, and the life sentence imposed, rather than press a murder charge which would precipitate a trial, authorities said Tuesday. There is no less penalty than life imprisonment for kidnapping under the New Jersey law.

J. A. Katt, chairman of the State Board of Control, despatched here by Governor Silzer, said he believed Noel's parents "highly culpable." He charged that they know their son

FEAR FROST IN HARVEST FIELDS

Cold, Drizzling Rain is Holding Up Work in Prairie Provinces.

SOME WHEAT UNCUT.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press)—With a cold drizzling rain over most of the fields through the west where harvesting is still in progress, some fear of frost is expressed. The lowest was 46 on the prairie in the past 48 hours. Probably one third of the wheat is still uncut and the present wet spell means delay at a most critical period.

CONVICT KILLED IN PRISON YARD

Stabbed During Labor Day Celebration at Auburn, N.Y.

AUBURN, N.Y., Sept. 9—George Wagner, of New York, who was serving a 16-year sentence for robbery was murdered in the prison yards here Monday afternoon. He was stabbed several times by a sharp instrument. His lungs were punctured and he bled to death. No trace or clue of the murderer has been found by prison or Cayuga county officials.

The killing took place in the prison yard during the Labor day festivities, and the 1,820 inmates were witnessing a ball game between prison teams. The slaying was discovered when guards saw four of Wagners' friends carrying him towards the hospital.

All prisoners were ordered to their cells, the festivities ended and the investigation started. This is the second murder at Auburn within a year, and the first it as yet unsolved.

Wagner has a wife and two children living at 707 Park avenue, New York, according to prison records. He was sentenced to the house of refuge in New York in 1919, records show. In 1917 he was arrested for carrying concealed weapons, but paroled; in 1921 he was convicted of grand larceny and was given from one to two years in Sing Sing. While on parole from this sentence he was arrested for robbery, first degree, convicted and given 16 years in Sing Sing. He was transferred to Auburn two years ago. Friends say he had a quarrelsome disposition.

GANGSTER PAYS PRICE.

Crook Shot in Doorway of Home.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—Another New York gangster has paid the penalty of internecine warfare spreading through the city's underworld.

Six shots, fired from a doorway, ended the life of "Eleven-fingers" Gaffreda, chief burglar, bootlegger and hoodlumker, as he stood near his home on the upper east side Monday. The gangster pitched to the sidewalk, dead, and his assailant, observed by perhaps 100 persons, walked away. When the police arrived, all had conveniently forgotten the description of the murderer.

BURY OFFICERS OF SHENANDOAH AMONG HEROES

Four U. S. Navy Officers Laid at Rest in Arlington Cemetery.

INQUIRY GOES ON.

Collapse of Bracing Believed Cause of Disaster—German Comment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — Four Navy officers who gave their lives in the crash of the Shenandoah were buried with the martial heroes of the nation on the heights of Arlington yesterday, as the Navy Department pursued its investigation to determine the scientific reason for the catastrophe.

A simple sailor's funeral preceded the last salute as the bodies of Lieut.-Commander Louis Hancock, executive officer; Lieut. J. B. Lawrence, senior watch officer, and Lieut. E. W. Sheppard were lowered into the grave, and later as the body of Lieut.-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, the captain of the ship, was buried at 3 p.m.

Bracing Strained.

Meantime the investigators at Caldwell, Ohio, are concluding their inspection of the wreck and will return to Lakehurst to-day to conclude their report. This will clear the way for opening of the official court of inquiry.

Rear-Admiral C. W. Dyson, inspector general of engineering of the Navy, who made a special investigation of the disaster for Secretary Wilbur, emphasized in his report to the Secretary the inability of the diagonal bracing of the ship to withstand the strain to which it was subjected.

The theory that the removal of several of the automatic gas valves in the ship caused the catastrophe by the inability of the remaining valves to function properly, is being investigated.

Not in Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin workers and builder of the Shenandoah's sister ship, the Los Angeles, made the claim Monday that under German management the Shenandoah disaster would not have happened.

"The tragic mishap to the Shenandoah and accidents in other commission to perform in aerial navigation which she alone can fulfill," he said.

RACE FOR LIFE WON BY SHIPS

Two Vessels Left Course To Go 50 Miles After Medicine.

SAVED PASSENGER.

NEW PORK, September 9. Canadian Press. — The North German Lloyd Liner, Muenchen, and th Tuscania, of the Anchor Line, had a race with death on Sunday, and won.

The life of Mrs. Johanna Arlem, 48, of Hoboken, N. J., was saved by the quick work of the commanders of both vessels who raced 50 miles with the necessary medicine.

Mrs. Arlem was returning from Germany, and was taken ill Saturday night. Dr. H. Wimmer, ship's surgeon, notified Captain Wittstein that unless some dexamin could be obtained he could offer little hope of saving her life.

Radio messages were broadcast and picked up by the Tuscania which was bound for Glasgow. The surgeon of the Anchor liner sent word back that he had some of the medicine, and then the commanders of the vessels arranged a point to which they hurried. The Tuscania turned back from her course eastward, and the Muenchen from her westward path. When they came close to each other, a motor dory was lowered from the Muenchen, and Dr. Hans Achielles, assistant surgeon on the German vessel, went to the Anchor liner, got the medicine, and returned to his ship.

Mrs. Arlem's life was saved.

BLINDFOLDED DRIVER TO GIVE SENSATIONAL DEMONSTRATION

Exhibition Board Has Secured This Great Attraction—Street Demonstration Saturday.

Mr. Webber Turner, chairman of the amusement committee of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, has booked an extra fine attraction for Wednesday afternoon of the Fair. He has made a contract with Francois, through his representative, Mr. Jas. Espin, to give a demonstration of mental telepathy, first on Saturday of this week, and again at the Fair, as above stated, on Wednesday next.

On Saturday, between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock Francios, a young Frenchman who is touring the United States and Canada, who with eyes securely blindfolded will drive a Chevrolet car through the streets of Peterborough, on the route given below, and on Wednesday he will further demonstrate his ability by driving a Chevrolet car against time on the track of the Exhibition Grounds, between 5 and 7 o'clock. In both cases he will be securely blindfolded by a local committee which will be present throughout the whole demonstration. Acting Chief of Police Reid, in the absence of Chief Newhall through illness, has consented to assist in the blindfolding, and be one of the number in the car during the demonstration.

Francois is a college man who has studied and executes the powers of mental telepathy, and has given many demonstrations in various cities across the border. This is one of the most sensational features the amusement committee of the Exhibition has been fortunate in bringing to the city.

The route for Saturday's demonstration between 10 and 12 o'clock will be as follows: Commencing at the Chevrolet Garage, 390 Water Street, north to Smith, then west to George, south on George to C.P.R. Station, return on George to Charlotte Street, west on Charlotte to Monaghan Road, then back to the Chevrolet Garage on Water Street.

AGENT ASKED TO VISIT QUARTERLY

Children's Aid Society Members Think Visits Should Be Frequent in First Year.

REPORTS READ.

The first Fall meeting of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society, was held yesterday afternoon in the Board Room of the Chamber of Commerce, the president, B. F. Ackerman, in the chair. The following were present: Messrs. J. Edgar, G. W. Powell, J. Abraham, W. Stocker, F. H. Dobbin, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, Mesdames Fanning, Stevens, Gibbs, Hodgson, Welsh, Devey.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read by the secretary, J. Edgar, who also gave the Matron's report. The report of the agent was given by G. W. Powell, and Mrs. W. H. Gibbs read the report of the Purchasing Committee. Mr. Powell read a letter from the L[illegible]fieldAuxiliary, announcing the holding of their tag day on September 19th.

In July, there were four applications for children received, with one child brought into the Shelter (not a ward.) In August there were five applications, and three children brought in (not wards.)

The Matron's report showed sixteen children in the Shelter during the month of July, with five brought in, and three sent out. In August there were twenty children; seven brought in and one sent out. No sickness in either month.

Visits to Wards.

Rev. P. Costello made enquiry as to the number of visits paid by the Agent to the wards of the Society during the course of the year, and was informed by Mr. Powell that the Government required only one official visit of investigation during that period.

Father Costello was of the opinion that more frequent visits should be paid, and suggested quarterly trips of inspection. The question of expense raised by Mr. Powell, should not be a factor, he thought, when the possible moral and physical welfare of the child might be at stake.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave said that cases might differ, and one home require more supervision than another. He thought that the first year should see more frequent visits made by the agent, who should use his own judgment thereafter.

It was finally resolved, on a motion voiced by Rev. Dr. Blagrave, and seconded by J. Abraham, that the Agent should not consider himself limited financially, in cases where additional visits to wards in their foster homes were, in his opinion, advisable.

Accounts Passed.

The following accounts were passed and ordered to be paid: N. and A. Ingram, $[illegible]; Turnbull Company, $3; Frank Dawson, $3; S[illegible]ary Ice Co., $5; Gilgour and Son, $11.30; Bredin's Bread Co., $16.74; New Centre Meat Market, $2.34; N. S. Bogue, $1.35; Can. Packing Co., $19; P. J. White, $24.60; telephones, $6.61; G. W. Powell, $5.10; expenses of delegates to convention, $10; total $111.54.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER.

system has increased by $234,000,000—three quartrs of the whole debt of Canada in 1913.

"Mr. King does not like amalgamation. Neither do I, but the fact is by supplying money in the way he has supplied it, he deliberately rushed the whole system into a bog from which rescue will be difficult indeed."

If the present government was returned to power the gulf would be reached, said Mr. Meighen.

Stop Investments.

"You ask what I would do." I will tell you. I will stop these capital investments with a strong hand the first month I am in power. There will be no more Scribe hotels, no more sky-scrapers on Yonge Street, no more extravagant golf courses and radio systems here, there and anywhere. There will be a determined effort to get the last dollar out of the property we have and not keep adding blindly to our obligations and our troubles.

In the early part of his address Mr. Meighen said: "For four years we have been assured, times without number, by Premier King that his government was dealing in a masterly way with the nation's problems, and that he was supported in the House by large majorities by what he described as men of liberal thought. On Saturday last, however, we got a lot nearer the truth, and in the long oration in North York he confessed to the people of Canada that he could not deal with the problems of the nation at all, and the only reason he gave was they did not have a sufficient majority in the House. For this reason there must be an election. The whole country is relieved because there has at least come to an end the most sterile Parliament this nation has ever known."

Quebec Figures.

Dealing with Premier King's Richmond Hill speech, Mr. Meighen declared that from first to last that speech contained not a word of reference to the achievements of his Government.

"In the whole course of his speech the only assertion of mine whose truth he challenged in any I made at Stratford in August, 1925.

"My statement was that since the advent of this Government more than two thousand factories had closed their doors and that in the main this unfortunate result was due to the folly of the Government's tariff returns and the still worse folly of their tariff threats."

Continuing, Mr. Meighen declared that he obtained his facts from the highest authority known in Canada, and that he had given the actual facts to Parliament. He believed the figures were well within the mark.

Four Points.

"But already the same old methods are at work. There are four things, Mr. King says, which must be decided, transportation, immigration, tariff policy and Senate reform. Anything at all to mix the issue up. Anything at all to obscure the record of these barren years; anything at all to confuse the public. Four issues, said Mr. King, transportation, immigration, tariff policy and Senate reform. I put this question to each of you; I put it to the people of Canada — is there any person in this Dominion, either man or woman, who knows to-day what the government wants done on this transportation question? What the government wants done on immigration? Or what the Government wants done on Senate reform? Can any human being define now what the government policy is in any of these three? Mr. King says he wants a mandate on these three. What does he want a mandate to do. He has not told us —and he is not going to tell us.

Transportation Problem.

"On transportation he says there are many things that can be done by legislation which would be for the benefit of the C. P. R. and the National System, and the public as well. If so, in the name of common sense, why has he let four years go by and never proposed one of them to Parliament? The cold fact is that he has absolutely nothing to propose, and if he did propose anything even now session after session would go by and there would not be anything done. He suggests for example that there might be legislation establishing control over running rights. I presume he means that the railway commission might be given power to extend running rights to one railway over the tracks of another. Apparently the Prime Minister does not know that the railway commission has this power already and has had this power for years.

"What explanation has Mr. King for the fact that after all these efforts and this vast expenditure of money all we get is a trickling stream which rapidly finds its way through Canada to another land?

"Lastly, we have a good subject. Senate reform. This old bird is provided with wooden wings and told to fly again.

"The people of Canada says Mr. King must decided the question of Senate reform. I make this assertion, and I challenge Mr. King to contradict it, that he has not one single proposal for the reform of the Senate to which he dare commit his Government. If the public of Canada are to be asked to decide Senate reform they must be told how the Senate is going to be reformed. Mr. King once proposed a plan. That was in the early summer of 1924. He solemnly told the House of Commons that he intended to take measures which would make it impossible for the Senate to reject more than twice any bill sent up from the House of Commons. Let me ask Mr. King, will he bind himself to day to champion such a measure if returned to power? Last session I asked him on repeated occasions and he ran away from the question. Instead of introducing a measure or an address on the subject to Parliament, he said all he would ask was authority to call a conference of the provinces. He got that authority but he never called the conference. I asked him if he were prepared to submit the proposal which he made the session before to this conference when it was called but he refused to tell me. He says how he wants a mandate from the people of Canada before even he calls the conference. Of all the humbug ever proposed, this is the most transparent and absurd. Mr. King has called conferences many a time without even a mandate from Parliament. The fact is, the Government has not one single proposal which it dare make on this subject of Senate reform. Let Mr. King tell the country what he wants done with the Senate or until he tells the country what he proposes to do, it is all moonshine to be talking about the supposed issue of Senate reform."

SHORT CIRCUIT SENT IN ALARM

Telephone Wire Insulation Was Burned By Blast From Furnace.

OPERATOR ALARMED.

Telephone wires strung near the furnace in the Peterborough Hardware Company's store were burned by the flames which burst from the furnace door on Sunday morning and a short circuit resulted, alarming the telephone operators. When no answer could be obtained from the store, although apparently someone had the receiver off the hook, Central called the police station and reported the happening. Finding the store filled with smoke, the police turned in an alarm from the nearest fire alarm box and the firemen responded and soon extinguished the flames, which had gained a good hold on materials stored near the furnace.

Oily refuse which suddenly burst into flame and blew the door open, was blamed by Chief Gimblett for the blaze.

Plebiscite Wanted to Determine Who Shall Have Province.

ASK LEAGUE COUNCIL.

GENEVA, Sept. 9. — (Canadian Press).—A formal demand for a plebiscite to determine whether the Mosul district in Upper Mesopotamia shall go to Turkey or the British mandate state of Irak, was contained in a memorandum presented to the Council of the League of Nations to-day by Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister.

The memorandum declares that if Great Britain refuses to agree to a plebiscite it will be "indisputable proof" that the Turkish claim is well founded and that Mosul desires to be restored to the sovereignty of Turkey, "her mother country."

"It is no use shutting the barn door after the horse has gone astray."

Likewise, it is no use wishing that nature would come and sit in your lap, when you are walking about, always in a hurry, and never sitting down to think long enough to provide the lap for nature to come and sit in.

In other words, you cannot be fed nature experiences with a silver spoon, and you must want them badly enough to think ahead a very little, and provide the chance for yourself and for the birds.

Therefore, it is no use waiting until winter, then wishing you had bird visitors, when you left the barn door open and only want to get busy when it is too late.

He or she who begins now, to scatter crumbs and seed and so on, will be sure of wonderful bird experiences this winter.

The Autumn migration is in full swing. Birds are passing in great waves. Some of these waves come down into town and rest for a day or two, if the weather be nice, and sometimes they come down and take shelter from storms through which they fear to fly.

Whether it be good or bad weather, or just their whimsical ways that cause them to alight in your garden, is of no consequence, the mian thing is this: they chance to come. And, having come to your place, they size it up and you with it, doubtless wondering what kind of a person you are, and, doubtless thinking you must be a queer stick, to never know that you have pretty visitors and just for that they will withdraw, or, if they find some sunflower seeds and bathing places, doubtless they decide that "these must be regular folks," and so, they are tempted to remain for several days, and their presence attracts others, so that the coming and going goes on all autumn, bringing the late migrating birds and the winter birds to the table, some to become so attached to you that they remain all winter, giving untold pleasure.

Nature Lore, to-morrow, will give details of what to do, in order to attract the birds.

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE A MYTHICAL GIANT REIGNS ONCE EACH YEAR.

If you should happen upon the town of Douia, near Lille, France, during the second week in July, the chances are that you would forget for a day or two that you had grown up. For it is between the dates of July 8 and 11 that the Fete de Gayant takes place.

Now Gayant has long been revered as the father of his famous family and as the leader of the gleeful procession which features the festivities. But it would be no festival without the madame ance. She wears a round cap and a white pinafore, and capers about with childish abandon amusing the little folks of the town.

To come to facts, pere Gayant is twenty-five feet tall and his ladye-faire is twenty-two feet. They are both made of wicker and are gorgeously arrayed.

Gayant is attired in medieval armor and on his head wears a helmet with a long plume. From head to waistline Gayant is manly and masterful in appearance. But from the waist down, a huge petticoat, overlaid in front with an apron of mail, serves as a curtain to conceal the nine men underneath. It is these men who transport the figure at the head of the procession. Then comes the Madame clad in her richly brocaded gown and further beautified by her elaborate stomacher, farthingale and fan.

Accompanying this monstrous family are different kinds of floats, depicting some ancient happening or well-known allegory.

All day long contests, games, music and feasting are enjoyed by the natives. On the waters of the nearby Scarpe River, boat races are held while off and on, during the two days of hilarious fun, the Chant de Gayant is heard. The song, which was composed one hundred and fifty years ago, never fails to inspire wild bursts of applause.

The origin of the Fete de Gayant has never been definitely settled but this much is believed by authorities to be the main facts in the case: In the year 1479, when Louis XI. was driven back from his invasion of Douia, a procession and a feast were held to celebrate the victory. It is supposed that St. Maurand's image was used in this celebration. Later, when Charles V. came into control of Flanders, he insisted upon introducing Spanish ideas, one of which was a pageant known as the Procession of the Giants.

YOUR GARDEN

STORING GLADIOLI.

A good many gardeners beginning with gladioli, purchase fresh corms every year or do not get good results either due to carelessness of lack of knowledge of storage methods. Also some miss one of the pleasures, that of increasing ones stock by ones own efforts through the careful saving and growing on of the small cormlets to blooming size. Those with very limited space may be debarred from doing so, but anyone who has a little space to spare will find an added interest.

On the approach of frost, when the tops have thoroughly ripened, the corms (proper term for the "bulbs") should be dug and stored. To facilitate handling the tops may be cut to within three or four inches of the ground. Exercise great care in the digging to avoid mixing any of the varieties. Then spread the corms out in a cool airy room to dry thoroughly. Several weeks later, at ones convenience the old, last year's exhausted corms (found at the base of the new corm) may be removed together with the remaining stem. When properly dried, these will be found to separate quite readily. The new stock may be given a light cleaning and then the corms should be stored away. The best temperature for storage is between 40-45 degrees in a rather dry atmosphere. If the corms are stored in a warm room they become too dry and shrivelled for good results and especially in the spring will sprout prematurely. If there is too much moisture they will rot or start into growth. No matter what the conditions, they should not be piled deeply as this will cause them to heat and sprout. Shallow trays not more than 3-4 inches deep are the best. Throughout all these operations care should be exercised to avoid mixing ones varieties.

At the time of cleaning the new stock, a large number of small cormels or cormlets (small corms) from the size of a small pea to a marble, will be found. They should be carefully saved and kept separate in envelopes or anything handy. Only the largest or all may thus be saved, depending on how keen the gardener is on increasing his stock. These, if planted next spring and carried over two to three years (planting and harvesting each season), will produce first class flowering stock.

Old corms will finally give out and should be discarded. This will usually be seen in the declining size and vigor of the flower and foliage or a certain flattened appearance of the corm.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

JANE MAKES A NEW FRIEND

Jane spied the pretty little caterpillar sitting on a weed eating his dinner. He was sitting up in a funny way, with the seed pod of the weed between his front feet, his mouth pressed right up against the seed pod. He was so busily eating he didn't know he had company until Jane laughed.

Quick as a wink Mr. Caterpillar looked up. He didn't know whether to run and hide or not, but Jane soon relieved his caterpillar mind.

"Please don't run away," she laughed softly. "I'm Jane Ellis and I wouldn't harm you for the world. But I just couldn't help stopping and seeing you. My, but you are a pretty fellow in your black suit striped with crimson, dotted with white. It looks as if your Mother Butterfly had sewed pearl buttons all over your suit."

"Mother Butterfly," laughed the caterpillar, stopping long enough to look up. "My mother wasn't a butterfly. She was a night flyer, Mrs. Sphinx-moth, and——"

"Sphinx-moth!" exclaimed Jane. "Well, I'll bet you will make a pretty moth when you grow up."

"So they tell me," laughed Mr. Caterpillar. "Old Mother Tree Toad said my mother had lovely rose-colored wings with black and green wavy bands on them. If I look as pretty as they tell me she was I'll be a happy little moth."

"I'm sure you will," laughed Jane. "For you are certainly pretty now."

"Yes, and I try to do right," mused Mr. Caterpillar. "I could go up to the top of this plant and eat those nice,

"Please Don't Run Away."

new, juicy leaves. They are much more tender than these coarse green ones at the bottom of the plant, but some Mother Sphinx-moth has laid her eggs up there, and if I should eat all those new, juicy, green leaves, when her eggs hatched out there wouldn't be anything for her babies to eat. No, I am trying to do the right thing. I'm getting ready to spin my cocoon. I go to sleep in the ground and then when 'I awaken next time I'll be a lovely Sphinx-moth, just like my mother.

"If you will excuse me now I think I'll drop down to the ground. I feel that I must go to sleep right now," and without waiting for a reply Mr. Caterpillar tumbled to the ground.

He never said a word, and Jane watched him until he was completely covered in a dear little shell-like cradle, and just as she was about to turn away Old Mother Tree Toad croaked above her head, and Jane, knowing what she meant, ran for home as fast as she could go.

"It's going to rain," she told her mama. "Mrs. Tree Toad told me so," and, sure enough, the sky clouded and before long the rain was pattering on the grasses of the gardens.

STREET NAMES

HARVEY STREET.

James Harvey was noted as an old and enterprising citizen of Peterboro during its greatest period of expansion. A builder and contractor, he erected many of the first stone edifices of the town, including the building at the corner of Stewart and Hunter Streets, of Brock and Chambers Street and of Hunter and Rubidge Streets. He was a member of the first Town Council. In his later years, he labored under mental derangement, requiring his confinement at the lunatic asylum of Toronto. His death, which came suddenly on June 22, 1907, resulted from paralysis, induced by an infection of the brain. His remains were brought to Peterboro for interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10

Reverse conditions may prevail in the general affairs of the day, according to the lunar transits. Abrupt changes or removals may be looked for, and these may not result in betterment. Those in the employment of others are urged not to do anything to place their positions in jeopardy. A general tendency to rash and impetuous conduct should be suppressed. The health may also cause annoyance. Heart and home affairs are said to be under excellent sway.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of unexpected change or travel, but these may not bring benefits. Those in the employment of others should be careful and all should put a curb on tongue and temper, lest they create trouble. The health should be carefully attended to. In personal affairs excellent conditions may obtain. A child born on this day may be disposed to be quick-tempered and impulsive, as well as restless and fond of change—qualities which may have a tendency to interfere with its success unless it be given early discipline.

BOOK REVIEW

"EMILY CLIMBS," BY L. M. MONTGOMERY.

A new book by L. M. Montgomery is something of an event in the Canadian literary world—at least, a multitude of readers feel that way about it. Miss Montgomery has a happy faculty of creating living, growing characters. We feel at the end of a book that we have not quite lost them, but only said good-bye for a while; and sure enough, they turn up again, even more winsome and alluring than before, beckoning us to follow them through a new series of whimsical or romantic adventures.

In "Emily of New Moon" the author introduced us to a new heroine and an entirely fresh set of characters and environment. Emily Starr brought her own love with her; and in the new book, "Emily Climbs," we renew her acquaintance and live with her during the interesting High School period of young girlhood. All the old friends—the Aunts, Cousin Jimmy, Ilse, Perry, Teddy, Dean—as well as a number of new ones, are met with in those pages.

Emily is a typical Montgomery girl—sweet and innocent, piquant, dreamy, spontaneously original, and as lovable as she is lovely. This Emily is a budding literary genius, and one cannot but feel that the author has put a great deal of herself into this charming biography—not literal fact, perhaps, but soul truth, colored and tinctured with a romantic imagination. The young writer's inspiration, her sense of being the instrument of some mysterious, unseen power—this is realism, but a realism that has nothing to do with sordidness, though some writers would have us believe that the words are synonymous. To quote Emily's own words: "When that line came into my mind it didn't seem to me that I composed it at all—it seemed as if Something Else were trying to speak through me—and it was that Something Else that made the line seem wonderful." Who can doubt that this comes nearer to history than fiction?

It may be remembered that Emily had recorded a vow:

"I, Emily Byrd Starr, do solemnly vow this day that I will climb the Alpine Path and write my name on the scroll of fame."

Even a genius could not more than begin that upward climb during the High School days, but Emily does make a very creditable beginning. She is not daunted, though often cast down, by the cold water cast by doubting relatives upon her ambitions, nor by any number of printed rejection slips; and when the coveted first cheque arrives, what reader does not share her ecstasy?

Emily's impulsive and daring spirit leads her into many a humorous predicament, as well as into some tensely dramatic situations. There is a touch of the psychic in her personality, and one episode in particular passes beyond the borders of explainable fact.

The rose light of love's young dream casts its glamour over her girlhood, but one does not look for anything very intense in a school girl of seventeen. The bewitching little heroine leaves the stage unchilled, though not altogether heart-whole, and so we are reasonably confident of meeting her again some future day and following her maturer fortunes.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WHY ANGER IS A BLOW TO YOUR HEALTH.

My friend, Bruno Lessing, had a good column lately on the subject of anger. The article was headed, "Don't Fuss." It contained this paragraph:

"What on earth is the sense of getting angry if you can possibly avoid it? Anger, of any kind, upsets the equilibrium. It disarranges the normal, even functioning of your whole system. It interferes with your digestion, your clear thinking and the whole working of your nervous system. It is very foolish to get angry.

"The more angry you become, the more you suffer. Why not determine to put anger entirely out of your life?"

Of course, this advice is not easy to follow. Anger comes of its own accord, but the habit of anger is one which can be controlled. By striving against it and doing so habitually, you can overcome or modify a naturally bad temper.

There is no question about the pernicious effect of anger on the health. It will quite upset the stomach, impair the digestion and convert the stomach into a gas machine.

I'll tell you what I think is the worst thing about anger and fits of bad temper. They ruin the happiness of all your associates. The whole household is disturbed by the tantrums of any single member.

More than you can guess is the bad effect of anger. It makes the heart beat a great deal faster than it should. An increase of ten or twenty beats a minute for a half hour is too much pressure to put on this important organ.

When the heart is overworked, the blood in the blood vessels is placed under pressure. If there should happen to be a weak spot in a blood vessel wall, there may be a break. Then the blood oozes into the surrounding tissues. Should the break be in the brain, there may be serious or even fatal results.

It is not unusual to read of sudden death following a violent attack of anger. The racing heart, the swollen vessels and the undue tension have produced their worst possible effect.

Bruno Lessing, you are a famous philosopher, but, as I have always told you, you are really a great physician, too. What you have said about anger and its bad effects upon health, is but one of many wise things you have contributed to the cause of health.

I hope every reader will be influenced by these comments on anger. You cannot afford to take the chances you do when you "explode." It isn't polite, it isn't nice, it isn't safe. I beg of you to change your habits and improve your temper.

THE QUICK AND GENTLE WAY TO END A CORN

THEORY OF EVOLUTION FIXES THE ORIGIN OF MAN IN A JUNGLE, BUT THE BIBLE PLACES IT IN A GARDEN

Rev. Joseph Wilks of Millbrook United Church Says Science's Quest Fails.

LINK STILL MISSING

Whole Bible Permeated With Idea of Creation by God's Will.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 9.—"The Bible story of creation is the most marvellous story ever written in its simplicity, its beauty, and its purity, and then it is so rational."

The prominence with which the subject of evolution has been kept before the public mind during recent weeks, led the Rev. Joseph Wilks to choose, "The Origin of Man," as his subject on Sunday morning in the United Church his discourse being clearly thought out, years of Christian reading, thinking, and experience giving added force to the argument presented.

The text was chosen from Genesis 1: 27—"So God created man in His own image; in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them."

"All the theories of creation I have ever read, outside the Bible, leave man in a jungle; but the Word of God gives his origin in a garden, God made preparation for creation—out of chaos He brought order, and before He created animal life. He prepared grass, herbs, trees, bearing seed in themselves, for food."

"No scientist yet has been clever enough to make even the tiniest seed from which the tiniest plant, or flower, ever grow. Man has developed new varieties in plant life, but these cannot perpetuate themselves; rather their tendency is to revert to the original type. Why? God, 'made the herb yielding fruit after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind,' and there has been no change from that day to this, unless by the intervention of a Higher Power, and then the change has not been permanent."

Worlds Framed By God.

Paul says, "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the Word of God," and he was but repeating what Moses said thousands of years before, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

Then there was a pause. How long? I couldn't tell you. The scientist speaks glibly of millions of years, but we cannot tell where the "beginning" is because the eternity of Jehovah is a circle, "from everlasting to everlasting Thou art God." When God had the earth ready for man to live in, the "God created man in His own image."

"What is it to create? It implies an event in which there is no inter-mediate cause between it, and God's agency. "Paul states it thus, "So then things which were seen, are not made of the things which do appear"—they were made out of the thought of God, and that is enough for anybody.

"Non-appearance is no proof that things do not exist, for things which exist are not always seen, such as the law of gravitation, magnetism, and electricity."

Creation of Man.

"The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground," and this idea is carried through the whole Bible from Genesis to Revelation. God "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and became a living soul," and here begins a new order of creatures, distinct, superior to anything that ever, had been in God's created world. Men have been, and still are, searching for the missing link, and just when they think they have found it, it isn't there at all.

"What is God? An infinite, loving, intelligent Will: How was man made in His image? He was created an innocent, finite, intelligent, loving will, able to enjoy communion with God, holding vast possibilities of receiving revelation from God, with ability to know His commandments and do them. "Thou madest him a little lower than God, and crownedst him with glory and honor."

In his concluding remarks, Mr. Wilks made an earnest appeal to the young students who were going away to school, or university, for the first time to "remember God isn't back of every theory. 'It is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves.' "Teachers, or preachers, who would instruct you otherwise, though each has a right to resent interference with private judgement, have no authority to instill teaching contrary to the principles of the church, or institution, which they represent."

Solomon says, "Then shall the body return to dust, and the spirit to God Who gave it," and this truth is like a silver cord running all through the Book, Christ, Himself, giving it lasting and crowning testimony.—"Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit." "In Him we live, and move, and have our being."

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

SYNOPSIS

Bob, a young tramp, saved the Limited when it was about to crash into a boulder on a trestle, and now is in the mail car on the way to Crater City, helping Jim Fowler, the clerk, to re-assort letters which had been disarranged when the train came to its sudden stop. He finds a letter addressed to himself at the Salt Lake City hotel where he had made his decision to cast loose. It is in "her" writing, but he resists the temptation to open it and it is cast into the "Dead Letter" compartment.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"Just past midnight," said Jim presently, consulting his watch for perhaps the fortieth time within four minutes, an increase of his nervousness betrayed by his bungling aim. "Today is the fifth anniversary of our marriage." His eyes, veiled with the ardent mist of utter worship, gleamed brightly in the compressed light of the lurching mail car as he gazed steadfastly upon his wife's picture. More to air his own inward ecstasies than to enlighten his companion, Jim continued to talk with engaging freeness to Bob as they worked.

"Five years—each one sweeter than the last—" He choked, then recovered a letter from a wrong sack.

Bob felt awkwardly out of place and socially weak in the presence of such devotion. Nevertheless, he experienced a vague feeling of emotional kinship for Jim; reminiscent, though wholly dissimilar, chords were struck in him, stirring up haunting memories that echoed with sweet hollowness in his thoughts, like stray notes fluttering down at evening from high steeple bells.

"Don't care so much for myself," Jim was saying, "not that I don't like babies well enough—but My Dearest means more to me than any baby possibly could. Still, it will make her happiness complete. She wanted a baby. So I'm glad, for her sake—only I—wish it were over—"

Bob had not the least idea of what to say in answer; so he compromised with a sympathetic nod, and was relieved a moment later when the Limited slithered to a stop in the Crater City station. Jim slid the door open for the relieving clerk and guard, who jumped in cheerily, but stopped in alarm when they saw the odd assortment of hoboes. While the incoming clerk was signing his release order and the registered mail turnover, Jim satisfied him with a hasty explanation. Meantime, Bob and his pals dropped to the wet platform, closely followed by the marine, who, glad that his vigil was over, disappeared efficiently into the night.

Bob had forgotten the conductor's declaration that the passengers intended to make up a purse. But not so his differently-moulded pals, who nudged one another with excited, smacking whispers when they saw Smogs approaching.

The fat conductor was leading gingerly under the meagre shelter of the open-sided train shed a committee of the passengers made up of a saturnine paint drummer, an itinerant parson, and a tourist—no less!—in golf stockings, knickers and cap.

In the uncertain light of one of the shed's overhead oil lamps the Committee paused and beckoned to Bob. Spike and Potts hastened to them, grinning, bowing. Bob, who had watched the advent of the Committee with uninterested contempt, remained where he was—just under the mail car door. He intended to wish good-bye and good luck to Jim before slouching off into oblivion once more. Smogs, drawing away distastefully from the two orthodox hoboes, called to Bob to come forward.

Bob paid no attention; so the Committee, virtuously determined not to be cheated out of the satisfaction of appearing magnanimous, after dubiously hesitant glances amongst themselves made the concession of moving to him.

"Young man," said Smogs, "the kind passengers have taken up a collection—in which, ahem, I felt constrained to join—to reward you—"

Bob looked idly up into the mail car for Jim—

"—and to furnish you with a means of reforming and—" here with a sour look upon Spike, who was edging up and scratching his nose avariciously with his steel claw, and upon Potts, who smirked with ingratiating humility, "—of breaking away from bad companions."

"Bad companions is the cause of many downfalls—" intoned the paint drummer virtuously with an approval-seeking look at the parson, who merely yawned and giggled, however, because at that moment a drop of rain drip bounced on his neck and trickled intimately down inside his mail order union suit.

Smogs proffered the money, only to meet with a curt refusal from Bob. This was a new one in the experience of Smogs and the Committee—a hobo refusing money. But a glance at Potts' face, which had become a seas of sorrow at Bob's unprecedented action, changed Bob's mind. He reached out and plucked the purse from the startled conductor's hand.

"On second thought—" he grinned apologetically, then tossed the purse to Potts. Spike, quick as a famished malamute at a mushing team's feeding time, caught the money and darted off in to the gloom. Potts and Bob tore after him, leaving at thoroughly bewildered Committee to disperse at will.

Overtaking Spike at a far corner of the station building, Bob forced him to relinquish the money to Potts. When Bob's attention was distracted by the arrival of Jim on the scene, Spike, adopting new tactics, went off arm in arm with Potts in a most friendly manner—but rather too hurried to be sincere.

"I heard the presentation ceremonies," down a peg. Say Wilson, by the way, you haven't any particular place to spend the night, have you? Then why not come home with me? I'd be very glad to have you—treats are on me tonight, you know!"

Bob declined; it was no time for Jim, he felt, to be dragging a stray tramp into his house. But Jim insisted so good-naturedly that he finally talked down Bob's scruples, and the two strode away from the station up the deserted and storm-swept street of the sleeping town.

Jim set a swift pace, occasionally

MAN HURT WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Was Caught Under Car Which Met With Accident Near Bethany.

BOY INJURED.

BETHANY, Sept. 9.—Mr. Graham of Toronto was severely hurt when he was caught under his large car when it overturned on Saturday night in Cavan Township. Mr. Graham, with a party of friends, was on his way to visit friends at Havelock for the holiday and took a wrong turning. Striking a rough piece of road, the car overturned near the residence of George Dainard. The other occupants were badly shaken up, but were not hurt. They were unable to lift the car off Mr. Graham until help was obtained. Dr. Hamilton attended the injured man, who was hurt internally. The party spent the night at Mr. Dainard's home and returned to Toronto by train on Sunday. The car, which was almost a complete wreck, was left in Mr. Dainard's care.

There is an abrupt turn at the point where the accident occurred, which is rather dangerous on a wet evening.

Boy Was Hurt.

Wilford Brandon, a boy working for Frank Porter, a farmer near the village, had a narrow escape of being seriously injured. The other day the boy was going after a couple of barrels of water, and going down a grade he lost control of the horses, which ran away, throwing him off the wagon, the wheel of which went over his foot. He was also badly bruised around the shoulder.

case at the table was a grave faced doctor who had been summoned early that night to attend to Jim's wife.

ELDERS ORDAINED NORWOOD CHURCH

Memorable Service at First Communion After Church Union.

NORWOOD, Sept. 9.—The morning service in the United Church of Norwood on Sunday will long be remembered by those in attendance. The service was conducted by Rev. F. Stillman, the pastor, assisted by Rev. T. M. Wesley, associate pastor. After the opening exercises the sacrament of baptism was observed, when Kenneth William, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barrie, and Marion Doreen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Starke, were baptized by the Rev. T. M. Wesley. After this service fourteen of the newly-appointed elders were ordained. The elders were: E. C. Squire, J. G. Keefer, Hugh Robb, John Burgess, Thos. Clarke, Ross Fennell, John Starke, Harry Wildman, F. C. Pakenham, Oliver Buck, G. A. Brethen, M.P., W. T. Buck, Henry Thistlewaite and R. G. Lawlor. Two of the number who were elected, Mr. J. Marks and Mr. Wm. Cuthbertson, were unable to be present. After being ordained the elders assisted the ministers in dispensing the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to a large congregation for the first time since the consumation of Union.

Rent Offices Complete With Stenographic Service

A Toronto trust company has been meeting with some success in an office rental experiment introduced some months ago. Small offices are rented on one floor of its building. A stenographer and a telephone operator are provided for the tenants. Insurance brokers, salesmen, and others requiring small offices but not able to afford a staff, are able to rent offices equipped with stenographic and telephone service. This is borrowing an idea from medicine. Toronto, Montreal, and other cities, have professional office buildings where stenographers, telephone operators and nurses serve many masters.

NESTING

By Jane Reed

When two in love plan their love-nest, doesn't it remind you of the birds when they come back in the spring and build the wonderful, adorable little nest high in the tree-top? No matter whether it's the most elaborate mansion in the world, or just a tiny flat, if it's built on a firm foundation of love no wind nor storm can shake it loose. As long as happiness dwells there and love guides the household, the nest is secure. So make love and happiness your boon companion in the dream-castle and you'll weather all storms and keep your dreams ever fresh and real.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

BEAUTY IN A CALM SPIRIT.

Do you take time to enjoy life? I ask this very potent question because it seems to me that far too many women rush through life in such a way that they never give themselves a chance to enjoy things to the utmost, or to let themselves look their best, or give their families and friends.

I know an attractive young matron who would get so much more out of life, if she only knew how to make her housekeeping become mechanical to her after a time, and could avoid working herself into a state of nervousness over the family ordering. It may sound easy to say, "be calm." But try it. It may not be easy at first, but it will surely become easier after a time if you simply will not let yourself take it too hard.

The woman who takes details had soon acquires a worried, harrassed expression. Eyes which might be lovely are overclouded by this worried look. Lines come about the mouth, and what was a soft, lovable expression in youth grows harder and harder as the years advance.

If you save time and energy from sordid details, you will have more spirit and interest for your friends. They will enjoy your company, and they will find themselves wondering what it is that makes you so attractive and gives you so much personality. When they realize that you have the vitality and the spirit for these endearing qualities simply because you save yourself, they will want to learn to do likewise.

TALKS ON FLOWERS FORM NEW FEATURE

Horticultural Society Plans Innovation That Should Prove Popular.

Educational Talks on Flowers are added to the attractions of the Flower Show, to be held in the Peterborough Armouries, Thursday and Friday of next week, under the auspices of the Horticuitural Society.

On Thursday evening, September 10th from 8.45 to 9.15 in one of the anti-rooms adjoining the main floor of the Armouries, Joseph Grirrson will explain the best methods of growing Perennials and as September is the ideal month for planting these, numbers of interested flower growers will avail themselves of this opportunity of getting valuable information of this nature from an acknowledged authority on the subject.

Friday evening, Arnold E. Prest in the same period will talk on Gladioli and annuals. There is no more beautiful flower than the gladioli and no more prolific bulb, and as the year 1926 will be a gladioli year in Peterborough, owing to the fact that the Canadian Gladiolus Society's Annual Convention will be held here, this is an opportunity to gain necessary information, not to be missed in respect to the growing of Gladioli. Mr. Prest has grown gladioli for many years with marked success as testified by the beautiful showing in his garden, 242 Landsdowne St., which is well worth seeing.

These talks are featured in the Flower Show in an effort to supply the obvious need of the public for detailed specific information in the how, where, when and why of flower rearing. Mr. Grierson and Mr. Prest are generously giving their time in the interests of Horticulture and it is the hope of the Society that any who have problems or questions to ask will attend these lectures; at no additional cost over the main admission fee.

Michigan is called the Wolverine state from the number of wolverines with which it formerly was infested.

TODAY'S FASHION

By Vera Winston

A Simple White Satin Evening Gown Embroidered with Pearls.

Fall colors may come and go, but it seems that the white frock continues to hold its place in fashion ranks.

The white evening frock for Fall is best interpreted in satin, as white chiffon is more of a Summer medium. The white satin evening gown above is embroidered with lustrous pearls. A new effect is achieved by the use of the pearls to simulate an empire waitline.

The neckline is cut V in front, with a still deeper V at the back. The deep V at the back seems to be a favored neckline for Fall.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been reading the paper where you have been giving advice and I thought it was a great help to people. I needed some myself, and I think I have come to a person who will do as much as they can to help me out.

I am a girl in my 'teens and have been going out with a gentleman whom I love very, very much. He is still going with another girl. He goes to see her on Sunday nights, but manages to see me through the week. I know he likes the other girl, but I think he likes me as well, if not better.

I like him better than any other boy around me. I have gone out with him several times and I'm not happy unless I'm with him. I know I couldn't forget him and go with other boys. So will you please advise me what to do. He is a real gentleman and seems to be happy in my company. How could I get him to go with me regular instead of just odd times. I hope you will give me a satisfactory answer as I'm worrying very much about the affair as it stands at present.

Thanking you very much,

SORROWFUL AND BLUE.

P.S.—Hope to see my letter in print soon.

SORROWFUL AND BLUE: I think the young man deserves a little sympathy in this case. He is evidently placed in the unfortunate position of liking two girls at the one time. It might be well for you to try and discover just how much he cares for this other girl. Could you be perfectly happy if you knew his affection was divided between the two of you? That sort of triangular situation isn't a very satisfactory one. If you really think he prefers you, keep on being as nice to him as possible, and don't, for goodness sake, be "sorrowful and blue." The only thing you can do, as matters stand at present, is to "mark time" and be as cheerful as possible while you wait to see how things transpire. Are you quite sure you are not trying to cut this other girl out?

POPULAR DECORATIVE PILLOWS

There is a demand for silk sofa pillows this Fall, and many new ideas are being worked out in their making. Taffeta silk is the material most in demand and in the changeable shadings of the pastel colors. Soft down pillows are chosen for the silken coverings, as they make a softer foundation for the covers.

An oblong or oval shaped pillow has the top corded crossways by seven cords. Cords the size of a finger are used for the shirrings. The top is then put on smoothly and fastened around the edge neatly. The under side of the pillow is covered plain, and then the edge is finished with a five-inch tucked ruffle, held in place by a cord the same size as those used across the top. No other trimming is used on this style of pillow.

A round pillow, eighteen inches in diameter, is shirred in the center, where it is held by a large button covered with the silk; then the folds are drawn smoothly to the edge. The bottom is covered smoothly and the edge is finished with a silk-covered cord. Another version of this pillow is to cover the top with a plain silk, with some embroidered applique piece; then the edge of the pillow is finished with a flounce of the gold lace.

A large, heart-shaped pillow is rather unusual covered with black taffeta. The top is trimmed with creamy lace with scalloped edge an inch and a half wide, put on in five ruffles, the top one forming a heading. Then in the center a large lace initial is placed. Another version of the same pillow is one trimmed with the narrow gold lace ruffles and an embroidered motif in gold appliqued in the center.

An interior decorator produced a novel effect in fitting over a bed-room by making a slip cover for the flat couch of the black silk and finishing the edge with five ruffles of the creamy lace two inches wide. Then four of the pillows to match were used on the couch with a heart-shaped one of shaded yellow and blue silk trimmed with the same creamy lace in the center.

Many women who wish to replenish their pillow coverings haunt the various silk bargain counters, and it is a wonderful way to pick up short lengths in expensive kinds of silk that make really luxurious pillows for a small outlay.

The shortest road to the top is the straight road.

C.G.E. Girls Will Meet Hope Ladies in Semi-Final Contest.

FINAL GAME FRIDAY.

Tonight, in the second game of this evening's programme at the Coliseum, Toronto, C. G. E. ladies will play Hope ladies. This will be one of the semi-final games of the C.N.E. softball tournament. The first game will be between Humber Bay and Danforth ladies, and the winners will meet on Friday in the final.

Hope ladies will have to play better ball tonight than they did on Monday against Old Orchard. In that game there was hardly an earned run and on the night's play Bolton, whom the C. G. E. beat, was a better team than either Hope or Old Orchard. The girls will be more used to the arena and the large crowd, so that they should put up a good game.

BOBBY JONES THE LINKS SUPER STAR

Golf at last appears to have a superstar—a player who is to the links game what Bill Tilden is to tennis, Willie Hoppe to billiards and Ty Cobb to baseball. Robert Tyre Jones seems to have qualified.

It is not because the 24-year-old Georgian won the national title two years hand running—the first time this was accomplished since Jerry Travers did it a dozen years ago—that Bobby is nominated for the superstar role.

Neither is it because he has seldom finished worse than second at medal play opposing the game's best players, amateur and professional, that Jones is called a superstar.

Robert Tyre Jones is located on a golf pinnacle because in his most recent triumph at Oakmount he displayed the finest combination of concentration and competitive spirit there has been seen in any game.

That final match over the suburban course Saturday will go down in golf history as the most extraordinary battle for supremacy with wood and iron clubs ever known.

It rivaled Walter Johnson's victory over the Giants in the final game of the 1924 World Series as a sports drama that no fiction writer could have drawn so successfully from his vivid and experienced imagination.

There was Bobby Jones, a champion defending his title, fighting a boy five years younger who was his particular pal, his playmate—also his pupil and pride.

It was Jones, the champion, who had begged Judge Gunn, daddy of Watts Gunn, to permit the 19-year-old lad to go along to Pittsburgh.

Overcame Mental and Natural Hazards to Win.

Bobby Jones admits that when he persuaded Judge Gunn to allow him to chaperone the kid at his first championship tournament, he had no idea they would meet in the final.

"I was confident Watts would furnish a surprise," Jones told his friends. "I felt he might win the title.

"But it never occurred to me before last Thursday night, when the kid and I were both in the semi-finals, that we might be the finalists."

Jones has answered all sorts of questions concerning how he felt as he walked out there Saturday morning to start a battle for the highest honor that can come to an amateur.

None of his answers amount to anything. As a matter of fact, the champion so completely gave himself over to the competitive spirit that he doesn't know what his feelings were.

Complete concentration on the job before him—that of retaining his amateur title—must have eliminated from Jones' thoughts his young pal and pupil.

Had Bobby Jones for two or three holes permitted himself to see as his opponent a lad who was on the Oakmount links because he had begged Judge Gunn to let the boy play in the national championship, the champion would not have had his repeat.

Jones had to concentrate on each shot. One serious mistake due to a mental lapse—a mental picture of what Judge Gunn was thinking as sat by the radio in Atlanta getting the returns from Oakmount—and the champion was uncrowned.

Therefore, because he could concentrate so completely and had the necessary competitive spirit to overcome mental hazards as well as those on the course, Bobby Jones becomes the Supergolfer.

LOCAL MAN IN MINING DEAL

C. H. Ackerman Mentioned in Connection With Important Development.

A despatch from The Toronto Globe's mining correspondent, from Rouyn Township has particular reference to property owned by Chas. H. Ackerman, J. H. C. Waite of Homewood Avenue, and Thomas Montgomery, a prospector of the district. The despatch read as follows:

"According to information received in Rouyn, one of the biggest deals in the history of the mining fields of Northwestern Quebec is pending for the Waite property.

The work done and the samples taken are believed to already be sufficient to indicate an important mine. This being the case, the owners, J. H. C. Waite, C. H. Ackerman and Thomas Montgomery are content to proced slowly in the negotiation of a deal.

A favorable factor is that the property lies right along the route of the proposed branch line of the C.N.R. The transportation problems will be completely solved by such time as preliminary development makes the desired progress.

It is stated by mining men and pospectors that the owners of the Waite-Ackerman property are not finding it necessary to carry propositions to prospective buyers. Instead a steady stream of scouts are visiting the claims, and are submitting many very attractive offers.

"There is believed to be good prospects of the Nipissing Mining Company of Cobalt making a strong bid for the Waite property, but it is understood that a large capitalist has preceded them. The Nipissing is in the position of having a surplus of about $4,500,000, but with the resources of its original property gradually being exhausted. Should Nipissing become established in Rouyn on a property of leading importance, it is considered reasonable that the prosperity of the company could be perpetuated over another long period of years without having to suspend payment of dividends."

SPRINTER MADE GAME ATTEMPT

MADE GOOD TIME

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9.—In Charlie Nadoo's fast run Saturday afternoon, the talk turned on sprinting when Charlie Holmes, baseballist, hockey and lacrosse player and all-round athlete, recounted how in 1916, while in training in the military camp in Valcartier, he had run 100 yards in nine and one-half seconds. That was nine years ago, and if in the meantime Holmes has lost any of the vitality of youth, like so many other men, he either fails to realize or refuses to admit it. He believed that he could still make 100 yards in less than 10 seconds but, Frank De Carrol, pitcher for the Ontario team in the Softball League, offered to wager that Holmes could not in his present form do 100 yards in less than 12 seconds.

Holmes accepted the challenge, and the trial was made at the Fair Grounds Monday afternoon; the event attracting as large a crowd as usually attends a township fair in the back country. Holmes was allowed a pace maker, selecting Leo Bush, who has won the Marathon race here for three years in succession. The track was what horsemen would describe as heavy. C. D. Daniel was starter, the signal being a dropped hat, as Holmes objected to starting at the crack of a pistol. Three stop watches were held on the race, one by D. A. Owen, the second by Cliff Weston, and the third by Starter Daniel.

Holmes made a brave fight for it, and was trailed by his pace-maker up to within a few yards of the tape, when Bush passed him. Two of the stop watches registered 12 2-5 and the other 12 1-5 seconds. If the rules of the game had permitted Holmes to make a head first slide for say the last five yards of the course, as he used to do when playing baseball when even the vigilant and sure-shot backstop Wilfrid Armour could not break him of his habit of stealing bases, the runner would likely have won his wager. As it was, his feat was regarded as creditable for a man wholly out of condition, as Holmes had had no exercise to speak of all summer, being closely confined by indoor duties.

Before the main event, Frank De Carrol, Leo Bush and Thornton Ibey ran a 100-yard race, Bush finishing first and De Carrol and Ibey in the order named. In two tests De Carrol did 100 yards in 12 seconds flat.

This event is likely to make sprinting a popular form of amusement in Campbellford. Cliff Weston, Walter Blakely and other members of the old Northumberland County League team having already demonstrated that they can go 100 yards in a trifle over 12 seconds.

MOKOKIT

(An Indian Legend.)

Long, long ago, on the banks of the Sokumapi river, O'mukitoapiakun, the Great Spirit, made man.

O'mukitoapiakum was lonely. Although he had all the animals, he wanted someone like himself to keep him company at his camp fire. He used to go to the little lake, and there, gazing at his image reflected in the water, wish that he knew of another creature of his own kind.

One day he took some clay from the cut bank near his camp, and made an image of a man like himself. This was a great comfort to him for several days, but on his return from a hunting trip he found that the image had fallen to pieces.

Again he made an image, and this time he decided to bake it in the fire so that it would be strong. He put the image in the fire, and had just sat down to watch it when peautou the eagle came to summon him to a pow-wow of the animals down the river. On his return the Great Spirit found that the fire had burned too strongly, and had made the image black, so he threw it aside. It was carried away by the eagle, and became the black man, Sixkapiakum

Once again O'mukitoapiakun made an image and put it in the fire, and again peatou the eagle came to call him to a meeting of the animals. On his return this time he found that the fire had gone out, and the image was but half baked. This image also he threw aside pale face—Napiakun, the white man.

A fourth time the Great Spirit made an image, and this time he spent great care on it, working for days to get every feature beautiful and every limb perfect. At last it was ready, and he made a fire very carefully, and put the image in it. great feast he made an excuse to stay in his camp, and remained watching his image and replenishing the fire as it burned down. At last the image was ready, and he took it from the fire. It was a perfect brown, and he embraced his brother red man, Sizikiahuam.

In getting his brother he had lost the friendship of the animals, who were offended by his refusing to feast with them, and the Indian ever after hunted the animals or was hunted by them.

To the young man, O'mukitoapiakun is his spirit of ambition, the image is his aim, and the animals and feast are the attractions that endeavour to lure him from the work that will result in the realization of his aim.

The old Indian legend tells every young man who would make a brother of his high aim not to be discouraged, and not to be drawn away from the path of endeavour.

Three times the Great Spirit failed, but he learned the lesson. He came back and stayed with job—and succeeded. He lost the friendship of the animals, but he gained a brother.

In the Blackfoot tongue—"Mokekit ki Aciskimat"—"Be wise and persevere."

TRENT BOWLERS WIN AT COBOURG

Mayor Meyers and George Nicol of Campbellford, Bring Home Prizes.

CAMPBELLFORD Sept. 9—Campbellford bowlers distinguished themselves at the Scotch Doubles tournament held in Cobourg on Labor Day, Mayor Meyers and George Nicol winning all of the four games which they played and carrying home the premium prize, a set of heavy blankets.

The only other rink from Campbellford taking part in the tournament was L. B. Glover and Walter S. Wiggins who won three of their games and who missed finishing inside the money by a narrow margin.

Winning a cup at the Belleville tournament and the premium prize at Cobourg is the away from home record of the local bowling club this season..

At Belleville Tourney

MARMORA, Sept. 9—Deloro sent a team to Belleville on Friday, Sept. 4th, to compete in a lawn bowling tournament on the invitation of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club. The team comprised D. E. Bell, skip, Smith, M. E. Grant and W. L. Rigg. Deloro survived two games in which they defeated Brighton and Tweed. They were eliminated by Campbellford. Eighteen teams entered in the tournament. The only regret was that the delay in starting should prevent the completion of the schedule and thus no winner cvould be declared.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

In what he termed his "simplified game," "Chick" Evans some years ago, in reaching a conclusion as to exactly what he wanted in wood clubs culled down his woods until he had left in his bag two brassies, exactly alike. These were ivory-faced and slightly bulged. This year, however, he adopted astraight faced, heavy-headed driving club with which for a time, early in the season, he was driving a remarkably long ball—often up to 350 yards, roll and all. Lately his drives—notably at the Western Amateur championship in Detroit—were shortened down to the regulation 230 yards, indicating that he had abandoned the driving club. Whether he has actually done so I do not know at the moment, but in any event his consistent use, for years, of the two brassies exactly alike is enough to convince any average player that he should keep his woods of the same length of shaft.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Smith, of Belleville, are visiting Mrs. Smith's parents, Capt. and Mrs. T. E. Hyland.

Joseph Poulton Jr. and William Haughton, the latter of Toronto, left Saturday by motor boat for the Georgian Bay district, where they have purchased land on which they propose to erect two summer cottages before the opening of the resort season next year.

REDUCE FEE FOR SELLING MILK IN CAMPBELLFORD

New License Fee is $1.00, Whereas Former Cost Was $5.00.

HELPS RESIDENTS.

Proposal to Relax Laws Applying to Cow Stables Was Defeated.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9—The members of the town council at their regular meeting last night spent some time in discussing proposed amendments to the milk bylaw and wound up by making only one change—reducing the license fee required of vendors from $5 to $1. Although this reduction applies to all milk dealers, either in town or from the country, it was really made for the benefit of residents of Campbellford who keep one or two cows and who sell milk to their neighbors. For these the $5 fee was regarded as excessive.

Deputy-Reeve Palliser, chairman of the committee that revised the by-law, proposed some drastic changes, which would have considerbaly relaxed the regulations with regard to the condition in which cow stables must be kept, and which would permit the keeping of other animals besides cows in the same building although the committee would draw the line at pigs and hens. The present bylaw bars dogs and cats from stables and milkhouses, by the amendment proposed by the committee would give these quadrupeds the run of the stables.

Deputy-Reeve Palliser moved that the clerk be instructed to draw up a new bylaw incorporating these changes, but the motion was lost; an amendment by Reeve Davidson providing for a reduction of the license fee being carried.

Councillors Kingston and Stone contended that any further relaxations would make it easier for dealers to ignore sanitary laws in their premises and the consumers of milk would be imposed upon by impure supplies. There is more danger to be feared from the man who keeps one or two cows than from the larger dairyman, as the animals of the former are not submitted to the tuberculin test.

Sale of Debentures.

The date for the opening of tenders for the sale of sewer debentures, originally set for September 7, was postponed until the 14, when the Council will hold a special meeting. It was found that sufficient time had not been given the bond dealers to secure the information regarding the status of Campbellford, which they insist upon before tendering for the town's securities.

More Lights Ordered.

The Water and Light Commission will be asked to install a light on the Government land near the bandstand and another on Front Street in the vicinity of the spur track crossing.

Sale of Land.

To W. J. Stanbury the Council will sell a small part of the gravel pit for $25, provided the purchaser pays all expenses connected with the transfer. A. H. Hollings wrote to protest. He is a neighbor of Mr. Stanbury and he objected to the town disposing of any land to the latter until a survey had been made and the line between the two lots established.

If such a survey is required, it was the opinion of the Council that Mr. Stanbury should pay for it.

The Simpson Street Bridge.

The matter of a bridge over the creek at Simpson Street, long in abeyance, was brought up last night by Mayor Meyers. In 1923 the Council of that year agreed to build a bridge at that point, but action was deferred from time to time for lack of funds.

Mayor Meyers stated that McKelvie and McCook, owners of a saw mill at that point, agreed to build a wooden bridge at their own expense if the town would put in the piers Mayor Meyers thought that these piers could be built for three or four hundred dollars. No definite action was taken.

Housing Road Machines.

On motion of Councillors Stone and Cole, the Road and Bridge Committee was instructed to ascertain the probable cost of a suitable building in which to house the new steam roller and other road machinery and to report at the special meeting of the Council next Monday night. The coal sheds built on town land on the market square are up for sale and it is possible that one of these will be purchased for the purpose of sheltering the valuable machinery from the weather.

A Good Investment.

The purchase of the steam roller and scarifier is still regarded as a good investment by the councillors and the public generally. It was stated last night that next year only a small appropriation for street work will be required, as almost everything necessary in the way of improvement can be done with the new outfit.

A suggestion by Councillor Stone that later in the season the roller and scarifier be run lightly over the streets again to get them in good shape for the winter, was concurred in.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges was authorized to have trimmed a tree growing on the property of C. A. Wilson at Bridge and Ranney Street, a limb of which overhangs the street; obscuring the view and making traffic dangerous. This matter was called to the attention of Deputy-Reeve Palliser, who brought it before the Council, by J. I. Adams, who recently had a narrow escape from an auto accident at that point.

"To build up a rundown constitution or to strengthen the nerves, I know of no better medicine than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," said Chas. M. Brush of 408 Caron Ave., Windsor, Ont. "I had become in a rundown condition, my nerves were bad, and my stomach gave me a great deal of trouble; I would have spells of nervous indigestion. But after taking a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, my health was much improved and my nerves were stronger. I did not have any more spells of nervous indigestion. 'Golden Medical Discovery' seemed to tone up my entire system and made me feel much improved physically."

The car that put the War in Warren

JIM WARREN bought a car—the "Ginger-bread Six."

Never heard of it before, but he happened to be walking along Automobile Row and during a lapse moment his foot slipped—he stepped inside.

"Nifty boat," said the salesman.

"Not bad," said Jim, as paint and doo-dabs got in their hypnotic work.

"But why isn't it advertised?" asked Jim.

"Don't need to advertise a job like that," was the forearmed reply. Sounded logical. But—

Six months later Jim had a collection of bolts and grease-cups and broken springs and disjointed steering mechanism and a motor that almost ran.

"Never again!" said Jim. "The car that's little known and never advertised hasn't much responsibility; little to live up to. Before I buy another car—or another anything—I'm going to get the facts. I'm going to read the advertisements about automobiles—or whatever I'm buying."

Advertisements are an invaluable guide to intelligent buying. Read them regularly

ROYAL GETS "OH DOCTOR" WITH REGINALD DENNY

The proof of a picture's popularity is when all critics agree. Read what New York's picture-sick critics say about "Oh Doctor," which comes to the Royal tomorrow.

"Go see Reg. Denny in a Dizzy, Delightful Film. It's a peach. Hilariously funny."

—Mildred Spain, in Daily News.

"Uproarious comedy. A laugh a minute. Guaranteed to keep you simply convulsed with laughter."

—Dorothy Herzog in Daily Mirror.

"Excellent farce. Justifies itself on the number of laughs to the square foot."

—Telegram.

—Robt. Sherwood in Life.

"Unanimously called good."

—Quinn Martin in The World.

"I am always sold on any Denny picture. 'Oh Doctor' is the best thing the Picadilly Theatre has had since it opened its doors."

—Louella Parsons in The American.

COLLEEN MOORE SAYS "SO BIG" IS HER GREATEST PICTURE.

We have Colleen Moore's word for it in a letter to Mr. McGeachie, that "So Big" is considered by Miss Moore herself to be her greatest role. The letter is on display in photo frame in front of the Royal.

Whether it is her greatest picture or not is a matter of individual taste in pictures.

We will say, after reading "So Big," that the picture is a faithful adoption of Miss Ferber's novel that was one of last year's best sellers and judging from the large number of ladies at the Royal at every performance, the book must have had a large sale locally, or is it Miss Moore's popularity? If you are a woman see it to-night.

AT THE REGENT

CHAPLIN CHOSE BROTHER TO BE "CHARLEY'S AUNT."

It was at the suggestion of his famous brother Charlie that Syd Chaplin was given the title role of "Charley's Aunt," the screen version of the great farce by Brandon Thomas which is playing at the Regent Theatre for a 3-day run.

When the film rights were secured by Ideal Films, London, Charlie Chaplin cabled them that in his opinion the logical man to play the famous role of "Charley's Aunt from Brazil where the nuts come from" was his brother Sydney; so the Ideal Company and Christie Film Company set about securing Syd Chaplin for the title role.

He played "Charley's Aunt" on the stage in England and brings to the picture the talent which he has shown for riotous comedy in such motion pictures as "The Pilgrim," "The Galloping Fish," "Her Temporary Husband" and "The Perfect Flapper."

George Jean Nathan, the eminent critic, called Sydney Chaplin "the finest comedian on the screen." His performance comes from a long theatrical training. He was born in Johannesburg, South Africa, while his parents were on tour. As children both he and his brother Charlie were trained in mimicry and pantomime and they played many and various roles in England. After a short adventurous career at sea, Sydney returned to England, and soon made his way to a stellar position with the Fred Karno shows. Sydney came over to America, preceded by Charlie, who also had been with the Karno organization. The first stage of Syd's screen career was his starring in "The Submarine Pirate," which still stands out as one of the first and most laughable feature-length comedies.

It is said that Syd Chaplin has more than fulfilled everyone's expectation in his screen interpretation of "Charley's Aunt." It is considered the best thing he has ever done.

AT THE CAPITOL

OPENING OF RED SEA SHOWN IN 'THE TEN COMMANDMENTS'

Will Rogers, in speaking of his inauguration as President, in case the people of the United States had chosen him instead of Calvin Coolidge, said:

"In my movie contingent I would have had Cecil DeMille (of "Ten Commandments" fame) part the waters of the Potomac and let the people west of the river come over. If he divided the Red Sea, it ought to be a cinch to handle the Potomac (it's more a name than a river, anyway)."

Mr. Rogers, like so many others, has been impressed by the marvelous feat of photography in this picture, the parting of the waters to allow the Israelites to pass through.

The waters of the sea actually divide. A path is opened. On the side, huge walls of water glisten. The children of Israel walk through and arrive safely on the opposite shore. Pharaoh's chariots follow. They are about to reach safety when the waters close. Men and animals are tossed around and drowned in the angry sea. It is one of those scenes which is breath-taking.

"The Ten Commandments" will be shown for the first time at popular prices to-morrow. The Capitol Theatre will house it for a run of three days.

AT THE GRAND

"WHITE CARGO"

Theatregoers who see "White Cargo" will be given a surprise, impressive and unexpected when a company of superior excellence presents Earl Carroll's notable dramatic success of New York, Chicago and London. "White Cargo" in a manner has of it something to be remembered through many a long day. It's so big and gripping that it takes hold of the emotions and twists them like a leaf in a storm.

"White Cargo" is a vivid love story of the tropics. The long unbroken run of the show in New York, London and Chicago established it as an offering of dynamic force and distinctive appeal, pronouncing it one of the biggest and most sensational plays ever seen. The applause that follows scene after scene and the sum of commendatory discussion throughout the house is something not heard in theatres in a long time. The audience by its repeated applause admits its bigness.

"White Cargo" is nothing if not daring. Don't forget that for a moment but—remember this also—it took bad women to make history blaze and empires crumble. When you see "White Cargo" you'll think of all the temptation you (the men), ever experienced. It's that sort of play—it makes you think and feel as you've seldom ever thought or felt.

The show presents the unusual situation of a group of white men, two of them employes of a rubber company in charge of a plantation, an aged doctor given to inebrity and a missionary residing in the reeking sweaty atmosphere of tropical West Africa, these men all getting the damp rot of the jungle into their physical and moral fibre.

The cast is one of extraordinary merit, particularly is the role of well handled—brilliantly so in fact. In the opinion of all who have witnessed this wonder play the entire cast is well balanced and ably acted.

"White Cargo" with its original cast and scenic effects comes to the Grand on Friday, September 11.

ON THE STAGE.

Record Drama Run for "White Cargo" Completes 96th Week in New York—Several Companies Will Tour.

"White Cargo" completes its 96th week with its 786th performance at the 39th St. Theatre, thus surpassing "Rain," until now the holder of the long-run record for dramas on Broadway. "Rain" played 741 performances. "Abie's Irish Rose" has a higher record, but that is in the comedy class.

Leon Gordon, author of "White Cargo" had considerable difficulty getting his play on at all. It was very nearly abandoned several times when it was first put on rehearsal in the fall of 1923. Carroll finally took hold of the piece and put up just enough money to ring up the curtain.

Business picked up and the production moved up to Daly's 63rd St. Theatre. There it remained for 15 months, doing capacity business. Last March "White Cargo" attained to Broadway, and has been playing at the Comedy and then at the 39th St. Theatre ever since, and still looks good for a reasonable period. On the road the piece has proved very profitable. As many as 10 companies were presenting the drama at one time last season. Several companies are on tour again this fall.

RUM MEN'S REVENGE.

Blamed For Murder of W.C. T.U. Head in Iowa.

VINTON, Iowa, Sept. 9.—Bootleggers' revenge against the Women's Christian Temperance Union was blamed here today for the murder of Mrs. C. B. Cook, president of the Benton County Chapter.

Mrs. Cook died Tuesday from a bullet wound near the heart. She was shot by an unknown assailant as she sat near a window in her home Monday.

Authorities declared they believed the murder was committed by bootleggers. Mrs. Cook had given testimony in several important cases, and helped to convict several booze runners.

Fans and players are asked to watch for an announcement of the organization meeting.

FOUR BUSINESS

while other places they were ignored. Entrance was effected in the same general manner.

Mr. Akey, who has a place of business near Manning's Garage, reports that at about two o'clock he heard his dog barking, and on looking out he saw a rather short man running across the corner of Brock and Aylmer.

This morning, when employees at the garage returned they found the office window broken, the doors of the safe open, and half-burned matches scattered on the floor in front of the combination. The cash box had been taken out into the main part of the garage, where the battery charger gave light with which to examine the loot. The paper and silver currency alone were taken, a large number of coppers and cheques being left. A stone was used to break the window glass, and the police took a portion which they claimed bore finger prints.

Took 99 Cents.

Duffus Garage reports a visible loss of some 99 cents, which amount had been left in the till of the register. They believe that it must have been some yegg unacquainted with the lay-out of the building, as a very devious route was taken. A window in the rear was smashed, which permitted an entrance to the paint shop. It was then necessary for the intending thieves to break down a door and also the twin glass doors at the stock-room wicket through which they crawled. No tires or accessories were reported missing.

The enterprising artist also left evidences of his nefarious work at Coleman's, where he smashed the glass of a window and took a supply of paint pots off the table to clear a path for his body. Some 20 cents rewarded his efforts there, and he left by the rear doors, which he allowed to remain open.

At the Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Company one window was tried, and as it resisted the effort, a ladder was erected before another on an upper floor. Having gained entrance there were evidences shown of a search for the safe key, and more matches were burned as a considerable quantity littered the floor. The $13.92 cheque, payable to J. N. Burt, Toronto, was the only valuable article lifted, although a box of matches was also pilfered, presumably to augment his depleted supply.

The police have plenty of material to work upon, and had a busy day investigating the evidence at hand.

VICTORY FOR CONSERVATIVES IS FORESEEN BY W. H. BRADBURN

Local M.P.P. is Confident That His Party Will Capture Dominion.

SUPPORTS TARIFF.

Protection For Wage Earner and Stimulation of Industry Required.

"I think the Conservatives are going to win." Thus W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., expressed himself this morning, when asked for his forecast of the results of the appeal to the country.

Mr. Bradburn said the major question on which he personally took direct issue with the Government was that of the tariff. A tariff must be fixed, he said, to protect the mechanic and the carpenter. What was the use of maintaining the necessities of life at a cheap basis, if the result was that the wage-earner had not sufficient money to buy his requirements at any price? Granted that the tariff might raise prices to some extent, no one could cavil, if by means of that tariff the worker was provided with plenty of work and good wages to pay the higher cost. Across the line, there was a high tariff wall. There, business was good, and was steadily getting better, taxes were being reduced every year, and any attempt to induce Canadians who had gone there to return to this country would meet with scant success if present conditions prevailed here.

In the latter portion of the last century, said Mr. Bradburn, things were very bad in Canada, and a Conservative party came into power and imposed a tariff which stimulated industry wonderfully. When Sir Wilfred Laurier took over the Government in 1896 he was not foolish enough to knock down the wall that had been raised, with such beneficial consequences. Mr Bradburn pointed out that there was a moral in this for present-day electors.

The Provincial member laid stress on the fact that the imposition of a tariff did not mean that the manufacturer could sit tight and wax rich at the expense of the consumer Tariffs, he thought, should be fixed and adjusted when necessary by a commission on which would rest the onus of protecting the public from those who would conceive of tariffs as something instituted for the benefit of a few privileged manufacturer. The idea underlying the tariff was that of giving the home worker a chance against unfair outside competition.

Reform of the Senate, Mr. Bradburn considered merely a minor problem. In fact, he said if the Liberals could secure a majority in that Chamber, there would probably be no talk whatever of Senate reform. The Senate problem, he said, would solve itself. He thought if any change were effected, it should be in the direction of electing the members instead of appointing them for life, as at present.

The country needed increased population. The position in the country was just the same as here in Peterborough. If the numbers did not increase in the city, there would be no increase in the quantities of commodities required. Consequently, there would be no increase of business. Further, on the shoulders of the same small population would fall the crushing burden of taxation. New arrivals would help to develop the country, would make greater demands on the railway services, and would share in paying the heavy taxation. A certain amount of discrimination was necessary with regard to immigration. What Canada wanted was the best, not the dregs of Europe, and severe restrictions should be placed on candidates for admission from Southern Europe.

As to railways, Mr. Bradburn had not a great deal to say. Many of the problems, he thought, could be solved by the giving the joint Railway Board wider powers than at present exercised. Some endeavor should be made, he thought, to eliminate duplication. The spectacle of two trains travelling almost simultaneously from Montreal to Toronto, each carrying half a passenger load was not one to inspire hope for the future. This duplication might be all right over in the States where the trains were passing through cities of 150,000 upwards at frequent points between terminals but was intolerable in an area occupied by towns about the average size of Cobourg or Port Hope.

"I support the Conservative party," concluded Mr. Bradburn, "because I believe it has a policy which is for the good of the country. The King Government has failed. It is now time to put in another and give it a fair trial."

NEW DOMINION LOAN OFFERED TO CANADIANS ON LONG TERM

Bonds Put on Market Through Strong Syndicate Yesterday.

FOR REFUNDING

Interest Return on New Issue is Over 4.75 Per Cent.

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—(Special to The Examiner).—Announcement has just been made by Honorable J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, that the Dominion Government has concluded its financial plans for the year by disposing of a new issue of $75,000,000 fifteen year 4½ per cent. bonds through a strong Canadian syndicate, consisting of Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited, Wood Gundy and Company, A. E. Ames and Company, Limited, and National City Company, Limited, the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The bonds are being offered to the public through practically every bond dealer and stockbroker in Canada, as well as through chartered banks. In arranging for this long-term financing in Canada rather than in another market, the Government has followed the policy that has been almost rigidly adhered to during the last several years. The Victory Loans of 1917, 1918 and 1919 were planned for the Canadian market solely and the refunding loans of 1923 and 1924 were offered in the same manner. Short-term financing, such as one-year note issues, have been placed in the United States, where the demand for such short-term bonds is so strong that such borrowing is cheap. These short-term notes, however, are of interest only to the large financial institutions and others who definitely require the return of their money within a very short period.

For Refunding.

It is understood that the proceeds of the wew issue will be used for refunding purposes, including the retirement of $42,000,000 of tax free bonds which will fall due on December 1st next. In this manner also the strict policy of retiring tax free bonds by the usual taxable issues is being followed.

It is believed that the new issue should prove exceedingly attractive to Canadian investors. The maturity is fifteen years. In other words, these bonds run for the same number of years as did the 1934 maturity bonds when issued in 1919 and which have become so popular among investors of all classes.

The new bonds are being offered at 97.25 and interest, at which the interest return is over 4.75 per cent. Because of the success of the 1923 and 1924 refunding loans, it is believed in financial circles that the present issue will be quickly snapped up. Investors who were fortunate enough to have purchased the 1923 issue of refunding loan bonds have had the satisfaction of watching their bonds rise in value by more than four points, while those who purchased last year have also witnessed a substantial improvement upon the price paid. It is a fact that all Dominion of Canada issues floated since the war are now selling at a substantial premium over the original issue price.

In considering the new loan, another point upon which comment has been made is that new offerings of the highest grade of bonds have been scarce during the last few weeks, and from all indications, the volume of new bond issues will be unusually light during the remainder of the year. No more Dominion Government financing is expected, and most of the provinces and large municipalities have already completed their requirements.

Dealers prominently associated with the issue are urging clients to enter applications as quickly as possible. Similarly to last year orders will be accepted by any bond dealer, stock exchange broker, or by any branch of any chartered bank.

Strength Of Oil Shares Feature At New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Revival of speculative activity and the strength of Oil shares, several of which advanced 2 to 3 points, featured the resumption of the upward movement of prices in to-day's stock market, with traders apparently convinced that the current stiffness of call money was only temporary.

Traction Issues Led On Toronto Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— The strength of traction issues was the chief characteristic of the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Elsewhere the list tended to lower price levels, though trading was heavy and spread over one of the widest lists yet dealt in. Winnipeg Railway advanced 2 1-2 at 49 1-2 and C. P. R. in light dealings was marked up to 143 1-2, a point and a quarter gain. Brazilian, the leader in the activity, eased down one-eighth at 73 1-8 and Canada Bread was down a quarter at 59 3-4. City Dairy also eased a quarter of a point. Consolidated Smelters, Canadian Canners preferred and Dominion Stores common were all marked down a full point.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE EXHIBITION NEXT WEEK

Never Before Has There Been Such Extensive Preparations Made.

President Denne and directors are to meet in the Exhibition grounds next Monday evening, the final meeting before the opening of the Fair the following day to see that everything is in shape for what will be the greatest Fall Exhibition the County of Peterborough and Central Ontario District has ever had. If the week is fine it will permit of those attending the Fair seeing an overflowing exhibit in every class which is promised by the entries and enquiries now being received by Secretary F. J. A. Hall. Cattle and live stock of every kind will be well represented; grains, roots, and in fact everything the farmer produces this year promises to be on exhibit in abundance.

From the amusement standpoint it will be the finest ever attempted here. A half mile straight of midway with seven great riding drivers and fascinating games of every description.

The Grand Stand performance is of the highest order. Al Sweet and his singing band being a high class feature and worth the price of admission alone, and in addition the grand stand performers have been carefully chosen for their ability to thrill and entertain.

Wednesday afternoon will see Francois give his marvellous demonstration of mental telepathy by driving a car, securely blindfolded, at 60 miles an hour around the track.

Without a doubt this year's Fair is the greatest yet. Just give us fine weather and all records will be broken.

HIGHER TARIFF WOULD INCREASE CANADA'S TAXES

Assertion of Premier at Guelph—Would Be Destructive of National Unity.

WEST IS OPPOSED.

King Says He Formed First Ministry Representing All Canada.

GUELPH, Sept. 10 (Staff Correspondent Canadian Press) — The tariff is a tax; high protection would mean greater taxation and be destructive of national unity — these were the main thoughts which Premier King impressed on a meeting held here ysterday afternoon under the auspices of the Women's Liberal Association of South Wellington.

Premier King is already showing the stress of campaign. He is suffering from hoarseness and his speech was brief.

He stressed the point that the main spring of the government's policy had been a desire for national unity; and to this end, instanced the course he had followed in forming his cabinet.

In the last election, few Liberals were elected in the Western provinces. None the less, said Mr. King, he had set out to return good for evil. He had sought to see if good and fair cabinet representation could not be given to the west. He had invited Mr. Motherwell, the only Liberal elected in Saskatchewan, to join the government as representative from that province. In Alberta there were no Liberals elected and Mr. King related how he had tried to get two or three Progressives to allow one of their number to resign in order that a seat might be found for Mr. Stewart.

Progressives Aloof

"They felt at the time, however," the Prime Minister went on, "That they had done pretty well and were not going to make a break in their ranks. They were not sure whether they would not gain more power and they refused." A seat was found for Mr. Stewart in Quebec and Dr. King joined the administration from British Columbia. . In regard to Manitoba it was doubted at the time whether, if Mr. McMurray's seat were opened, he would succeed. "But we wanted the people of the West to see how sincere we were," said the premier, "and we asked Mr. McMurray to join the government. Then ,for the first time in the history of Canada, we had ministers of the crown representing every province in the dominion. That is a big achievment in itself. . That is about as good evidence as the country could wish to have of the desire of the administration to do what is fair by LONDON, Sept. 10.—(United Press).—"Going, going," said J. W. Poole, auctioneer, selling off the contents of a house at Crabbs Cross, Worcestershire. No one responded.

BISHOP O'BRIEN LEAVES TO-NIGHT

Rev. P. Costello, Parish Priest of St. Peters Cathedral, was host yesterday at St. Peter's Rectory to about thirty-five priests of the diocese, assembled at a banquet arranged as a formal leave-taking of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who departs this evening for a two months 'sojourn in the Old Country, during which time he will visit Rome, to take part in the observances of the Holy Year now being solemnized and will also spend some time in England and France, where he will will visit the tomb of Ste. Therese of Lisieux, and Paray Le Monial, where the apparition appeared to St Margaret Mary.

The catering for the banquet was excellent, and was provided by Messrs. T. Hooper & Sons. Rt. Rev Monsignor McColl, Vicar General and administrator of the diocese in the absence of the Bishop, acted as toastmaster and made the presentation from the priests of the diocese, a substantial purse of gold, to His Lordship, who acknowledged the gift in his usual eloquent fashion. Short speeches were made by Dean Whibbs of Lindsay, Dean Kelly of Trout Creek, Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, president of the Cathoic Truth Society, Toronto, Rev. .P. J. McGuire, Monsignor Blair of the Catholic Church Extension Society, Toronto, and Rev. P. Costello, who thanked the priests for their attendance.

After special services in St. Peter's Cathedral at eight o'clock this evening, His Lordship will leave on the 9.10 C. N. R. train, en route for Montreal, to sail for Europe on Saturday morning

HOW THE RED SEA OPENED IN "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS."

The opening of the Red Sea is the biggest scene in "The Ten Commandments," the Paramount Picture now at the Capitol Theatre. Anyone who thinks the days of miracles are past has only to see this modern miracle performed on the screen.

When it was first shown many theories were advanced as to how it was done. But most of them were wrong. Mr. DeMille has so well guarded his secret that few people even to-day know how the technical effects were achieved. Roy Pomeroy, Cecil B. DeMille's technical director, is naturally inclined to preserve his secret of how he planned and achieved the effects of this thrilling scene.

CHAMBERLAIN IN LEAGUE SPEECH DEFENDS PACT

Britain Rejected Protocol Because Prevention of War Is Needed.

PROTOCOL FOR LATINS.

Moral Condemnation of Peace Disturbers Would Be Powerful Factor.

GENEVA, Sept. 10. — (United Press).—Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain of England to-day came out before the League of Nations Assembly for "regional agreements" as the best method for European pacification.

Explaining that his nation had rejected the Geneva protocol, "because prevention of international crime is more important than punishments," Chamberlain declared the Geneva plan was "adapted to the minds and needs of the Latin race but not to the Anglo-Saxon conception of realities."

His speech was viewed as a direct defence of the proposed Allied-German security pact, and as a move perhaps intended to thwart a latent movement among the Latin-Americans for retaining the Geneva pact in one form or another.

He emphasized that the world-wide moral condemnation of peace disturbers would be more powerful as a factor in keeping the world out of war than would the military and naval sanction envisaged by the protocol.

MEIGHEN SEES VICTORY SIGN

Conservative Star is on Ascendant, He Says at Bowmanville.

BIG RECEPTION.

BOWMANVILLE, September 10. —By Staff Correspondent of Canadian Press.) —"If I am asked what the prospects for a Conservative victory in the coming elections look like, I will say that they could not possibly look better," said Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader, speaking at a gathering at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Hillier here at noon to-day.

Mr. Meighen stopped at Bowmanville, on his way to the Conservative celebratios at Bethany, Ont.

The gathering here was in the nature of a public reception and was attended by the high school students of the town in a body.

The Conservative leader told his audience that the wave of sentiment in favor of the Conservative party was rising.

C.P.R. WILL TRY TO KEEP TRAFFIC

Business Built Up in 40 Years Will Be Retained, Says Beatty.

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press)—Representatives of Canada's transportation interests were guests of the Canadian National Exhibition today; E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway being the chief speaker at the directors' luncheon.

Mr. Beatty declared that the only safe and certain cure for the relief of the Dominion railway obligations rested upon the country's industrial and agricultural development. Referring to suggestions made regarding co-operation between the C.P.R. and the C.N.R., the president said that with a general election pending, the present was not the time to express any personal views on the subject.

"We propose, however, by every legitimate and fair means within our power to endeavor to retain the traffice which we have spent forty years in developing, and we propose further by judicious and carefully planned extensions to assist in the development of new territory," Mr. Beatty declared.

Concluding his address in an optimistic note, Mr. Beatty said that, judged from traffic returns, business was on the upgrade and prospects for the future much better than they were a year ago.

MAN IN HOSPITAL AFTER QUARREL WITH LABORER

Teamster Directing Construction of Skidway, Hit on Neck With Axe.

DIFFERED OVER WORK.

Two Men Could Not Agree on Proper Way to Build Structure.

NORTH BAY, Sept, 10 (Canadian Press).—George Bond, a teamster for the Canadian Timber Company, is in hospital, his life practically despaired of, and Geo. Coutchier, a laborer, is in jail here as the result of a row at the camp of the Canadian Timber Company near Kenney yesterday.

According to the police, the men were busy building a skidway and an argument arose between Bond, who was in charge, and Coutchier as to the best method of proceeding. In the heat of the argument Coutchier is said to have picked up an axe and lashed out at Bond, striking him in the back of the neck just at the base of the skull. The cut is seven inches long and an inch and a half deep.

FLOWER SHOW OPEN TO-NIGHT

Preparations Under Way For Second Annual Exhibition in Armouries.

GOOD EXHIBITS.

Preparations are well under way for the grand opening at seven o'clock to-night of the second annual flower show of the Peterboro Horticultural Society, held in the Armories. All day long busy workers have been getting ready for the event, which marks the second milepost on Peterboro's upward ascent on the floral way.

The big grey building was filled this morning with long tables, which will be covered this evening with the flowers which were borne in all afternoon, and constitute a colorful, brave demonstration of what the city can do in the way of turning out beautiful flowers and plants. There will be wall exhibits as well as the table display, with palms, ferns and potted plants arranged in the manner best calculated to exhibit their beauties. Another interesting exhibit is the special class devoted to floral decoration for and on dinner tables set with linen only, for which there are several entries.

Many Prizes.

The official booth of the Horticultural Society will contain the silver cups and trophies which will be presented, along with other awards won in connection with the annual lawn and garden competition. To-morrow evening's programme includes these presentations and a special musical programme. Dr. J. E. Middleton, president of the society, will make the presentations.

A refreshment booth, conducted by the organization, will be in charge of Mrs. R. R. Hall, convenor of the Entertainment Committee.

Mr. F. Stinson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and actively engaged in promoting the success of the flower show, anticipates an attendance to surpass the eight hundred mark reached last season, and also computes the number of entries as in the neighborhood of seven hundred and fifty, an increase over last year's total of about five hundred entries.

The splendid illuminated sign which is posted over the main entrance to the Armories Building and can be read at a considerable distance, beckons every citizen to the flower show, where the garden's finest blooms may be seen to the best possible advantage.

62 SAILORS ARE IMPRISONED FOR DESERTING SHIP

Australian Court Also Imposed Fines of £2 Each—Others Invite Penalty.

COURSE OF STRIKE

Situation Easier in South Africa and Britain—Crews Obtained.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The early collapse of the unofficial strike of British seamen at Cape Town was foreshadowed by reports from there last night. The steamers Suevic and Magician, which have been laid up at Cape Town by the strike, sailed last night for Australian ports.

The situation continued to be serious in Australia, where it has been serious since the start, and became no worse in the United Kingdom, where thus far it has not made much headway.

At Melbourne sixty-two seamen of the crew of the Liverpool steamer Ascanius were sentenced to two week's imprisonment and fined £2 each for disobeying orders. Summonses have been issued against a large number of other seamen. The attitude of the strikers in regard to this process is pretty well indicated by the announcement made yesterday that the crews of three other affected steamers have decided to march to the city watch-house to-day in column of fours in order to expedite the execution of summonses against them.

At Glasgow the liner Letitia, scheduled to sail Friday for Montreal, has signed on a full crew. Her owners announced yesterday that a picket of the Marine Workers' Union posted near her dock had failed to dissuade her crew from assuming contracts for the voyage. Otherwise, the situation in the Clyde shipping centre is quiet.

The coastal and cross-Channel services aren ot being interfered with. Reports from all other United Kingdom ports tell the same story—that all ships scheduled to depart have done so and that services are being conducted normally.

CHINESE STRUGGLE IS JUST BEGINNING

Fight For Independence Will Have Great Results, Says Karakhan.

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The Chinese struggle for national independence is only at its beginning and will have great consequences soon. This statement was made yesterday by M. Karakham, Russian Ambassador to China, who has arrived here on a vacation.

M. Karakham attaches the greatest importance to the events in Canton, where the movement, in his opinion, is deep rooted. He says the Canton Government is a solid one and that there is no danger of internal controversy.

Pig Born With Elephant's Head on the Norwood Road

When is a pig not a pig? The answer is to be found at Stan. Blewett's livery in Hunter Street where a freak is on view which embodies some features belonging to the pig, the elephant, the cow, and at least on other characteristic that belong to neither of these animals. The biological curiosity is the body of a young pig, which has a tiny elephant head with a small trunk having a minute passage, a rudimentary tusk, two pairs of eyes, each placed on a much lower position on the head than is usually the case with pigs, and feet exactly like those of a cow.

This monstrosity is slightly larger than the average newly born pig and was dead when born, and was one of a litter of two, born to a sow on the farm of William Brown about three miles from the city on the Norwood Road. The other little animal is quite an ordinary well-behaved young grunter and is proceeding along normal lines of development.

Large crowds have thronged the livery all day and many ingenious theories are being advanced as explanations of the phenomenon.

Senator Smoot Says She Cannot Hope For More Favorable Terms.

IS DEBT CHAIRMAN.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 10. Canadian Press. — France cannot hope for a more favorable settlement of her war debt to the United States than was awarded to Great Britain, Senator Reed Smoot declared in an address here.

He is chairman of the United States' Debt Funding Commission.

INVITATION TO GERMANY TO MEET ALLIES IN SECURITY PARLEY IS DELAYED BY PROBLEM OF POLAND

Allies Embarrassed by Requests of Poland and Czechoslovakia to Attend.

FRIENDS OF FRANCE

England Would Restrict Conversations to Allies and Germany.

GENEVA, Sept. 10. — (Canadian Press).—The despatching of an invitation to Germany to send her Foreign Minister to meet the Allied representatives in a first conference to discuss the proposed security pact is being delayed, largely due to embarrassment among the Allies as to how to treat Poland and Czechoslovakia, both of which ardently desire to be represented.

France is particularly embarrassed because she is in alliance with both these countries, and neither wishes to abandon them nor seem to be ignoring their interests. England seems to be determined to restrict the conversations with the German Foreign Minister to France, Belgium, Italy and herself, feeling strongly that the proposed Rhineland pact should be handled as a separate concrete issue and not tied up with or complicated by any attempts to settle the security problems between Germany and Germany's eastern neighbors.

Eastern Fears.

Poland and Czechoslovakia, however, fear that they may be left in the lurch if the main German security pact is negotiated without constant account being taken of arbitral arrangements to be concluded later between them and Germany.

French spokesmen said last night that if Poland and Czechoslovakia are not actual participants in the first meeting with Germany's representative they would not be far removed from the meeting place, which means that France will confer constantly with her allies during the conference.

Franco-Spanish Army Ready For Big Drive Against Abd-el-Krim

Twelve Thousand Spaniards Meet Little Resistance, But Another Force Loses 250 Killed — Riffs Bombard Hospital — Attacking Forces Anticipate Riff Surrender

ATTACK ON ENTIRE FRONT TO-DAY.

PARIS, September 10—(United Press)—The combined power of French and Spanish military is about to descend upon Abd-El-Krim.

While 12,000 Spaniards push their way from Alhucemas Bay, with little resistence, against Ajadar, his capital, still other forces are reported to have landed at Cape Quilates to back up the thrust.

Thousands of other Spanish and French soldiers are waiting for the zero hour across Morocco to unleash the long heralded offensive.

The landing action which began Tuesday continued yesterday when artillery supplies and auxiliary forces were brought up. The reported Cape Quilates landing is not officially verified, but advices from the fighting zone claim that this action was taken to divert Krim's attention from Tetuan.

Spanish Losses Heavy.

LONDON, (United Press) — Of 1,000 Spanish troops engaged in fighting the Riffians at Fondak, on Tuesday, 250 were killed according to the Daily Mails correspondent at Tangier. The Riff artillery has bombarded the military hospital at Tetuan and both sides have suffered serious losses in the fighting, which is still raging at Benkarrich, according to the same dispatch.

CRERAR WON'T CONTEST SEAT

Progressive Member For Marquette Will Not Accept Progressive Nomination.

BUSINESS REASONS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. T. A. Crerar has declined to allow his name to come up for nomination at the convention to be held at Shoal Lake, Man., Sept. 23, to choose a Progressive candidate to contest the constituency of Marquette at the Federal election.

Mr. Crerar represented the constituency in the last Parliament, and his refusal to accept the nomination has come as a surprise to the Progressive party leaders in the province.

Mr. Crerar made his announcement yesterday at a meeting of the Marquette Progressive political committee at Shoal Lake. Business and personal reasons, he told the committee, made it impossible for him to accept the nomination.

MOORELANDS FRESH AIR CAMP IS MOST DELIGHTFUL RESORT

City-Wearied Mothers and Children Gain New Lease on Health.

MANY PARTIES

Wholesome Food and Lively Sports and the Great Outdoors.

MADOC, Sept. 10.—In these days when public attention is being turned so much to fresh air camps, it is interesting to hear of a camp on Lake Simcoe that is considered one of the best equipped camps in Ontario.

Moorelands, as the camp is called, is delightfully situated on the shore of Lake Simcoe, about two miles from Beaverton. The C.N.R. tracks are just at the back of the camp and a flag station has been built, so that each party may entrain and arrive within two or three minutes' walk of the house. A party usually consists of mothers and children up to eight years of age, numbering in all between seventy-five and eighty members. This, with the staff and the cottage children, bring the total to about one hundred. A superintendent and a trained nurse are in charge and there are usually five or six volunteer workers. Each party stays for twelve days, arriving on Thursdays and leaving on Tuesdays, thus allowing two days for preparation.

The main building is a large one-storied house, shaped somewhat like an aeroplane. In the centre is a large airy living-room, lighted by wide screened windows, and also by a circle of windows in a cupola. A big fire place and a piano add to the general cheeriness and comfort of the room. Behind the living-room is a spacious dining-room, also with a fireplace, and behind that a large convenient kitchen. Opening off the living-room on either side are long dormitories with two-bedded rooms on one side of each corridor, and four-bedded rooms on the other side. At the end of each corridor are rooms for the superintendent and other helpers; and a nursery fitted out with a complete medicine chest and first aid kit, also baby tubs and baskets.

The plant is equipped with running water, electric light and telephone. Wide verandas extend all across the front of the house, which faces westward over the lake, giving weary city dwellers a chance to see one of the most perfect sights, a sunset across the lake. Large spacious grounds give plenty of room for children to play; fine old trees afford shade and a convenient place for swings, and rustic steps lead down the bank to a splendid beach quite safe for small bathers.

Besides the main house there is a cottage which will accommodate eleven children and two helpers. These children are kept for one month or all summer, and it is a great satisfaction to see the little pale faces a healthy brown at the end of the season, and to note the greatly increased activity of some timid or backward children.

A beautiful chapel has been erected on the grounds, and clergy from Toronto take the services each Sunday.

A very fine garden supplies the camp with potatoes, carrots, beans, beets, lettuce, onions and other vegetables. Excellent meals are served, and the bracing air soon gives every one the regulation "camp appetite."

In such a place as this, tired mothers soon become rested and refreshed. Their burdens and responsibilities roll off their shoulders, and it is an inspiring sight to see them plunging into the blue waters of the lake, running races on field day, playing games at the grown-up "children's party," and eagerly making costumes for the masquerade. Every evening is a jolly one with games and old-fashioned dances, and the big room rings with merry laughter while the wee tots sleep peacefully after a long day's play.

It is small wonder that many families look forward every year to this outing at Moorelands, and weep when the inevitable Tuesday departure arrives.

More than 10,000 tons of lead were used to sheath the great copper telephone cable just completed between New York and Chicago.

PRACTICAL JOKE.

Someone Tied Down Whistle on Steam Engine, Awaking Neighborhood.

BAILIEBORO, Sept. 10.—A lot of excitement was caused on Friday evening last, about 10.30, when somebody tied the whistle on Jas. Fall's steam engine, and for about three-quarters of an hour the whistle could be heard for miles over the country side in the quiet night air. Mr. Falls was threshing at H. Barnard's farm and no one was living on the farm where the the threshing was going on. Everybody was awakened by the sound the whistle and their first thought was that a fire had broken out and the whistle was a call for help. It took considerable time for Mr. Barnard to get from his own home up to his other farm, and when he got there was greatly relieved to find that only some mischief maker had played a practical joke by tying the whistle down.

SHE WAS WEAK, THIN AND NERVOUS

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Extract—it's full of vitamines.

Thank goodness! that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and don't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help as all druggists are now selling McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, rundown men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamines in condensed form, that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine. Harris Drug Store, McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch and Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere are selling lots of them.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF HENRY HUGHES UNSOLVED

Twelve Months Ago Today Aged Dummer Man Was Lost.

NO TRACE FOUND

Searchers Gave Up and Only Bush and Swamp Know Secret.

One year ago to-day, Henry Hughes, 74 years of age, left his home in Centre Dummer, and his failure to return, initiated one of the mysteries of this district that have remained unsolved.

Hughes and his wife, who was a year younger, occupied a house with 100 acres of land, which were only capable of being used as pasture. On this unproductive territory they maintained themselves by selling the milk supplied by five cows and by raising some poultry.

Some time in the neighborhood of 4 o'clock Hughes went out into the bush to bring home the cows. Some neighboring farmers who were in the vicinity, heard the sound of the tinkling cow bells—which has led to the conjecture that Hughes had come with the cattle and was intent on driving them homewards.

His aged wife awaited his coming until long past his usual time of arrival, when becoming alarmed she ventured out into the bush. Until a late hour she kept up the search.

Then she called on Mrs. Haron, one of her two neighbors in that lonely sector. The other neighbor was Richard Lindsay, an Indian. Others were made acquainted with the mysterious disappearance, and that night and all through the next day, parties of volunteers travelled all over the area in a vain attempt to locate the missing man.

On the Sunday after the disappearance 200 men made a systematic search of the bush, each man ten yards from his neighbor, often crawling on hands and knees, and searching every nook and cranny for miles without result. The man had dropped as completely as though he had gone up in the air.

On succeeding days although hope dwindled to the vanishing point, the quest was taken up by increasing numbers; on one occasion 13 car loads of men took part in the search, assisted by the Provincial constable. The long grass was beaten down by the feet of scores of settlers, but no sign of the missing veteran rewarded their efforts.

Always Nervous.

According to his wife, Hughes was always very nervous in the bush, and was never known to leave the path. The bush in that district is one of the wildest and most danegrous in the province and the possibilities of being lost and wandering in the maze are frightfully apparent. An additional menace to be faced is that of the Rotten Lake, a bottomless swamp, a few miles from the home of the Hughes'. Whether this quagmire contains the secret of the old man's disappearance is a problem that may never be solved.

A theory which was advanced in some quarters was that Hughes had left home after a quarrel with his wife. It was discovered that during several days of that week Mrs. Hughes had missed articles of food from her larder. It was suggested that Hughes may have been hiding these in preparation for desertion of his home. Color was lent to the theory by an admission from Mrs. Hughes that differences had crept in between herself and her husband prior to his departure. Two young people, the son and daughter of a hotel proprietor of Norwood, who were acquainted with Hughes, declared that they saw him in the hotel on the night in question. Both were positive that they had made no mistake. Over against the theory of a deliberate desertion must be placed the fact of Hughes' well known fear of the bush, and his lack of money—$7 was all he had in his possession. Further he was well known in Norwood and would have been recognized by others, if he had been seen passing through the village.

In the effort to solve the mystery recourse was had to a reputed clairvoyant and crystal gazer, Mrs. Booth aged 80. This lady gave a description of a location which it is said she had never seen, near a camp in the Finlay Company limits, where she said, a man was lying. This area was combed very carefully, without results.

The twelve months that have intervened have brought the mystery no nearer to solution.

LIGHTNING HIT HYDRO STATION

Lakefield Electric Power Was Cut Off at 2.00 O'clock This Morning.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 10.—Lakefield is without power or light as the result of lightning striking the Hydro sub-station here early this morning.

The station was struck about 2 a.m., during a heavy electrical storm that passed over the district. The fire brigade was called out and extinguished the flames with chemicals. As the transformers in the station were burned out, the village was plunged into darkness, and no power is available this morning. Men are at present working on the transformers in an endeavor to provide light before night.

A number of telephones were put out of order.

WORKMAN KILLED.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Albert L. Vanallen, a workman at Corbyville Distillery, was killed yesterday afternoon when crushed between an elevator and the floor.

W.M.S. HEARS OF WORK IN CHINA

Mrs. Armstrong Tells Madoc Ladies Interesting Life in Mission Field.

MADOC, Sept. 10.—On Thursday afternoon, the W.M.S. of St. Peter's Church met at the home of Mrs. Duncan McBeth. Despite threatening weather forty-three ladies from town enjoyed the drive out through beautiful country, and a splendid attendance was recorded.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. West, in the chair. Mrs. Wm. MacIntosh took the Bible lesson, and Rev. Mr. Marshall led the devotional exercises. After disposing of the business of the day those present had the great pleasure of hearing Mrs. Armstrong, who with her husband has been laboring in the mission field in China. Mrs. Armstrong is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McBeth. Owing to Mr Armstrong's ill health, they have been forced to give up their work and return to Canada.

Chinese People.

Mrs. Armstrong, in a simple and pleasing manner, told much of the life of the Chinese people. She spoke principally of hospital and school work. Having been a trained nurse herself, Mrs. Armstrong's sympathies lie largely in this field of work. She taught the Chinese mothers much concerning child welfare. This, she says, is one of the crying needs of China, for the children are much neglected there.

One instance she mentioned was that of an unwelcome baby who was placed out on the hillsides and left to die. A Chinaman who knew of this, spoke to a missionary, saying that the missionaries claimed they wished to help the people and do good, and here was a chance. The missionary went to the hillside, and rescuing the baby, carried it to the hospital, where it was cared for. About two months after, one of the nurses decided to adopt the child and now it is a fine healthy baby, beloved by all the hospital and with a fair chance of life and good citizenship ahead of it.

Mrs. Armstrong spoke of the uncertainty of life in China now for the missionaries, who find it necessary to have guards even during the day. They had, however, received letters this week containing reports that were somewhat more encouraging, and spoke of matters being a little more settled than they had been.

Appeals for Care.

In closing, Mrs. Armstrong made an urgent appeal for care and kindliness in dealing with the Chinamen in this country. She said that their influence even through their letters was very strong and widespread in their native land, and the treatment they received at the hands of Christions here had a very powerful effect on the relatives in China and meant a great deal to the work of the missionaries there.

Interesting Exhibit.

Mrs. Armstrong had on display a wonderful collection of Chinese handiwork Most of these articles were gifts from Christian Chinese who wished to show the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were held, and their regret at losing them. Among these parting gifts were exquisite embroideries, pieces of china and silver, and black wood. One fine sample of Chinese workmanship was a brass bowl with a complicated design of conner wire which had been hammered into the brass.

Mrs. J. McCaffery voiced the keen appreciation of all present and moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Armstrong for her interesting address. Mrs. Watson seconded the vote of thanks.

A very charming duet was sung by Mrs. Walter Whytock and Mrs. Carl McCoy, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

BOTHERED WITH LARGE PIMPLES

"For four years I was bothered with hard, large, red pimples in blotches on my face and neck. The pimples came to a head and festered and looked terribly, and at times burned and made my face very sore. My face looked so badly that I used to feel embarrassed when I went in public.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and after using three or four cakes of Cuticura Soap and a few boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed in three months." (Signed) Miss Vera Sweny, 1 Gibson Ave., Toronto, Ont.

HIGHER TARIFF

all parts regardless of how different parts of the country may view our policies at the outset. That is the best possible evidence of our desire to bring about national unity."

Middle Tarriff Course

And this desire for national unity was one of the reasons why the Government had advised a dissolution of parliament. On the tariff, the government sought to strike a middle course which, while yielding revenue, would give to industry the incidental protection it needed. Premier King was emphatic that the tariff was a tax and that higher protection would mean more taxation.

"Mr. Meighen's' policy of high protection,' he exclaimed, "is to reduce taxation by adding more taxation. A policy of high protection will not keep this country united. The West will not stand for it. What we want is a tariff suited to all parts of the country." Mr. Meighen's policy would be to the advantage of special interests rather than to those of the country as a whole.

Mr. King closed with a sharp reference to Hon. Hugh Guthrie, the sitting member for South Wellington.

"What this riding needs," said Mr. King, "Is to send back to Ottawa some one opposed to Tory interests and not some one who went over and joined the ranks of the enemy."

At the last election there were three candidates in South Wellington, Hon. Hugh Guthrie was first, a Labor candidate second and the Liberal third, Mr. Guthrie having a majority over the Labor candidate of 131. So far, Mr. Guthrie is the only candidate in the field. The Liberal convention, however, meets shortly to choose a candidate.

There is no indication at present of a third candidate.

JUDGE OF CROPS MADE NO REPORT

Mr. Monaghan Took Lists of Percy Corn Competition Home For Checking.

WILL REPORT LATER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 10. — William Monaghan, of Wellington, Prince Edward County, on Tuesday judged the corn crop entries in the competition held under the auspices of the Percy Agricultural Society, and began the same work in Seymour Township yesterday. Mr. Monaghan set up a new precedent when he refused to hand over the results of his judging to the secretaries of the agricultural societies until he has had an opportunity to take his findings home with him and confirm the totals of the points awarded in each entry. The winner will not be known until Mr. Monaghan returns the lists to the secretaries, something which he expects to be able to do before the end of the week.

Rain yesterday afternoon interfered with the work of judging, so that Mr. Monaghan was unable to complete his task in Seymour, only a few of the 12 entries being passed upon. Mr. Monaghan says that the corn in these two townships equals anything he has seen in Central Ontario, and that some of the fields in Percy, both as to height and general stand are far above the average. He noticed, however, that on some farms there was an excessive growth of weeds due to lack of cultivation and this condition had to be taken into account when making the awards.

WEDDING BELLS.

KERR—WALKER

A very pretty wedding took place recently at the home of the bride's mother, when Winnifred Viola, daughter of Mrs. Walker and the late James Walker, Wingham, Ont., became the bride of William James Kerr, son of Mrs. Kerr and the late David Kerr, Peterborough, Ont. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. A. J. Walker, entered the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Bessie Abel, and stood amidst a profusion of autumn flowers and looked very pretty in a gown of white georgette trimmed with real lace. Her bridal veil was held in place with rhinestones and orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. The Rev. C. E. Cragg, of Sarnia, a former pastor, officiated. During the signing of the register, Miss Sara McLean sang very sweetly "Until." After a dainty buffet lunch the happy couple left for a motor trip, the bride wearing a navy blue French tailored suit, pansy purple hat and grey fox fur, the gift of the groom. On their return they will reside at 61 Ostend Avenue, Toronto.

DETROIT, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press).—Leon Driennner was shot and killed, and Eric Hugberg was shot and seriously injured in a riot in a residential section here last night. The trouble started when a negro family moved into a section previously inhabited only by white persons. The men shot were white.

WOMAN KILLED ON PILGRIMAGE

Police and Pilgrims Clashed at Town Where Virgin Was Reported Seen.

BRANDED A FRAUD.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press).—One woman was killed and another seriously wounded yesteday in a clash between police and pilgrims, growing out of the attraction of large crowds to Nagy Szakacsi, Hungary, by reports that the Virgin had appeared recently to young peasant girl there.

The population of the district has been greatly excited by the reported miracle and in spite of a pastoral letter issued by the archbishop of the diocese, branding it as a fraud, thousands of pilgrims have visited there.

LET IT RAIN.

New Song Hit Catches Popular Fancy—Southern Setting.

The sunny south has ever been a favorite theme of songwriters. Ever since Stephen Foster gave the world "Swanee River" the songsmiths have tried to outdo one another in singing the praises of Kentucky and Virginia.

The latest song to catch the popular fancy is another tune by Walter Donaldson, the writer of "The Midnight Waltz", entitled "Let it rain, Let it Pour, I'll be in Virginia in the Morning."

The lyric is by Eliff Friend, writer of "June Night", and is one of those typical Southern themes that seem to steal their way into the hearts of the people.

Radios, phonographs, bands and orchestras, as well as vaudeville singers, have been tuning up to the snappy rhythm of "Let it rain, Let it Pour," and now the newsie it whistling it while he hustles his papers.

The first oil well in California, drilled at the head of Pico Canyon in 1870, is still producing.

CHOLERA SPREADS IN JAPANESE CITIES

Sailing of American Liner is Held Up by Case of Disease.

TOKIO, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press). — The scheduled sailing of the liner President Lincoln for San Francisco was delayed yesterday by the discovery of a case of cholera in the crew. Cholera is slowly spreading in Tokio. There are now seven actual cases here, but health officials say there is not yet cause for alarm. There are reported to be thirty-four cases in Yokohama, where there have been twelve deaths. In Kobe there are six cases.

OBITUARY.

JOHN CARTER.

HASTINGS, Sept. 10. — The death occurred on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Payne, of Mr. John Carter.

PREPARING FOR THE ELECTIONS.

The electoral machinery for the Federal election is already at work, and the registration of urban voters is scheduled to begin on September 24th.

The first duty of every man and woman qualified to vote at this election is to protect his or her franchise, and, therefore, the electors should watch closely for instructions as to how to proceed to make sure their names are on the lists.

It is of the utmost importance that each elector should take it upon himself to see that he has not been deprived of his right to vote, and the matter should not be left until the last minute—hence the present warning.

When official instructions are published it is to be hoped that every voter in the district will make sure that his franchise is protected.

NO PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE?

Despite the fact that many rural voters have been added to this constituency by reason of the addition of the townships of Otonabee and Douro to the former West Peterboro riding, the present indications are that there will be no Progressive candidate here, and that the fight will be a straight duel between Hon. Geo. N. Gordon and the candidate selected at the Liberal-Conservative convention.

There is plenty of time, however, for a change in the situation, and there are those who say that Mr. G. A. Brethen, who was the Progressive member for East Peterboro in the Parliament just dissolved and whose riding was wiped out by the Redistribution Bill, would not be averse to trying his fortune as the standard-bearer of the Progressives in the new west riding.

That is a development that might possibly enter into the campaign, but at present the signs do not point to anything but a fight between the two old parties.

A FEELING OF RELIEF.

The general reation of the public—if the expressed opinion of the people of Peterboro can be taken as a criterion—to the announcement of a general election has been a feeling of relief.

The air has been so full of rumours of a campaign that the man on the street feels glad that the uncertainty is over.

The launching of a Federal election is not always received with satisfaction, as a political fight necessarily carries with it interference with business to a more or less extent.

The date chosen on this occasion, however, is regarded as satisfactory both to the farming community and the world of business, and merchants in particular are pleased to know that the campaign will be over well in advance of the Christmas trade.

In addition to this, there seems to be a general feeling that an election will clear the air and relieve the political situation of the element of uncertainty that has marked it for some time.

PETERBORO'S EXHIBITION.

Peterboro's Industrial Exhibition is out after a new attendance record this year with 30,000 set as the mark at which to aim.

The people of the city and district can easily send the attendance up to this figure if they get in behind the Exhibition with the same enthusiasm and interest shown by the Directors.

With a five-day Exhibition, a wider range of exhibits, a more ambitious programme of entertainment features—in short, with every department improved and enlarged—there is every reason to expect that the patronage will show an increase proportionate to the general growth of the Exhibition.

The main essential is that the citizens generally should see that it is their own Exhibition, and that its future progress depends upon one thing, that is the support given by the people of the city and district.

No matter how enthusiastically the Directors may plan for development it cannot come unless the public does its part by supplying liberal patronage.

The acid test is furnished by the cash receipts, for exhibitions, like most other enterprises, have to depend upon taking in enough revenue to finance themselves from year to year.

Make Peterboro's Exhibition the biggest success on record.

SUBSTITUTES FOR HARD COAL.

There is an aspect of the possible anthracite strike which should receive serious consideration by all concerned. It is that when people learn to use a substitute for something to which they have previously been accustomed they are apt to continue the use of the substitute. This country exports a large quantity of hard coal to Canada. There are Welsh and Scotch varieties of hard coal, and it is important to consider the possibility of losing the Canadian market altogether, with any settlement of the possible coal strike, whichever side won or whatever compromise was accepted.

That grade of Welsh coal which calls itself anthracite can be sold on board the boat at Montreal at $10.94 a ton. The corresponding Scotch grade, both of these in suitable sizes for domestic consumption, can be sold at Montreal, under the same conditions, for a dollar a ton less. The price of American egg and chestnut sizes of anthracite on the railroad car at Montreal is $11.98, with stove coal 50 cents higher.

To overcome the Welsh and Scotch competition American coal is retailed at $15.75, as against Welsh coal at $16.50 and Scotch coal at $16.25. The difference seems unreasonable, but the retailers of the Welsh and Scotch coals are taking advantage of the large number of Canadian people who are willing to pay a difference in order to "trade within the Empire." One American hard coal company considers that this form of patriotism could be made to yield $2 a ton as a differential.

Welsh seems a better grade of coal than Scotch, and the increase in the use of it in Canada ought to make our anthracite owners and operators sit up and take notice. The imports into Canada were 166,427 tons in 1922, 240,303 in 1923, 273,433 tons in 1924, while for five months of 1925 the same or an increasing rate of advance is continued. Dealers in Welsh coal claim that there is more heat in a ton than in one and a quarter tons of American anthracite because of there being about a seventh of the quantity of ash. The Scotch coal imports amount to about 40,000 tons, and it seems to be poor stuff, carelessly shipped and badly screened. The Scottish shippers, however, may learn to do better if our anthracite miners and operators insist on giving them the chance. —Barron's.

THE CURSE OF HIGH TAXES.

Nations and communities are gravely and constructively seeking to solve the tax problem. They have made the discovery, after a long orgy of imprudence, that there is a limit beyond which high taxation defeats itself. That is to say, at a certain point the rate produces less revenue; and the reason is clear. Taxes are paid out of savings, and savings are produced by the free exchange of labor for wages or their equivalent. As savings are drawn upon to an unreasonable degree, enterprise is checked and the demand for labor of all classes shrinks. In other words, wages turned into savings constitute available capital, and capital is what makes the wheels go round. Consequently, less capital, fewer wheels revolving.

Western municipalities have been the first to reach a sober view of this matter. That was but natural, seeing they had reached the greatest heights in the matter of taxation and had most acutely felt the pinch of consequences. In a chastened spirit, they have given effect to definite plans for the reduction of both taxation and capital liability. The results have been as satisfactory as they have been stimulating. There is not a city west of the Ontario boundary which has not made substantial cuts in assessment, the tax rate, and debenture indebtedness. Winnipeg and Edmonton are conspicuous examples. Vancouver and Victoria are not far behind.

Communities are not different from individuals. When a man has become a spendthrift, he shrinks from economy. He likes the joy of satisfying his wants. When, however, he has heeded the call of prudence, and sets in motion a rational plan of retrenchment, a new sense of satisfaction comes to him as he sees his savings grow. Municipalities are similarly influenced. Once they have begun to economize, it becomes almost a passion with them. They are, in fact, like individuals, apt to overdo it; for there is unquestionably a point at which it is as foolish to save as it is to be extravagant. Parsimony never pays.

Some of our Ontario cities have been going at a reckless pace. As an example, not long ago the Financial Controller of Toronto told the City Council quite bluntly that it would have to shorten sail or land on the rocks. Of course, city councils are not wholly to blame. If we are to arrest the advance in municipal taxation the people must cease to press for increased services. They must learn that economy can never be brought about while they are insisting on having things which are unavoidably translated into taxes.

The situation today is that western cities are cutting down their taxes and their debts, while most of the Ontario cities are doing quite the opposite. Without indulging in strong terms, it might be said that practically the whole world is seeking a new outlook in this matter of taxation. Every sane man knows that taxes are both hurtful and beneficent, and that great care must be exercised in keeping within the limit of safety. Nobody knows precisely where that limit begins or ends. The factors which come into the reckoning are numerous, and some of them can scarcely be appraised; but, speaking broadly, it is a sure sign that the boundary of prudence has been passed when higher rates fail to bring in larger revenue.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA NEEDS THE BEST IN MAN.

Canada's natural resources are calling for development, and in this work Canada is calling also for the master mind. Nature has provided natural resources in such bountiful supply and wide variety as to interest all who have any thought for the future of the Dominion and what the utilization of the resources may mean to her.

A recent illustration is the harnessing of the water powers of the Saguenay River at Lake St. John, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

Here, in what until recently was a forested area, an enormous volume of power will shortly be provided, the result of the enterprise of far-seeing men.

Thousands of horse-power will be available to industries as yet non-existent, but large manufacturing concerns will early take advantage of it.

One company alone has announced that from 5,000 to 6,000 Canadians will be required at a new plant to be established in the area, while others may be expected to add largely to these numbers.

Into Northern Ontario and the adjoining portion of Quebec large numbers of prospectors and mining men are blazing trails in search of the additional mineral resources that are known to exist in those regions.

The Prairie Provinces also have their trail breakers, men and women, who are establishing themselves on the frontiers of civilization, making new homes and rearing families of new Canadians, from which may some day come the leaders of thought and action in this Dominion.

A new country, for its development, requires, and holds a fascination for, the best that is in man.

The weakling cannot stand the strain of progress that is demanded, and Canada is no place for them.

Pushing back the frontier is a man's job.

The late Lord Curzon, in his Romances lecture at Oxford University, when speaking of life on the frontiers of the British Empire, described it as "an incessant struggle with nature and man, where man has found a corresponding discipline for the men of our stock. Character is there moulded, not by attrition with fellow-men in the arts or studies of peace, but in the furnace of responsibility and on the anvil of self-reliance."

Making new trails to the industrial possibilities or to the homestead—the development of natural resources in its most varied forms—calls for energy and initiative of the most daring and persevering character, and Canada offers ample opportunity to those who can measure up to this high standard.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TWO SHIFTS IN SCHOOL.

Editor, The Examiner.

Sir,—It is the view of many citizens, that if the state of affairs in regard to paucity of accommodation for scholars in our schools be as serious as outlined in the situation as stated by Mr. Jamieson recently, that something practical should be done, and quickly.

We are all stockholders in an industry, that of turning out partially educated or educated (if we concede that such is accomplished) young people. This industry costs us the largest overhead expense of any business in the municipality. We have our schools, kept up and manned, and used practically only nine months in the year, and only partially during the days of those nine months. The foundation of this waste of time, opportunity and expense is to keep in step with a certain routine—just as the German is taught the goose-step.

It is time that a number of the stockholders came together and conferred with the directors of the enterprise, the Board of Education, and read to the Board something of the nature of an educational riot act. That certain things might cease and a policy of putting to use the facilities, which the enormous overhead expense provides, to accomplish much more in a given time.

No industrial business would for one day permit a state of affairs such as we have prevailing. If the market demands additional product, then the factory is run on overtime until the demand and supply about equal. We seem to have in the city an overplus of children waiting to be informed, which is about the extent to which the larger number will be educated, as we express it. The logical thing to do is to place our schools on two shifts, one set of scholar attending from eight to twelve in the morning, and another set on duty from one to five in the afternoon. The building, the heat, the attendance will cost no more and we shall be on the way to double the product, such as it is. For if the crowding prevails, as alleged, there must result in inattention to many.

Of course there will be objections. Life would be a poor thing without the kickers. Teachers, parents, caretakers, even pupils, all a part of the educational system as we have it devised for us, will object. The teacher who is on the way to be mentally exhausted by twelve o'clock will object to carrying on, as the mechanic in the factory or workshop does. It may upset the family routine to get the children ready an hour earlier and to have them at home in the afternoon. But children and young people, who now seem to be debarred from a chance to be taught, even if sitting cross-legged on the floors of the school building halls as we have been told most pathetically is the case.

For the love of Mike let us do something practical. We may have to employ a few more teachers to ease the burden of a strenuous pedagogic life, but the total cost for extra help will not nearly amount to the cost of the use of the $300,000.00 that we are told is to be our educational salvation.

There be many things we want, and yet do not need. Do not need, while we may make what we have answer for a time, at any rate. If it be only a question of teachers, we are assured that the supply has overrun the demand. So if the unemployment, in this respect, be lessened, good will have been accomplished, and the Craft of Teaching should hold up both hands in approval.

Another thing. I find that each afternoon many pupils are fired out of the institute, and questioning such am told that they have one or two "spares." Which means hours in which subjects are being taught in which they are not interested, or taking. Why, in Sam Hill, are not these young people set at continuing the studies they are taking or interested in, and urged to perfect themselves in such, rather than be sent out to wander around the park and spend a boisterous hour, as has prevailed. Much of this is wholly the fault of an excessive routine, that might be obviated. No factory manager or foreman, if the apprentice has not work at hand to which he is accustomed sends the youth home. Not much. He finds some other work to keep him busy. And going to school is only a form of mental work preparatory to acquiring information useful in after life.

No doubt it would be an awful wrench for all concerned to be jerked over to a two-shift situation, but that situation calls for something drastic to be done, or we shall have going up to a half million dollars spent on additional mental factories if we let things drift.

F. H. Dobbin.

REVIEWS SITUATION

The Editor
Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir:

The first shot has been fired and from now on there will be hard fought skirmishes, some conventional but many unconventional. In the heat of the political battle about to be waged, due principally to the short campaign, many exceedingly personal remarks will be made and side issues entirely irrelevant will be raised. Sitting members and others will endeavour to show to their constituents what mighty fine fellows they have been and what a tremendous amount of work and persuasion was necessary on their part to make Parliament realise why this bridge or dock was necessary. Efforts will be made to varnish facts, to turn deficits, by conjuring of figures, into surpluses and to generally cover up any shortcomings by promising a grand and glorious future.

Three weeks ago "The Financial Post"—certainly a non political journal—published an article under the caption "BRING ON THE ELECTION; STOP THE NATIONAL LOAFING". What did they mean? Very shortly after the publication of that article our Premier, The Right Hon., W. L. MacKenzie King stated in a lengthy communication issued to the press that the Government would not be stampeded into any dissolution of Parliament just to please the leader of the opposition or his press. Furthermore, he stated that the government would only appeal to the electorate when they were convinced that there were national considerations so imperative as to necessitate an appeal. Now we learn or may presume that in the space of two weeks those national considerations have arisen with such an impelling force as to cause our government to make this appeal, but for what reason?

Mr. King is reported as having said in his memorabe speech at Richmond Hill on Saturday that although not doubting the ability of his government to carry on until February, 1927, national considerations over rode party exigencies and they decided to go to the people but he could not forgive the leader of the opposition—Mr. Meignan—for the reckless and unwarranted way in which he talks about conditions in Canada.

Now that we have these declarations before us let us winnow away the chaff—those superfluities of speech—and what have we left? Just three issues—Railways, Tariff and Senate.

RAILWAYS—We are told that the Canadian National Railway is creating a large operation surplus annually, which of course is quite easily absorbed by the large capital deficit it produces, the difference having to be met by taxation but the responsibility for this cannot be charged to Sir Henry Thornton

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was quiet, there being only sales of a few loads of oats and the bids on barley were 9d. per quarter out of line. The domestic business was also slow and the market was generally inactive. Sales of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats were made at 49 1-2 cents, and No. 3 white at 48 cents per bushel, extrack.

The feature of the local flour market was the weaker feeling that developed for winter wheat grades and prices were reduced 30 to 40 cents per barrel. The softness was attributed to the increased deliveries of wheat to Ontario millers of late and the freer offerings of flour for shipment in the near future.

A steady feeling prevailed in the market for all lines of millfeed and the volume of business was moderate. The trade in rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of eggs were firm under a good demand. The butter market was quiet and firm. An easier feeling developed in the cheese market and prices were reduced 1-8 to 1-4c per pound.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press).—The egg market continues firm with strong undertone and the likelihood of a further advance in the near future. It seems evident that the peak of production has been passed and wholesale distributors are commencing to look more and more toward storage stocks as a source of day to day supply.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press).—Wheat took a sudden upward swing in price today at the last. Much of the buying which accompanied the advance was apparently inspired by belief that the market might do better after the Government crop report was out of the way. This, however, was before it was known that the Government's new estimate of spring wheat production was as much as 21,000,000 bushels more than the forecast a month ago. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 3-8 to 1 1-2 cents net higher, December $1.53 1-2 to $1.53 5-8, and May $1.57 1-2 to $1.57 5-8, with corn unchanged to 1 5-8 cents up; oats at 1-2 to 1 cent gain, and provisions 7 to 45 cents down.

At first the wheat market tended down grade, owing largely to well-founded assumption that the Government estimate of the 1925 domestic yield of spring wheat would exceed the latest previous official figures. On the other hand, rain in Canada as well as possible frost there tonight acted as something of a counterbalance. Besides, Winnipeg advices appeared to indicate a more liberal demand from Europe than most traders had supposed. The market here was, therefore, in position to sympathize readily with a rising trend which developed in values northwest.

Gossip was prevalent that the heavy movement of new wheat both sides of the Canadian boundary had not been exercising the depressing effect which would ordinarily be looked for. There were also reports that the crop movement in South Dakota showed a falling off. Under such circumstances, late offerings were absorbed by commission houses, and the close was at almost the day's top figures.

Despite rains, corn advanced on account of correct predictions that aside from September damage the Government estimate of yield would be more than 50,000,000 bushels short of the last previous official forecast. Oats followed corn.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

A THOUGHT.

USE THE MINUTES.

We all ave the same sixty minutes, the same twenty-four hours, to work with; and the man who achieves the greatest success is the man who knows how to work with this period best—how to get the most out of it. Time-economizing is more important than money-economizing, for the right use of time is the price of every earthly accomplishment and reward.

To the scientist, time is literally the measure of achievement. His treasury of years has a limit; his work, unfinished, will pass on to another who will receive the reward.

To the business man, time is capital. He can borrow a million in money—he cannot borrow, beg, steal or create a minute.

Money, art, comfort, inventions that save hours for thousands, discoveries that lengthen lives by decades—all depend upon time. Use the minutes.

Putting off an easy thing makes it hard—and putting off a hard thing makes it impossible. In all your dealings, remember that today is your opportunity, tomorrow some other fellow's.

ARE YOU?

OF COURSE YOU ARE GOING TO HEAR AL. SWEET AND HIS CHICAGO SINGING BAND AT THE PETERBOROUGH EXHIBITION, SEPTEMBER 15-19.

OPEN LETTER NO. 5

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,

Prime Minister and President of the Priy Council, Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

Why does every Canadian town, that has a real live Council or Board of Trade, "go after" factories? Why is it always ready to consider a concession of some kind in order to secure for itself a new industry that might otherwise decide to locate elsewhere?

Of course we all know the answer. Its people think that the establishment of a new industry is going to increase the prosperity of their community, give work to the unemployed, add to the population, get the empty houses rented and start the building of new ones, increase property values, provide a larger and better market for the produce of neighboring farmers, bring more farmers from longer distances to sell their produce and to do their shopping, and thus to swell the volume of retail business.

That is what they actually believe! Now, either they are right or they are wrong. If they are wrong, if they are cherishing false hopes, then they are committing themselves to a course of action that in all probability they will subsequently regret. In that case some one ought to warn them of their error.

You are the economic health officer of Canada. What is your advice to them? If you know that the thing they are reaching for is like the gold at the foot of the rainbow, it would at least be a charity on your part to correct them:

But if you know that they are hot on the quest of real prosperity, why place in their way stumbling blocks in the form of lower customs duties, that can only retard, if not entirely defeat, the attainment of their object?

Yours respectfully,

J. J. GIBBONS,
President.

POTATO CROP OF UNITED STATES 111,000,000 BUS. LESS THAN 1924

Estimate of 344,000,000 Bushels Shows Effect of August Drouth.

CORN SHRINKS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Crop yields this year will be, on the whole, well below the average of recent years, the Department of Agriculture's crop reporting board announced yesterday in issuing its September production forecasts. There has been little improvement in the general situation in the past month.

Corn deteriorated on account of dry weather in large areas and indicated production now is 2,885,000,000 bushels, a loss of 65,000,000 bushels in the last month. The indicated crop is 448,000,000 bushels more than produced last year, but slightly under the average of the last five years.

Spring wheat yields are running slightly higher than early expectations. The crop is now forecast at 284,000,000 bushels, or 21,000,000 more than early August conditions indicated, and 1,000,000 more than was produced last year. Winter wheat, already harvested, is estimated at 416,000,000 bushels, making the country's total prospective wheat crop about 700,000,000 bushels, or 22,000,000 more than produced last year, but 137,000,000 less than the five-year average.

Potato prospects declined 9,000,000 bushels because of hot weather in August, and the crop is now forecast at 344,000,000 bushels, which is 111,000,000 bushels smaller than last year's harvest.

Threshing of oats brought results above earlier expectations and a production of 1,462,000,000 bushels is indicated. That is a gain of 75,000,000 over last month's forecast.

GRAIN EXCHANGE WAS VINDICATED

Retiring President of Winnipeg Pit Discusses Wheat Pool.

WINNIPEG, Septem r 10. Canadian Press. — Claiming th t the report of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission which investigated the whole grain trade structure of Canada, embodied a "triumphant vindication" of charges against the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, C. C. Field, the retiring president of the Exchange delivered his valedictory address, here yesterday.

"Our institution has been investigated time after time, and always with the same triumphant result. Naturally the members of this institution welcom: the verdict, but we wonder whether a royal commission would equally vindicate the pool if it conducted an investigation into the operations and results of that so-called new marketing system.

During the year members of the grain exchange, Mr. Field declared, had watched the experiment in the new marketing method called pool. With the pool a member of the exchange, and of the clearing association utilizing all the facilities of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, selling and buying for future delivery, and otherwise following the methods of the grain exchange, it was difficult to discern any radical departure from the old system.

"Considering the course of prices during the war, one begins to wonder whether after all Western Canada has received any more for its exported wheat because of the operations of the pool," the retiring president said. He added that the Exchange would continue to function in the best interests of all concerned, stating that the institution was at all times prepared to meet malicious charges and willing to submit to investgation. While there were instances where differences of opinion arose over the interpretation of certain grain legislation, the members of the exchange, Mr. Field asserted, have no quarrel with the claim that whatever control is exercised over the grain trade, should be done by the Federal parliament. "I can assert with confidence that the members prefer Federal control," he concluded.

AMUNSDEN HAS BOUGHT DIRIGIBLE FOR POLAR FLIGHT NEXT SPRING

Option of $75,000 From Italian Government Depends on Success of Trial Flights—Will Be Ready About Christmas.

LINCOLN ELLSWORTH SECURES CAPITOL

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 10.—(Canadian Press). — Lieutenant Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen, who piloted one of the two airplanes in which Roald Amundsen made his recent attempt to reach the North Pole, last night gave details of Amundsen's plans for a new attempt next year to fly across the Pole. Lieutenant Riiser-Lareen made his statement at a meeting of the Norwegian Aero Club in the absence of Captain Amundsen who was indisposed.

The aviator said that Captain Amundsen had purchased the semi-rigid airship N-1 from the Italian Government for £15,000. Next year's expedition, Lieut. Riiser-Larsen said, would consist of Captain Amundsen; Lincoln Ellsworth, the co-leader of this year's expedition, who has obtained half the capital necessary for next year's flight in the United States; the Italian, Lieutenant-Colonel Nobile, the builder of the airship N-1; Lieutenant Riiser-Larsen, Lief Ditrichsen and Oakar Omdal, of this year's expedition; Emil Horgen, a reserve pilot who accompanied Amundsen as far north as Spitzbergen, and Amundsen's brother, Gustav.

Besides these, Lieut. Riiser-Larsen said, there will be a staff of mechanics of whom several will be Italians. Wireless operators also will be included.

Fly to Alaska.

Lieutenant Riiser-Larsen said that when the airship makes the Polar flight she will be named the Norway, and will fly the Norwegian flag. The plan, he said, is to start from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, and to fly across the Pole to Nome, Alaska. Mooring masts will be built at Trondhjem, Norway, and at King's Bay. The airship will be ready about Christmas and trials will begin after New Year's. If the trials are successful, Lieutenant Riiser-Larsen asserted, the Norwegian members of the expedition will go to Rome for training. If they are not successful, Amundsen is not bound to purchase the airship, his colleague said.

Lieutenant Riiser-Larsen continued that if the N-1 is used it would be flown in March to Pulham, in England, and thence to King's Bay, landing at Trondhjem in case of bad weather. From King's Bay the airship will follow a course to the Pole, from there to Point Barrow and thence to Nome.

COL. MITCHELL FACING TRIAL

Charged U. S. Army and Navy Departments With Criminal Negligence.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10. — A trial surpassing the Scopes evolution case in public interest is expected to follow the war department's investigation of whether Col. William Mitchel made reported charges of "incompetency, criminal negligence and almost treason" against the war and navy departments.

Mitchell, after his demotion from assistant chief of air service for lesser criticisms before a house committee last winter, is reported ready to reaffirm charges he made through the press. The general staff has ordered Col. George A. Nugent, inspector-general's office, to proceed at once to San Antonio to get his statement.

The court martial probably will meet in San Antonio or Washington within a month. It will be public. Though Mitchell will be placed under arrest when charges are served on him, he will not be confined.

Conviction Likely.

Mitchell's conviction for insubordination or disrespect is anticipated. Punishment, which is fixed by the court, is not limited by statute. But the expected sentence of dismissal from the army can only be recommended by the court and reviewing board. The president alone can order it.

An array of prominent defence council, equal to that of the evolution case, may participate if Mitchell uses his privileges of calling civil lawyers.

As in the Scopes trial, the major legal battle will be over the admissibility of evidence. Mitchell will try to substantiate his charges of maladministration. The war department will object that Mitchell's conduct, and not the aircraft controversy, is the sole issue before the court.

Separate Inquiry.

Because, under this anticipated ruling, Mitchell cannot at a court martial get a hearing on his charges against superiors, friends said to-day they would ask a separate congressional investigation for the purpose. Army regulations provide no legal way in which an army officer can challenge departmental policy, it is said. A court of inquiry can be asked only by persons against whom charges are made; Secretary jWeeks or General Patrick in this case.

JELLICOE'S AUNT 104.

Receives Telegram From King and Queen.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Lord Jellicoe's aunt, Miss Catherine Jane Jellico, celebrated her 104th birthday at her home in Southampton Tuesday, and received congratulatory messages from all parts of the British Empire. A telegram from the King and Queen of England were among the first to arrive. The British naval hero visited his aunt, who continues to live an active life. She breakfasted in bed as usual and spent the morning reading a mass of messages. Later two little girls from a neighboring orphanage of which Miss Jellicoe is a generous benefactor brought flowers, and with them Miss Jellicoe discussed her own girlhood with great zest.

PRINCE IN CHILE.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 10.—In a pouring rain Tuesday, the Prince of Wales laid the foundation stone of a monument to George Canning, who was Foreign Secretary of Great Britain when the British Government recognized the independence of Chile and other South American republics.

Despite the downpour, there was a fair attendance, including several schoolgirls, who, while the finishing touches were given to the ceremonies, sang a song to the Prince in English.

The rain caused abandonment of the military review. In the evening the Prince attended a banquet and reception at the Britsh Legaton.

NOEL INDICTED ON TWO COUNTS

Slayer of Little Mary Daley Faced Grand Jury Yesterday.

FATHER AIDS HIM.

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 10(Canadian Press).—Harrison Noel, confessed murderer of six-year-old Mary Daly and of Raymond Pierce, negro chauffeur, was indicted by the Essex County grand jury late yesterday for the murder of Pierce and for the kidnapping of the child. Both crimes occurred in that county. An indictment charging Noel with the murder of the child will be sought in Passaic County, where she was killed.

In a lengthy statement issued Tuesday night, Noel's father relates the following incident

Some years ago I gave him a small-calibre rifle and I happened to be with him on his first hunting expedition, at which time he shot his first rabbit. He was so manifestly overcome with remorse and compassion for the rabbit that I am satisfied that he never went on another hunting expedition.

About three years ago while my two boys, my daughter, my wife and myself were camping at Sag Harbor, I was sleeping on the ground opposite Harrison. Before going to sleep we both seemed somewhat restless and talked most amicably. I remember that before I went to sleep Harrison recited to me quite a long passage from Kipling's "Hymn."

In the middle of the night I was awakened by blows over the head. I sat up and shouted "Harrison, Harrison, some one is hitting me!" Harrison fell into my arms and said: "Why, it must have been I." He was compassionate and zealous in giving first aid, that I never could believe that he was conscious when he did it. The blows, however, were made with a hatchet and if it had not been for the very efficient aid that was extended to me by my sons, Dix Jr. and Harrison, I no doubt would have suffered severely from loss of blood.

This is the only previous instance when I have ever known him to be inclined toward violence. Knowing that my son was eccentric, following this attack, I consulted an eminent neurologist and had him examine my son.

He said that if it were his boy that he would send him to an institution which he recommended at Beacon, N.Y. I have understood from my son that the attack which he made on an attendant there was made with an upholstered arm of a chair, and I have always been of the belief that my son was not the provoker of the attack.

I could not afford to keep him as a patient at Beacon. On the advice of several specialists I decided to take the boy home. These specialists told me that my son did not have a dangerous type of mental trouble. Every one of them told me that his trouble was of a type which could be cured in course of time by friendly treatment, and that under confinement his recovery would be retarded.

The occasion for having the boy committed at the Overbrook institution was reported to me, principally, by my wife, as I had no personal knowledge of the occurrence.

SYNOPSIS.

Bob Wilson, a young tramp, has saved the Limited from disaster on a trestle in Granite Gorge, and has ridden into Crater City with Jim Fowler, the mail clerk. At the station the conductor hands him a purse which has been raised by the passengers as a thank offering. He refuses to accept it for himself but tosses it to Potts and Spike, fellow-vagabonds. Then he accompanies Fowler to his home. Jim is happy and excited, for he expects to find that he has become a father.

No one paid any attention to Bob, who softly closed the door behind him, then leaned inconspicuously against it—his feeling of intrusion changed, unaccountably, to one of apprehension.

Jim did not look at the infant long. He cast a loving glance toward the doorway of a darkened adjoining room, then whirled joyously upon the Doctor and framed the question that was uppermost in his heart.

"And—my wife——"

The doctor snapped his bag soberly. Bob, watching, saw the midwife, Mrs. O'Leary, clutch the baby close to her in a scared way; saw the minister wet his lips. The Doctor, in whose face were the lines and the cares of hard fights and harder responsibilities, conceived words that his voice failed to bear; then seemed to expect that the testimony of his face would serve beyond the need of speech.

But Jim, in a sudden frenzy, caught hold of him and shook him.

"My boy," the Doctor forced himself to say in an awkwardly flat and tired voice, "your wife is dead!"

CHAPTER III.

Bob, the shabby and bruised hobo, in that tragic moment had a leaden feeling that he was sacrilegiously out of place, and wished that he were a thousand disinterested miles away. But this selfish thought was dismissed the next instant by a self-forgetful wave of human sympathy for the man who had befriended him. Over that slenderly fine and idealistic face, so flushed with love and adoring pride and happy expectations only a few moments before, there now came such frozen and bloodless vacantness as might be on the face of a lost soul before the Final Bar, struggling to grasp the sentence of eternal condemnation he has just heard pronounced by the Maker.
